PRESIDENT TAKES HAND IN CAMPAIGN TO ELECT LEHMAN

Stands Squarely Behind Ex-Governor's 'Wisdom And Experience'

COUNTERS DEWEY PRAISE FOR DULLES' STANDING

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—President Truman tonight entered the fiery New York campaign with a direct radio appeal to the state's voters for the election Tuesday of Herbert H. Lehman as U. S. senator and the whole Democratic ticket.

Speaking from the White House, Mr. Truman said the former Democratic governor would bring to Washington a "constructive and progressive approach to domestic affairs."

He said Lehman also has had "wide personal experience and mature wisdom in the handling of our foreign relations" and knows at first hand "the nature of our international problems."

This was a reference to Lehman's one-time directorship of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration. It was regarded as a reply to Republican arguments, particularly those of Governor Dewey, that John Foster Dulles should be elected because of his wide knowledge of foreign affairs.

Dulles, Lehman's Republican opponent for the one year remaining of the term of Democrat Robert F. Wagner who resigned because of poor health, now holds the Wagner seat by appointment of Governor Dewey. He is a former delegate to the United Nations and is now a foreign policy adviser to the Republican leadership.

Mr. Truman called for the reelection of William O'Dwyer as mayor of New York City and support of the whole state Democratic ticket.

The president spoke for the last five minutes of a half hour broadcast from Madison Square Garden of a Lehman rally. The program was broadcast by C. B. S. in New York.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, speaking here, introduced the president. Other participants on the program

LOCAL MERCHANTS TO MEET TUESDAY

Final Opportunity Given To Determine Christmas Decorations

Monroe merchants will have a final opportunity to determine the type of Christmas lighting and decorations they desire at a meeting in the Cameo room of the Virginia Hotel Tuesday at 2 p.m., it was announced yesterday by Herbert J. Fink, chairman of the retail merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce.

Several meetings have produced no unanimity of opinion, Mr. Fink said, and immediate action must be taken to assure some kind of decorations in the downtown area during the Christmas holidays. He urged a full attendance, whether a merchant is a member of the Chamber of Commerce or not.

Mr. Fink yesterday issued the following bulletin to all merchants:

"You have by now seen the sample street decorations across DeSiard street in front of the Central Bank which we hope to use this year. Everyone agrees that they far exceed anything used in Monroe before. Our nearest competitors, Shreveport and Alexandria, also are planning to use these decorations.

"As you know, the streamers of lights used the past two years are all paid for. The fir garlands attached to the streamers last year are

Start Picking Jurors For Ross Trial Monday

Selection of a twelve-man jury to try Joseph H. Ross for the Sept. 29th murder of a local grocer, C. M. Kitchens, will get underway here tomorrow morning.

District Attorney Fred Fudickar, Jr. said he expected the jury selection to take two or three days, however, he said, the trial should he concluded within a week.

Ross, 41, of 302 Wilson street, was first indicted by a Ouachita parish grand jury for manslaughter Oct. 7, but in a special session nearly two weeks later, grand jurors changed their indictment from manslaughter to murder.

Kitchens, a local grocer, was shot five times and killed while attending his store at 315 Wilson street.

A Ouachita parish coroner's jury, in a session Oct. 1, agreed unanimously that Kitchens met death from bullet wounds inflicted by Joseph H. Ross.

Judge E. L. Gladney will conduct Ross's trial.

WELFARE ISSUE HOT IN CALIF.

Will Vote To Determine Fate Of Controversial Welfare System

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—(AP)—California voters will pass second judgment next Tuesday on a unique and controversial $200,000,000 a year welfare system that has been frozen into the state constitution.

The off-year election campaign has whipped up a whirlwind fight with angry, name calling overtones.

"Beat the McLain pension machine," says one side.

"Don't starve the old folks!" says the other.

The voters in this favorite state of senior citizens and pension movements will get the last word. They'll decide a question that comes down to this:

"Did we make a big mistake just a year ago?"

It goes back to passage last November of what was known as Proposition 4. The measure completely revised the state's welfare setup while stepping up payments to needy aged—$65 to $75 a month—and blind—$75 to $85.

But No. 4 also shifted county administration of this program to the state. It wrote into the constitution the name of Mrs. Myrtle Williams as social welfare director—answerable to neither the governor nor the legislature. And it gave aged-blind aid first call on the state's general fund—ahead of schools.

The new initiative seeks to repeal this and other controversial features of No. 4.

The onist campaign has brought repeated charges—and denials—that No. 4 handed control of the welfare system to pension advocate George McLain, former associate of the briks, red-haired Mrs. Williams. It was the sleek, fortyish McLain, as leader of the "citizens committee for old age pension," who sponsored the 1948 amendment.

McLain has built up a big statewide organization with a faithful following of oldsters.

He says he has 100,000 members. Each of these pays in $1 a year as

To celebrate the 50th anniversary of his Louisiana Tech graduating class of 1900, John P. Graham, of Ruston, author and composer of Tech's "Alma Mater" song, is planning to have additional copies of the music printed and distributed among the alumni next spring.

That announcement was made recently by Mr. Graham, who gave some background information about the college's official song.

The origin of "Alma Mater" goes back to 1926, when plans were made by the Louisiana Tech alumni to have members of their association compete in composing words and music for a new "Alma Mater." The old song, which was played and sung to the tune of Cornell University's song, was outdated since it represented Louisiana Industrial Institute,

Irish, Cadets Answer Season Challenge With Safe Margin

By Harold Claassen

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Notre Dame and Army answered the challenges to their 1949 football greatness today with specific retorts.

Notre Dame gave a 34 to 21 reply to the assumption that Michigan State might end its string of unbeaten games. Army toppled undefeated Fordham, 35 to 0, in a game so rough that once Army got five chances via penalties to add the extra point to a touchdown.

Thus the one-time football rivals, now estranged, stand side by side in the throne of the nation's gridiron realm.

But there were other powerhouses in action today, too. Minnesota, dreaming of the Rose Bowl trip for two solid weeks, awakened to crush Iowa, 55 to 7, and push the Hawkeyes out of first place in the Big Ten.

Georgia Tech, relying on hipper-dipper football, trounced Tennessee, 30-13, and unbeaten Virginia outsmarted Pennsylvania, 26 to 14, by virtue of a quick start.

Actually Notre Dame's victory was even easier than the score indicates, the Michigan State team getting two of its touchdowns late in the fourth period. However, the Spartans did make it a rugged contest in the first quarter and their opening drive was halted by a fumble.

Army, too, had its troubles in the first canto but a three touchdown flurry in the second broke the Fordham bubble.

Baylor, undefeated until today, took a solid, 20 to 0, drubbing from Texas but the surprise in the Southwest Conference was the 27 to 27 tie that Texas A. and M. earned with Southern Methodist. Froggie Williams again was the hero as Rice stumbled to a 14 to 0 edge over Arkansas.

Ohio State, who spent a rugged afternoon subduing Pitt by a 14 to 10 score, now is a leader in the Big Ten. However, Michigan and Illinois

Will Try To Avoid Navy Aviation Cuts

Sherman Promises To Prevent Economy Reductions From Harassing Naval Air Arm; 'Financial Matter Complicated', He Says

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, new chief of naval operations, said today "every effort will be made" to avoid applying economy cuts to naval aviation.

The navy now is getting a hearing at the Pentagon on proposed reductions that brought cries of protest last month from some members of the house armed services committee.

Efforts to steer cuts in some other direction do not mean the navy's air arm won't be hurt in Defense Secretary Johnson's billion-dollar economy program for the armed forces. But the aviation slashes may be smaller than had been indicated.

"It's too early to predict how we will make out," Sherman told a reporter. "It is a complicated financial matter which I haven't had time to grasp fully yet.

"The navy never wanted to cut down on the procurement of planes. But when suddenly you find yourself poor, you stop buying things. Now we are making every effort to make the cuts in other directions."

Sherman said he wants a big combat fleet and the largest possible navy afloat. That leaves the implication that reductions will be applied as much as possible to navy shore stations.

Navy Secretary Matthews had protested the extent of navy cuts to Johnson and been promised a hearing. The navy has been getting a hearing for the last two days before Johnson's economy committee headed by General Joseph T. McNarney.

JAP PEACE DRAFT NEAR COMPLETION

U. S. Version Of Treaty Would End Military Occupation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The state department today neared completion of the first full American draft of the proposed allied peace treaty with Japan. It would provide for ending the military occupation.

Separately, the United States intends to make a military treaty which would retain U. S. bases in Japan after the occupation ends.

The U. S. version of the peace treaty may be ready for opening consultation with Britain and other Pacific war allies around Dec. 1 as a preliminary to a peace conference next year.

Under the proposed treaty, the Japanese government would take full control over the nation's internal and foreign affairs, subject only to provisions designed to make it a peaceful member of world society.

One or more separate American economic agreements covering aid to Japan's deficit economy are expected.

Secretary of State Acheson will thus be able to report notable progress toward restoring formal peace in the Pacific and also providing security for an unarmed Japan, when he sees Brit-

TWO ARRESTED ON BURGLARY COUNTS

Reported Caught Trying To Load Stolen Safe Into Auto

TALLULAH, La., Nov. 5.—(Special)—A Little Rock, Ark., man and Delhi farmer were charged with burglary here early today when Tallulah officers said they caught them attempting to put a safe stolen from the Western Union office in the trunk of an automobile reported missing from Monroe.

Sheriff C. E. Hester identified the arrested men as James Henry, 25, of Little Rock, and Luther Williams, about 35, of Delhi.

Shortly before 2 a. m. Sheriff Hester said, the burglars entered the Western Union building through a rear door and left through the same medium taking the safe.

Officers Marvin Ingram and Carl Griffin walked up on the two men while they had the safe on a sidewalk attempting to store it in the trunk of a Ford automobile.

The Car, police said, was stolen from Monroe earlier Friday night. It was reported to have belong to Sam Scalfano, a Monroe bakeryman.

Sheriff Bailey Grant requested the Tallulah sheriff department to place a detainer on Henry for auto theft.

Henry was arrested by Officers Ingram and Griffin on the scene but Williams escaped making his way to Delhi on a west bound bus where authorities took him in custody.

Sheriff Hester said both Williams and Henry were being held in the Madison parish jail. No bond had been fixed early today.

State Unemployment Remains At Standstill

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Louisiana unemployment is not getting worse, but it isn't getting better, either, the state employment security division said in a report today.

The division pointed out that the fall season should begin a decline in unemployment, which it hasn't done so far. But it added that no further increase from the 48,000 unemployed estimated in September has occurred.

Commenting generally on the state's employment, the report said the national steel and coal strikes have had little effect here. The tidelands oil dispute, it continued, "has apparently caused a slight employment decrease in petroleum production."

Manufacture of durable goods in the state improved some in September as compared with the same month a year ago. Ship building and repair fell off.

The division said employment in textile products and inorganic chemicals manufacture was recovering from 1948 setbacks.

NOTED EDUCATOR N. J. C. SPEAKER

Addresses Council Of English Teachers; Stresses Teaching Methods

Moving in the right direction was stressed by Dr. Helene Hartley when she spoke Saturday at a meeting of the Louisiana Council of Teachers of English at Northeast Junior College. She discussed factors in "The Teaching of Literature" at the morning session and answered questions pertaining to this subject during the afternoon convocation.

Dr. Hartley, past president of the National Council of Teachers of English, is now professor of English education at Syracuse University, N. Y. She was introduced by Miss Marguerite Teer of the Louisiana State University faculty and past president of the state council.

"We must stop thinking of literature as a body of knowledge," the speaker said. "Instead, we must consider it as a vast reservoir of experience." The important element in teaching in that field today is to present literature so that students will catch this experience, she explained.

It is a challenge to instructors in grade, high school and college levels to select literature which can be interpreted within the range of students. Observation, experience and interpretation of life are characteristics of great writing, Dr. Hartley said.

"We must re-discover literature as human experience if we are to teach it successfully," she warned. Perhaps the universality is hidden behind the scholarship of the writer. If the experience is not universal, the poem or other form of literature is not worth teaching, she declared.

Dr. Hartley warned the group in

Seven Tugs Attempt To Refloat Freighter

PORT ANGELES, Wash., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Seven tugs prepared early today to pull the grounded Panamanian freighter Andalucia from a rocky reef near the entrance to the strait of Juan de Fuca, 67 miles west of here.

Efforts to salvage the big cargo ship, scheduled for the next flood tide, were reported having a "50-50 chance of success." A battery of pumps put aboard during the night worked steadily to siphon out water, flooding through cracks and strained seams into all but the front hold.

Weather conditions were favorable. There was little wind, and swells that slid the freighter along the submarine rock were not particularly damaging.

The Andalucia, with a crew of 27 and one woman, went aground yesterday morning as the master, Capt. George Lemos, attempted to beach the ship.

The run toward shore was ordered when fire broke out in the engine room. The blaze was quenched by the crew after the vessel hit the reef about half a mile off Neah Bay.

The woman, Mrs. Katina Horaitu, 26, assistant steward, and 17 other crew members were brought here at 1:20 a.m. (P. S. T.) by the coast guard cutter Fir.

CHARGED IN BIZARRE CASE

Prosecutor James Munro said Mrs. Margaret Platt (right), 31-year-old mother of two children, is being held at Bremerton, Wash., on a charge of attempted murder after telling authorities she had made a $324 down payment on a plot to slay her husband. Two men Mrs. Platt said had taken her money with the promise to get rid of her husband also are being held on a charge of grand larceny by embezzlement. Munro identified them as Hollis D. Scott, 23 (left), and Wallace Mottern, 22. Munro said the woman's statement related that she conspired against her husband because he refused to give her a divorce. (AP Wirephoto).

Philippine Red Cross Seeks International Aid

MANILA, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Philippine Red Cross called for international help tonight as mounting typhoon casualty reports listed 644 persons dead or missing and feared dead in the central islands.

Most of the casualties were reported from the Kabankalan area of Negros Island 300 miles south of Manila. There the Ilog River, fed by torrential rains, overflowed and swept through Kabankalan, a city of more than 47,000 population.

The typhoon surged in to catch the central Philippines 12 hours ahead of schedule. It hit at night after the islanders had lighted candles to burn at graves of their relatives in all Souls Day ceremonies Tuesday.

CLUES MEAGER IN KIDNAPING

Ransom, Sexual Perversion Ruled Out; Believe Infant Still Alive

UTICA, N. Y., Nov. 5.—(AP)—State police today ruled out ransom and sexual perversion motives as they hunted for an infant whose mother said was kidnaped from a bassinette.

Six-week-old Stephen Komorex was snatched from his bed in the family kitchen last night, she said.

"We are working in hopes of finding the child alive," said Inspector E. J. Dougherty. But, he said, the police were working on meager clues.

There has been no trace of the child since the mother, Mrs. Henry Komorek, said she saw a man in dark clothes carry the sleeping babe from their home in nearby Clayville shortly before last midnight.

She said the man, whom she chased in her bare feet, jumped into an automobile and sped off with the infant.

Dougherty said the search for the baby was being concentrated in the neighborhood of the Komorek home, a two-family dwelling about 100 feet off route 8, a main highway.

Dougherty said the federal bureau of investigation had not been asked to come into the case. He said there was no indication yet of a crime that would give them jurisdiction. At pres-

Expected To Take Decisive Action Unless Settled In One Week

CHING WILL MAKE LAST ATTEMPT IN MEDIATION

By Sterling F. Green

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The government was reported tonight to have set a deadline roughly one week from now for decisive action to end the soft coal strike.

In the steel strike there were some setbacks, but developments of high promise affecting five large and small steel companies buoyed hopes of an early, negotiated peace with C. I. O.'s United Steelworkers.

Republic Steel Co., the country's third biggest, had a settlement offer pending. Jones & Laughlin scheduled peace talks for Monday; Youngstown Sheet and Tube for Tuesday. Two smaller firms signed up—Lukens Steel Co., 5,000 workers, and McLouth Steel Corp., Detroit, 1,800 workers.

But even if more steel firms sign contracts, most of them can run only a few weeks without fresh coal supplies. And it was learned reliably that neither Mine Chieftain John L. Lewis, in yesterday's secret mediation talk, nor the coal mine owners now heading for Washington, have yielded ground.

A high administration official gave this report privately:

"If mediation cannot bring some results this week, it's the last try.

"We will have to try some other treatment."

This coincided with hints from White House sources that President Truman is being urged by some advisers to call for a Taft-Hartley act injunction to send Lewis' 380,000 United Mine Workers back to the coal pits.

Nine days ago Mr. Truman said no national emergency exists which warrants Taft-Hartley action. His associates still are not agreed that he should use the act which labor hates and the Democratic party has promised to repeal.

But the decision may be hastened by the present onset of cold weather in many areas, widespread reports of hardship, and rising unemployment in industries dependent on coal.

Cyrus S. Ching, federal mediation service director, has promised to pursue a settlement "as long as there is any use." This seemed to mean that if he fails to win a bargained settlement, the next step is Mr. Truman's.

Southern coal operators will meet here Monday (2:30 p. m., E. S. T.) with Ching. The mediator may issue a call to northern operators on Tuesday, and later arrange a joint north-south conference.

So far, Ching has no plans to bring Lewis and the operators face to face. He conferred secretly with Lewis yesterday for two hours. Though there was no hint of a change in Lewis' position, Ching told reporters the talk with the United Mine Worker's president was "pleasant and constructive."

Tonight Lewis was believed to have left Washington for Chicago, where he meets with U. M. W.'s 200-man policy committee on Monday.

A union source said Lewis still has hopes that Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois can persuade coal operators of that state to start intensive negotiations for a separate, statewide contract. So far the owners have refused to break ranks with operators elsewhere in the country.

There was widespread speculation in Washington that Lewis might get in touch with some Illinois operators tomorrow.

In Pittsburgh hardship was not far away. Some hospitals said their coal would be done in a day or two. Dealers reported stocks down to a half-week's supply and some homes out of fuel.

Rome, Ga., opened its city auditorium to families without coal. Atlanta dealers began to ration their customers. Cincinnati coal merchants wired Mr. Truman for help; a spokes-

To celebrate the 50th anniversary of his Louisiana Tech graduating class of 1900, John P. Graham, of Ruston, author and composer of Tech's "Alma Mater" song, is planning to have additional copies of the music printed and distributed among the alumni next spring.

That announcement was made recently by Mr. Graham, who gave some background information about the college's official song.

The origin of "Alma Mater" goes back to 1926, when plans were made by the Louisiana Tech alumni to have members of their association compete in composing words and music for a new "Alma Mater." The old song, which was played and sung to the tune of Cornell University's song, was outdated since it represented Louisiana Industrial Institute,

Irish, Cadets Answer Season Challenge With Safe Margin

By Harold Claassen

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Notre Dame and Army answered the challenges to their 1949 football greatness today with specific retorts.

Notre Dame gave a 34 to 21 reply to the assumption that Michigan State might end its string of unbeaten games. Army toppled undefeated Fordham, 35 to 0, in a game so rough that once Army got five chances via penalties to add the extra point to a touchdown.

Thus the one-time football rivals, now estranged, stand side by side in the throne of the nation's gridiron realm.

But there were other powerhouses in action today, too. Minnesota, dreaming of the Rose Bowl trip for two solid weeks, awakened to crush Iowa, 55 to 7, and push the Hawkeyes out of first place in the Big Ten.

Georgia Tech, relying on hipper-dipper football, trounced Tennessee, 30-13, and unbeaten Virginia outsmarted Pennsylvania, 26 to 14, by virtue of a quick start.

Actually Notre Dame's victory was even easier than the score indicates, the Michigan State team getting two of its touchdowns late in the fourth period. However, the Spartans did make it a rugged contest in the first quarter and their opening drive was halted by a fumble.

Army, too, had its troubles in the first canto but a three touchdown flurry in the second broke the Fordham bubble.

Baylor, undefeated until today, took a solid, 20 to 0, drubbing from Texas but the surprise in the Southwest Conference was the 27 to 27 tie that Texas A. and M. earned with Southern Methodist. Froggie Williams again was the hero as Rice stumbled to a 14 to 0 edge over Arkansas.

Ohio State, who spent a rugged afternoon subduing Pitt by a 14 to 10 score, now is a leader in the Big Ten. However, Michigan and Illinois

Will Try To Avoid Navy Aviation Cuts

Sherman Promises To Prevent Economy Reductions From Harassing Naval Air Arm; 'Financial Matter Complicated', He Says

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, new chief of naval operations, said today "every effort will be made" to avoid applying economy cuts to naval aviation.

The navy now is getting a hearing at the Pentagon on proposed reductions that brought cries of protest last month from some members of the house armed services committee.

Efforts to steer cuts in some other direction do not mean the navy's air arm won't be hurt in Defense Secretary Johnson's billion-dollar economy program for the armed forces. But the aviation slashes may be smaller than had been indicated.

"It's too early to predict how we will make out," Sherman told a reporter. "It is a complicated financial matter which I haven't had time to grasp fully yet.

"The navy never wanted to cut down on the procurement of planes. But when suddenly you find yourself poor, you stop buying things. Now we are making every effort to make the cuts in other directions."

Sherman said he wants a big combat fleet and the largest possible navy afloat. That leaves the implication that reductions will be applied as much as possible to navy shore stations.

Navy Secretary Matthews had protested the extent of navy cuts to Johnson and been promised a hearing. The navy has been getting a hearing for the last two days before Johnson's economy committee headed by General Joseph T. McNarney.

JAP PEACE DRAFT NEAR COMPLETION

U. S. Version Of Treaty Would End Military Occupation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The state department today neared completion of the first full American draft of the proposed allied peace treaty with Japan. It would provide for ending the military occupation.

Separately, the United States intends to make a military treaty which would retain U. S. bases in Japan after the occupation ends.

The U. S. version of the peace treaty may be ready for opening consultation with Britain and other Pacific war allies around Dec. 1 as a preliminary to a peace conference next year.

Under the proposed treaty, the Japanese government would take full control over the nation's internal and foreign affairs, subject only to provisions designed to make it a peaceful member of world society.

One or more separate American economic agreements covering aid to Japan's deficit economy are expected.

Secretary of State Acheson will thus be able to report notable progress toward restoring formal peace in the Pacific and also providing security for an unarmed Japan, when he sees Brit-

TWO ARRESTED ON BURGLARY COUNTS

Reported Caught Trying To Load Stolen Safe Into Auto

TALLULAH, La., Nov. 5.—(Special)—A Little Rock, Ark., man and Delhi farmer were charged with burglary here early today when Tallulah officers said they caught them attempting to put a safe stolen from the Western Union office in the trunk of an automobile reported missing from Monroe.

Sheriff C. E. Hester identified the arrested men as James Henry, 25, of Little Rock, and Luther Williams, about 35, of Delhi.

Shortly before 2 a. m. Sheriff Hester said, the burglars entered the Western Union building through a rear door and left through the same medium taking the safe.

Officers Marvin Ingram and Carl Griffin walked up on the two men while they had the safe on a sidewalk attempting to store it in the trunk of a Ford automobile.

The Car, police said, was stolen from Monroe earlier Friday night. It was reported to have belong to Sam Scalfano, a Monroe bakeryman.

Sheriff Bailey Grant requested the Tallulah sheriff department to place a detainer on Henry for auto theft.

Henry was arrested by Officers Ingram and Griffin on the scene but Williams escaped making his way to Delhi on a west bound bus where authorities took him in custody.

Sheriff Hester said both Williams and Henry were being held in the Madison parish jail. No bond had been fixed early today.

State Unemployment Remains At Standstill

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Louisiana unemployment is not getting worse, but it isn't getting better, either, the state employment security division said in a report today.

The division pointed out that the fall season should begin a decline in unemployment, which it hasn't done so far. But it added that no further increase from the 48,000 unemployed estimated in September has occurred.

Commenting generally on the state's employment, the report said the national steel and coal strikes have had little effect here. The tidelands oil dispute, it continued, "has apparently caused a slight employment decrease in petroleum production."

Manufacture of durable goods in the state improved some in September as compared with the same month a year ago. Ship building and repair fell off.

The division said employment in textile products and inorganic chemicals manufacture was recovering from 1948 setbacks.

NOTED EDUCATOR N. J. C. SPEAKER

Addresses Council Of English Teachers; Stresses Teaching Methods

Moving in the right direction was stressed by Dr. Helene Hartley when she spoke Saturday at a meeting of the Louisiana Council of Teachers of English at Northeast Junior College. She discussed factors in "The Teaching of Literature" at the morning session and answered questions pertaining to this subject during the afternoon convocation.

Dr. Hartley, past president of the National Council of Teachers of English, is now professor of English education at Syracuse University, N. Y. She was introduced by Miss Marguerite Teer of the Louisiana State University faculty and past president of the state council.

"We must stop thinking of literature as a body of knowledge," the speaker said. "Instead, we must consider it as a vast reservoir of experience." The important element in teaching in that field today is to present literature so that students will catch this experience, she explained.

It is a challenge to instructors in grade, high school and college levels to select literature which can be interpreted within the range of students. Observation, experience and interpretation of life are characteristics of great writing, Dr. Hartley said.

"We must re-discover literature as human experience if we are to teach it successfully," she warned. Perhaps the universality is hidden behind the scholarship of the writer. If the experience is not universal, the poem or other form of literature is not worth teaching, she declared.

Dr. Hartley warned the group in

Seven Tugs Attempt To Refloat Freighter

PORT ANGELES, Wash., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Seven tugs prepared early today to pull the grounded Panamanian freighter Andalucia from a rocky reef near the entrance to the strait of Juan de Fuca, 67 miles west of here.

Efforts to salvage the big cargo ship, scheduled for the next flood tide, were reported having a "50-50 chance of success." A battery of pumps put aboard during the night worked steadily to siphon out water, flooding through cracks and strained seams into all but the front hold.

Weather conditions were favorable. There was little wind, and swells that slid the freighter along the submarine rock were not particularly damaging.

The Andalucia, with a crew of 27 and one woman, went aground yesterday morning as the master, Capt. George Lemos, attempted to beach the ship.

The run toward shore was ordered when fire broke out in the engine room. The blaze was quenched by the crew after the vessel hit the reef about half a mile off Neah Bay.

The woman, Mrs. Katina Horaitu, 26, assistant steward, and 17 other crew members were brought here at 1:20 a.m. (P. S. T.) by the coast guard cutter Fir.

CHARGED IN BIZARRE CASE

Prosecutor James Munro said Mrs. Margaret Piatt (right), 31-year-old mother of two children, is being held at Bremerton, Wash., on a charge of attempted murder after telling authorities she had made a $324 down payment on a plot to slay her husband. Two men Mrs. Piatt said had taken her money with the promise to get rid of her husband also are being held on a charge of grand larceny by embezzlement. Munro identified them as Hollis D. Scott, 23 (left), and Wallace Mottern, 22. Munro said the woman's statement related that she conspired against her husband because he refused to give her a divorce. (AP Wirephoto).

Philippine Red Cross Seeks International Aid

MANILA, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Philippine Red Cross called for international help tonight as mounting typhoon casualty reports listed 644 persons dead or missing and feared dead in the central islands.

Most of the casualties were reported from the Kabankalan area of Negros Island 300 miles south of Manila. There the Ilog River, fed by torrential rains, overflowed and swept through Kabankalan, a city of more than 47,000 population.

The typhoon surged in to catch the central Philippines 12 hours ahead of schedule. It hit at night after the islanders had lighted candles to burn at graves of their relatives in all Souls Day ceremonies Tuesday.

CLUES MEAGER IN KIDNAPING

Ransom, Sexual Perversion Ruled Out; Believe Infant Still Alive

UTICA, N. Y., Nov. 5.—(AP)—State police today ruled out ransom and sexual perversion motives as they hunted for an infant whose mother said was kidnaped from a bassinette.

Six-week-old Stephen Komorex was snatched from his bed in the family kitchen last night, she said.

"We are working in hopes of finding the child alive," said Inspector E. J. Dougherty. But, he said, the police were working on meager clues.

There has been no trace of the child since the mother, Mrs. Henry Komorek, said she saw a man in dark clothes carry the sleeping babe from their home in nearby Clayville shortly before last midnight.

She said the man, whom she chased in her bare feet, jumped into an automobile and sped off with the infant.

Dougherty said the search for the baby was being concentrated in the neighborhood of the Komorek home, a two-family dwelling about 100 feet off route 8, a main highway.

Dougherty said the federal bureau of investigation had not been asked to come into the case. He said there was no indication yet of a crime that would give them jurisdiction. At pres-

STATE'S NURSES WILL MEET HERE

Forty-Fourth Annual Convention Will Be Held In Hotel Virginia

Fully 350 delegates are expected to attend the sessions of the Louisiana State Nurses Convention which opens here at Hotel Virginia on Monday. The session will be the forty-fourth annual one of this organization.

Registration starts at 8 a.m. in Hotel Virginia Monday and the sessions open at 9 a.m. and continue through the day and for several days.

On Tuesday night there will be a banquet and dance in Hotel Virginia and Thursday from 3 to 5 p.m. there is to be a tea given in the Lotus Club by the members of the Ouachita Parish Medical Society's Auxiliary.

During the convention there will be addresses by several speakers of note who have accepted invitations to come here to address the convention delegates.

FIRE STATIONS TO TAKE TOYS

Discarded Or Broken Playthings Should Be Brought To Reception Places

The various fire stations in the city of Monroe will be receiving places for broken toys that are to be repaired for Christmas for less favored kiddies.

Firemen are always ready to do their bit for someone in need and they have very generously come forward with the offer of acting as a reception place for toys that are being donated by the public, states B. B. Martin, Good Fellows chieftain.

Each and every fire hall in the city will be on the lookout for toys that are to be reconstructed by the Vocational School staff in West Monroe.

Many may think that it is too early to pay attention to matters connected

Expected To Take Decisive Action Unless Settled In One Week

CHING WILL MAKE LAST ATTEMPT IN MEDIATION

By Sterling F. Green

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The government was reported tonight to have set a deadline roughly one week from now for decisive action to end the soft coal strike.

In the steel strike there were some setbacks, but developments of high promise affecting five large and small steel companies buoyed hopes of an early, negotiated peace with C. I. O.'s United Steelworkers.

Republic Steel Co., the country's third biggest, had a settlement offer pending. Jones & Laughlin scheduled peace talks for Monday; Youngstown Sheet and Tube for Tuesday. Two smaller firms signed up—Lukens Steel Co., 5,000 workers, and McLouth Steel Corp., Detroit, 1,800 workers.

But even if more steel firms sign contracts, most of them can run only a few weeks without fresh coal supplies. And it was learned reliably that neither Mine Chieftain John L. Lewis, in yesterday's secret mediation talk, nor the coal mine owners now heading for Washington, have yielded ground.

A high administration official gave this report privately:

"If mediation cannot bring some results this week, it's the last try.

"We will have to try some other treatment."

This coincided with hints from White House sources that President Truman is being urged by some advisers to call for a Taft-Hartley act injunction to send Lewis' 380,000 United Mine Workers back to the coal pits.

Nine days ago Mr. Truman said no national emergency exists which warrants Taft-Hartley action. His associates still are not agreed that he should use the act which labor hates and the Democratic party has promised to repeal.

But the decision may be hastened by the present onset of cold weather in many areas, widespread reports of hardship, and rising unemployment in industries dependent on coal.

Cyrus S. Ching, federal mediation service director, has promised to pursue a settlement "as long as there is any use." This seemed to mean that if he fails to win a bargained settlement, the next step is Mr. Truman's.

Southern coal operators will meet here Monday (2:30 p. m., E. S. T.) with Ching. The mediator may issue a call to northern operators on Tuesday, and later arrange a joint north-south conference.

So far, Ching has no plans to bring Lewis and the operators face to face. He conferred secretly with Lewis yesterday for two hours. Though there was no hint of a change in Lewis' position, Ching told reporters the talk with the United Mine Worker's president was "pleasant and constructive."

Tonight Lewis was believed to have left Washington for Chicago, where he meets with U. M. W.'s 200-man policy committee on Monday.

A union source said Lewis still has hopes that Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois can persuade coal operators of that state to start intensive negotiations for a separate, statewide contract. So far the owners have refused to break ranks with operators elsewhere in the country.

There was widespread speculation in Washington that Lewis might get in touch with some Illinois operators tomorrow.

In Pittsburgh hardship was not far away. Some hospitals said their coal would be done in a day or two. Dealers reported stocks down to a half-week's supply and some homes out of fuel.

Rome, Ga., opened its city auditorium to families without coal. Atlanta dealers began to ration their customers. Cincinnati coal merchants wired Mr. Truman for help; a spokes-

L. T. I. Holds Open House; Fired Employe Raps School

Public Invited By Board To Inspect School This Afternoon

The public has been invited to attend an "open house" inspection of Louisiana Training Institute facilities this afternoon between the hours of 2 and 5 p. m.

Invitationto the "People of Louisiiana" to inspect the school was issued a week ago and followed charges of irregularities by the Ouachita Parish Grand Jury.

J. C. Gresham, superintendent of the institution, said he and his board welcomed "constructive criticism" of the school and its operation at all times. In inviting the public to the "open house," Mr. Gresham issued the following statement:

"Open house will be held at the institution on the afternoon of Sunday,

Bagwell Says He Was Discharged For Testifying To Grand Jury

D. E. "Boss" Bagwell, a Louisiana Training school employe who testified before the Ouachita parish grand jury during their special probe into conditions at the school, was fired from the staff of more than 60 employes following a recent board of directors meeting, it was reported yesterday.

Courtney Oliver, chairman of the board, said earlier, "Mr. Bagwell was just discharged at the last board meeting. I don't care to go into the reason."

Bagwell, twice a candidate for the sheriff's office in Union parish, said he was fired because he went before the grand jury and told the truth.

He had been employed at the training school for more than ten months during which time he served as check-

Radar Picket Line Still Just An Idea; No Money For It Yet

WASHINGTON—The much-heralded warning system which was to have guarded the nation against intercontinental bombers still is only a gleam in the airmen's eyes.

Congress didn't appropriate any money to get it started.

It did authorize the air force to transfer $50,000,000 of its appropriation from some other activity to commence building the radar picket line. But top air force men say their budget estimate was not padded and that they have no loose change like $50,000,000 to juggle that way.

TELEVISION PRICES

NEW YORK—(AP)—Don't look for further substantial price cuts on television sets before spring at the earliest. The new boom in sales appears to have halted the price war for the present.

HUNGARIAN COURTS

BUDAPEST—(AP)—The functions of the people's court of justice which tried many political defendants, including Cardinal Mindszenty, are to be taken over by the criminal courts.

However, the criminal courts now will include "assessors," roughly comparable to jurymen in western-type Democracies except that they will be appointed by the governmental political parties.

THREE TIMES?

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Rear Adm. John G. Ballentine, who is replacing Adm. Forrest P. Sherman as commander of the sixth task fleet in the Mediterranean, replaced Sherman once before—when Sherman was relieved as chief of staff, commander air force, Pacific fleet, during the war.

Sherman has now been appointed chief of naval operations.

Navy wizards wonder if the old superstition about things happening in three augurs well for Ballentine some day.

AW, SHUCKS

PRAGUE—(AP)—Czechoslovak soldiers, whose pin-up girls already have been taken away, now aren't going to get any more American cowboy movies either.

Communist political commissars consider them 'stupid." The soldiers' film diet from now on, says the army's newspaper, will be pictures from "the most progressive state in the world—the Soviet Union."

AIR FORCE PURCHASERS

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The air force will announce its airplane purchases from current funds shortly after mid-November. Best indications are that B-36 and B-47 bombers, F-86 fighters and C-119 troop carrying transports are certain to be on the list.

BERLIN VOLTAGE

BERLIN—(AP)—American officials expect that a new plant, guaranteeing western Berlin the power it was denied during the Russian blockade, will be completed by the end of the year.

TIRE PRICES

NEW YORK—(AP)—Tire makers forecast higher prices by mid-winter—on top of the 3 1/2 percent increase posted by a lot of them the past few days. They say it just costs more to do business these days.

CRYSTAL BALL DEPT.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—House Democratic campaign committee staffers say the Democrats have a good chance of winning seven or eight Republican seats from the far west next year—the way things look now.

They add it is possible for the Democrats to lose two or three in the 11 states covered in a recent survey.

Their best prospects, they say, appear to be in California.

JET TRANSPORTS

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Civil aeronautics board officials have made preliminary inquiries about the possibility of borrowing a jet bomber from the air force to use as a guide in working out regulations for jet transports.

CZECH FARMING

PRAGUE—(AP)—The government says it is going "to make agriculture fulfill its task in production" by setting up "Michurin-Lysenko' 'societies alongside older Czech scientific organizations.

The societies are named for the Russian scientists who hold that acquired characteristics can be passed on to succeeding generations, a view disputed by most western scientists.

AIR RESCUE

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A quiet modernization program will provide more speed and range for air rescue planes. B-29 superfortresses will replace B-17s as carriers of droppable lifeboats. New type amphibians and helicopters also will be put into service as soon as possible.

LUCK

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senator Johnson (D.-Colo.) crosses the lawn between the senate office building and the capitol every day. En route he picks up a few large horse chestnuts. He presses them on office visitors as "luck pieces."

Last week a reporter accepted one, arose to go, tripped over a lamp cord. The lamp fell on the floor and broke into a thousand pieces.

RELIGION IN ASIA

GENEVA, Switzerland—(AP)—Eighty Christian leaders from 16 countries, representing the World Council of Churches, will meet at Bangkok, Siam, Dec. 4 to "review the challenge of Communism in relation to Christian evangelism."

SPEAK CHINESE?

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—A Peking broadcast heard here says the Communists are tackling a job that has baffled many a scholar—simplifying the Chinese language and wiping out its more than 70 dialects.

OLD HOME MONTH

BIERUT—(AP)—Lebanon, home of the ancient seafaring Phoenicians is making ready to welcome its sons from all over the world. The government has invited emigrants to visit their native land in August next year. Fouad El Bridy of the foreign ministry estimates up to 4,000 may attend.

MUSIC DIRECTOR

Edmond D. Keith has accepted the position of music and educational director of the First Baptist Church of West Monroe and will move on the church field next week. Mr. Keith has been music and educational director of the North Orange Baptist Church at Orange, Texas, Central Baptist Church at Decatur, Ala., and First Baptist Church, New Orleans. Mr. Keith was one of our first Baptist leaders to organize a fully graded music program in our churches. He has a collection of over 1,500 volumes of church music which has been gathered through years of study. The First Baptist Church of West Monroe is looking forward to establishing five fully graded choirs in the music department and a large increase in all educational organizations.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

A real treat is in store for Little Theatre guests who attend the first play of the season, "John Loves Mary," opening a five-day engagement Tuesday night.

Saturday afternoon we slipped out to the Little Theatre building at Selman Field and despite Director Fontelieu's padlocks, sheet covers and special precautions, we sneaked a peek at the beautiful furniture that will decorate the stage for "John Loves Mary." . . . It was breath taking for one who had not expected so much. . . . Although we feel compelled to be faithful to the director's wishes to give his opening night audience a delightful surprise by not describing it in advance, we can tell you that the perfect appointments in home decoration have been made available through the courtesy of Durrett's Furniture and their skilled decorators, Manager J. W. Lyons and Decorator Millard Lipscomb.

Numbered among all the wonderful things that have come Little Theatre's way this season, this about tops them all. Little Theatre is very fortunate indeed to have the counsel and cooperation of two such men. Mr. Lyon, a former Texan, has devoted the major part of his life to the art of furniture and furnishings and is considered an authority in the furniture industry in the north, east and west. His understanding of fine quality furniture and its artful combinations make for him a place of high esteem in the realm of decoration.

Millard Lipscomb, known to his friends as "Lip", began his career in decoration with Friend-Piper in Shreveport and is a personal friend of the decorating editor of American Home magazine. Editor Wiley is a former Shreveport boy. "Lip" was recently invited to visit the New York studios of Decorator Pohlman, who along with three other outstanding decorators in the United States presented a spread in Life magazine about a month ago. If you are a Life reader as most of us are, you will recall that they presented three rooms done in semi-modern and ultra modern.

We have got our head in the clouds for sure . . . another step in the right direction for what Little Theatre hopes to be and hopes to build.

SKETCH NOTES . . . Armandine Renoud was wished bon voyage by a host of friends as she boarded a Delta Air Lines plane at Selman Field Saturday morning, on her way to New York as a delegate to the National Association of Crippled Children. "Dinie" was wearing a corsage for the occasion and flashed a very happy smile as "Flash" Williams photographed the event for her friends, who feel that she has truly earned a pat on the back. . . . A great big bouquet or whatever it is that would please a man most, to Howard Griffith of Griffith Electric. He found out we needed double doors for the stage and he instructed Fred Elmendorf to order whatever was needed and charge it to him. Fred not only built the doors but he came out and put them up for Little Theatre. . . . Thanks to Freeda Mickel for the picture of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. We were spared the time and necessity of rephotographing from the collection Bert Coverdale so generously offered. . . . Leading Lady Caroline Richard from the cast of "John Loves Mary" doesn't know which of the five nights her mother and dad have elected to see the play. They think she will be more at ease on stage, if she doesn't know. . . . Reservations for the five nights of the play began Saturday afternoon at 1 p. m. The old telephone has been ringing constantly all afternoon. If you have a special night in mind, better call in early. Season memberships can still be purchased from Troy and Nichols, any member of the board or by calling 690. To make reservations call Little Theatre 2976. . . . Director Stocker Fontelieu's mother and father are coming up from New Orleans for the show on Saturday night and bringing friends with them.

If you're expecting a crowd for a Sunday breakfast party and plan to serve bacon and eggs, an easy way to prepare the bacon is to place it on a rack set in a shallow pan and bake it in a hot (400 F.) oven for about 12 minutes, or until it is crisp and brown.

Musical Notes From The Choral Club

By Helen V. Agnew

Wouldn't you know it would happen! The special music for the Christmas program came in last week—just that much too late for it to be included in our concert. Thanks to the foresight of our director, we have enough already under rehearsal to insure a most entertaining and appropriate program come Christmas time. There are still several numbers which are new to us, so there is still plenty of work to be done, but the concert program is shaping up.

Don't fail to take in the Kiwanis Minstrel Tuesday night. Several of our good members have parts in it, and it is my bet one of our own people will bring down the house. We've discarded his real name, and are calling him "Bing" these days. Know who I mean?

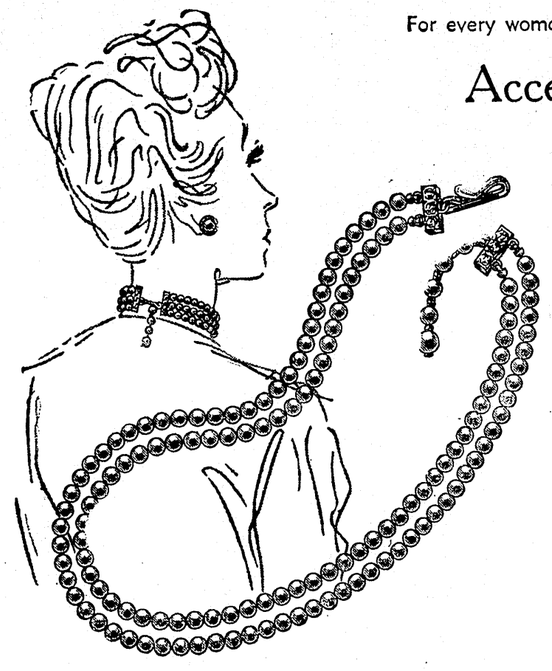

We've got two other members in featured spots in the minstrel, too. Mina Mason is pretty as a picture anyhow, but with the costume she'll be wearing she is utterly ravishing. And Garland Moore comes up with an added talent we didn't know he had.

We're glad to see Ted Landhy back from his quick trip to Tennessee. He brought Joan back with him, and we're hoping she'll be coming along to rehearsals now too.

This next week is really going to be a busy one, with the minstrel and then the Little Theatre opening for a five-night run. For that matter, all the rest of the weeks in this year are going to be busy ones, and they are racing by mighty fast. The time is right on us when we are going to have to get in two rehearsals a week to put the polish on our own concert. Take a quick look at your calendar and count the Mondays—and then check your schedule to be sure nothing has crept in which would interfere with Choral Club meetings. None of us dare miss another rehearsal from here on out. The time is too short.

So come on down Monday night. The time is 7:30. The place is the Educational Building of the First Baptist Church at 303 St. John street. We're looking forward to seeing everyone there tomorrow night.

Austria has an area of 32,369 square miles and a population of about 7,000,000. It is somewhat larger than the state of Maine.

Radar Picket Line Still Just An Idea; No Money For It Yet

WASHINGTON—The much-heralded warning system which was to have guarded the nation against intercontinental bombers still is only a gleam in the airmen's eyes.

Congress didn't appropriate any money to get it started.

It did authorize the air force to transfer $50,000,000 of its appropriation from some other activity to commence building the radar picket line. But top air force men say their budget estimate was not padded and that they have no loose change like $50,000,000 to juggle that way.

TELEVISION PRICES

NEW YORK—(AP)—Don't look for further substantial price cuts on television sets before spring at the earliest. The new boom in sales appears to have halted the price war for the present.

HUNGARIAN COURTS

BUDAPEST—(AP)—The functions of the people's court of justice which tried many political defendants, including Cardinal Mindszenty, are to be taken over by the criminal courts.

However, the criminal courts now will include "assessors," roughly comparable to jurymen in western-type Democracies except that they will be appointed by the governmental political parties.

THREE TIMES?

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Rear Adm. John G. Ballentine, who is replacing Adm. Forrest P. Sherman as commander of the sixth task fleet in the Mediterranean, replaced Sherman once before—when Sherman was relieved as chief of staff, commander air force, Pacific fleet, during the war.

Sherman has now been appointed chief of naval operations.

Navy wizards wonder if the old superstition about things happening in three augurs well for Ballentine some day.

AW, SHUCKS

PRAGUE—(AP)—Czechoslovak soldiers, whose pin-up girls already have been taken away, now aren't going to get any more American cowboy movies either.

Communist political commissars consider them 'stupid." The soldiers' film diet from now on, says the army's newspaper, will be pictures from "the most progressive state in the world—the Soviet Union."

AIR FORCE PURCHASERS

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The air force will announce its airplane purchases from current funds shortly after mid-November. Best indications are that B-36 and B-47 bombers, F-86 fighters and C-119 troop carrying transports are certain to be on the list.

BERLIN VOLTAGE

BERLIN—(AP)—American officials expect that a new plant, guaranteeing western Berlin the power it was denied during the Russian blockade, will be completed by the end of the year.

TIRE PRICES

NEW YORK—(AP)—Tire makers forecast higher prices by mid-winter—on top of the 3 1/2 percent increase posted by a lot of them the past few days. They say it just costs more to do business these days.

CRYSTAL BALL DEPT.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—House Democratic campaign committee staffers say the Democrats have a good chance of winning seven or eight Republican seats from the far west next year—the way things look now.

They add it is possible for the Democrats to lose two or three in the 11 states covered in a recent survey.

Their best prospects, they say, appear to be in California.

JET TRANSPORTS

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Civil aeronautics board officials have made preliminary inquiries about the possibility of borrowing a jet bomber from the air force to use as a guide in working out regulations for jet transports.

CZECH FARMING

PRAGUE—(AP)—The government says it is going "to make agriculture fulfill its task in production" by setting up "Michurin-Lysenko' 'societies alongside older Czech scientific organizations.

The societies are named for the Russian scientists who hold that acquired characteristics can be passed on to succeeding generations, a view disputed by most western scientists.

AIR RESCUE

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A quiet modernization program will provide more speed and range for air rescue planes. B-29 superfortresses will replace B-17s as carriers of droppable lifeboats. New type amphibians and helicopters also will be put into service as soon as possible.

LUCK

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senator Johnson (D.-Colo.) crosses the lawn between the senate office building and the capitol every day. En route he picks up a few large horse chestnuts. He presses them on office visitors as "luck pieces."

Last week a reporter accepted one, arose to go, tripped over a lamp cord. The lamp fell on the floor and broke into a thousand pieces.

RELIGION IN ASIA

GENEVA, Switzerland—(AP)—Eighty Christian leaders from 16 countries, representing the World Council of Churches, will meet at Bangkok, Siam, Dec. 4 to "review the challenge of Communism in relation to Christian evangelism."

SPEAK CHINESE?

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—A Peking broadcast heard here says the Communists are tackling a job that has baffled many a scholar—simplifying the Chinese language and wiping out its more than 70 dialects.

OLD HOME MONTH

BIERUT—(AP)—Lebanon, home of the ancient seafaring Phoenicians is making ready to welcome its sons from all over the world. The government has invited emigrants to visit their native land in August next year. Fouad El Bridy of the foreign ministry estimates up to 4,000 may attend.

MUSIC DIRECTOR

Edmond D. Keith has accepted the position of music and educational director of the First Baptist Church of West Monroe and will move on the church field next week. Mr. Keith has been music and educational director of the North Orange Baptist Church at Orange, Texas, Central Baptist Church at Decatur, Ala., and First Baptist Church, New Orleans. Mr. Keith was one of our first Baptist leaders to organize a fully graded music program in our churches. He has a collection of over 1,500 volumes of church music which has been gathered through years of study. The First Baptist Church of West Monroe is looking forward to establishing five fully graded choirs in the music department and a large increase in all educational organizations.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

A real treat is in store for Little Theatre guests who attend the first play of the season, "John Loves Mary," opening a five-day engagement Tuesday night.

Saturday afternoon we slipped out to the Little Theatre building at Selman Field and despite Director Fontelieu's padlocks, sheet covers and special precautions, we sneaked a peek at the beautiful furniture that will decorate the stage for "John Loves Mary." . . . It was breath taking for one who had not expected so much. . . . Although we feel compelled to be faithful to the director's wishes to give his opening night audience a delightful surprise by not describing it in advance, we can tell you that the perfect appointments in home decoration have been made available through the courtesy of Durrett's Furniture and their skilled decorators, Manager J. W. Lyons and Decorator Millard Lipscomb.

Numbered among all the wonderful things that have come Little Theatre's way this season, this about tops them all. Little Theatre is very fortunate indeed to have the counsel and cooperation of two such men. Mr. Lyon, a former Texan, has devoted the major part of his life to the art of furniture and furnishings and is considered an authority in the furniture industry in the north, east and west. His understanding of fine quality furniture and its artful combinations make for him a place of high esteem in the realm of decoration.

Millard Lipscomb, known to his friends as "Lip", began his career in decoration with Friend-Piper in Shreveport and is a personal friend of the decorating editor of American Home magazine. Editor Wiley is a former Shreveport boy. "Lip" was recently invited to visit the New York studios of Decorator Pohlman, who along with three other outstanding decorators in the United States presented a spread in Life magazine about a month ago. If you are a Life reader as most of us are, you will recall that they presented three rooms done in semi-modern and ultra modern.

C. C. Sheppard

Louisiana, indeed the entire South, lost one of its outstanding citizens in the death of C. C. Sheppard at Clarks Thursday. Mr. Sheppard was best known for his activities in the lumber industry and his work as a civic leader and a community builder was perhaps less publicized. But he threw every ounce of his seemingly unbounded energy into any project that he thought would advance his state and the nation.

Mr. Sheppard was a keen student of economics, not only in his own chosen field but as his country was affected as well. He was unalterably opposed to many wasteful bureaucratic practices of the federal government and his voice was heard throughout the nation, gently but firmly pointing out the fallacies of these practices. His views were invariably correct.

Mr. Sheppard came to Louisiana from Missouri in 1914 and became vice-president and general manager of the Forest Lumber Company of Oakdale and in 1918 he also assumed the presidency of the Louisiana Sawmill Company at Glenmora. In 1927, Mr. Sheppard moved to Northeast Louisiana and became president and general manager of the Louisiana Central Lumber Company, a position he held at his death. The vast expansion of this company throughout a wide area in Northeast and Central Louisiana is testimony to his business acumen and his executive ability.

Mr. Sheppard received many honors, both state, regional and national, during the last 20 years of his life. He was president of the Southern Pine Association, president of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association, president of the Southern Hardwood Producers, a director of the National Association of Manufacturers, director of the United States Chamber of Commerce, was a member of the lumberman's code authority of the NRA and also vice-president of the Louisiana Manufacturers' Association. He was a member of the state mineral board from 1937 until the time of his death, and rendered invaluable service to his state in this capacity, devoting a great deal of his time without compensation.

Mr. Sheppard was equally active in civic and fraternal affairs. He was a polished speaker and his talents in that direction led him to many parts of the country. He had appeared on Town Hall of the Air and several other national forums.

Mr. Sheppard's charming personality, his leadership and his counsel will be sorely missed, not only by his "home folks" here but by the entire state. His death came as a distinct shock to his hundreds of friends who join The Morning World in extending our sincere sympathies to his family.

Saving Criminals

An interesting experiment in criminology is being conducted in Florida, where a young man, charged with many violations of the law, has submitted to a brain operation in the hope it will put an end to criminal tendencies.

The young man seemed to be always acting under a compulsion to break the law, and asked permission of the court to sentence him for life as a habitual criminal to undergo the operation. Originated by Prof. Antonio Egas Montz, a famous surgeon of Lisbon, the plan has been widely discussed by medical scientists as a means of halting criminal tendencies.

Briefly, the operation consists of separating frontal brain segments, and is most delicate and tedious. Months will be required to discover how effective it will be, and during that period the patient must be confined and given careful treatment. It can be performed only with the full consent of the patient.

Students of criminology have long been puzzled by the problem of habitual offenders. Imprisonment has no effect in halting such crimes. The Florida young man was a chronic forger, who told the court he would rather be dead than continue a career of crime. The outcome of the experiment is awaited with great interest in medical circles.

Are You Interested?

Can you spare ten minutes time in which to consider the future of your country? Or are you a typical citizen, who has lost all interest in the nation's welfare, and has turned the job of administering the government over to a group of political self-seekers, who continue to put self over service?

To start with, you are reminded that deficit spending has returned. The federal government has gone in the red more than two billion dollars during the first four months of the fiscal year. The national debt is 253 billion dollars. Your share, and that of every man, woman and child in the nation, is $2,875.

Be honest with yourself. Can you name five men in high place in government in whom you have confidence they can bring the nation out of its present situation? Have you seen a single move by congress which would definitely relieve the burdened taxpayer?

Is there a statesman in the crowd capable of matching wits with those from other nations, and come off with the advantage on their side?

As an individual your government has put you in the hole nearly 3,000, and you will go deeper unless the people do something about it. You've heard this before? Of course you have. And you'll hear it again when payday comes. And you'll not be happy about it, either.

Recalling all the grand promises for postwar times, many a citizen is wondering how it happens that he is still driving his prewar car.

Burglars who stole a crate of corsets may be letting themselves in for a long stretch.

Thurman Sensing,

Director of Research, Southern States Industrial Council:

DOWN SOUTH

THE BETRAYAL OF LABOR

Union leaders, in their greed for power and jealousy of each other, will eventually betray organized labor. Whatever power for good is exercised by labor unions in behalf of the workers of the nation is well on the way to being completely wiped out, at least a great deal more than offset, by the hardships, the injustices, the cruelties brought to bear, not only upon union members themselves, but more importantly upon the citizens of the country at large, as a result of such strikes as the industry-wide coal and steel strikes.

The coal and steel industries are basic to the economic welfare of this nation. There is not only actual physical suffering by millions of innocent people when coal is not available in cold weather, but coal is necessary to keep the wheels of industry humming, and steel, of course, enters into the entire fabric of our industrial economy. These industries must be kept going, and those who would prevent it are not only traitors to their own cause but also to the nation at large.

The root of the trouble is that labor leaders want no curb on their power over their unions. That is why they wanted repeal of the Taft-Hartley act. In an attempt to deceive their union members, the cry of the labor leaders was made far and wide that this was a "slave labor law." As a matter of fact, the whole tenor of the Taft-Hartley act was to protect the rights of the individual labor union member from the dictatorship of his labor leaders, and sound-thinking union members knew it. Broken down into its component parts, the great majority of union members favor the individual provisions of the act. But too many members of labor unions listen to their leaders without thinking, and accept the labeling of the act at face value.

The people of the United States have always been very patient with strikes, even with such paralyzing strikes as those by the coal miners and the steel workers. That is because this nation is a nation of the people. That is because this nation, as a matter of fact, is a workingman's nation, regardless of the slurs of the Communists, and the Socialists, and the labor leaders, too, who would delude the world into believing it is run for and by the "barons of wealth," as Philip Murray of the C. I. O. charged the other day.

The workingman of the United States enjoys a higher standard of living than any workingman of any nation has ever known, a higher standard of living than is known to almost any class of people in the rest of the world today. This is due, and due only, to certain fundamental facts—that the United States is a government for all the people and not for any particular group of people; that the individual citizen of the United States is guaranteed certain inalienable rights that cannot be taken away from him, by his government or by his labor union or by anyone else; that under our government the individual has the incentive to exercise his initiative and his ingenuity in providing for the welfare of himself and his family, for his children and his children's children.

Because this is a government of, for, and by the people, however, does not mean that the leaders of the coal miners and the steel workers can indefinitely and at their whim impose their autocratic will upon the nation at large. In fact, it means just the opposite, because there is a point at which the patience of the nation will be exhausted and there are hardships which the people must not be called upon to endure.

If these labor leaders are themselves deluded into feeling that they are safe in their position, by the present administration or by any other administration that curries their favor in order to gain the votes they control, they should think again. This is not a nation that will allow for long any group—labor union members, industrial monopolies, or any other—to gain special economic privileges to the detriment of the general welfare.

In Washington With

BASCOM N. TIMMONS

The earliest and most clear-cut test of President Truman's Fair Deal will probably come in the Florida Democratic primary next May.

Senator Claude Pepper, veteran of 14 years in the senate will face the handsome Rep. George A. Smathers, of Miami.

Pepper has been championed the New Deal and its offspring, the Fair Deal, through thick and thin. He will pitch his re-election campaign to reach the "little people" in his state.

Smathers, during his three years in the house, has not necessarily aligned himself with anti-Fair Deal forces in the Democratic party, but his backing is definitely conservative.

Pepper has just guided through the senate the minimum wage bill and will wave it proudly in front of the voters during his campaign.

He took a similar issue to the people of Florida in 1938, when the wage-house bill was bogged down in congress. His victory impressed congress sufficiently to un-bog the bill and send it to President Roosevelt for signature.

During the immediate pre-war years, Pepper was an administration bell-wether for aid to Britain and participation in the European conflict.

He got off the Truman reservation in 1948, flirting for a while with the Henry Wallace forces, and even offering himself as a nominee against Truman in the closing days of the Philadelphia Democratic convention. However, he's back with Harry now.

Smathers, at age 36, is about the age Pepper was when he came to the senate in 1936. He's handsome, suave and wealthy in his own right. The Junior League picked him last year as the man of the year.

Coming from Miami, where he is popular, he will have the advantage of the largest metropolitan vote in the state. But Miami also contains a large portion of the 50,000 Negro votes, who are expected to go to the polls next May. Incidentally, Pepper has allied himself to the Negro vote by supporting anti-poll tax legislation and advocating stronger rules against filibustering.

Smathers has the advantage of an excellent war record in the marines. Pepper's war record consists of service in the Students' army training corps at the University of Alabama in World War. I.

The two men are poles apart in background. Pepper is the son of a sharecropper, whose brilliant mind and tongue took him through Harvard law school with top grades. Smathers who lacks Pepper's oratorical ability but makes a dignified impression, comes from one of the foremost families in Florida.

When an overflow crowd poured into the National Press club the other day to hear a luncheon speech by Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey, the Indiana University professor who did the research on masculine sex well-dressed lady sitting at the head table.

The explanation came when distinguished guests were introduced. She is a Washington psychiatrist whose interest was scientific.

Some farm organization officials in Washington are wondering whether Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, chairman of the senate agriculture committee, just forgot or deliberately failed to appoint a special sub-committee before he rushed off to Europe right after congress adjourned.

The committee, authorized by the senate shortly before adjournment, was to make a comprehensive study of ways and means of increasing exports of surplus American farm products. For the work, the senate approved an appropriation of $25,000. With tremendous stockpiles of wheat, corn, cotton and other American farm products piling up in this country, earliest possible start of the inquiry had been hoped for.

One reason why Thomas may have deliberately delayed appointing the committee was the fact that Senator Clinton Anderson of New Mexico was the author of the resolution creating it, and under usual senate rules would be named chairman of the committee.

There were indications during the long fight in congress over the new farm bill that Thomas and other senior members were not too pleased over the manner in which Anderson, a freshman senator serving his first year, moved into the battle and undertook to manage the legislation. Though Anderson was a former secretary of agriculture and a former member of the house of representatives, and is conceded to be one of the foremost authorities in congress on farm questions, he is still a "freshman" to his senate colleagues.

Thomas, incidentally, does not plan to return to the United States until early December. This means that the committee will not be able to do any work of consequence during the recess between sessions.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

BANTAM BIOGRAPHY

He's dead now, so the story can be told. His name was Jack Mehler, and I first met him back in the 20's when it was fashionable to be shifty—when, to hear the Broadway boys tell it, only a sucker gave a sucker an even break. At the time, Mehler was working for Billboard, the show business weekly, and his take-home pay was barely enough to keep him in calories and cigarettes.

When I met him again a few months later, he was wearing custom-built shoes and riding around in a Stutz Bearcat.

"Tell Papa everything," I said.

"It's an innocent enough swindle," said Mehler. "The film companies, as you know, are currently paying crazy prices for stage plays, and breaking their necks to get a line on all contemplated productions. Well, on the strength of my connection with Billboard, I've been selling them synopses of unproduced plays for $20 apiece, and turning out about five a week."

"That doesn't explain the Stutz," I said.

"If you must know," said Mehler, "I recently decided to cash in on the phony secrecy concerning these synopses and sell the same one to each of the seven studios. And at the rate of five a week I've been clearing seven hundred smackers every seven days."

The following year I met Mehler coming out of the Silver Slipper Club, and this time he was sporting a mink-lined overcoat.

"How's the swindle coming along?" I asked.

"I'm now making up my own plots," said Jack. "I got fed up with the quality of the stuff I was summarizing and, besides, I figured that if I wrote them myself the supply would never run out and I could sell as much as the market would absorb. I'm turning out two plots a day, dividing them into three acts and synopsizing them."

"Any complaints?"

"Not a one," said Jack, "although the other day I almost got caught with my adjectives down. A story editor phoned and told me his company was interested in 'The Wife of Judas' and wanted to know where he could get hold of Joel Howard, the author. Quick like a train, I told him 'Joel Howard' was a pseudonym. I said the author was out of town and I'd get him the script in a few days.

"Then I dug up a young playwright I know and offered to split with him if he would bang out a play based on my synopsis. Which he did, and last week we cut up $8,000."

Well, what with this and with that, it was 10 years before I met Mehler again. He was now a talent scout for M.-G.-M., and when I asked him how come he had gone straight, he said he had realized he was writing on thin ice, and it was only a question of time before he fell through. However, as sort of a grand finale to his literary career, he had sold all his synopses—a thousand of them—to a well-known and well-heeled hack for a flat price of $5 per each.

Last year, as Mehler was getting ready to produce a play on his own, he suffered a cerebral hemorrhage, and died three days later in the hospital at City Island. None of the stardust stalwarts he had introduced to the screen knew about it. Chances are, few would have cared if they had known.

Jack Mehler was an amusing and talented guy, and if this bantam biography makes him out to be something of a sharpshooter, you must remember that on Broadway that's neither here, there nor relevant.

OUR CHILDREN

EDUCATION FOR LIFE

Many parents, believing that a good education will fit their children for a happy useful life, have, at great cost to themselves, sent their children to college. When these children are graduated and return to their homes the father and mother are often startled by the attitude of their children, who seem to think they have all the wisdom and their parents all the ignorance in the important affairs of life, such as marriage, housekeeping, saving and spending, and the practical application of knowledge to life situations.

"My daughter tells me that my ideas are all out of fashion, outdated and unworkable. She is engaged to be married but she does not know how to take care of herself during a pregnancy, how to care for a baby, how to cook a meal or manage a house, nor what a dollar means in earning and spending. Can you give me a book that will inform me as to how I can best help my daughter?"

The life of an experienced, able mother such as this one is all the book that is required. She has all the knowledge worth while. What she needs to do first is to find a way to reach her daughter and convince her that now she needs to go to shcool to her mother.

"But I am not going to live as my mother has lived. I am going to live in a small city apartment and everything will be so different that anything my mother could tell me would not be applicable."

Indeed. Whether the newly-established family is going to live in a farmhouse or in one and one-half rooms, they are both going to need to know the first principles of a happy marriage. The experienced mother who has successfully reared a young woman to marriage age has the knowledge her daughter needs to carry on a household, a family and a husband. She needs to know how to manage a man and keep him healthy and happy and ambitious. She needs to know what equipment her home will require. She must know how to buy a meal and to cook and serve it; how to use and conserve money, clothes and goods. She needs to get her hands into the job and her mind behind her hands. A course of work, of practical application of knowledge, under her mother's supervision, would be of the greatest value to her for the years to come.

Young people who have spent their years in school and college with little time left for practical experience in living, need what father and mother have to give. The children know some things their parents do not know, but their parents have a knowledge of life gained first hand, that their children must acquire painfully. They could

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK—Recently I inquired as to what had happened to several persons who had flashed into the news and out as quickly as that.

One was Joe Lockard, who detected the Jap air fleet converging upon defenceless Pearl Harbor, reported to his superiors, and was shushed.

Joe was a Paul Revere who didn't get half way to Concord.

He was stopped by brass, while the original Revere and his descendants all got their start in brass and silver.

"Mr. President, the navy is ready!" said our then Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, even as Joe was hearing the distant whirr of the enemy planes,

By the time Mr. President read the words, the navy, without even having steam up, was at the bottom of the sea, at great expense.

Well, fortunately for Joe, the brass was too busy to court-martial him for hearing the planes and giving the warning.

He is now a foreman or something like that in the Pennsylvania railroad shops at Jersey Shore, Pa.

The information comes from Mrs. A. D. McNett, Columbia Cross Roads, Pa., whose father was a first cousin of Joe's grandmother.

Mrs. McNett, visiting her mother in Williamsport, Pa., recently called Joe's home, and had the latest news about Joe and his job.

I am not informed, however, as to whether Joe has, besides his job, a wife, children, a dog or a cat. These items I always wonder about when I hear about some person in whom I am interested.

Joe's family should be proud of him. He did his duty.

It was not his fault, but that of his so-called superiors, clear up to his C-in-C, that the fleet went down.

But Frank B. Hazard, Jacksonville, wonders whether schoolboys still dip the ends of the girls' pigtails in ink and watch for the pattern made by the whooshing of the pigtails.

He also wonders whether I might not get rich by buying up those sidecombs I recently saw in a lower Broadway store, at the marked price of 98 cents per gross, selling them to a government dogood agency, and thus getting them shipped abroad to deserving Yugoslavs or some other wards of our taxpayers.

Mighty good wondering, Mr. Hazard!

Higganun, Conn., seems to me such an interesting place name that I have saved the cover of the letter I have from there, to put in the collection of Daughter Pat.

Edith C. Willis writes from Higganun to assure me that she has been one of the steadiest of all readers of this column since 'way back into O. O. McIntyre's days.

Explorer Osa Johnson writes that she is about to do a weekly newspaper feature, mostly about Africa. There is a tremendous growth of interest in that continent, and thousands of Americans want to spend their next vacations there. Wouldn't mind it myself.

White Sands, N. M., where my son-the summer, is in an area of drifting in-law, Dan Schadle, worked during the summer, is in an area of drifting dunes of sand as white as refined sugar. The sand is pulverized gypsum. Mice, lizards and spiders in the desert here are white; interesting examples of protective coloring. This patch of sand covers 176,000 acres.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

THE DENFELD CASE

The great majority of editors appear to divide very equally in approving or condemning the president's removal of Admiral Denfeld as chief of naval operations. To one group it is a necessary assertion of civilian authority by the commander-in-chief to achieve harmony among the joint chiefs of staff. To the other it is a betrayal of promises by the administration and congress of no reprisals for testimony required by congress under provisions of the unification act. A small minority reserves opinion as to the wisdom of Denfeld's removal, but deplores the haste and abrupt manner thereof.

Atlanta (Georgia) Journal (Democrat): "President Truman's removal of Admiral Denfeld as the navy's top officer was in conformity with two sound principles. One is the principle, deeply intrenched in American history, of civilian control over the military. . . . The other is that, once a decision has been taken, subordinate officers are bound to support the decision to their best ability whatever their prior doubts as to the wisdom of the decision. . . . Admiral Denfeld's position was in defiance of a decision by the joint chiefs of staff, of which he was the naval member."

San Francisco (California) Chronicle (Independent-Republican): "The essential purpose of the house armed services committee inquiry was to further the understanding of the civilian authorities of government as to basic decisions made in the military establishment. This was an exercise of the civilian power of ultimate control of the military, in the constitutional tradition. . . . If those who disagree with . . . the executive branch . . . are going to be pilloried and blighted in their careers, that creates the . . . danger of frustrating the legislative branch in getting the facts."

Raleigh (North Carolina) News and Observer (Democrat): "There are loud outcries that Admiral Denfeld is being punished for 'speaking his mind' before a congressional committee. That is not the case. Admiral Denfeld went far beyond criticizing the way unification has worked. In effect, he joined other navy men in taking the position that unification is wrong and should be abandoned or nullified to the extent of giving the navy a power of veto over anything affecting the navy. . . . His demotion was inevitable if unification is to succeed and unification must succeed."

Cincinnati (Ohio) Times-Star (Republican): "When Admiral Denfeld was called before the house armed services committee to testify, he was assured by Chairman Vinson that he could speak freely without fear of retaliation. Later Secretary of Defense Johnson gave a specific pledge that there would be no reprisals against witnesses before the committee. . . . The authority of congress to conduct inquiries as part of its law-making power has been publicly flouted. . . . A solution of the serious navy-air force controversy called for statesmanship."

Dayton (Ohio) Daily News (Independent-Democrat): "A nation's armed forces cannot be run on the town meeting plan. Criticism . . . will be suppressed only at the cost of a deadening of initiative and a compounding of mistaken decisions. But criticism must be limited to well-defined channels. Absolute freedom to carry a fight over the heads of superiors to congress, to the newspapers and to the general public would end in chaos."

Columbus (Ohio) Evening Dispatch (Independent): "In the unification law any secretary of a military department or any member of the joint chiefs of staff . . . cannot be prevented from 'presenting to the congress, on his own initiative, after first so informing the secretary of defense, any recommendation relating to the department of defense that he may deem proper.' . . So lightly, apparently, does the president regard the laws of this country that he has kicked Admiral Denfeld out of office for doing precisely what he may properly do under the law."

Nashville (Tennessee) Tennessean (Democrat): "The charge will be made that this is a reprisal of the kind that was ruled out by the house armed services committee. . . . But the prevailing opinion has been that the admiral had curtailed his further usefulness in the important role to which he had been assigned. His challenge to the defense leadership and the unification program could hardly have been left unanswered."

El Paso (Texas) Times (Democrat): "There is room to wonder about the wisdom of such drastic action shortly after the house armed services committee had asked the president to take another good look at the unification set-up. . . . Admiral Denfeld may have been too outspoken. Nevertheless . . . it seems that we must have differences of opinion among men in high places in our armed services. . . . The unification program may need sharp criticism such as that given by Denfeld."

William E. Gilroy, D. D.:

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Beneath and above everything that the Hebrew prophets thought, said, and wrote, was their conception of God, and their faith in Him.

God was not for them an abstraction, nor even an object of worship, distinguishable from the idols their idolatrous neighbors worshipped, only because He had life and intelligence. It was the righteous and holy nature of the life of God in which their vision and their faith centered. The living God was the creator and upholder of the universe.

His laws guided the planets in their course. The heavens declared His glory, and the firmament showed His handiwork. Integrity was in the laws that governed His world.

And, corresponding to that integrity of th elaws governing the world was the moral law of God for the souls of men, and for the governing of their relation with one another. These prophets were as sure of the moral law, of the spiritual nature of man, and of the laws of the world of the spirit, as they were of the sure faundations that they observed in the physical world.

With this conception of a holy God was that of a holy people—a people called and chosen of God, and responsive to His will and purpose. Why did they believe that God had chosen Israel? Was He not the God of other nations and peoples? One gets in the Old Testament some indications of belief in a tribal God, but these soon pass into belief in the God of the whole earth, of whom Job asked, would He not do right. The conception of a national religion in isolation passed before the vision that the later prophets had of Israel as a spiritual nation in which all the nations of the earth should be blessed.

With faith in God, and the worship of God, the prophets associated integrity of character, and righteousness in word and deed. God meant a standard of living, as well as an object of worship. "Be ye holy, for I am holy," was the word He spoke thorugh His prophets.

With that conception, faith, and vision. It was inevitable that the prophets should react as they did to sin in the individual life, and to evil in the national and social life. They saw tragedy in the refusal of the people to accept God's choice and call. They spoke in denunciation and in words of solemn warning. They made their indictment of evil most specific. Because they rebuked the nation they were charged with disloyalty, though their hearts burned with a patriotic zeal for Israel.

But their message was not all of denunciation and warning. In times of distress, when trouble had come, as in days of destruction and exile, their message was of hope and comfort. There was hope for a people repentant and seeking again the ways of truth and right that they had neglected. The prophets were spiritual physicians who were deeply concerned with prevention. But when the illness of sin assailed they were physicians of healing.

And the record is not all of darkness, and ruin, and tragedy. The light of Israel shone again in the exile in Babylon, and religion broke forth into joy and song, as the Psalms so gloriously testify.

C. C. Sheppard

Louisiana, indeed the entire South, lost one of its outstanding citizens in the death of C. C. Sheppard at Clarks Thursday. Mr. Sheppard was best known for his activities in the lumber industry and his work as a civic leader and a community builder was perhaps less publicized. But he threw every ounce of his seemingly unbounded energy into any project that he thought would advance his state and the nation.

Mr. Sheppard was a keen student of economics, not only in his own chosen field but as his country was affected as well. He was unalterably opposed to many wasteful bureaucratic practices of the federal government and his voice was heard throughout the nation, gently but firmly pointing out the fallacies of these practices. His views were invariably correct.

Mr. Sheppard came to Louisiana from Missouri in 1914 and became vice-president and general manager of the Forest Lumber Company of Oakdale and in 1918 he also assumed the presidency of the Louisiana Sawmill Company at Glenmora. In 1927, Mr. Sheppard moved to Northeast Louisiana and became president and general manager of the Louisiana Central Lumber Company, a position he held at his death. The vast expansion of this company throughout a wide area in Northeast and Central Louisiana is testimony to his business acumen and his executive ability.

Mr. Sheppard received many honors, both state, regional and national, during the last 20 years of his life. He was president of the Southern Pine Association, president of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association, president of the Southern Hardwood Producers, a director of the National Association of Manufacturers, director of the United States Chamber of Commerce, was a member of the lumberman's code authority of the NRA and also vice-president of the Louisiana Manufacturers' Association. He was a member of the state mineral board from 1937 until the time of his death, and rendered invaluable service to his state in this capacity, devoting a great deal of his time without compensation.

Mr. Sheppard was equally active in civic and fraternal affairs. He was a polished speaker and his talents in that direction led him to many parts of the country. He had appeared on Town Hall of the Air and several other national forums.

Mr. Sheppard's charming personality, his leadership and his counsel will be sorely missed, not only by his "home folks" here but by the entire state. His death came as a distinct shock to his hundreds of friends who join The Morning World in extending our sincere sympathies to his family.

Saving Criminals

An interesting experiment in criminology is being conducted in Florida, where a young man, charged with many violations of the law, has submitted to a brain operation in the hope it will put an end to criminal tendencies.

The young man seemed to be always acting under a compulsion to break the law, and asked permission of the court to sentence him for life as a habitual criminal to undergo the operation. Originated by Prof. Antonio Egas Montz, a famous surgeon of Lisbon, the plan has been widely discussed by medical scientists as a means of halting criminal tendencies.

Briefly, the operation consists of separating frontal brain segments, and is most delicate and tedious. Months will be required to discover how effective it will be, and during that period the patient must be confined and given careful treatment. It can be performed only with the full consent of the patient.

Students of criminology have long been puzzled by the problem of habitual offenders. Imprisonment has no effect in halting such crimes. The Florida young man was a chronic forger, who told the court he would rather be dead than continue a career of crime. The outcome of the experiment is awaited with great interest in medical circles.

Are You Interested?

Can you spare ten minutes time in which to consider the future of your country? Or are you a typical citizen, who has lost all interest in the nation's welfare, and has turned the job of administering the government over to a group of political self-seekers, who continue to put self over service?

To start with, you are reminded that deficit spending has returned. The federal government has gone in the red more than two billion dollars during the first four months of the fiscal year. The national debt is 253 billion dollars. Your share, and that of every man, woman and child in the nation, is $2,875.

Be honest with yourself. Can you name five men in high place in government in whom you have confidence they can bring the nation out of its present situation? Have you seen a single move by congress which would definitely relieve the burdened taxpayer?

Is there a statesman in the crowd capable of matching wits with those from other nations, and come off with the advantage on their side?

As an individual your government has put you in the hole nearly 3,000, and you will go deeper unless the people do something about it. You've heard this before? Of course you have. And you'll hear it again when payday comes. And you'll not be happy about it, either.

Recalling all the grand promises for postwar times, many a citizen is wondering how it happens that he is still driving his prewar car.

Burglars who stole a crate of corsets may be letting themselves in for a long stretch.

Thurman Sensing,

Director of Research, Southern States Industrial Council:

DOWN SOUTH

THE BETRAYAL OF LABOR

Union leaders, in their greed for power and jealousy of each other, will eventually betray organized labor. Whatever power for good is exercised by labor unions in behalf of the workers of the nation is well on the way to being completely wiped out, at least a great deal more than offset, by the hardships, the injustices, the cruelties brought to bear, not only upon union members themselves, but more importantly upon the citizens of the country at large, as a result of such strikes as the industry-wide coal and steel strikes.

The coal and steel industries are basic to the economic welfare of this nation. There is not only actual physical suffering by millions of innocent people when coal is not available in cold weather, but coal is necessary to keep the wheels of industry humming, and steel, of course, enters into the entire fabric of our industrial economy. These industries must be kept going, and those who would prevent it are not only traitors to their own cause but also to the nation at large.

The root of the trouble is that labor leaders want no curb on their power over their unions. That is why they wanted repeal of the Taft-Hartley act. In an attempt to deceive their union members, the cry of the labor leaders was made far and wide that this was a "slave labor law." As a matter of fact, the whole tenor of the Taft-Hartley act was to protect the rights of the individual labor union member from the dictatorship of his labor leaders, and sound-thinking union members knew it. Broken down into its component parts, the great majority of union members favor the individual provisions of the act. But too many members of labor unions listen to their leaders without thinking, and accept the labeling of the act at face value.

The people of the United States have always been very patient with strikes, even with such paralyzing strikes as those by the coal miners and the steel workers. That is because this nation is a nation of the people. That is because this nation, as a matter of fact, is a workingman's nation, regardless of the slurs of the Communists, and the Socialists, and the labor leaders, too, who would delude the world into believing it is run for and by the "barons of wealth," as Philip Murray of the C. I. O. charged the other day.

The workingman of the United States enjoys a higher standard of living than any workingman of any nation has ever known, a higher standard of living than is known to almost any class of people in the rest of the world today. This is due, and due only, to certain fundamental facts—that the United States is a government for all the people and not for any particular group of people; that the individual citizen of the United States is guaranteed certain inalienable rights that cannot be taken away from him, by his government or by his labor union or by anyone else; that under our government the individual has the incentive to exercise his initiative and his ingenuity in providing for the welfare of himself and his family, for his children and his children's children.

Because this is a government of, for, and by the people, however, does not mean that the leaders of the coal miners and the steel workers can indefinitely and at their whim impose their autocratic will upon the nation at large. In fact, it means just the opposite, because there is a point at which the patience of the nation will be exhausted and there are hardships which the people must not be called upon to endure.

If these labor leaders are themselves deluded into feeling that they are safe in their position, by the present administration or by any other administration that curries their favor in order to gain the votes they control, they should think again. This is not a nation that will allow for long any group—labor union members, industrial monopolies, or any other—to gain special economic privileges to the detriment of the general welfare.

In Washington With

BASCOM N. TIMMONS

The earliest and most clear-cut test of President Truman's Fair Deal will probably come in the Florida Democratic primary next May.

Senator Claude Pepper, veteran of 14 years in the senate will face the handsome Rep. George A. Smathers, of Miami.

Pepper has been championed the New Deal and its offspring, the Fair Deal, through thick and thin. He will pitch his re-election campaign to reach the "little people" in his state.

Smathers, during his three years in the house, has not necessarily aligned himself with anti-Fair Deal forces in the Democratic party, but his backing is definitely conservative.

Pepper has just guided through the senate the minimum wage bill and will wave it proudly in front of the voters during his campaign.

He took a similar issue to the people of Florida in 1938, when the wagehouse bill was bogged down in congress. His victory impressed congress sufficiently to un-bog the bill and send it to President Roosevelt for signature.

During the immediate pre-war years, Pepper was an administration bell-wether for aid to Britain and participation in the European conflict.

He got off the Truman reservation in 1948, flirting for a while with the Henry Wallace forces, and even offering himself as a nominee against Truman in the closing days of the Philadelphia Democratic convention. However, he's back with Harry now.

Smathers, at age 36, is about the age Pepper was when he came to the senate in 1936. He's handsome, suave and wealthy in his own right. The Junior League picked him last year as the man of the year.

Coming from Miami, where he is popular, he will have the advantage of the largest metropolitan vote in the state. But Miami also contains a large portion of the 50,000 Negro votes, who are expected to go to the polls next May. Incidentally, Pepper has allied himself to the Negro vote by supporting anti-poll tax legislation and advocating stronger rules against filibustering.

Smathers has the advantage of an excellent war record in the marines. Pepper's war record consists of service in the Students' army training corps at the University of Alabama in World War. I.

The two men are poles apart in background. Pepper is the son of a sharecropper, whose brilliant mind and tongue took him through Harvard law school with top grades. Smathers who lacks Pepper's oratorical ability but makes a dignified impression, comes from one of the foremost families in Florida.

When an overflow crowd poured into the National Press club the other day to hear a luncheon speech by Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey, the Indiana University professor who did the research on masculine sex well-dressed lady sitting at the head table.

The explanation came when distinguished guests were introduced. She is a Washington psychiatrist whose interest was scientific.

Some farm organization officials in Washington are wondering whether Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, chairman of the senate agriculture committee, just forgot or deliberately failed to appoint a special sub-committee before he rushed off to Europe right after congress adjourned.

The committee, authorized by the senate shortly before adjournment, was to make a comprehensive study of ways and means of increasing exports of surplus American farm products. One reason why Thomas may have deliberately delayed appointing the committee was the fact that Senator Clinton Anderson of New Mexico was the author of the resolution creating it, and under usual senate rules would be named chairman of the committee.

There were indications during the long fight in congress over the new farm bill that Thomas and other senior members were not too pleased over the manner in which Anderson, a freshman senator serving his first year, moved into the battle and undertook to manage the legislation. Though Anderson was a former secretary of agriculture and a former member of the house of representatives, and is conceded to be one of the foremost authorities in congress on farm questions, he is still a "freshman" to his senate colleagues.

Thomas, incidentally, does not plan to return to the United States until early December. This means that the committee will not be able to do any work of consequence during the recess between sessions.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

BANTAM BIOGRAPHY

He's dead now, so the story can be told. His name was Jack Mehler, and I first met him back in the 20's when it was fashionable to be shifty—when, to hear the Broadway boys tell it, only a sucker gave a sucker an even break. At the time, Mehler was working for Billboard, the show business weekly, and his take-home pay was barely enough to keep him in calories and cigarettes.

When I met him again a few months later, he was wearing custom-built shoes and riding around in a Stutz Bearcat.

"Tell Papa everything," I said.

"It's an innocent enough swindle," said Mehler. "The film companies, as you know, are currently paying crazy prices for stage plays, and breaking their necks to get a line on all contemplated productions. Well, on the strength of my connection with Billboard, I've been selling them synopses of unproduced plays for $20 apiece, and turning out about five a week."

"That doesn't explain the Stutz," I said.

"If you must know," said Mehler, "I recently decided to cash in on the phony secrecy concerning these synopses and sell the same one to each of the seven studios. And at the rate of five a week I've been clearing seven hundred smackers every seven days."

The following year I met Mehler coming out of the Silver Slipper Club, and this time he was sporting a mink-lined overcoat.

"How's the swindle coming along?" I asked.

"I'm now making up my own plots," said Jack. "I got fed up with the quality of the stuff I was summarizing and, besides, I figured that if I wrote them myself the supply would never run out and I could sell as much as the market would absorb. I'm turning out two plots a day, dividing them into three acts and synopsizing them."

"Any complaints?"

"Not a one," said Jack, "although the other day I almost got caught with my adjectives down. A story editor phoned and told me his company was interested in 'The Wife of Judas' and wanted to know where he could get hold of Joel Howard, the author. Quick like a train, I told him 'Joel Howard' was a pseudonym. I said the author was out of town and I'd get him the script in a few days.

"Then I dug up a young playwright I know and offered to split with him if he would bang out a play based on my synopsis. Which he did, and last week we cut up $8,000."

Well, what with this and with that, it was 10 years before I met Mehler again. He was now a talent scout for M.-G.-M., and when I asked him how come he had gone straight, he said h. had realized he was writing on thin ice, and it was only a question of time before he fell through. However, as sort of a grand finale to his literary career, he had sold all his synopses —a thousand of them—to a well-known and well-heeled hack for a flat price of $5 per each.

Last year, as Mehler was getting ready to produce a play on his own, he suffered a cerebral hemorrhage, and died three days later in the hospital at City Island. None of the stardust stalwarts he had introduced to the screen knew about it. Chances are, few would have cared if they had known.

Jack Mehler was an amusing and talented guy, and if this bantam biography makes him out to be something of a sharpshooter, you must remember that on Broadway that's neither here, there nor relevant.

OUR CHILDREN

EDUCATION FOR LIFE

Many parents, believing that a good education will fit their children for a happy useful life, have, at great cost to themselves, sent their children to college. When these children are graduated and return to their homes the father and mother are often startled by the attitude of their children, who seem to think they have all the wisdom and their parents all the ignorance in the important affairs of life, such as marriage, housekeeping, saving and spending, and the practical application of knowledge to life situations.

"My daughter tells me that my ideas are all out of fashion, outdated and unworkable. She is engaged to be married but she does not know how to take care of herself during a pregnancy, how to care for a baby, how to cook a meal or manage a house, nor what a dollar means in earning and spending. Can you give me a book that will inform me as to how I can best help my daughter?"

The life of an experienced, able mother such as this one is all the book that is required. She has all the knowledge worth while. What she needs to do first is to find a way to reach her daughter and convince her that now she needs to go to shcool to her mother.

"But I am not going to live as my mother has lived. I am going to live in a small city apartment and everything will be so different that anything my mother could tell me would not be applicable."

Indeed. Whether the newly-established family is going to live in a farmhouse or in one and one-half rooms, they are both going to need to know the first principles of a happy marriage. The experienced mother who has successfully reared a young woman to marriage age has the knowledge her daughter needs to carry on a household, a family and a husband. She needs to know how to manage a man and keep him healthy and happy and ambitious. She needs to know what equipment her home will require. She must know how to buy a meal and to cook and serve it; how to use and conserve money, clothes and goods. She needs to get her hands into the job and her mind behind her hands. A course of work, of practical application of knowledge, under her mother's supervision, would be of the greatest value to her for the years to come.

Young people who have spent their years in school and college with little time left for practical experience in living, need what father and mother have to give. The children know some things their parents do not know, but their parents have a knowledge of life gained first hand, that their children must acquire painfully. They could

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK—Recently I inquired as to what had happened to several persons who had flashed into the news and out as quickly as that.

One was Joe Lockard, who detected the Jap air fleet converging upon defenceless Pearl Harbor, reported to his superiors, and was shushed.

Joe was a Paul Revere who didn't get half way to Concord.

He was stopped by brass, while the original Revere and his descendants all got their start in brass and silver.

"Mr. President, the navy is ready!" said our then Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, even as Joe was hearing the distant whirr of the enemy planes.

By the time Mr. President read the words, the navy, without even having steam up, was at the bottom of the sea, at great expense.

Well, fortunately for Joe, the brass was too busy to court-martial him for hearing the planes and giving the warning.

He is now a foreman or something like that in the Pennsylvania railroad shops at Jersey Shore, Pa.

The information comes from Mrs. A. D. McNett, Columbia Cross Roads, Pa., whose father was a first cousin of Joe's grandmother.

Mrs. McNett, visiting her mother in Williamsport, Pa., recently called Joe's home, and had the latest news about Joe and his job.

I am not informed, however, as to whether Joe has, besides his job, a wife, children, a dog or a cat. These items I always wonder about when I hear about some person in whom I am interested.

Joe's family should be proud of him. He did h' duty.

It was not his fault, but that of his so-called superiors, clear up to his C-in-C, that the fleet went down.

But Frank B. Hazard, Jacksonville, wonders whether schoolboys still dip the ends of the girls' pigtails in ink and watch for the pattern made by the whooshing of the pigtails.

He also wonders whether I might not get rich by buying up those side-combs I recently saw in a lower Broadway store, at the marked price of 98 cents per gross, selling them to a government dogood agency, and thus getting them shipped abroad to deserving Yugoslavs or some other wards of our taxpayers.

Mighty good wondering, Mr. Hazard!

Higganun, Conn., seems to me such an interesting place name that I have saved the cover of the letter I have from there, to put in the collection of Daughter Pat.

Edith C. Willis writes from Higganun to assure me that she has been one of the steadiest of all readers of this column since 'way back into O. O. McIntyre's days.

Explorer Osa Johnson writes that she is about to do a weekly newspaper feature, mostly about Africa. There is a tremendous growth of interest in that continent, and thousands of Americans want to spend their next vacations there. Wouldn't mind it myself.

White Sands, N. M., where my son the summer, is in an area of drifting in-law, Dan Schadle, worked during the summer, is in an area of drifting dunes of sand as white as refined sugar. The sand is pulverized gypsum. Mice, lizards and spiders in the desert here are white; interesting examples of protective coloring. This patch of sand covers 176,000 acres.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

THE DENFELD CASE

The great majority of editors appear to divide very equally in approving or condemning the president's removal of Admiral Denfeld as chief of naval operations. To one group it is a necessary assertion of civilian authority by the commander-in-chief to achieve harmony among the joint chiefs of staff. To the other it is a betrayal of promises by the administration and congress of no reprisals for testimony required by congress under provisions of the unification act. A small minority reserves opinion as to the wisdom of Denfeld's removal, but deplores the haste and abrupt manner thereof.

Atlanta (Georgia) Journal (Democrat): "President Truman's removal of Admiral Denfeld as the navy's top officer was in conformity with two sound principles. One is the principle, deeply intrenched in American history, of civilian control over the military. . . . The other is that, once a decision has been taken, subordinate officers are bound to support the decision to their best ability whatever their prior doubts as to the wisdom of the decision. . . . Admiral Denfeld's position was in defiance of a decision by the joint chiefs of staff, of which he was the naval member."

San Francisco (California) Chronicle (Independent-Republican): "The essential purpose of the house armed services committee inquiry was to further the understanding of the civilian authorities of government as to basic decisions made in the military establishment. This was an exercise of the civilian power of ultimate control of the military, in the constitutional tradition. . . . If those who disagree with . . . the executive branch . . . are going to be pilloried and blighted in their careers, that creates the . . . danger of frustrating the legislative branch in getting the facts."

Raleigh (North Carolina) News and Observer (Democrat): "There are loud outcries that Admiral Denfeld is being punished for 'speaking his mind' before a congressional committee. That is not the case. Admiral Denfeld went far beyond criticizing the way unification has worked. In effect, he joined other navy men in taking the position that unification is wrong and should be abandoned or nullified to the extent of giving the navy a power of veto over anything affecting the navy. . . . His demotion was inevitable if unification is to succeed and unification must succeed."

Cincinnati (Ohio) Times-Star (Republican): "When Admiral Denfeld was called before the house armed services committee to testify, he was assured by Chairman Vinson that he could speak freely without fear of retaliation. Later Secretary of Defense Johnson gave a specific pledge that there would be no reprisals against witnesses before the committee. . . . The authority of congress to conduct inquiries as part of its law-making power has been publicly flouted. . . . A solution of the serious navy-air force controversy called for statesmanship."

Dayton (Ohio) Daily News (Independent-Democrat): "A nation's armed forces cannot be run on the town meeting plan. Criticism . . . will be suppressed only at the cost of a deadening of initiative and a compounding of mistaken decisions. But criticism must be limited to well-defined channels. Absolute freedom to carry a fight over the heads of superiors to congress, to the newspapers and to the general public would end in chaos."

Columbus (Ohio) Evening Dispatch (Independent): "In the unification law any secretary of a military department or any member of the joint chiefs of staff . . . cannot be prevented from 'presenting to the congress, on his own initiative, after first so informing the secretary of defense, any recommendation relating to the department of defense that he may deem proper.' . . So lightly, apparently, does the president regard the laws of this country that he has kicked Admiral Denfeld out of office for doing precisely what he may properly do under the law."

Nashville (Tennessee) Tennessean (Democrat): "The charge will be made that this is a reprisal of the kind that was ruled out by the house armed services committee. . . . But the prevailing opinion has been that the admiral had curtailed his further usefulness in the important role to which he had been assigned. His challenge to the defense leadership and the unification program could hardly have been left unanswered."

El Paso (Texas) Times (Democrat): "There is room to wonder about the wisdom of such drastic action shortly after the house armed services committee had asked the president to take another good look at the unification set-up. . . . Admiral Denfeld may have been too outspoken. Nevertheless . . . it seems that we must have differences of opinion among men in high places in our armed services. . . . The unification program may need sharp criticism such as that given by Denfeld."

William E. Gilroy, D. D.:

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Beneath and above everything that the Hebrew prophets thought, said, and wrote, was their conception of God, and their faith in Him.

God was not for them an abstraction, nor even an object of worship, distinguishable from the idols their idolatrous neighbors worshipped, only because He had life and intelligence. It was the righteous and holy nature of the life of God in which their vision and their faith centered. The living God was the creator and upholder of the universe.

His laws guided the planets in their course. The heavens declared His glory, and the firmament showed His handiwork. Integrity was in the laws that governed His world.

And, corresponding to that integrity of th elaws governing the world was the moral law of God for the souls of men, and for the governing of their relation with one another. These prophets were as sure of the moral law, of the spiritual nature of man, and of the laws of the world of the spirit, as they were of the sure faundations that they observed in the physical world.

With this conception of a holy God was that of a holy people—a people called and chosen of God, and responsive to His will and purpose. Why did they believe that God had chosen Israel? Was He not the God of other nations and peoples? One gets in the Old Testament some indications of belief in a tribal God, but these soon pass into belief in the God of the whole earth, of whom Job asked, would He not do right. The conception of a national religion in isolation passed before the vision that the later prophets had of Israel as a spiritual nation in which all the nations of the earth should be blessed.

With faith in God, and the worship of God, the prophets associated integrity of character, and righteousness in word and deed. God meant a standard of living, as well as an object of worship. "Be ye holy, for I am holy," was the word He spoke thorugh His prophets.

With that conception, faith, and vision. It was inevitable that the prophets should react as they did to sin in the individual life, and to evil in the national and social life. They saw tragedy in the refusal of the people to accept God's choice and call. They spoke in denunciation and in words of solemn warning. They made their indictment of evil most specific. Because they rebuked the nation they were charged with disloyalty, though their hearts burned with a patriotic zeal for Israel.

But their message was not all of denunciation and warning. In times of distress, when trouble had come, as in days of destruction and exile, their message was of hope and comfort. There was hope for a people repentant and seeking again the ways of truth and right that they had neglected. The prophets were spiritual physicians who were deeply concerned with prevention. But when the illness of sin assailed they were physicians of healing.

And the record is not all of darkness, and ruin, and tragedy. The light of Israel shone again in the exile in Babylon, and religion broke forth into joy and song, as the Psalms so gloriously testify.

In Hollywood With

JIMMIE FIDLER

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Despite publicity about Evelyn Keyes' datings with Actor Bob Neal, her real heart is a tennis professional at the Palm Springs Racquet Club. . . . I hear that Jeanette MacDonald is canceling her usual spring concert tour in order to star in a light opera on Broadway. . . . Congratulations to Roy Rogers, celebrating his birthday today at New York's Astor Hotel. . . . Famous Artist Salvador Dali has inked a deal to turn movie director and make a picture in Spain. . . . Time out for Radio Announcer Wendell Niles, recuperating from eye surgery.

Joe Louis, the ex-heavyweight king, is setting up shop as subdivider of a 20-acre residential tract in San Fernando Valley. . . . Look for Mischa Auer to altar-trek with Italian Model Ann Faello. . . . I'm told that Internal Revenue officers want to read the depositions in the Gladys O'Brien-Don Sylvio divorce case and compare the tax figures given to the government by the orcestra leader with his premarital statements to Margaret's mama. . . . Allan Jenkins and his fiancee, Nurse Lilian Kinkella, have called off wedding plans.

Friends of Deanna Durbin's insist that her next spouse will be her singing coach, Al Proctor. . . . If you've been anticipating fireworks in the Shirley Temple-John Agar suit, relax; they've signed a property settlement and her plea for divorce will be uncontested. . . . Richard Dix's twin sons, now 15, have an agent and are bidding for acting careers. . . . Ha! Ava Gardner summoned police three times the other night to rout a carload of teen-agers who repeatedly parked in front of her home and shouted for her to come outside.

PREVIEW NIGHTS: Pic of the week: Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Challenge to Lassie" (Edmund Gwenn-Donald Crisp-Geraldine Brooks). The best of all the "Lassie" pictures and a sure-fire audience favorite. . . . GOOD: M.-G.-M.'s "That Forsyte Woman" (Errol Flynn-Greer Garson-Walter Pidgeon-Robert Young). Book one of John Galsworthy's immortal "Forsyte Saga" comes to the screen as one of the year's most lavish productions but fails to capture the full interest of the novel despite superb performances by its cast. . . . R. K. O.'s "The Threat" (Michael O'Shea-Virginia Grey-Charles McGraw). Suspense drama guaranteed to cure that sleepy feeling. . . FAIR: Warner Brothers' "The Story of Seabiscuit" (Shirley Temple-Barry Fitzgerald-Lon McCallister). An in-the-groove race-horse drama, entertaining enough to please most fans—and corny enough to offend most critics. . . . LOOKING WEST: Republic's "The Golden Stallion." Roy Rogers and Dale Evans in their best offering to date. . . BEST PERFORMANCE: Greer Garson in "That Forsyte Woman."

In today's mail is a verse authored by one Cliff Walters of Greybull, Wyoming—and I think it deserves publication. It reads:

"Uncouth hero, movie-mugging,
Keep on scowling, snarling, slugging;
Demonstrate that you're a Tough Guy,
Smashing, slashing, some less gruff guy.
Meet the girl and promptly tame her,
Twist her arm and slap her, maim her;
Shake her, make her clean the mud off
Boots you wear, or kiss the blood off.
Swat and swagger, lordly vulture—
Teach the kiddies movie culture!"
Seems to me no comment is needed.

Once again an old Hollywood truism seems to be working out. Three major studios, I hear, are bidding heavy dough for the services of Jan Morgan, now that she's clicked on the Broadway stage. This same Jan Morgan spent five full years trying to get past the studio gatemen and never succeeded; no studio boss would throw so much as a glance in her direction. As far as show business is concerned, Chauncey Depew's famous advice should be reversed to read "Go EAST, young man."

Never before in the Hollywood years that I can remember were there so many Hallowe'en parties. Most of them, of course, were costume affairs at which the guests wore masks and tried to hide their identities until the witching hour of midnight. All of which leads up to the sage remark made by a hardpressed worker in one of our local costume concerns. Said he: "Knowing actors as I do, I think they'd be much more unrecognizable if they'd just lay aside the masks they wear whenever they appear in public."

I'm intrigued by a publicity dispatch just received from Republic which announces that they're having a lot of trouble on the picture, "Singing Guns," because Ella Raines' eyes keep changing color to match the backgrounds, and the opus is a color production. Seems to me that instead of complaining, Republic should be thanking its lucky stars that none of the backgrounds are plaid.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

PROOF AGAINST BIGOTRY

Bigotry is a hateful word. It represents blind hate, an unwillingness to recognize the inalienable right of an individual to the pattern of his own life.

In a political campaign, candidates often stoop to actions which they, as gentlemen, would ordinarily abhor. For instance, when Herbert Lehman, Democratic and Socialist candidate for United States senator in New York, calls John Foster Dulles, his Republican opposite, a bigot, he acts as he he would not in his own home, because he knows that the charge is a lie, and even more, he would have difficulty in explaining why his banking firm retained Mr. Dulle's law firm, if that firm is headed by a bigot. Such a charge is irresponsibility carried to an excess that only helps to establish the almost universal degeneration of our elective process. It ought to make all Americans, not only New Yorkers, wonder where we are heading for.

In this connection, I want to record an incident which completely disproves the charge of bigotry and establishes how loosely politicians talk. The following report was made to the Jewish war veterans by its then national commander, General Julius Klein, in reference to the Israel plank of the 1948 Republican platform. The proponents of the plank favorable to Israel felt that if the Republicans produced a wishy-washy one, the Democrats would do the same. The heart of the problem was the attitude of John Foster Dulles. Herewith the report of General Julius Klein, which came to me at the time from one who received it:

The night before the final session of the Resolutions Committee, it appeared that it would be necessary to obtain the support of Governor Dewey and John Foster Dulles, in order to win out against the state department clique. We met in the private office of Senator Taft in the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, and Mr. George Sokolsky, who was assisting us tirelessly in this fight, volunteered to contact Governor Dewey. He telephoned Paul Lockwood and Governor Dewey about three o'clock in the morning and explained our position and opposition to the (wishy-washy) plank, and the danger the Republican party would face by scuttling (Rabbi) Silver's plank. It was then arranged for Mr. Sokolsky to meet with Governor Dewey and Mr. Dulles in the morning. . . .

"Despite all the obstacles thrown in our way, final victory was achieved. . . ."

It was hardly necessary for me to discuss the question of Israel with John Fosteer Dulles. He, his brother, Allen Dulles, and Roger W. Straus had long before determined their attitude toward the establishment of Israel. They were wholeheartedly for it and when I called on Dulles shortly before the meeting of the Resolutions Committee, he said that he believed firmly in Israel and that there was no need to influence him in that direction.

Other men may, now that Israel is a success, claim that they did this and that; actually, so far as the Republican plank is concerned, credit must go to Senator Robert A. Taft and Governor Thomas E. Dewey, to John Foster Dulles and Austin Wood, publisher of West Virginia newspapers. These are the men who united on this particular plank and put it over.

I think that this is important, because whether one favors Israel or not, the attitude of John Foster Dulles at that time is a complete disproof of the charge of bigotry.

Another point needs to be made. Avery Dulles, son of John Foster Dulles, was converted to the Roman Catholic Church while a student at Harvard. After serving in the navy, he determined to become a priest and entered the society of Jesus, in whose seminary outside of Baltimore, Maryland, he is now studying. The story is now being spread, as part of the indecent charge of bigotry, that the father, John Foster Dulles, has denied his son because of the change of faith and that they do not see each other. I have investigated and can stigmatize those who spread this scandalous and inhuman gossip as liars.

The unsubstantiated charge of bigotry is not within the American traditions of fair play, of recognition of religious individuality.

The Nation Today

JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The present Russian Communist leaders have grown old in the belief that capitalism will and must, by its very nature, end in a heap of ruins.

But as time goes on President Truman preaches more and more optimism about the future of free enterprise and the future of this country. This shows up repeatedly in his speeches. It showed up twice this week.

Here in Washington on Wednesday he was talking about his "point four" for world recovery, his plan for helping backward areas develop. He said:

"If we can make a contribution in the know-how, and raise the standard of living just two per cent, in the rest of the world, our factories and our businesses never could catch up with the demand that would be on them.

"Just think of that. That's all we need to do. It is not beyond the bounds of possibility. There are resources in this great world that never have been touched."

Then Thursday night, speaking in St. Paul, he had more to say—and more specifically about free enterprise:

"We are concerned with expanding our economy and the opportunities of our people. We are concerned with increasing our agricultural and industrial production, and our standards of living.

"We have, in fact, a whole new world before us, the world of increased opportunity and wider freedom that our new technology and increasing abundance make possible.

"We must rely, as we have always relied, upon the spirit of initiative and free enterprise."

Then he added something: "We know that it is necessary for the government to follow policies that will make it possible for initiative and free enterprise to succeed."

With that statement he was making it clear he doesn't think that all that's necessary for enterprise to succeed is just to let it alone.

A completely free enterprise is one where the government never interferes and never helps.

In that sense, enterprise in this country has almost never been completely free, since the early tariff laws were aimed at helping American enterprise by protecting it from foreign competition.

As the years passed, the government stepped in in other ways: With its anti-trust laws against monopolies, its interstate commerce laws and regulations, its minimum wage laws to help workers, its help to farmers, and so on.

The big argument in this country has always been and still is: Just how much can the government step into American life and business without destroying free enterprise?

President Truman, in his St. Paul speech, said there can't be real progress unless the "benefits of our production are widely distributed among all citizens."

He listed a number of things he had in mind: Wider and better social security benefits, compulsory health insurance, federal aid to education, and other things.

He didn't actually list them under those names, but all of them were in his speech and all have been part of his program, expressed over and over again in the past.

The fact that he has met with opposition in congress on the points mentioned above—this last congress controlled by his own Democrats—shows how wide is the difference in American thinking on what free enterprise is and how free it should be, whether it involves the enterprise of an individual or a corporation.

It ranges all the way from those who want no government regulation or help of any kind, to those who agree that some federal controls and aid are needed, and those like President Truman who think the government should take a much more active role in American life, for, as he has expressed it, the "general welfare."

JACKSON LAUDS LUNCH PROGRAM

Takes Issue With Verret Who Proposes Rearrangement Of System

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 5.—(AP)—State Superintendent of Education S. M. Jackson, taking issue with State Rep. Jesse J. Verrett of Calcasieu parish, today called Louisiana's school lunch program "the best in the nation."

In Lake Charles today, Verret said he has written Gov. Earl K. Long urging a special legislative session to rearrange the program.

Governor Long was unavailable for comment, but his executive assistant, A. A. Fredericks, said Verret "is just looking for some free advertisement."

Commenting on Verret's suggestion that administration of the program should be taken out of the state department of education, Jackson said:

"Definitely not. Why, free school lunches are definitely part of the school program. And our free lunch program is the best in the nation. We're proud of it."

"Verret is just trying to get his name before the public," said Fredericks. "He's just looking for some free advertisement. He's going to run for public service commissioner, he told us the other day.

"His proposal is not thought out at all. It's shot through with impracticality. If he's having difficulties, he ought to fuss it out with the people down there and not come to us."

The Lake Charles report said Verret favors an increased appropriation or a limitation to "needy school children only" with tax reductions. It said he wants the program divorced from the state department of education and handled by a separate state agency.

Hal Boyle's

NOTEBOOK

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Everybody loves dogs—except cover girls.

Too many dogs are getting their faces on the front pages of magazines, thus cutting cover girls out of money.

In the foyer of a modeling school here is a billboard plastered with canine photos. It's a stern warning to the girls that if they don't keep their rates low and get to appointments on time—well, what should happen to a cover girl will happen to a dog. Rover will get their jobs.

The school, the pioneer in the field, is run by Grace Downs who has trained or found positions for some 25,000 models. It is a pleasant industry to be in, for the demand has always exceeded the supply.

"We still have more jobs than girls to fill them," said Miss Downs.

Grace, a smiling, cheerful woman in the blonde forties, was among the first professional cover girls.

"Some people are nice enough to say I was the very first," she said. "I started back in 1921, when most of the magazine covers were painted by famous artists.

"I don't believe there were more than 50 professional models then. Now there are thousands."

The growth of the modeling field paralleled the growth of the ready-to-wear industry, the greatest single employer of models.

"When I began," Grace recalled, "there were only a few ready-to-wear firms. Most women made their own clothes or bought them from dressmakers. When I was a young girl only people with a lot of money had coat hangers. The rest used hooks.

"At first they used us only to model hats. Then they got more daring and put us in clothes."

She got $10 for one of her first cover jobs—for a millinery magazine. Today clothing models make from $40 to $75 a week, and they can stay years longer in this specialty than the glamor lasses who pose only for magazine covers.

"But most of them go on to better jobs—as buyers, designers or even sales executives," said Grace.

The latest development is one to give the traveling salesmen gray hair—the models are becoming traveling saleswomen.

"I'm nothing but a clotheshorse," one girl complained to a manufacturer. "While I'm wearing your line, I might as well sell it."

He gave her the chance, and she proved she could do it. Now instead of accompanying traveling salesmen and merely serving as wooden mannequins, many girls go out alone. They both model and sell the garments.

"I don't know whether that's really good," laughed Miss Downs. "It's doing away with the salesmen. And, of course, they won't pay the model as much as they do a man—even though she's doing a double job. That's the penalty of being feminine.

A shapely figure or beautiful face isn't as important in clothes modeling as personality, she said.

"I'd reject a girl who lacked personality before I would one whose figure was out of proportion. It's easier to improve a figure than a personality."

Grace started her model agency in 1927, her school for models in 1931.

"Now I'm training the daughters of girls I started as models," she said, and added a bit grimly:

"That's hard to take."

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

One of the knotty problems likely to be encountered at next week's meeting of the American, French and British foreign secretaries in Paris revolves about Marshall Plan Chief Paul Hoffman's call for economic integration of Europe.

Hoffman sprang a sensation last Monday when he placed this sweeping proposal before the Paris council of 18 cabinet ministers which governs the organization of European economic cooperation. He declared he wanted nothing less than the abolition of trade quotas, exchange restrictions and tariffs.

He went further. He made it clear that it might be hard to get more funds from the United States congress unless the Marshall plan countries showed more willingness to join a single economic unit.

Sir Stafford Cripps, British chancellor of the exchequer, took mild issue with this proposal in addressing the council. He said Britain was trying to combine her responsibilities and intersets as a leading member of the sterling area and the British commonwealth, with support for the development of unity in Europe.

Cripps added that Britain couldn't integrate her economy into that of Europe in any way that would conflict with these other responsibilities.

Well, of course the British attitude set speculation going. The feeling among many observers in Washington is that London is far from entering wholeheartedly into any such sweeping program as Hoffman calls for. Some profess to see a policy of aloofness. In view of this I asked an authoritative British source to explain London's position.

What I got was mainly an amplification of Cripps' statement in Paris.

This source pointed out that Britain is a member of several political and economic communities, and not merely one. She not only is a world power but is a member of both the European community and the British commonwealth. Thus she has to reconcile her obligations in each of these capacities. She feels she can't undertake obligations in western Europe which would prevent her from keeping obligations elsewhere.

However, Britain doesn't intend to pursue a negative policy toward European unity. She feels that clear evidence of this is seen in the commitments which she already has made, among them being the Brussels treaty, the statute of the council of Europe and the Atlantic treaty.

This British source felt that London already had taken considerable risks to promote measures of cooperation, and is prepared to take more. The British government, it was added, will examine the new proposals sympathetically and will favor such economic integration as is in the general interest of European recovery and doesn't conflict with British obligations already existing.

The sum and substance of all this, I take it, is that the concrete proposals for economic integration of western Europe will have to be made before the specific British reservations will be known. The way matters now stand it seems plain that Britain intends to go cautiously in this matter.

Obviously we have here a situation which very easily could become explosive, especially since it is complicated by the problem of Germany's development.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Despite publicity about Evelyn Keyes' datings with Actor Bob Neal, her real heart is a tennis professional at the Palm Springs Racquet Club. . . . Friends of Deanna Durbin's insist that her next spouse will be her singing coach. Al Proctor. . . . If you've been anticipating fireworks in the Shirley Temple-John Agar suit, relax; they've signed a property settlement and her plea for divorce will be uncontested. . . . Richard Dix's twin sons, now 15, have an agent and are bidding for acting careers. . . . Ha! Ava Gardner summoned police three times the other night to rout a carload of teen-agers who repeatedly parked in front of her home and shouted for her to come outside.

The best of all the "Lassie" pictures and a sure-fire audience favorite. . . . GOOD: M.-G.-M.'s "That Forsyte Woman" (Errol Flynn-Greer Garson-Walter Pidgeon-Robert Young). Book one of John Galsworthy's immortal "Forsyte Saga" comes to the screen as one of the year's most lavish productions but fails to capture the full interest of the novel despite superb performances by its cast. . . . An in-the-groove race-horse drama, entertaining enough to please most fans—and corny enough to offend most critics. . . . LOOKING WEST: Republic's "The Golden Stallion." Roy Rogers and Dale Evans in their best offering to date. . . BEST PERFORMANCE: Greer Garson in "That Forsyte Woman."

In today's mail is a verse authored by one Cliff Walters of Greybull, Wyoming—and I think it deserves publication. It reads:

"Uncouth hero, movie-mugging,
Keep on scowling, snarling, slugging;
Demonstrate that you're a Tough Guy,
Smashing, slashing, some less gruff guy.
Meet the girl and promptly tame her,
Twist her arm and slap her, maim her;
Shake her, make her clean the mud off
Boots you wear, or kiss the blood off.
Swat and swagger, lordly vulture—
Teach the kiddies movie culture!"
Seems to me no comment is needed.

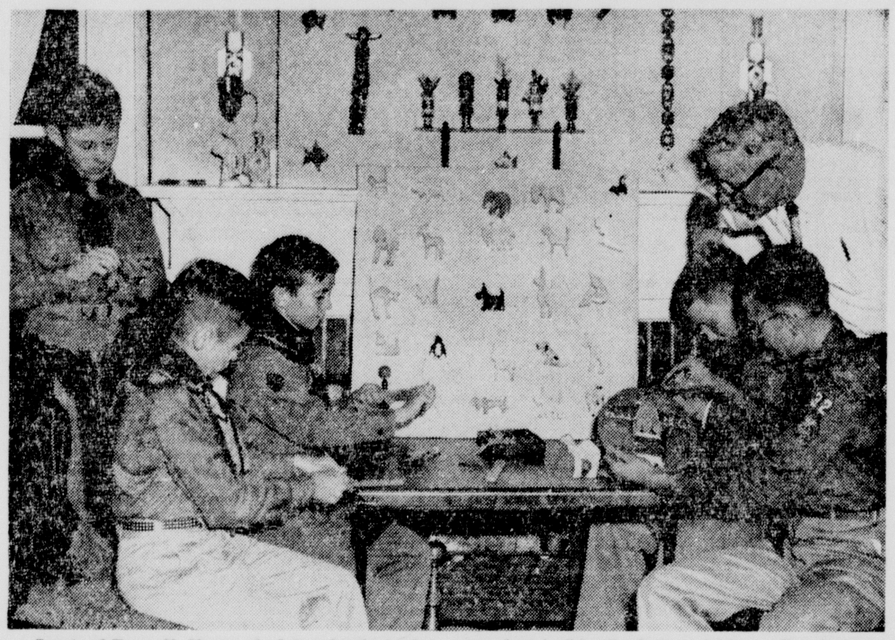

Once again an old Hollywood truism seems to be working out. Three major studios, I hear, are bidding heavy dough for the services of Jan Morgan, now that she's clicked on the Broadway stage. This same Jan Morgan spent five full years trying to get past the studio gatemen and never succeeded; no studio boss would throw so much as a glance in her direction. As far as show business is concerned, Chauncey Depew's famous advice should be reversed to read "Go EAST, young man."

Never before in the Hollywood years that I can remember were there so many Hallowe'en parties. Most of them, of course, were costume affairs at which the guests wore masks and tried to hide their identities until the witching hour of midnight. All of which leads up to the sage remark made by a hardpressed worker in one of our local costume concerns. Said he: "Knowing actors as I do, I think they'd be much more unrecognizable if they'd just lay aside the masks they wear whenever they appear in public."

I'm intrigued by a publicity dispatch just received from Republic which announces that they're having a lot of trouble on the picture, "Singing Guns," because Ella Raines' eyes keep changing color to match the backgrounds, and the opus is a color production. Seems to me that instead of complaining, Republic should be thanking its lucky stars that none of the backgrounds are plaid.

The Nation Today

JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The present Russian Communist leaders have grown old in the belief that capitalism will and must, by its very nature, end in a heap of ruins.

But as time goes on President Truman preaches more and more optimism about the future of free enterprise and the future of this country. This shows up repeatedly in his speeches. It showed up twice this week.

Here in Washington on Wednesday he was talking about his "point four" for world recovery, his plan for helping backward areas develop. He said:

"If we can make a contribution in the know-how, and raise the standard of living just two per cent, in the rest of the world, our factories and our businesses never could catch up with the demand that would be on them.

"Just think of that. That's all we need to do. It is not beyond the bounds of possibility. There are resources in this great world that never have been touched."

Then Thursday night, speaking in St. Paul, he had more to say—and more specifically about free enterprise:

"We are concerned with expanding our economy and the opportunities of our people. We are concerned with increasing our agricultural and industrial production, and our standards of living.

"We have, in fact, a whole new world before us, the world of increased opportunity and wider freedom that our new technology and increasing abundance make possible.

"We must rely, as we have always relied, upon the spirit of initiative and free enterprise."

Then he added something: "We know that it is necessary for the government to follow policies that will make it possible for initiative and free enterprise to succeed."

With that statement he was making it clear he doesn't think that all that's necessary for enterprise to succeed is just to let it alone.

A completely free enterprise is one where the government never interferes and never helps.

In that sense, enterprise in this country has almost never been completely free, since the early tariff laws were aimed at helping American enterprise by protecting it from foreign competition.

As the years passed, the government stepped in in other ways: With its anti-trust laws against monopolies, its interstate commerce laws and regulations, its minimum wage laws to help workers, its help to farmers, and so on.

The big argument in this country has always been and still is: Just how much can the government step into American life and business without destroying free enterprise?

President Truman, in his St. Paul speech, said there can't be real progress unless the "benefits of our production are widely distributed among all citizens."

He listed a number of things he had in mind: Wider and better social security benefits, compulsory health insurance, federal aid to education, and other things.

He didn't actually list them under those names, but all of them were in his speech and all have been part of his program, expressed over and over again in the past.

The fact that he has met with opposition in congress on the points mentioned above—this last congress controlled by his own Democrats—shows how wide is the difference in American thinking on what free enterprise is and how free it should be, whether it involves the enterprise of an individual or a corporation.

It ranges all the way from those who want no government regulation or help of any kind, to those who agree that some federal controls and aid are needed, and those like President Truman who think the government should take a much more active role in American life, for, as he has expressed it, the "general welfare."

JACKSON LAUDS LUNCH PROGRAM

Takes Issue With Verret Who Proposes Rearrangement Of System

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 5.—(AP)—State Superintendent of Education S. M. Jackson, taking issue with State Rep. Jesse J. Verrett of Calcasieu parish, today called Louisiana's school lunch program "the best in the nation."

In Lake Charles today, Verret said he has written Gov. Earl K. Long urging a special legislative session to rearrange the program.

Governor Long was unavailable for comment, but his executive assistant, A. A. Fredericks, said Verret "is just looking for some free advertisement."

Commenting on Verret's suggestion that administration of the program should be taken out of the state department of education, Jackson said:

"Definitely not. Why, free school lunches are definitely part of the school program. And our free lunch program is the best in the nation. We're proud of it."

"Verret is just trying to get his name before the public," said Fredericks. "He's just looking for some free advertisement. He's going to run for public service commissioner, he told us the other day.

"His proposal is not thought out at all. It's shot through with impracticality. If he's having difficulties, he ought to fuss it out with the people down there and not come to us."

The Lake Charles report said Verret favors an increased appropriation or a limitation to "needy school children only" with tax reductions. It said he wants the program divorced from the state department of education and handled by a separate state agency.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

PROOF AGAINST BIGOTRY

Bigotry is a hateful word. It represents blind hate, an unwillingness to recognize the inalienable right of an individual to the pattern of his own life.

In a political campaign, candidates often stoop to actions which they, as gentlemen, would ordinarily abhor. For instance, when Herbert Lehman, Democratic and Socialist candidate for United States senator in New York, calls John Foster Dulles, his Republican opposite, a bigot, he acts as he he would not in his own home, because he knows that the charge is a lie, and even more, he would have difficulty in explaining why his banking firm retained Mr. Dulle's law firm, if that firm is headed by a bigot. Such a charge is irresponsibility carried to an excess that only helps to establish the almost universal degeneration of our elective process. It ought to make all Americans, not only New Yorkers, wonder where we are heading for.

In this connection, I want to record an incident which completely disproves the charge of bigotry and establishes how loosely politicians talk. The following report was made to the Jewish war veterans by its then national commander, General Julius Klein, in reference to the Israel plank of the 1948 Republican platform. The proponents of the plank favorable to Israel felt that if the Republicans produced a wishy-washy one, the Democrats would do the same. The heart of the problem was the attitude of John Foster Dulles. Herewith the report of General Julius Klein, which came to me at the time from one who received it:

The night before the final session of the Resolutions Committee, it appeared that it would be necessary to obtain the support of Governor Dewey and John Foster Dulles, in order to win out against the state department clique. We met in the private office of Senator Taft in the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, and Mr. George Sokolsky, who was assisting us tirelessly in this fight, volunteered to contact Governor Dewey. He telephoned Paul Lockwood and Governor Dewey about three o'clock in the morning and explained our position and opposition to the (wishy-washy) plank, and the danger the Republican party would face by scuttling (Rabbi) Silver's plank. It was then arranged for Mr. plank. It was then arranged foor Mr. Sokolsky to meet with Governor Dewey and Mr. Dulles in the morning. . . .

"Despite all the obstacles thrown in our way, final victory was achieved. . . ."

It was hardly necessary for me to discuss the question of Israel with John Fosteer Dulles. He, his brother, Allen Dulles, and Roger W. Straus had long before determined their attitude toward the establishment of Israel. They were wholeheartedly for it and when I called on Dulles shortly before the meeting of the Resolutions Committee, he said that he believed firmly in Israel and that there was no need to influence him in that direction.

Other men may, now that Israel is a success, claim that they did this and that; actually, so far as the Republican plank is concerned, credit must go to Senator Robert A. Taft and Governor Thomas E. Dewey, to John Foster Dulles and Austin Wood, publisher of West Virginia newspapers. These are the men who united on this particular plank and put it over.

I think that this is important, because whether one favors Israel or not, the attitude of John Foster Dulles at that time is a complete disproof of the charge of bigotry.

Another point needs to be made. Avery Dulles, son of John Foster Dulles, was converted to the Roman Catholic Church while a student at Harvard. After serving in the navy, he determined to become a priest and entered the society of Jesus, in whose seminary outside of Baltimore, Maryland, he is now studying. The story is now being spread, as part of the indecent charge of bigotry, that the father, John Foster Dulles, has denied his son because of the change of faith and that they do not see each other. I have investigated and can stigmatize those who spread this scandalous and inhuman gossip as liars.

The unsubstantiated charge of bigotry is not within the American traditions of fair play, of recognition of religious individuality.

NOTEBOOK

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Everybody loves dogs—except cover girls.

Too many dogs are getting their faces on the front pages of magazines, thus cutting cover girls out of money.

In the foyer of a modeling school here is a billboard plastered with canine photos. It's a stern warning to the girls that if they don't keep their rates low and get to appointments on time—well, what should happen to a cover girl will happen to a dog. Rover will get their jobs.

The school, the pioneer in the field, is run by Grace Downs who has trained or found positions for some 25,000 models. It is a pleasant industry to be in, for the demand has always exceeded the supply.

"We still have more jobs than girls to fill them," said Miss Downs.

Grace, a smiling, cheerful woman in the blonde forties, was among the first professional cover girls.

"Some people are nice enough to say I was the very first," she said. "I started back in 1921, when most of the magazine covers were painted by famous artists.

"I don't believe there were more than 50 professional models then. Now there are thousands."

The growth of the modeling field paralleled the growth of the ready-to-wear industry, the greatest single employer of models.

"When I began," Grace recalled, "there were only a few ready-to-wear firms. Most women made their own clothes or bought them from dressmakers. When I was a young girl only people with a lot of money had coat hangers. The rest used hooks.

"At first they used us only to model hats. Then they got more daring and put us in clothes."

She got $10 for one of her first cover jobs—for a millinery magazine. Today clothing models make from $40 to $75 a week, and they can stay years longer in this specialty than the glamor lasses who pose only for magazine covers.

CATHOLICS SOUGHT POLITICAL CHANGE

Asked Czechs To Remove Powers To Virtually Outlaw Church

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Roman Catholic bishops disclosed today they have sought—without success—to get revision of government controls which they charged virtually outlaw the church.

In a memorandum handed to the government October 21, the churchmen asked for immediate changes in the control laws and the decrees putting them into effect on the grounds they put the church outside the legal pale.'

The government made no reply to the note, which was released to the western press for the first time today.

The law went into effect, on schedule, November 1 despite the protest. Under it, a cabinet ministry was formed to supervise church affairs. Priests and pastors became civil servants, paid by the state. All churchmen were required to swear an oath of allegiance to the Czech republic and the Communist-controlled peoples Democratic regime.

Ten bishops and the apostolic administrator signed the memorandum, which invoked Czechoslovakia's constitutional freedom of expression clause. Missing from it was the name of Archbishop Josef Beran, the Czech primate, who says he has been interned in his palace since June 19.

The bishops charged that the new law "ceases to respect the autonomy which until now was granted the church to direct independently, within the limits of the laws, matters of faith, morals, church service, discipline, religious education and membership in the church.'

It said the constitutionally-guaranteed freedom of religious activity was not insured.

"On the contrary," it went on, "the carrying out of religious conviction resulting from membership in the church is in danger of being made impossible or being violated on purely political grounds.'

The bishops specifically objected that the law:

1. Upsets internationally approved church-state agreements regarding church affairs.
2. Violates basic guarantees of church freedom under the Czech constitution.
3. Takes away the church right to appoint its own officials.
4. Deprives it of autonomy in internal matters.
5. Sets up a new feudal institution of state patronage.
6. Raises the fear that the churches clerical activity will be judged according to political standards, and thus ruled illegal or anti-state.

The memorandum ended by asking the government to "insure the Roman Catholic Church a firm legal standing and an equally independent activity in the internal matters of the church."

Last week, the bishops gave their priests permission to obey the provisions of the law in order to stay out of jail—a retreat from their former stand. They even told them to swear the oath of allegiance—with reservations. The bishops said they themselves, however, would not accept the government salaries they authorized the priests to accept.

About 300 priests had been jailed for their opposition to the laws, church sources have said. Subsequently, 127 were released.

CLUES MEAGER

ent he has no intention of calling on them, he added.

The inspector cleared a "suspicious man" who had made a telephone call from a nearby service station shortly before the child disappeared.

"We are satisfied he is not involved," said Dougherty.

He said the man, traced through his automobile registration, was a New York City resident who apparently was passing through Clayville en route to the adriondacks on a hunting trip.

"We have not talked with him, but expect to sometime today," Dougherty told a reporter.

He said he had been in touch with New York City police concerning the man.

Meanwhile, the missing child's father, Henry Komorek said "we have heard nothing." Komorek is a 34-year-old marine corps veteran.

Commenting on the possibility of a ransom snatch, Komorek said:

"We haven't got anything. I don't know why this could have been done."

Komorek said he earned about $70 a week as a machine operator in a Clayville paper mill until two weeks ago.

A spokesman for his employer said Komorek had earned about $100 a week through overtime work.

Komorek and his wife, 29, said they had no known enemies.

Mrs. Komorek told a reporter "the only possibility would be a money angle." She was quoted as saying they "had a new 1949 Pontiac and it had been rumored that we had money."

Inspector Dougherty said, however, he definitely did not think ransom was the motive in the child's disappearance.

He also said the possibility that it was an act by a sexual pervert was "out" because of the child's age.

Dougherty said about a half dozen leads had been run down with no result.

"We are running down several other angles," he commented. He declined to elaborate other than to say that among other things the police were checking on "new people in the town."

Asked if a revenge motive was likely, Dougherty replied "That's hard to say."

About 10 troopers of the state police substation at nearby New Hartford were combing the area around the Komorek home for the child, Dougherty said.

The baby, who had been suffering with colic, was to have been baptized tomorrow in the Roman Catholic Church at Clayville, a community of 700, about 11 miles south of Utica.

Mrs. Komorek said she had fed the baby shortly before 11 p. m. and had put him in his crib.

She told police she then lay down on a couch in the parlor to await her husband's return from work. He was on the 4 p. m. to midnight shift.

She said she left the kitchen door unlocked and a few minutes later she heard a rustling in the kitchen.

When no one responded to her question, "Who's there?" she investigated and said she saw a man running out with the child.

The Komorek's only other child, a seven-year-old son, was struck and killed by an automobile four years ago.

Communist Newsmen Before Italian Court

ROME, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Three Communist newsmen were brought to court in Rome today, charged with publishing a false report that United States marines staged landing exercises in Sicily last March.

The three defendants are from the Communist weekly, Vie Nuove (New Roads). Their trial was postponed at the request of the prosecutor, who said he was investigating the case of the Communist daily newspaper, L'Unita, which published a similar story 10 days after Vie Nuove's account appeared last March 16.

The charge sheet against the three defendants from Vie Nuove said the story "tended to disturb public order because it was cited as an act preparatory to war following Italy's approval of the Atlantic pact."

The defendants are the weekly's assistant publisher, Michele Pellicani, Writer Libero Bigiaretti and Cartoonist Aldo Molinari.

ing man at L. T. I. and was closely associated with Superintendent J. C. Gresham.

The former L. T. I. man said he was discharged because of lack of cooperation. Bagwell explained, "I could not cooperate with Superintendent Gresham because I could not cooperate with whiskey drinking and mistreatment of the boys."

Bagwell submitted the following statement to the press:

"I was discharged from Louisiana Training Institute purely because I went before the Ouachita parish grand jury during their recent investigation of the school and told the truth. It's the first time I have ever known of anybody being fired for telling the truth.

"As checking man at the training school for more than ten months, I repeatedly informed Superintendent J. C. Gresham of liquor drinking at the school along with mistreatment of the boys and many irregularities which needed correcting.

"Notification of my discharge came by action of the board of directors. The letter, signed by Ira Cagle, member of the board, stated merely that my services were no longer needed.

"When I inquired from Courtney Oliver, chairman, as to the reason for the discharge, he told me, 'it was just one of those things.' Later in his office Chairman Oliver, said it looked to him like I was fired for lack of cooperation.

"I agreed with Mr. Oliver and told him I could not cooperate with a superintendent who tolerated such things as Gresham did.

"It's time the mothers and fathers of the state rise up against the practices and conditions to which the L. T. I. boys are helplessly subjected.

"Several months ago, I would have left the institution had it not been for the request of my friends who insisted I stay on and help the boys in everyway possible.

"In my opinion, it would be more appropriate to have a house cleaning at L. T. I. before holding openhouse. It's not the outside but the inside that needs cleaning."

Conditions at the training school have been severely criticized in three grand jury reports. Three L. T. I. employes were indicted by the grand jury for "cruelty to juveniles" following a special investigation last month.

SCOUTS

lest anyone should go away unimpressed from lack of understanding.

It was a trying day for the scouts, and doubtless for the parents too.

At 11 o'clock yesterday morning, the scouts led by Parade Marshal Gerry Harrigill, and the Ouachita Parish High School Band, started at Pine street in West Monroe and paraded up DeSiard to North Fifth and Hall streets.

Special tribute should be given the parish school band for their cooperation. The band and students who were in Shreveport did not return to Monroe from the Byrd-Ouachita football game until early Saturday morning. Yet they were up to lead the parade at the designated time.

The exposition booths were built by the scouts and by members of the Monroe-West Monroe Jaycees.

Prizes were awarded for the most attractive booths, also on development, and spectator interest.

The judges were Mayor C. C. Bell, W. L. Howard, L. E. Mathis, A. B. Clarkson. Monroe Mayor George Breece could not assist in the judging because of illness.

The forty booths were rated in Classes A, B and C. Besides Monroe and West Monroe, scout executives from the following towns were rated: Wisner, Tallulah, Winnsboro, Hodge, Delhi, Ruston, Ferriday, Oak Ridge, Clarks.

The exposition was the first of its kind even in Monroe. The scouts, never at a loss for ingenuity, improvised their own games when showing off their wares became tiring. Cold drinks and sandwiches were fed constantly.

Jones B. Huskey, executive of the exposition, termed the affair a complete success."

Mrs. L. M. Brinson, an attractive mother of two said that she was glad that her sons were in the scouts, although they hadn't been in very long. She explained how it helped teach them responsibility and courtesy. She said, "they really do learn a lot and we are proud of them."

Classed in the A division were the following troops and packs with the name of their exhibit: Troop 54, Dairying; Troop 54, Dog Care; Troop 29, Electricity.

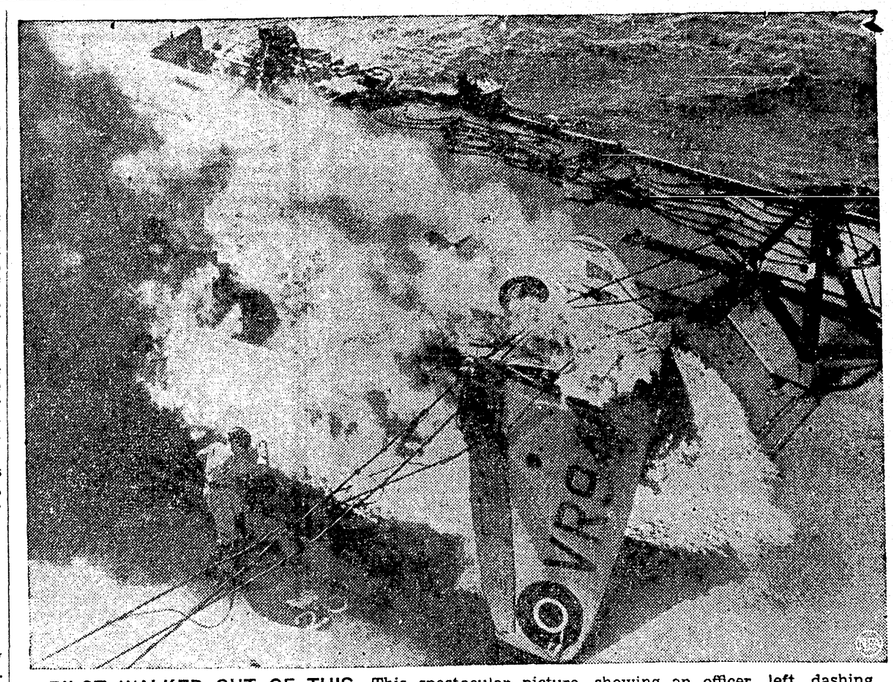

Troop 32 had three A winners with Stamp Collecting, Wood Carving and Forestry. Pack 1, Cub Den; Troop 35, Bee Keeping; Troop 44, Surveying; Troop 53, Firemanship; Troop 57, Indian Lore, Pack 13, Handicraft; Troop 17, Conservation; Pack 10, Games.

Also Troop 17, First Aid; Troop 28, Printing; Troop 34, Fingerprinting; Pack 31, Handicraft; Troop 53, Safety; Post 53, Safety and Pioneering; Troop 13, Cooking and Camp Ki-ro-li. Pack 12, Handicraft and Collections; Troop 26, Plumbing; Pack 34, Games; Pack 54, Cub Animals; Troop 21, Camping; Troop 67, Marksmanship; and Troop 90, Archery.

Class B: Troop 1, Signaling; Troop 31, Painting; Troop 53, Pathfinding; Troop 28, Bookbinding; Troop 57, Reptile Study.

Class C: Troop 57, Aviation; Troop 32, Chemistry; Troop 57, Wood Turning; Troop 31, Photography.

Jack Spaulding was chairman of the exposition.

NOTED EDUCATOR

emphasizing specificity. She spoke of a desire to teach Shakespearean drama without students knowing that the work was by the great writer. She would prefer to have them think of him just as an author who understood humanity.

The speaker emphasized the value of reading imaginatively. If experience is secured, the student must read creatively, else he will have to depend upon movies for reality.

Terms and forms are not be unduly emphasized, Dr. Hartley said. Definitions of figurative speech are insignificent in comparison with their results. Realization is primary in importance; scholarship or terminology is second.

Referring to the selection of books for the students to read, the speaker declared that the big consideration is what the book does for the student. Too often, she asserted, an artificial standard is established by requiring a particular list of titles, resulting in the impression, "I have read the right books."

Dr. Hartley also warned teachers in the use of chronological procedure in literature. This order should serve only as a background for experience gained by the student in his reading. Literature may be used successfully to show agricultural and industrial periods, reform eras or other movements, without holding steadfastly to the theory of dates.

"What we need is a general approach to literature," the speaker asserted. The danger is in its being listed as an elective study for the few who like it. The original concept of literature was a knowledge of specialization. "Literature is one of the most powerful media in school curricula," she concluded.

The program included vocal numbers by Miss Lola Hearn, N. J. C. student of Miss Gertrude Sandrock, who accompanied her in three selections. The ensemble from the Ouachita Parish High School gave a series of numbers under direction of Miss Ramona Cormier. The group included: Tom Spurlock, Don Trichel, Bob Clay, Billy Hines, Max Dillingham, Travis DeFreese, Dan Sullivan and Dick Frantom.

Miss Clio Allen of Natchitoches, president of the L. C. T. E., was in charge of Saturday's meeting. Welcoming guests to the N. J. C. campus was Dean Rodney Cline.

The local committee in charge of arrangements comprised: Mrs. Dorothy N. Younse, head of the N. J. C. department of languages, chairman, Miss Mary Hester of the Neville High School English department and Miss Mary Annie Wall of the O. P. H. S. English faculty.

a name that had been changed in 1921 to Louisiana Polytechnic Institute.

At their meeting in 1927, the alumni were handed a song of which both words and music were composed by Mr. Graham. He was the only member of the association to submit a composition. Presenting the song at this meeting of alumni were members of a quartet which included Miss Sallie Robison, a graduate of 1910, Mr. and Mrs. Poole Robison, graduates of 1904, and the composer, Mr. Graham.

The song was adopted by the association in 1927 and declared to be the official "Alma Mater" song of Louisiana Tech.

Asked how, in 1927, he could start the lyrics with the words, "O Tech, thy halls so beautiful," Mr. Graham explained that he was "looking to the future when the halls really would be beautiful."

Mr. Graham had the music published by Philip Werlein Company, of New Orleans, and copies were distributed to alumni.

The composer was born in Vienna, La., and attended elementary school there. He entered Louisiana Industrial Institute in 1895 and was graduated in 1900 at the age of 19. According to Mr. Graham, it was not unusual for students to graduate at an early age because the standards for entrance were not the same then as they are now.

He served as president of the alumni association in 1906 and as secretary-treasurer in 1908 and 1909. At present he is vice-president of the Ruston Bank and Trust Company.

Residents of the G. B. Cooley Sanatorium are enjoying greetings from all over the United States this week, in response to Don McNeil's request on the Breakfast Club program of October 31 for a "Sunshine Shower" for the patients of the sanatorium. To date, seventy-five cards and letters have been received, coming from every section of the country. Surely all our friends in Ouachita parish will be pleased that we have this nation-wide recognition, thanks to the person who brought us to the attention of Don McNeil and his listeners.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Masur, Jr., are now entertaining a new guest who arrived last Sunday and who is known as Louis Masur, III. His coming was quite a noteworthy event in the Masur household as he is the first male Masur to be born in the entire Masur family in 15 years. He has a sister, Lynn, three years old.

The addition to the family caused Papa Louis Masur considerable flustration as he was involved in "extra curricular work" at the time, being responsible for most of the publicity for the Kiwanis Minstrel show next Tuesday night. But he was able to take care of all his regular and new responsibilities with credit.

From down in Trout, La., an agent for the News-Star—World wants to sell Sunday Worlds but he also does not want to miss Sunday School. Accordingly he has written in to the office to please send him 75 Sunday papers on Saturday, so he will be free on Sunday to attend Sunday School. This chap certainly must be a fine fellow but how can he get Sunday papers delivered on a Saturday?

Two local women, lovers of children's brooks and of children, are opening a new business here, the Childrens' Book Shop, 1205 St. John drive, in the former old house of Miss Julia Wossman, now made over anew.

Mrs. Helen Abell is Miss Julia's partner and they are getting a collection of the best books for children, pre-kindergarten through high school ages. They plan a formal opening of the new business in conformity with National Book Week, November 13-19.

The women claim no past business experience but the project carries with it plenty of fun, declares Miss Julia.

JAP PEACE

ish Foreign Minister Bevin and French Foreign Minister Schuman in Paris next Wednesday.

While the three-cornered talks will be primarily on Germany and European unity, the foreign policy chiefs are expected to take a quick look at the Far Eastern situation. Schuman specifically has an interest in Indo-China.

Bevin and Acheson, however, have sweeping concerns which make them in effect the leaders of western power policy in the cold war in that part of the world. They took one major decision when they met in Washington in September. That was to go ahead urgently with work on a Japanese peace treaty and to try to get Russia to participate on a "reasonable" basis in a Japanese peace conference.

The state department thereupon abandoned all its old restraints and under Acheson's orders set out on a bold new course in dealing with this problem. It will consult with Britain and other smaller nations on provisions for the treaty and at some point will make a serious effort to get Russia to participate, but without a veto.

However, if the Russians won't go along or if any or all other nations decline to join in what American officials consider a reasonable treaty, the present thinking is that the United States should make the treaty with Japan anyway in the next year or so.

While there is no rigid timetable agreed to between Washington and London, it now appears that consultation with the British and probably other countries on treaty provisions may get under way before Christmas. Conceivably invitations to a peace conference could go out sometime in the spring and the conference actually be held in the summer.

American officials say they hope by then to have a clear understanding of the points of agreement and disagreement at least with Britain and the British commonwealth countries. They declare they have no intention of working out a hard and fast text with the British to be presented to other countries as something they would have to accept or reject pretty much without change.

Under the projected military base arrangement, American troops, planes and ships would remain at concentration points in the strategic Japanese islands. A period of possibly five or ten years would be specified, renewable if necessary.

In the view of the treaty planners, their continued presence in the islands would serve one primary and one secondary purpose.

Most important, informants said, Japan has no armed forces and under its constitution is forbidden to have any. American troops therefore would have the task of guarding the country against Communist attack from China or Korea.

Incidental to this the presence of American forces would, in the opinion of the planners, make unnecessary rigid post-occupation controls such as inspection by allied authorities of Japanese industry.

The presence of armed forces, plus the information normally gathered by diplomats, economic advisers and the like in an foreign capital would be relied upon to provide for detection and suppression of any serious peace treaty violation by the Japanese.

ALLOW HEARINGS ON PRO-COMMIES

Hear Charges Against Ten Unions And Nine Leaders At Convention

By Harold W. Ward

CLEVELAND, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The C. I. O. slowed down its purge of left-wing unions today to allow hearings on pro-Communist charges against ten unions and nine leaders.

The executive board, meeting to carry out the anti-leftist instructions of the convention which ended last night, set up committees to air the charges.

Between the convention and the board the C. I. O. now has gone this far in ridding itself of a "small but noisy clique" which President Philip Murray said was harrassing the C. I. O. by adhering to Communist party programs:

1. Expelled the United Electrical Workers and farm equipment workers, with about 470,000 members. It moved to grab off those members by creating a new right-wing union in the electric and radio field, under the guidance of rightist James B. Carey, and turned over farm equipment plant jurisdiction to Walter Reuther's auto workers.

2. Ruled that Ben Gold, head of the fur and leather workers, could not serve on the executive board because he admits to being a member of the Communist party.

3. Gave the nine other left-wing union heads nominated to the executive board a chance to be heard by three committees on charges of pro-Communism.

4. Paved the way for ouster of the ten unions, accused of following Communist party policies rather than those of the C. I. O.

5. Voted that the C. I. O.'s top 11 officers now will sign the anti-Communist affidavits required by the Taft-Hartley act—26 months after it went into effect—so that the C. I. O.'s industrial union councils can have access to the national labor relations board.

In order to accomplish those things, the convention amended its constitution, empowering the board to refuse to seat pro-Communists and to expel pro-Communist unions.

Legal technicalities involved in a wholesale house cleaning—including the possibility of widespread law suits against the C. I. O.—were believed to have slowed down the C. I. O.'s determination to rid itself of the leftists.

These are the individuals and unions on whom the hearings will be held in the next three months:

Joseph Selly and American communications association; Donald Henderson and food, tobacco and agricultural workers; J. F. Jurich and the fishermen and allied workers; Harry Bridges and the longshoremen's and warehousemen's union; John Clark and the mine, mill and smelter workers; Hugh Bryson and the marine cooks and stewards; Morris Pizer and the furniture workers; Abam Flaxer and the united public workers; James Durkin and the office and professional workers.

Gold's fur and leather workers also will be investigated, but he is not involved in the charges because Murray ruled him off the board automatically.

Bridges branded the charges against his longshoremen as "thoroughly phony."

He issued a statement saying the censure by the C. I. O. executive board officers "merely formalizes what is already a fact, namely, that the C. I. O. has become a dictatorship pure and simple, and a political dictatorship at that."

Bridges filed some charges of his own with the board. He accused two C. I. O. affiliates—the National Maritime Union and the American Radio Association—of violating established picket lines. He said in one case the lines had been set up by longshoremen.

The California labor leader charged the two unions with having acted "in a manner which is contrary to the best interests and principles of the trade union movement as well as the congress of industrial organizations."

Flaxer, president of the public workers, also struck back at the charges.

In a statement he denied he himself had ever taken "any position on policy in the C. I. O. which did not have the approval of my membership nor has the union at any time followed policies 'which promote the line of the Communist party, fascism or totalitarianism.'"

Flaxer then blasted the executive board's setting up of a trial committee as a "sham 'legal' gimmick to destroy democracy within the C. I. O."

He said trial committee members have already expressed their conviction on the convention floor and "there is not a single member of the executive board who could be impartial in this situation."

The three-month delay in the purge helps the C. I. O. right-wing faction to gird for the organization struggle which is certain to develop as the unions are thrown out.

Biggest war will be over the United Electrical Workers and Farm Equipment Workers. That will take all the resources and energy of Carey and his colleagues in the coming weeks.

The left-wing leadership of U. E. and F. E. were losing no time in striking back after their convention ouster. They had announced a merger even in advance of the move. U. E. sought an injunction in several key centers against Carey's use of the U. E. name, in an effort to halt the drive for rank and file members of U. E.

The left-wing administration of U. E. is headed by President Albert J. Fitzgerald, Secretary-Treasurer Julius Emspak, and Organization Director James J. Matles. The F. E. was headed by Grant Oakes of Chicago.

Charges brought before the board by President William Steinberg of the American Radio Association were that the nine leaders and ten unions consistently follow "policies and activities directed toward the achievement of the program or the purposes of the Communist party rather than the objectives and policies set forth in the constitution of the C. I. O.'

The committees created are:

To investigate Durkin, Selly, Flaxer and their unions, and fur and leather workers—Emil Rieve of the textile workers, chairman; Joseph A. Beirne of the communications workers, and Harry Sayre of the paper workers.

To investigate Pizer, Henderson and Clark, and their unions—Jacob Potofsky of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, chairman; Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer of the auto-workers, and Joseph Curran of the National Maritime Union.

To investigate Bridges, Jurich and Bryson, and their unions — C. A. Knight of the oil workers, chairman; James A. Fadling of the woodworkers, Joseph Fisher of the Utility workers.

Murray said the C. I. O. officers believed the anti-Communist affidavit requirement of the Taft-Hartley law to be unconstitutional, but they decided to comply for the benefit of those small unions directly under the officers control and not part of international unions.

The A. F. L. officers complied for similar reasons in October, 1947. John L. Lewis left the A. F. L. rather than join in that policy.

Today's decision by the C. I. O. leaves Lewis as the major right-wing holdout against the anti-Red oaths.

Deaths

MRS. LULA ALICE TRAVIS

The body of Mrs. Lula Alice Travis, 49, of Monroe, who died in a local sanitarium early Friday morning, was shipped by Hall Funeral Home to Cherokee, Okla. where funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon.

Survivors include two sons, F. C. and J. A. Travis of Monroe; one daughter, Mrs. Wilma Bodenheimer, Enid, Okla.; her mother, Mrs. Alice L. Page, Jet, Okla.; one brother, Bill Page, of Jet Okla.; one sister, Ora Clark, Bryon, Okla.; five grandchildren, two nieces and one nephew.

MRS. MARY CONNER

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Conner, 85, who died in a local hospital early yesterday morning, were conducted at the chapel of the Mulhearn Funeral Home at 4 p.m. yesterday with the Rev. C. S. Cadwallader, Jr., pastor of the College Place Baptist Church, officiating. The body was sent to Memphis, Tenn.

She is survived by a son, O. R. Conner, of Monroe; a great neice, Mrs. Reeves W. Hart, of Stanford, Conn., and three grandchildren, Mrs. J. L. Lloyd, of Belhaven, N. C.; Mrs. James Belvin, of Duram, N. C., and Major O. R. Conner, Jr., of Montgomery, Ala.

MRS. ROSE ELLA BARFIELD

WINNSBORO, La., Nov. 5.—(Special)—Funeral services for Mrs. Rose Ella Barfield, 72, who died Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock in a Monroe hospital, were held here this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the First National Funeral Home.

Services were conducted by the Rev. C. S. Wroten, Crowville minister, with the assistance of the Rev. C. W. Jones, Mangham. Interment followed in the old Winnsboro Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Phil Duncan, Elwyn Lyles, Edward Hixson, Dougal McCormick, Foster Jones, and W. M. Dean.

Two Men Charged After Seizing 7-Year-Old Girl

MARION, S. C., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Sheriff Leon Gasque has charged two Marion county men with assault with intent to ravish in connection with an all night ride with a seven-year-old school girl.

Gasque, declining to disclose where the men are being held, identified them yesterday as Jerome Alford, 30, a farmer, and Hugh Smith, 22, recently discharged from the navy, both of the Mullins area.

The girl was picked up by the two men as she alighted from a school bus Wednesday near her rural home, Gasque said.

She was released at a farm home Thursday morning by the men after their car bogged down in the mud on a lonely country road, the sheriff added. Physicians who examined the girl said she was not physically harmed.

Gasque said both men denied the charges. The maximum penalty under the charges is death.

The sheriff said the men probably woul dbe tried during the March term of general sessions court in Marion.

SENATORIAL VOTE TO COME TUESDAY

Dulles-Lehman Outcome Will Test Truman's Domestic Policies

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Herbert H. Lehman's battle to unseat Republican Sen. John Foster Dulles goes to New York state's 6,300,000 voters next Tuesday in a major test of President Truman's domestic policies.

The former governor, Democratic-Liberal candidate, and the veteran G. O. P. foreign affairs expert, running for a senate term that will last only a year, have staged a bitter, bruising fight.

The off-year election is the only one in the nation involving a senate seat this year. It has commanded attention throughout the country for clues it may provide to the public verdict on the Fair Deal row and in next year's congressional elections.

Mr. Truman himself took to the air tonight for Lehman with a broadcast from Washington.

The election also is of great importance to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, titular head of the Republican party.

Dewey appointed Dulles, his longtime friend and adviser, to the senate last July after the resignation of Sen. Robert F. Wagner, the veteran New Dealer. The governor has stumped every section of the state urging Dulles' election.

Lehman calls the governor "my second opponent." He has charged that Dewey is using Dulles as a stalking horse in a plan to run for governor again next year and then make another bid for the White House in 1952.

Sharing interest with the senate election in the state is a hot fight for the New York City mayoralty, sometimes described as the toughest public office in this country next to the presidency.

Mayor William O'Dwyer, Democrat, seeking a second term, has two foes; Newbold Morris, Republican-Liberal-Fusion nominee, and Rep. Vito Marcantonio, American Labor party.

Both sides predict victory in the senate fight. The Democrats claim a margin of 350,000. Republicans say Dulles will win by 250,000. There are many imponderables and many observers expect an exceedingly close election.

Three years ago, in the only election Lehman ever lost, he was beaten by 251,000 votes by Irving M. Ives, Republican, in a senate contest.

When Lehman and Dulles were nominated, few observers expected the sort of bare-knuckled slugging which has developed.

Lehman, 71, is a former Wall Street investment banker whose income once reportedly reached $2,000,000 a year. He served four years as lieutenant-governor under Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who once called him "my good right arm," then spent 10 years as governor after Roosevelt had moved from Albany to Washington.

Dulles, 61, was a senior partner in a top Wall Street law firm until his senate appointment. He is a prominent Presbyterian Church layman and has had long experience in foreign affairs.

Seeking election to public office for the first time, Dulles quickly launched into a vigorous campaign that has seen him make almost 200 speeches in all parts of the state.

Soon the epithets began to fly.

On their side, the Democrats said Dulles was a bigot, a "black reactionary," and a Wall Street lawyer who had espoused isolationism and appeasement before the war and who numbered many Nazi firms among his clients.

The senator denie dhe ever had worked for Nazis, just as Lehman denied he ever had accepted Communist support.

Lehman endorsed nearly all of the Fair Deal and said he was proud he had worked all his life for "welfare state" measures.

Dulles denounced what he called a trend toward an all-powerful state and said taxes could be lowered rather than raised.

Greek Sailors Win Their Fight Temporarily

BALTIMORE, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Three Greek seamen who had clung to its aftermast for 84 hours worked the stiffness from their joints today as the freighter Aristocratis prepared to set sail.

For the time being at least they had won their fight to escape repatriation to their native land. They fear they will be punished there for belonging to an outlawed Maritime union, OENO.

Exhausted and cramped from spending three and a half days on the yardwide crossarm of the mast, they ended their nautical sitdown strike yesterday.

A representative of the ship owners had tried unsuccessfully several times to convince them they should leave their perch.

Finally a union official, Secretary Hercules Arnaoutis of New York, forced his way aboard the ship and dashed up a 50-foot ladder to talk them down. After a short conversation, they followed him to the deck.

The shipping firm spokesman said the Aristocratis will sail at 5 p. m. (E. S. T., stopping at Philadelphia, then proceeding to Formosa.

Whether the vessel is scheduled to stop in Greece en route to Formosa or later was not disclosed.

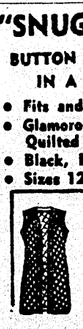

However, one of the mast-sitters, 30-year-old Sarantis Xanthopolus, declared he will fight any effort to repatriate him. His companions on the crossarm were Antonios Fafalios, 40, and Antonios Margaziotis, 49.

CATHOLICS SOUGHT POLITICAL CHANGE

Asked Czechs To Remove Powers To Virtually Outlaw Church

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Roman Catholic bishops disclosed today they have sought—without success—to get revision of government controls which they charged virtually outlaw the church.

In a memorandum handed to the government October 21, the churchmen asked for immediate changes in the control laws and the decrees putting them into effect on the grounds they put the church outside the legal pale.'

The government made no reply to the note, which was released to the western press for the first time today.

The law went into effect, on schedule, November 1 despite the protest. Under it, a cabinet ministry was formed to supervise church affairs. Priests and pastors became civil servants, paid by the state. All churchmen were required to swear an oath of allegiance to the Czech republic and the Communist-controlled peoples Democratic regime.

Ten bishops and the apostolic administrator signed the memorandum, which invoked Czechoslovakia's constitutional freedom of expression clause. Missing from it was the name of Archbishop Josef Beran, the Czech primate, who says he has been interned in his palace since June 19.

The bishops charged that the new law "ceases to respect the autonomy which until now was granted the church to direct independently, within the limits of the laws, matters of faith, morals, church service, discipline, religious education and membership in the church.'

It said the constitutionally-guaranteed freedom of religious activity was not insured.

"On the contrary," it went on, "the carrying out of religious conviction resulting from membership in the church is in danger of being made impossible or being violated on purely political grounds.'

The bishops specifically objected that the law:

1. Upsets internationally approved church-state agreements regarding church affairs.

2. Violates basic guarantees of church freedom under the Czech constitution.

3. Takes away the church right to appoint its own officials.

4. Deprives it of autonomy in internal matters.

5. Sets up a new feudal institution of state patronage.

6. Raises the fear that the churches clerical activity will be judged according to political standards, and thus ruled illegal or anti-state.

The memorandum ended by asking the government to "insure the Roman Catholic Church a firm legal standing and an equally independent activity in the internal matters of the church."

Last week, the bishops gave their priests permission to obey the provisions of the law in order to stay out of jail—a retreat from their former stand. They even told them to swear the oath of allegiance—with reservations. The bishops said they themselves, however, would not accept the government salaries they authorized the priests to accept.

About 300 priests had been jailed for their opposition to the laws, church sources have said. Subsequently, 127 were released.

CLUES MEAGER

ent he has no intention of calling on them, he added.

The inspector cleared a "suspicious man" who had made a telephone call from a nearby service station shortly before the child disappeared.

"We are satisfied he is not involved," said Dougherty.

He said the man, traced through his automobile registration, was a New York City resident who apparently was passing through Clayville en route to the adriondacks on a hunting trip.

"We have not talked with him, but expect to sometime today," Dougherty told a reporter.

He said he had been in touch with New York City police concerning the man.

Meanwhile, the missing child's father, Henry Komorek said "we have heard nothing." Komorek is a 34-year-old marine corps veteran.

Commenting on the possibility of a ransom snatch, Komorek said:

"We haven't got anything. I don't know why this could have been done."

Komorek said he earned about $70 a week as a machine operator in a Clayville paper mill until two weeks ago.

A spokesman for his employer said Komorek had earned about $100 a week through overtime work.

Komorek and his wife, 29, said they had no known enemies.

Mrs. Komorek told a reporter "the only possibility would be a money angle." She was quoted as saying they "had a new 1949 Pontiac and it had been rumored that we had money."

Inspector Dougherty said, however, he definitely did not think ransom was the motive in the child's disappearance.

He also said the possibility that it was an act by a sexual pervert was "out" because of the child's age.

Dougherty said about a half dozen leads had been run down with no result.

"We are running down several other angles," he commented. He declined to elaborate other than to say that among other things the police were checking on "new people in the town."

Asked if a revenge motive was likely, Dougherty replied "That's hard to say."

About 10 troopers of the state police substation at nearby New Hartford were combing the area around the Komorek home for the child, Dougherty said.

The baby, who had been suffering with colic, was to have been baptized tomorrow in the Roman Catholic Church at Clayville, a community of 700, about 11 miles south of Utica.

Mrs. Komorek said she had fed the baby shortly before 11 p. m. and had put him in his crib.

She told police she then lay down on a couch in the parlor to await her husband's return from work. He was on the 4 p. m. to midnight shift.

She said she left the kitchen door unlocked and a few minutes later she heard a rustling in the kitchen.

When no one responded to her question, "Who's there?" she investigated and said she saw a man running out with the child.

The Komorek's only other child, a seven-year-old son, was struck and killed by an automobile four years ago.

Communist Newsmen Before Italian Court

ROME, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Three Communist newsmen were brought to court in Rome today, charged with publishing a false report that United States marines staged landing exercises in Sicily last March.

The three defendants are from the Communist weekly, Vie Nuove (New Roads). Their trial was postponed at the request of the prosecutor, who said he was investigating the case of the Communist daily newspaper, L'Unita, which published a similar story 10 days after Vie Nuove's account appeared last March 16.

The charge sheet against the three defendants from Vie Nuove said the story "tended to disturb public order because it was cited as an act preparatory to war following Italy's approval of the Atlantic pact."

The defendants are the weekly's assistant publisher, Michele Pellicani, Writer Libero Bigiaretti and Cartoonist Aldo Molinari.

ing man at L. T. I. and was closely associated with Superintendent J. C. Gresham.

The former L. T. I. man said he was discharged because of lack of cooperation. Bagwell explained, "I could not cooperate with Superintendent Gresham because I could not cooperate with whiskey drinking and mistreatment of the boys."

Bagwell submitted the following statement to the press:

"I was discharged from Louisiana Training Institute purely because I went before the Ouachita parish grand jury during their recent investigation of the school and told the truth. It's the first time I have ever known of anybody being fired for telling the truth.

"As checking man at the training school for more than ten months, I repeatedly informed Superintendent J. C. Gresham of liquor drinking at the school along with mistreatment of the boys and many irregularities which needed correcting.

"Notification of my discharge came by action of the board of directors. The letter, signed by Ira Cagle, member of the board, stated merely that my services were no longer needed.

"When I inquired from Courtney Oliver, chairman, as to the reason for the discharge, he told me, 'it was just one of those things.' Later in his office Chairman Oliver, said it looked to him like I was fired for lack of cooperation.

"I agreed with Mr. Oliver and told him I could not cooperate with a superintendent who tolerated such things as Gresham did.

"It's time the mothers and fathers of the state rise up against the practices and conditions to which the L. T. I. boys are helplessly subjected.

"Several months ago, I would have left the institution had it not been for the request of my friends who insisted I stay on and help the boys in everyway possible.

"In my opinion, it would be more appropriate to have a house cleaning at L. T. I. before holding openhouse. It's not the outside but the inside that needs cleaning."

Conditions at the training school have been severely criticized in three grand jury reports. Three L. T. I. employes were indicted by the grand jury for "cruelty to juveniles" following a special investigation last month.

lest anyone should go away unimpressed from lack of understanding.

It was a trying day for the scouts, and doubtless for the parents too.

At 11 o'clock yesterday morning, the scouts led by Parade Marshal Gerry Harrigill, and the Ouachita Parish High School Band, started at Pine street in West Monroe and paraded up DeSiard to North Fifth and Hall streets.

Special tribute should be given the parish school band for their cooperation. The band and students who were in Shreveport did not return to Monroe from the Byrd-Ouachita football game until early Saturday morning. Yet they were up to lead the parade at the designated time.

The exposition booths were built by the scouts and by members of the Monroe-West Monroe Jaycees.

Prizes were awarded for the most attractive booths, also on development, and spectator interest.

The judges were Mayor C. C. Bell, W. L. Howard, L. E. Mathis, A. B. Clarkson. Monroe Mayor George Breece could not assist in the judging because of illness.

The forty booths were rated in Classes A, B and C. Besides Monroe and West Monroe, scout executives from the following towns were rated: Wisner, Tallulah, Winnsboro, Hodge, Delhi, Ruston, Ferriday, Oak Ridge, Clarks.

The exposition was the first of its kind even in Monroe. The scouts, never at a loss for ingenuity, improvised their own games when showing off their wares became tiring. Cold drinks and sandwiches were fed constantly.

Jones B. Huskey, executive of the exposition, termed the affair a complete success."

Mrs. L. M. Brinson, an attractive mother of two said that she was glad that her sons were in the scouts, although they hadn't been in very long. She explained how it helped teach them responsibility and courtesy. She said, "they really do learn a lot and we are proud of them."

Classed in the A division were the following troops and packs with the name of their exhibit: Troop 54, Dairying; Troop 54, Dog Care; Troop 29, Electricity.

Troop 32 had three A winners with Stamp Collecting, Wood Carving and Forestry. Pack 1, Cub Den; Troop 35, Bee Keeping; Troop 44, Surveying; Troop 53, Firemanship; Troop 57, Indian Lore. Pack 13, Handicraft; Troop 17, Conservation; Pack 10, Games.

Also Troop 17, First Aid; Troop 26, Printing; Troop 34, Fingerprinting; Pack 31, Handicraft; Troop 53, Safety; Post 53, Safety and Pioneering; Troop 13, Cooking and Camp Ki-ro-li. Pack 12, Handicraft and Collections; Troop 26, Plumbing; Pack 34, Games; Pack 54, Cub Animals; Troop 21, Camping; Troop 67, Marksmanship; and Troop 90, Archery.

Class B: Troop 1, Signaling; Troop 31, Painting; Troop 53, Pathfinding; Troop 28, Bookbinding; Troop 57, Reptile Study.

Class C: Troop 57, Aviation; Troop 32, Chemistry; Troop 57, Wood Turning; Troop 31, Photography.

Jack Spaulding was chairman of the exposition.

emphasizing specificity. She spoke of a desire to teach Shakespearean drama without students knowing that the work was by the great writer. She would prefer to have them think of him just as an author who understood humanity.

The speaker emphasized the value of reading imaginatively. If experience is secured, the student must read creatively, else he will have to depend upon movies for reality.

Terms and forms are not be unduly emphasized, Dr. Hartley said. Definitions of figurative speech are insignificent in comparison with their results. Realization is primary in importance; scholarship or terminology is second.

Referring to the selection of books for the students to read, the speaker declared that the big consideration is what the book does for the student. Too often, she asserted, an artificial standard is established by requiring a particular list of titles, resulting in the impression, "I have read the right books."

Dr. Hartley also warned teachers in the use of chronological procedure in literature. This order should serve only as a background for experience gained by the student in his reading. Literature may be used successfully to show agricultural and industrial periods, reform eras or other movements, without holding steadfastly to the theory of dates.

"What we need is a general approach to literature," the speaker asserted. The danger is in its being listed as an elective study for the few who like it. The original concept of literature was a knowledge of specialization. "Literature is one of the most powerful media in school curricula," she concluded.

The program included vocal numbers by Miss Lola Hearn, N. J. C. student of Miss Gertrude Sandrock, who accompanied her in three selections. The ensemble from the Ouachita Parish High School gave a series of numbers under direction of Miss Ramona Cormier. The group included: Tom Spurlock, Don Trichel, Bob Clay, Billy Hines, Max Dillingham, Travis DeFreese, Dan Sullivan and Dick Frantom.

Miss Clio Allen of Natchitoches, president of the L. C. T. E., was in charge of Saturday's meeting. Welcoming guests to the N. J. C. campus was Dean Rodney Cline.

The local committee in charge of arrangements comprised: Mrs. Dorothy N. Younse, head of the N. J. C. department of languages, chairman, Miss Mary Hester of the Neville High School English department and Miss Mary Annie Wall of the O. P. H. S. English faculty.

a name that had been changed in 1921 to Louisiana Polytechnic Institute.

At their meeting in 1927, the alumni were handed a song of which both words and music were composed by Mr. Graham. He was the only member of the association to submit a composition. Presenting the song at this meeting of alumni were members of a quartet which included Miss Sallie Robison, a graduate of 1910, Mr. and Mrs. Poole Robison, graduates of 1904, and the composer, Mr. Graham.

The song was adopted by the association in 1927 and declared to be the official "Alma Mater" song of Louisiana Tech.

Asked how, in 1927, he could start the lyrics with the words, "O Tech, thy halls so beautiful," Mr. Graham explained that he was "looking to the future when the halls really would be beautiful."

Mr. Graham had the music published by Philip Werlein Company, of New Orleans, and copies were distributed to alumni.

The composer was born in Vienna, La., and attended elementary school there. He entered Louisiana Industrial Institute in 1895 and was graduated in 1900 at the age of 19. According to Mr. Graham, it was not unusual for students to graduate at an early age because the standards for entrance were not the same then as they are now.

He served as president of the alumni association in 1906 and as secretary-treasurer in 1908 and 1909. At present he is vice-president of the Ruston Bank and Trust Company.

Residents of the G. B. Cooley Sanatorium are enjoying greetings from all over the United States this week, in response to Don McNeil's request on the Breakfast Club program of October 31 for a "Sunshine Shower" for the patients of the sanatorium. To date, seventy-five cards and letters have been received, coming from every section of the country. Surely all our friends in Ouachita parish will be pleased that we have this nation-wide recognition, thanks to the person who brought us to the attention of Don McNeil and his listeners.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Masur, Jr., are now entertaining a new guest who arrived last Sunday and who is known as Louis Masur, III. His coming was quite a noteworthy event in the Masur household as he is the first male Masur to be born in the entire Masur family in 15 years. He has a sister, Lynn, three years old.

The addition to the family caused Papa Louis Masur considerable flustration as he was involved in "extra curricular work" at the time, being responsible for most of the publicity for the Kiwanis Minstrel show next Tuesday night. But he was able to take care of all his regular and new responsibilities with credit.

From down in Trout, La., an agent for the News-Star—World wants to sell Sunday Worlds but he also does not want to miss Sunday School. Accordingly he has written in to the office to please send him 75 Sunday papers on Saturday, so he will be free on Sunday to attend Sunday School. This chap certainly must be a fine fellow but how can he get Sunday papers delivered on a Saturday?

Two local women, lovers of children's brooks and of children, are opening a new business here, the Childrens' Book Shop, 1205 St. John drive, in the former old house of Miss Julia Wossman, now made over anew.

Mrs. Helen Abell is Miss Julia's partner and they are getting a collection of the best books for children, pre-kindergarten through high school ages. They plan a formal opening of the new business in conformity with National Book Week, November 13-19.

The women claim no past business experience but the project carries with it plenty of fun, declares Miss Julia.

JAP PEACE

ish Foreign Minister Bevin and French Foreign Minister Schuman in Paris next Wednesday.

While the three-cornered talks will be primarily on Germany and European unity, the foreign policy chiefs are expected to take a quick look at the Far Eastern situation. Schuman specifically has an interest in Indo-China.

Bevin and Acheson, however, have sweeping concerns which make them in effect the leaders of western power policy in the cold war in that part of the world. They took one major decision when they met in Washington in September. That was to go ahead urgently with work on a Japanese peace treaty and to try to get Russia to participate on a "reasonable" basis in a Japanese peace conference.

The state department thereupon abandoned all its old restraints and under Acheson's orders set out on a bold new course in dealing with this problem. It will consult with Britain and other smaller nations on provisions for the treaty and at some point will make a serious effort to get Russia to participate, but without a veto.

However, if the Russians won't go along or if any or all other nations decline to join in what American officials consider a reasonable treaty, the present thinking is that the United States should make the treaty with Japan anyway in the next year or so.

While there is no rigid timetable agreed to between Washington and London, it now appears that consultation with the British and probably other countries on treaty provisions may get under way before Christmas. Conceivably invitations to a peace conference could go out sometime in the spring and the conference actually be held in the summer.

American officials say they hope by then to have a clear understanding of the points of agreement and disagreement at least with Britain and the British commonwealth countries. They declare they have no intention of working out a hard and fast text with the British to be presented to other countries as something they would have to accept or reject pretty much without change.

Under the projected military base arrangement, American troops, planes and ships would remain at concentration points in the strategic Japanese islands. A period of possibly five or ten years would be specified, renewable if necessary.

In the view of the treaty planners, their continued presence in the islands would serve one primary and one secondary purpose.

Most important, informants said, Japan has no armed forces and under its constitution is forbidden to have any. American troops therefore would have the task of guarding the country against Communist attack from China or Korea.

Incidental to this the presence of American forces would, in the opinion of the planners, make unnecessary rigid post-occupation controls such as inspection by allied authorities of Japanese industry.

The presence of armed forces, plus the information normally gathered by diplomats, economic advisers and the like in an foreign capital would be relied upon to provide for detection and suppression of any serious peace treaty violation by the Japanese.

ALLOW HEARINGS ON PRO-COMMIES

Hear Charges Against Ten Unions And Nine Leaders At Convention

By Harold W. Ward

CLEVELAND, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The C. I. O. slowed down its purge of left-wing unions today to allow hearings on pro-Communist charges against ten unions and nine leaders.

The executive board, meeting to carry out the anti-leftist instructions of the convention which ended last night, set up committees to air the charges.

Between the convention and the board the C. I. O. now has gone this far in ridding itself of a "small but noisy clique" which President Philip Murray said was harrassing the C. I. O. by adhering to Communist party programs.

1. Expelled the United Electrical Workers and farm equipment workers, with about 470,000 members. It moved to grab off those members by creating a new right-wing union in the electric and radio field, under the guidance of rightist James B. Carey, and turned over farm equipment plant jurisdiction to Walter Reuther's auto workers.

2. Ruled that Ben Gold, head of the fur and leather workers, could not serve on the executive board because he admits to being a member of the Communist party.

3. Gave the nine other left-wing union heads nominated to the executive board a chance to be heard by three committees on charges of pro-Communism.

4. Paved the way for ouster of the ten unions, accused of following Communist party policies rather than those of the C. I. O.

5. Voted that the C. I. O.'s top 11 officers now will sign the anti-Communist affidavits required by the Taft-Hartley act—26 months after it went into effect—so that the C. I. O.'s industrial union councils can have access to the national labor relations board.

In order to accomplish those things, the convention amended its constitution, empowering the board to refuse to seat pro-Communists and to expel pro-Communist unions.

Legal technicalities involved in a wholesale house cleaning—including the possibility of widespread law suits against the C. I. O.—were believed to have slowed down the C. I. O.'s determination to rid itself of the leftists.

These are the individuals and unions on whom the hearings will be held in the next three months:

Joseph Selly and American communications association; Donald Henderson and food, tobacco and agricultural workers; J. F. Jurich and the fishermen and allied workers; Harry Bridges and the longshoremen's and warehousemen's union; John Clark and the mine, mill and smelter workers; Hugh Bryson and the marine cooks and stewards; Morris Pizer and the furniture workers; Abam Flaxer and the united public workers; James Durkin and the office and professional workers.

Gold's fur and leather workers also will be investigated, but he is not involved in the charges because Murray ruled him off the board automatically.

Bridges branded the charges against his longshoremen as "thoroughly phony."

He issued a statement saying the censure by the C. I. O. executive board officers "merely formalizes what is already a fact, namely, that the C. I. O. has become a dictatorship pure and simple, and a political dictatorship at that."

Bridges filed some charges of his own with the board. He accused two C. I. O. affiliates—the National Maritime Union and the American Radio Association—of violating established picket lines. He said in one case the lines had been set up by longshoremen.

The California labor leader charged the two unions with having acted "in a manner which is contrary to the best interests and principles of the trade union movement as well as the congress of industrial organizations."

Flaxer, president of the public workers, also struck back at the charges.

In a statement he denied he himself had ever taken "any position on policy in the C. I. O. which did not have the approval of my membership nor has the union at any time followed policies 'which promote the line of the Communist party, fascism or totalitarianism.'"

Flaxer then blasted the executive board's setting up of a trial committee as a "sham 'legal' gimmick to destroy democracy within the C. I. O."

He said trial committee members have already expressed their conviction on the convention floor and "there is not a single member of the executive board who could be impartial in this situation."

The three-month delay in the purge helps the C. I. O. right-wing faction to gird for the organization struggle which is certain to develop as the unions are thrown out.

Biggest war will be over the United Electrical Workers and Farm Equipment Workers. That will take all the resources and energy of Carey and his colleagues in the coming weeks.

The left-wing leadership of U. E. and F. E. were losing no time in striking back after their convention ouster. They had announced a merger even in advance of the move. U. E. sought an injunction in several key centers against Carey's use of the U. E. name, in an effort to halt the drive for rank and file members of U. E.

The left-wing administration of U. E. is headed by President Albert J. Fitzgerald, Secretary-Treasurer Julius Emspak, and Organization Director James J. Matles. The F. E. was headed by Grant Oakes of Chicago.

Charges brought before the board by President William Steinberg of the American Radio Association were that the nine leaders and ten unions consistently follow "policies and activities directed toward the achievement of the program or the purposes of the Communist party rather than the objectives and policies set forth in the constitution of the C. I. O.'

The committees created are:

To investigate Durkin, Selly, Flaxer and their unions, and fur and leather workers—Emil Rieve of the textile workers, chairman; Joseph A. Beirne of the communications workers, and Harry Sayre of the paper workers.

To investigate Pizer, Henderson and Clark, and their unions—Jacob Potofsky of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, chairman; Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer of the auto-workers, and Joseph Curran of the National Maritime Union.

To investigate Bridges, Jurich and Bryson, and their unions — C. A. Knight of the oil workers, chairman; James A. Fadling of the woodworkers, Joseph Fisher of the Utility workers.

Murray said the C. I. O. officers believed the anti-Communist affidavit requirement of the Taft-Hartley law to be unconstitutional, but they decided to comply for the benefit of those small unions directly under the officers control and not part of international unions.

The A. F. L. officers complied for similar reasons in October, 1947. John L. Lewis left the A. F. L. rather than join in that policy.

Today's decision by the C. I. O. leaves Lewis as the major right-wing holdout against the anti-Red oaths.

Deaths

MRS. LULA ALICE TRAVIS

The body of Mrs. Lula Alice Travis, 49, of Monroe, who died in a local sanitarium early Friday morning, was shipped by Hall Funeral Home to Cherokee, Okla. where funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon.

Survivors include two sons, F. C. and J. A. Travis of Monroe; one daughter, Mrs. Wilma Bodenheimer, Enid, Okla.; her mother, Mrs. Alice L. Page, Jet, Okla.; one brother, Bill Page, of Jet Okla.; one sister, Ora Clark, Bryon, Okla.; five grandchildren, two nieces and one nephew.

MRS. MARY CONNER

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Conner, 85, who died in a local hospital early yesterday morning, were conducted at the chapel of the Mulhearn Funeral Home at 4 p.m. yesterday with the Rev. C. S. Cadwallader, Jr., pastor of the College Place Baptist Church, officiating. The body was sent to Memphis, Tenn.

She is survived by a son, O. R. Conner, of Monroe; a great neice, Mrs. Reeves W. Hart, of Stanford, Conn., and three grandchildren, Mrs. J. L. Lloyd, of Belhaven, N. C.; Mrs. James Belvin, of Duram, N. C., and Major O. R. Conner, Jr., of Montgomery, Ala.

MRS. ROSE ELLA BARFIELD

Two Men Charged After Seizing 7-Year-Old Girl

MARION, S. C., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Sheriff Leon Gasque has charged two Marion county men with assault with intent to ravish in connection with an all night ride with a seven-year-old school girl.

Gasque, declining to disclose where the men are being held, identified them yesterday as Jerome Alford, 30, a farmer, and Hugh Smith, 22, recently discharged from the navy, both of the Mullins area.

The girl was picked up by the two men as she alighted from a school bus Wednesday near her rural home, Gasque said.

She was released at a farm home Thursday morning by the men after their car bogged down in the mud on a lonely country road, the sheriff added. Physicians who examined the girl said she was not physically harmed.

Gasque said both men denied the charges. The maximum penalty under the charges is death.

The sheriff said the men probably woul dbe tried during the March term of general sessions court in Marion.

SENATORIAL VOTE TO COME TUESDAY

Dulles-Lehman Outcome Will Test Truman's Domestic Policies

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Herbert H. Lehman's battle to unseat Republican Sen. John Foster Dulles goes to New York state's 6,300,000 voters next Tuesday in a major test of President Truman's domestic policies.

The former governor, Democratic-Liberal can date, and the veteran G. O. P. foreign affairs expert, running for a senate term that will last only a year, have staged a bitter, bruising fight.

The off-year election is the only one in the nation involving a senate seat this year. It has commanded attention throughout the country for clues it may provide to the public verdict on the Fair Deal row and in next year's congressional elections.

Mr. Truman himself took to the air tonight for Lehman with a broadcast from Washington.

The election also is of great importance to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, titular head of the Republican party.

Dewey appointed Dulles, his longtime friend and adviser, to the senate last July after the resignation of Sen. Robert F. Wagner, the veteran New Dealer. The governor has stumped ev ry section of the state urging Dulles' election.

Lehman calls the governor "my second opponent." He has charged that Dewey is using Dulles as a stalking horse in a plan to run for governor again next year and then make another bid for the White House in 1952.

Sharing interest with the senate election in the state is a hot fight for the New York City mayoralty, sometimes described as the toughest public office in this country next to the presidency.

Mayor William O'Dwyer, Democrat, seeking a second term, has two foes; Newbold Morris, Republican-Liberal-Fusion nominee, and Rep. Vito Marcantonio, American Labor party.

Both sides predict victory in the senate fight. The Democrats claim a margin of 350,000. Republicans say Dulles will win by 250,000. There are many imponderables and many observers expect an exceedingly close election.

Three years ago, in the only election Lehman ever lost, he was beaten by 251,000 votes by Irving M. Ives, Republican, in a senate contest.

When Lehman and Dulles were nominated, few observers expected the sort of bare-knuckled slugging which has developed.

Lehman, 71, is a former Wall Street investment banker whose income once reportedly reached $2,000,000 a year. He served four years as lieutenant-governor under Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who once called him "my good right arm," then spent 10 years as governor after Roosevelt had moved from Albany to Washington.

Dulles, 61, was a senior partner in a top Wall Street law firm until his senate appointment. He is a prominent Presbyterian Church layman and has had long experience in foreign affairs.

Seeking election to public office for the first time, Dulles quickly launched into a vigorous campaign that has seen him make almost 200 speeches in all parts of the state.

Soon the epithets began to fly.

On their side, the Democrats said Dulles was a bigot, a "black reactionary," and a Wall Street lawyer who had espoused isolationism and appeasement before the war and who numbered many Nazi firms among his clients.

The senator denie dhe ever had worked for Nazis, just as Lehman denied he ever had accepted Communist support.

Lehman endorsed nearly all of the Fair Deal and said he was proud he had worked all his life for "welfare state" measures.

Dulles denounced what he called a trend toward an all-powerful state and said taxes could be lowered rather than raised.

Greek Sailors Win Their Fight Temporarily

BALTIMORE, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Three Greek seamen who had clung to its aftermast for 84 hours worked the stiffness from their joints today as the freighter Aristocratis prepared to set sail.

For the time being at least they had won their fight to escape repatriation to their native land. They fear they will be punished there for belonging to an outlawed Maritime union, OENO.

Exhausted and cramped from spending three and a half days on the yard-wide crossarm of the mast, they ended their nautical sitdown strike yesterday.

A representative of the ship owners had tried unsuccessfully several times to convince them they should leave their perch.

Finally a union official, Secretary Hercules Arnaoutis of New York, forced his way aboard the ship and dashed up a 50-foot ladder to talk them down. After a short conversation, they followed him to the deck.

The shipping firm spokesman said the Aristocratis will sail at 5 p. m. (E. S. T., stopping at Philadelphia, then proceeding to Formosa.

Whether the vessel is scheduled to stop in Greece en route to Formosa or later was not disclosed.

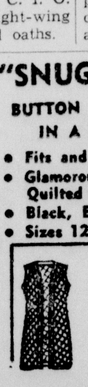

However, one of the mast-sitters, 30-year-old Sarantis Xanthopolus, declared he will fight any effort to repatriate him. His companions on the crossarm were Antonios Fafalios, 40, and Antonios Margaziotis, 49.

Coal Strike Felt In Homes As Winter Chill Approaches

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The effect of the seven-week old coal strike began creeping into American homes today on the heels of winter's advancing chill.

The nation's stockpile of soft coal available to the non-industrial public has been eaten to close to nothing.

In some areas the striking United Mine Workers or well-stocked industries have set up emergency supplies for vital public institutions or private hardship cases.

But the diggers' boss, John L. Lewis, voiced a terse "no" to an appeal for help from the mayor of Pittsburgh.

The weather was growing chillier and chillier.

And strike peace talks droned futilely on.

Np to now the average U. S. citizen has had only a spectator's interest in the long wrangle between Lewis and the two-party bloc of operators.

The current strike began Sept. 15 after the U. M. W.'s pension fund suspended operations.

Since then the effect of the strike has verred more and more in the direction of John Q. Public as industries and utilities began to feel the pinch.

Ironically, it is the homes closest to the source of the black fuel that face the first threat of going fuelless.

The explanation is simple. Because coal usually is available quickly and in plentiful quantities near the pits, householders and retailers seldom lay in a big supply.

And the miners' stockpiles either have been moved to strategic distribution centers or are under the picketing surveillance of the U. M. W.

The situation in Pittsburgh—capital of the soft coal industry—is described by city officials and coal merchants as nearly critical.

Some hospitals here report they have only enough coal to las at day or two. Retail merchants spokesmen said their stocks will be gone by the middle of next week.

A boiler plant which supplies heat to many downtown buildings says its supply will not last beyond Tuesday.

Coal dealers say they are three weeks behind on orders from home owners. Many, they say, have no coal. How the orders will be filled remained an unanswered question.

Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp.—Closed down by the steel strike promised to release some of its stockpile for emergency use.

Except for that faint glimmer, the outlook for an already chilled Pittsburgh was bleak.

Mayor David L. Lawrence asked Lewis by telephone to permit the reopening of some mines in the area.

"He turned me down," said Lawrence. "He told me to see 'those guys at the Duquesne Club.' "

The Duquesne Club is an exclusive organization of Pittsburgh men.

Lawrence said the U. M. W. chieftain contended there is plenty of coal in stockpiles around Pittsburgh.

Presumably Lewis was referring to the supplies laid in by the huge steel firms prior to the strike.

Reports from other parts of the nation varied according to the fuel habits of the householders.

In Georgia, a minor producer of soft coal, the city of Rome reopened its auditorium to families without coal. Supplies throughout the state were described as very low. Atlanta dealers, with only a "few days" supply left, have begun rationing to customers.

The situation generally through the south appeared uncomfortable at the best.

Birmingham coal dealers report their yards will be emptied in about ten days or two weeks. Rationing has begun, but no hardship cases have been reported.

The heart of the Kentucky coal fields has been hard hit. Retailers there, too, are rationing their sales. Schools and hospitals have enough to last for a few more weeks, however.

"Grim but not hopeless," is the comment from Michigan.

Some measure of relief was reported in Indiana. Sixty-three carloads of coal were made available to the state's emergency fuel commission by one of three mines on a U. M. W.-approved relief assignment.

Householders and state institutions throughout Indiana have already been hard hit.

In Michigan and Ohio and Iowa the weather will determine the situation. A three or four weeks supply has been stockpiled.

Striking miners in Illinois reentered the pits—with the blessing of their local U. M. W. leader and the mine owners—to dig coal for their own bins.

The Cincinnati Coal Merchants Association asked help from President Truman. They said in a telegram:

"We are calling on you in your vested authority to avoid future hardship and suffering. The coal strike must be stopped at once."

Spokesman said the city's stocks are gone and "there is no place to turn for coal for the domestic consumer."

There was no reply from the president. But a White House source said Mr. Truman soon will make a final decision on whether to go to court under the injunction procedure provided in the Taft-Hartley Act to force the miners back into the pits.

There were no reports of hardship from the extreme northeastern or Western portions of the country where little soft coal is used.

16 College Students Appear Before Judge

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Sixteen youths, most of them Harvard and Princeton students, appeared in district court today after one of the biggest Harvard square demonstrations since pre-war days.

Police said 2,000 screaming youths and girl dates milled through the square at the height of a night-before disturbance preceeding the Harvard-Princeton football game.

A district court judge told the youths he would accept no contest pleas and assess court costs. He said he regarded them as "foolish young men who had done a foolish act." Most of the group were charged with disturbing the peace.

One Missing In Moscow Celebration

MOSCOW, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Portraits of the politburo used as decorations for the 32nd anniversary Monday of the Bolshevist revolution show only 11 members, instead of the dozen displayed in Russia's May day celebration.

That of L. M. Kagonovich, a deputy president of the council of ministers, is missing. Prime Minister Stalin, at the center, is flanked by V. M. Molotov, former foreign minister, and Georgi M. Malenkov, other deputy presidents.

(The absence of Kagonovich's portrait indicates he has been dropped from the politburo, the political bureau of the central committee of the all union Communist party. A big, broad-shouldered man who was commissar of heavy industry for many years, he has been the only Jew on the politburo. His name has not been mentioned in news dispatches from Moscow recently.)

Officials completed preparations tonight for the celebration of the anniversary of the revolution, Russia's most important holiday.

Citizens awaited a speech tomorrow night by some Soviet leader, his name not yet disclosed, who will review the accomplishments of the past year and sound the keynote for the coming year of the Communist regime in the U. S. S. R.

Main buildings in Moscow are already decorated with portraits of Prime Minister Stalin, members of the politburo, Lenin, Marx and Engels and red streamers and flags.

Electrical illumination will play a big role in the displays, as it has done in the last two years.

A festive air prevails in this capital. Housewives are busy making purchases for parties tomorrow evening in thousands of homes.

The principal events scheduled are traditional ones.

There will be a conclave tomorrow evening in the Bolshoi theater, which will be broadcast.

A military parade of Moscow garrison troops through Red square Monday morning will be followed by a workers' demonstration.

Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will be host at a diplomatic reception at the official residence of the foreign minister, Andrei Y. Vishinsky, who is now in the United States. Invited guests include members of the diplomatic corps and prominent Russian citizens.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Next week a 58-year-old grandmother resumes her impersonation of a seven-year-old brat.

This sort of thing has been going on since 1912, when Fanny Brice first dreamed up Baby Snooks. It is likely to continue as long as there is breath in the famed comedienne.

Miss Brice seems resigned to a life with "Schnooks," as she calls the radio moppet. I mentioned that her fans would also like to hear some of her wonderful routines of yore.

"How about another show? I hear they're dragging out the Ziegfeld Follies again."

"They would have to drag me back there to do it," she replied. "I would never leave California willingly."

Television?

"Maybe yes. But I wouldn't do it the way it's done now. No one can put a different show on every week and keep it good. If I did it, I'd rehearse a show carefully, then put it on three or four weeks —the same show every week. That way everybody would see it."

That leaves her with Baby Snooks, who was born in vaudeville in 1912. It started as a parody on a pampered movie child. One night she was forced into entertaining at a party. She did her whole routine in the baby talk she used in the movie baby number and it was a howl.

She did the character off and on for years and in 1937 put it on the radio. She was also doing a "Mrs. Cohen" role, but the Jewish housewife was pushed in the background in favor of Snooks. She has been a standard figure on the air ever since.

Miss Brice was off the airwaves during last year's radio upheaval. She used the time to give birth to an autobiography.

"It's an amazing experience," she said. "It's like being psychoanalyzed. There were days when I felt very sad. And days when I felt very happy."

She promises to tell all in the book, including her feelings about her two husbands.

About Billy Rose, she told me: "He comes out all right in the book. Mainly I say how smart he is."

About Nicky Arnstein: "I thought I would have a lot to say about Nicky. But it just ended up with the fact that I loved him."

Reds Reverse Flow Of River With Atomics

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Soviet-licensed newspaper Nacht Express declared today Russia has used blasts of atomic energy to reverse the flow of two rivers in a land reclamation project and implied it wasn't an A-bomb test.

This was "the first time in the history of mankind" that atomic energy was used for peaceful purposes, said the paper, which is edited by Communists.

"This overwhelming project has made it possible to reverse the directions of the Siberian rivers Ob and Yenissei by blasting with atomic energy large sections of rocks in the Urals and Caucasian mountains," it said.

The blasting was described as part of a far-reaching plan of Soviet Engineer Davydov for the irrigation of the lowlands between the Caspian Sea and Aral Lake, "turning 75,000,000 acres into fruitful farmland."

The Nacht Express added: "The world now has an explanation for the official Soviet statement of Sept. 25 this year referring to the atom explosion in the Soviet Union."

POSTMASTERS IN 4 STATES MEET

Ninth District Of National League Assemble In Texarkana

The Ninth district of the National League of District Postmasters comprising the states of Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas met October 29 1949 at the Grimm Hotel in Texarkana with an attendance of 107.

An afternoon and evening session was held with Clyde Spiller, of Charleston, Ark., presiding.

Honored guests were: Wright Patman, congressman of Texas; Boyd Tackett, congressman, Arkansas; W. M. McMillan, inspector in charge, Ft. Worth, Tex.; W. L. Noah, inspector in charge, St. Louis, Mo.; H. K. Coale, general superintendent railway mail service, Ft. Worth, Tex.; R. O. Estes, post office inspector, Texarkana.

Mr. McMillan was guest speaker at dinner. His topic was "Loyalty." He said, "Loyalty is a word easily spoken, a pledge easy to give, but I am deeply interested in genuine loyalty, the kind which can be given only through active participation, energetic endeavor, and often times personal sacrifice."

"The American people are enjoying today the best service ever rendered by any postal establishment."

"We are extremely fortunate in having at our head the greatest postmaster general in history, the beloved Jesse M. Donaldson. He has spent a lifetime in the postal service. He is easily one of the world's outstanding authorities on postal matters."

"Perhaps most of you think you are completely loyal. You are not completely loyal if you are missing an opportunity to acquaint questioning patrons with the facts concerning the present administration of the postal establishment. You are not completely loyal if you are not rendering the best possible service to the patrons of your office. You are not completely loyal if you are making unnecessary expenditures for clerical or carrier services or for other purposes. You are not completely loyal if you yourself are not rendering a full day's work and are not intelligently supervising the employes of your office."

Music was furnished by Miss Wanda Ramsey, Pleasant Hill, La., and Mrs. Lady Evelyn Weatherton, Pottsville, Ark.

Police Chief Shoots Self After Resignation

DENVER, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Two weeks after he announced his resignation, Chief of Police John F. O'Donnell died today of a self-inflicted bullet wound.

In two notes left in his pockets, the 48-year-old police head expressed fear he was threatened with a nervous breakdown.

O'Donnell was found slumped with a bullet wound in the head in a washroom adjoining his office. His service revolver lay nearby.

Dr. Angelo Lapi, city medical examiner, said the death was a suicide.

In the notes O'Donnell said attempts had been made through gifts "to get me involved in something, but what I don't know."

"I feel like I am going to have a nervous breakdown."

O'Donnell announced his resignation Oct. 22, to take effect Nov. 15. Police Capt. Hebert Forsyth recently was appointed by Mayor Quigg Newton to succeed him. After O'Donnell's death, Mayor Newton made Forsyth's appointment as chief effective immediately.

O'Donnell, a policeman for 27 years, had said he wanted to take a complete rest, then might go into some sort of business.

Detective Capt. James Pitt said apparently he was the last to talk with O'Donnell. Pitt told reporters the chief "acted like something was on his mind and he was anxious to end our conversation."

Coal Strike Felt In Homes As Winter Chill Approaches

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The effect of the seven-week old coal strike began creeping into American homes today on the heels of winter's advancing chill.

The nation's stockpile of soft coal available to the non-industrial public has been eaten to close to nothing.

In some areas the striking United Mine Workers or well-stocked industries have set up emergency supplies for vital public institutions or private hardship cases.

But the diggers' boss, John L. Lewis, voiced a terse "no" to an appeal for help from the mayor of Pittsburgh.

The weather was growing chillier and chillier.

And strike peace talks droned futilely on.

Np to now the average U. S. citizen has had only a spectator's interest in the long wrangle between Lewis and the two-party bloc of operators.

The current strike began Sept. 15 after the U. M. W.'s pension fund suspended operations.

Since then the effect of the strike has verred more and more in the direction of John Q. Public as industries and utilities began to feel the pinch.

Ironically, it is the homes closest to the source of the black fuel that face the first threat of going fuelless.

BOSTON'S MAYOR CAMPAIGN OPENS

Ex-Convict And Fourth Term Mayor Faces Stiff Challenge

BOSTON, Nov. 5. — (AP) — Mayor James M. Curley—a political boss who loves the limelight—faces a stiff challenge in his bid for a fifth term, virtually on the eve of his 75th birthday.

With the election only four days off, the veteran Curley still shapes up in the eyes of politicians tonight as the man to beat in a field of five. But, he admittedly is in a fight.

There's only one issue in the campaign—"Curleyism."

Curley says it's good for Boston; his four opponents claim it's bad. It's a non-partisan election, with no primary.

Chief challenger appears to be City Clerk John B. Hynes, who sat in as "acting mayor" for five months in 1947 when Curley went to a federal penitentiary for mail fraud.

Curley himself is looking forward to the Nov. 8 election for vindication from the voters—shouting he was convicted though innocent of any wrongdoing in connection with a firm set up to obtain war contracts for clients.

Both Curley and Hynes have been the target of the three other candidates—Governor's Councillor Patrick J. Sonny McDonough; George F. Oakes, Boston realtor; and Walter O'Brien, organizer for Henry A. Wallace's Progressive party.

Curley, Hynes and McDonough are Democrats; Oakes the only Republican running.

The 52-year-old Hynes has lined up strong Republican support.

Curley charges Hynes with being the "puppet of State Street Republican bankers scheming to gain control of City Hall"—describes himself as "unbossed."

Hynes posters tell the story of his campaign — "restore Boston's good name" and "keep Boston respectable."

Curley replies—"Curley gets things done" and "Action with Curley."

McDonough, a veteran campaigner at the age of 38, denounces what he calls the "Curley-Hynes combine" and charges that Curley lobbied with the Republican-dominated state legislature to make Haynes "acting mayor" when he was sentenced to jail.

Oakes' plea is directed at the Republican voters—denouncing Curley, Hynes and McDonough as the "three machine candidates — all cut off the same cloth." Oakes was a leader in the movement to set up a city-manager type government in Boston.

O'Brien has taken a different tack—accusing the other candidates of "silence and indifference, if not worse, on the critical issue of civil rights."

You won't find any national political trends in the Boston municipal election.

Hynes has shied away, too from any implications that he's a "reform candidate."

The issue is Curley — and Curley says he's willing to have it that way.

He scoffs at claims of his younger opponents' that age has slowed him up. And he stole a march on them in the modernistic trend by going on television—the only candidate to use this medium.

At the outset, someone suggested the national municipal league, which claimed credit for helping beat Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, was thinking of entering the Boston campaign.

Curley replied—"I welcome opposition—especially the imported variety."

As for winning after serving time,—Curley did it once before. He was re-elected alderman at the start of his political career after serving a jail term for taking a postal examination for a friend.

He made political capital of the incident—explaining "it goes to show you how far I'll go for a friend."

Approaching 75, he says:

"I expect to live to be 125—and I expect to be mayor all that time."

Morehouse Outlaws Hunting On Sundays

BASTROP, Nov. 5.—(Special)—The Morehouse parish police jury decided to put further restrictions on hunting in the parish. At the regular monthly session it was voted to close hunting on Sunday; also an ordinance was passed whereby permits must be obtained from both the sheriff's office and landowners before hunters may camp.

A group of sportsmen from the fourth ward called on the jury and pointed out that union parish to the west, Lincoln parish and other neighboring parishes do not permit hunting on Sundays. The spokesman, Ollie Varnado, declared that the result is to shower down all the hunters from neighboring parishes on Morehouse over the week end. He said that the game in this parish is fast disappearing as a result. The no-Sunday hunting passed Tuesday calls on the sheriff to arrest and fine violators and notices are being published in the Monroe and other newspapers outside the parish.

Until October of 1948 Morehouse had a law against camping without permit, but the old ordinance expired at that time and was not renewed. The new law subjects violators to fine of $50 to $100 and 30 days in jail.

Out of the parish campers will be charged $10, but there will be no fee for local residents. The new camping and no Sunday hunting laws have been declared an emergency and become effective immediately.

The permanent secretariat building of the United Nations, now being erected on New York's east side, will be 39 stories high and have about 20 acres of floor space.

Man's Woman

Femininity, Gentleness, Modesty Are Some Traits She Must Have

A GIRL asks me what qualities men like best in women. That's a hard question to answer because men's tastes in women differ as widely as their tastes in neckties, and a girl who attracts one man and sets his pulses a-flutter falls flat with another and leaves him cold. And that is the mercy of Heaven to women, or else one class of women would be polyandrists and the others all old maids.

There are, however, a few charms and virtues in the feminine sex upon which practically all men unite, and which they universally admire.

DOROTHY DIX

The first of these is womanliness, which in its last analysis is doubtless sex appeal. At any rate, whenever you find a girl about whom men flock like flies around a honey pot, or a widow who has always been able to marry as often as the occasion demanded, you will always find that she is a woman in whom femininity has been raised to the 'nth power. If a girl has this mysterious quality, she does not need to possess either beauty or brains. Wherever she goes men will rise up out of the earth to make dates with her, and open windows for her, and carry her bundles for her, and marry her, and spend the balance of their lives paying her bills.

NO LOUD TALKERS

Next to womanliness men like gentleness in a woman. Never yet have I seen a man who admired an aggressive woman, or a loud-talking woman, or a vituperative woman, or one who told smutty stories, or who swore and cursed, or a hard-boiled woman.

Sometimes men amuse themselves with the girl who is a wisecracker, or the girl who boasts that she is sophisticated and has no illusions left, or the girl who is cold and selfish and grasping, or the one who tells risque stories, or the loud girl who is the life of the party. But most men are afraid of her and steer clear of her. She gets on their nerves, and, anyway, she isn't the sort of a woman they want for wives.

Men like modesty in a woman and this goes both for body and mind. They like a woman who has delicate reserves and who does not strip away all the seven veils of illusion from about her person and soul.

Men like intelligence in a woman, but they want her to keep it under cover, so to speak. They like a woman to be clever enough to conceal how clever she is. Few men like feminine fools, but neither do they crave feminine highbrows. They want a woman who has brains enough to manage her own affairs, and to understand what they are doing and talking about, but they loathe a woman who is always showing off how smart she is and whose lightest conversation is on world affairs or atomic theory.

TACT ADMIRED

Men like women who possess tact. They like women who know how to rub their fur the right way and who have an adroit hand at spreading the salve. Women who listen with bated breath while they talk about themselves and who, without saying so, can make a man feel as if he were seven feet high and as strong as Joe Louis and an oracle on every subject under the sun.

Men like women who are appreciative. A man doesn't want a woman to gush over him and tell him that he is the most marvelous thing on earth, but he adores having her show him that she thinks that he is a very remarkable man, and if he had his dues he would be president of the bank, or running the government. He doesn't want a girl to get out a brass band every time he takes her out, but he does want her to show that she is having a good time and that it is all due to him.

And every husband would forgive his wife every other fault under the sun if she would just show him how she appreciates how hard he works and how generous he is to her and the children.

Of course, men admire beauty in women, but if a girl is feminine and sweet and amiable and keeps a man entertained and jollies him along she can get along with a very small amount of pulchritude, for any girl looks good to a man who handles him with tact and says "thank you" prettily.

DOROTHY DIX cannot reply personally to readers, but will answer problems of general interest through her column.

AVERAGE COTTON PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The average price of middling 15/16ths inch cotton today at 10 designated southern spot markets was 30 cents a bale lower at 29.89 cents a pound; average for the past 30 market days 27.64; middling 7/8ths-inch average 28.30.

New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Cotton futures movements were narrow today with trading quiet. During early dealings a leading spot house sold December and bought May which made up a large portion of the trading. Hedging was also in evidence, along with commission house liquidation. Contracts were absorbed by textile mills and shorts.

Futures closed 5 to 45 cents a bale lower than the previous close.

Negro Woman's Suit Is Partly Dismissed

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 5.—(AP)—A Negro woman's $9,000 damage suit against several East Baton Rouge parish peace officers, based on allegations that she was falsely arrested and mistreated, has been in part dismissed.

District Judge Charles A. Holcombe yesterday ruled that the suit was not valid against East Baton Rouge Parish Sheriff Bryan Clemmons or his deputies in their official capacities. However, a damage claim for the full amount against two deputies, Herman A. Thompson and E. Frank Brian, as individuals, was allowed to stand for later trial.

The plaintiff, Sinie Bell Smith, alleged that when she summoned officers Sept. 3 to protect her from attack by a drunken man, she was struck, shoved into a patrol car and later locked in jail.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.— (AP) — Stocks: Steady, selective buying. Bonds: Mixed; changes slight. Cotton: Irregular, hedging offsets liquidation.

CHICAGO—Wheat: Easy; scattered selling pressure. Corn: Easy; larger receipts expected. Oats: Steady; local stocks dwindling. Hogs: Nominally steady. Cattle: Nominally steady.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Demand for stocks perked up today after droopy tendencies during the first hour.

With the exception of several utility preferred, the market showed few significant price changes. A wide variety of leading issues either attracted no interest at all or remained at Friday's closing levels. Elsewhere gains of minor fractions held an edge over equally small losses.

A moderate amount of business was done, with volume boosted by a flurry of demand for the utilities. Turnover for the two-hour session hit a rate of around 500,000 shares.

Louisiana Oil And Gas News

La Salle Parish Claims Five Of Six Oil Producers

Drillers in Northeast Louisiana last week brought in six new oil producers, five of which were in the Tullos Urania field in LaSalle parish, according to the conservation department's weekly report revealed here yesterday.

Four other wells were abandoned, two gas yielders were brought in and nine new locations were sited.

Top oil producer for the week was the Louisiana Central Oil and Gas Company's Fee No. 1 in 22-9-5E of the Manifest field in Catahoula parish. It was gauged at 105 barrels at a depth of 1,802 feet.

The oil yielders brought in in the Tullos Urania field were:

The Arkansas Fuel Oil Company-Tremont Lumber Company's C-37 in 2-9-1E, gauged at 24 barrels; the G. and S. Drilling Company, W. E. Gammill, et al, No. 1 in 25-10-1E, gauged at 25 barrels; the D. W. Kerr and W. M. Kay Company-Urania Lumber Company No. 1 gauged at 20 barrels; the Fred Stovall Company-Urania Stovall No. 9 in 19-10-2E, gauged at 10 barrels, and the Viola Oil Company's Russell No. 1 in 25-10-1E, gauged at 25 barrels.

A gas producer, the J. R. Fitzhugh, et al, Delta A-1 in 11-16-7E of the Big Creek field in Richmond parish, was brought in with an output of 5,069,000 cubic feet.

Union parish had the only other new gas producer. It was the Interstate National's Fee No. 235 in 5-20-3E, gauged at 895,000 cubic feet.

Those wells abandoned were listed as:

The Hunt Oil Company, et al, La. Del. Hrd. Lbr. Co., Inc., et al, No. 21 in 24-5-5E in the Lake Larto field, Catahoula parish; the Arkansas Fuel Oil Company-Urania Lumber Company No. G-1 in 18-10-2E of the Tullos-Urania field in LaSalle parish; Carbons Consolidated Co.-Frost Lumber Industry No. 1-A in 9-21-1E in the Monroe field, Union parish, and the Hunt Oil Co., et al, La. Del. Hrd. Lbr. Co., Inc., et al, No. 20 in 31-5-5E in the Saline Lake field, Catahoula parish.

New Locations

Catahoula parish, Saline Lake field: The Hunt Oil Co., et al, La. Del. Hrd. Lbr. Co., Inc., et al, No. 20 in 31-5-5E.

Concordia parish, Lake St. John field: L. S. J. Salt Water Disposal Well No. 2 in 24-9-10E.

LaSalle parish, Tullos Urania field: The Viola Oil Company-W. M. Hattox No. 1 in 25-10-1E.

Union parish, Monroe field: The Interstate National's Fee No. 239 in 17-20-3E; the Interstate National's Fee No. 240 in 33-20-3E; the Feazei, et al, and Monroe Drilling Company's Perry and Handy No. 1 in 18-21-3E; the Louisiana Gas Producing-Ila Mae Dumas Nolan No. 1 in 30-20-3E, and the James A. Noe's Noe-Thomas No. 1 and No. 2, both in 29-22-3E.

Indians in New Mexico were building with stone, successfully using clay mud for mortar, when the first white explorers arrived in that area more than 400 years ago.

MORE CRUDE OIL SEEN IN OCTOBER

Major Increases Recorded For Oklahoma, Louisiana, Mississippi

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The week ended Oct. 29 saw the nation's crude oil production average more than 5,000,000 barrels daily for the first time since last spring, The Oil and Gas Journal reported today.

The week's total average, The Journal said, 5,005,275 barrels, an increase of 8,600 barrels over the previous week's figure.

Until then, the last previous week in which the daily average went over 5,000,000 barrels was that ended April 2, when output was 5,068,075 barrels.

Last week Oklahoma reported the largest increase, up 4,350 barrels to 425,850 barrels.

Other major gains were in Colorado, up 2,800 barrels to 65,100; Mississippi, up 2,500 to 97,700; Kentucky, 1,900 to 24,800; Louisiana, 1,850 to 531,325, and Michigan 1,400 to 48,800.

Alabama increased 150 barrels to 1,300, Arkansas was up 950 to 72,950 Florida gained 200 to 1,050, Montana added 100 to 26,350, and Wyoming was up 950 to 128,900.

Only five areas reported production declines. They were the eastern fields, down 900 barrels to 59,950; Illinois, off 3,300 to 176,800; Indiana, 1,200 to 28,500; Kansas, 1,050 to 276,600, and California 2,100 to 881,900.

Production was unchanged in Nebraska, 1,000 barrels; New Mexico, 126,900; Texas 2,026,200, and Utah 3,300.

Canada's daily average of 2,125 barrels to 62,140, of which 59,040 was reported for Alberta Province.

The daily averages:

Boom Fields In Scurry Gives Oilers Red Faces

SNYDER, Tex., Nov. 5.—(AP)—There are many red faces among veteran Texas oilmen these days—red from embarrassment.

Within the past year Scurry county has become the nations most talked about oil boom area since the east Texas field blew in 19 years ago.

It is a real boom and really embarrassing to many oilmen who as late as a year ago were warning all comers:

"Stay out of Scurry county."

It was not that they wanted the place to themselves. They did not think the county had enough oil to get excited about. Their warning, they thought, was just good advice.

They had been convinced by years of hunches, explorations, geological surveys and wildcatting.

These same skeptics now are saying, with pained expressions, Scurry county may become one of the world's greatest oil field areas.

Oil is nothing new to Scurry. It has been an oil producing county since 1923. But four big strikes since last November, plus a surprisingly small number of dry holes, have brought the boom. About 100 wells now are being drilled.

The old wells are shallow producers—from 1,800 to 2,600 feet deep. The new production is from formations left behind by the Pennsylvanian geologic age of from 220,000,000 to 268,000,000 years ago.

Pennsylvanian high quality crude is flowing from depths of 6,400 to 7,400 feet.

Oilmen and geologists in Midland, capital of the Permian basin's west Texas-southwestern New Mexico oil empire, say these new fields by January 1 will have at least 300 producing wells. Last January 1 there were only two.

A Midland geologist figures those 300 wells will have at least 480,000,000 barrels of recoverable reserves. He was figuring on only from 30 to 40 per cent recovery of all oil in place.

A Houston oil executive commented:

"That is far too conservative. You can safely say that one Scurry county operator alone this year has found reserves that run between 500,000,000 and 1,000,000,000 barrels."

Snyder, the county seat, is a modern boom town. In 1940 it had 3,815 residents and had not grown noticeably by late 1948. City officials now are reluctant to make an estimate. People are arriving so rapidly.

The Scurry County Times on October 11 said Snyder already has grown to 14,000, and added there is no reason to doubt there will be 30,000 by June 1.

Stories of quick monetary return from the new wells are numerous.

C. W. Addison, 28, bought a half section of land last December for $4,800. The land already has turned out one oil producer. Two other tests are under way. He has received something like $64,000 in cash.

But predictions of great things to come for Scurry are based on tremendous possibilities for widespread extensions to the new fields.

Geologists say the new strikes are producing from formations which were nothing more than reefs of the Pennsylvania sea. Thickness of the pay zones or producing formations range from 200 to 600 feet.

There had been many unsuccessful wildcat wells drilled in Scurry county between the time initial production was discovered in 1923 and the new fields were brought in the past 12 months. Most of the operators were seeking oil in formations beneath the Pennsylvanian. They had little or no luck.

Many operators pulled out. A few, particularly independents, stayed. A majority of the new strikes are at depths that permit independents to participate. Drilling costs are small compared to deeper tests.

Sun Oil Company found Pennsylvania reef production in December 1946 and brought in the Jameson field in Coke county, about 60 miles to the southeast of Snyder.

Other companies since then have found similar strikes in several localities as much as 120 miles from Snyder.

Geologists are wondering if future explorations might eventually outline the Pennsylvania reef as being 200 miles or greater in length.

The oil potential from such a formation would be tremendous, they say, even after admitting there would be many reef areas with no oil.

Oil leases were pretty cheap last year about the time Standard Oil Company of Texas was making final preparations to drill the well that was to start the Scurry boom.

Two young Notre Dame graduates arrived in Snyder about that time. They were Joseph I. O'Neill, former F. B. I. agent from Philadelphia, and William P. Castleman, Jr., former aluminum company sales manager from Louisville, Ky.

They had decided to go into business for themselves. A friend in Dallas had suggested they go to west Texas and buy, sell and trade oil leases.

Neither claimed to know much about the oil business. They were attracted by the low prices on leases in Scurry.

By September 1948 they had invested all their money in Scurry leases and had good reason to become discouraged.

As O'Neill explained the situation: "We tried to sell those leases to 97 different companies and operators and couldn't find a buyer. We couldn't even get anyone to tell us the stuff was any good, and we didn't know it was any good."

They finally managed to sell some of their leases. They were hopefully searching for more buyers when the first indication of a possible boom appeared.

"As luck would have it," O'Neill explained, "we wound up with an interest in 800 acres that have good prospects."

They already have four producing wells, and have three rigs operating.

Each admits he never had any idea of becoming an oil operator.

But a sign on the door of their new office in Midland reads: "Castleman, O'Neill—Oil Operators."

Petroleum Institute Head Announces His Retirement

By Leslie Carpenter

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Any man who can be a successful president of the American Petroleum Institute, the people who work around him say, is a man who can walk all over eggs with spiked baseball shoes and not harm a shell.

A Texan who has spent eight years in the job without a single egg casualty will retire when he reaches his 65th birthday next January.

He is William R. Boyd, Jr., of Teague, Tex., who failed earlier in his life when he led a campaign to put the United States in the League of Nations, but who succeeded later in bringing peace among sorely split factions within the most complex national trade association in the country—the American Petroleum Institute.

Boyd will probably be named honorary chairman of the board of A. P. I. when his retirement from the A. P. I. takes effect. He has withstood many appeals to take another term as president.

Boyd will announce his retirement at the A. P. I. meeting November 7. He will turn 65, the retirement age, next January 7, and he believes the time has come to start taking things easy.

In the turbulent years since he first was elected president of A. P. I. in 1941, Boyd has rung up a number of achievements.

The most distinguished was the award of the Medal of Merit to Boyd by President Truman in 1946 for Boyd's wartime service as chairman of the Petroleum Industry War Council and as president of A. P. I.

In making the award, the president said: "The petroleum industry's contribution represented the greatest government-industry partnership in the history of the United States."

But Boyd's most signficiant accomplishment, as far as the oil industry is concerned, was his success in convincing Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes early in the war of the need of forming the Petroleum Industry War Council.

Many felt that this action prevented the government from taking over the oil industry for the duration of the war, at least. An executive order of the president along that line had already been drawn before it was scrapped, according to reliable information.

When Boyd took over as president of A. P. I. at the San Francisco meeting of the tremendous trade association in 1946, he said: "No one man nor one group of men has ever run me. No man nor group of men ever will."

Both the major companies and the independents wondered if he could stick to his work and bring harmony within the oil industry. Their opinion now is that he has. While the majors and the independents cannot fairly be called Martins and Coys, they do have their differences, quite frequently. It takes a skilled pair of hands to unruffle the feathers.

Boyd was born in Fairfield, Tex., and studied law from his father. At the remarkable age of 19, he was admitted to the Texas Bar by a special dispensation. He took a brief time to come to Washington as a congressional secretary to the late Representative Scott Field, of Texas, and returned to Teague, Texas, as a town which elected him mayor at the age of 21.

But Boyds interests soon transcended the city limits of Teague and the state borders of Texas. When congress was considering enactment of the Federal Reserve Act, Boyd took part in a national campaign seeking banking reform legislation. He became a campaign manager of the League to Enforce Peace, which was formed by William Howard Taft. He worked for several years with an organization pushing President Wilsons efforts to have the United States join the League of Nations.

Boyd joined the staff of the A. P. I. in 1920 as assistant general secretary and counsel. He was elected executive vice-president in 1921, and in 1941 became its ninth president.

Take it from members of the oil industry, who say that Boyd, a small man in size, has done a big job and is leaving a lot for his successor to live up to.

STATE REPORT

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The state department of conservation in its weekly oil report listed completion of 17 wells with combined initial daily production of 2,883.18 barrels, abandonment of eight tests and issuance of permits for 58 new wells.

Completions were:

BOSTON'S MAYOR CAMPAIGN OPENS

Ex-Convict And Fourth Term Mayor Faces Stiff Challenge

BOSTON, Nov. 5. — (AP) — Mayor James M. Curley—a political boss who loves the limelight—faces a stiff challenge in his bid for a fifth term, virtually on the eve of his 75th birthday.

With the election only four days off, the veteran Curley still shapes up in the eyes of politicians tonight as the man to beat in a field of five. But, he admittedly is in a fight.

There's only one issue in the campaign—"Curleyism."

Curley says it's good for Boston; his four opponents claim it's bad. It's a non-partisan election, with no primary.

Chief challenger appears to be City Clerk John B. Hynes, who sat in as "acting mayor" for five months in 1947 when Curley went to a federal penitentiary for mail fraud.

Curley himself is looking forward to the Nov. 8 election for vindication from the voters—shouting he was convicted though innocent of any wrongdoing in connection with a firm set up to obtain war contracts for clients.

Both Curley and Hynes have been the target of the three other candidates—Governor's Councillor Patrick J. Sonny McDonough; George F. Oakes, Boston realtor; and Walter O'Brien, organizer for Henry A. Wallace's Progressive party.

Curley, Hynes and McDonough are Democrats; Oakes the only Republican running.

The 52-year-old Hynes has lined up strong Republican support.

Curley charges Hynes with being the "puppet of State Street Republican bankers scheming to gain control of City Hall"—describes himself as "unbossed."

Hynes posters tell the story of his campaign — "restore Boston's good name" and "keep Boston respectable."

Curley replies—"Curley gets things done" and "Action with Curley."

McDonough, a veteran campaigner at the age of 38, denounces what he calls the "Curley-Hynes combine" and charges that Curley lobbied with the Republican-dominated state legislature to make Haynes "acting mayor" when he was sentenced to jail.

Oakes' plea is directed at the Republican voters—denouncing Curley, Hynes and McDonough as the "three machine candidates — all cut off the same cloth." Oakes was a leader in the movement to set up a city-manager type government in Boston.

O'Brien has taken a different tack—accusing the other candidates of "silence and indifference, if not worse, on the critical issue of civil rights."

You won't find any national political trends in the Boston municipal election.

Hynes has shied away, too from any implications that he's a "reform candidate."

The issue is Curley — and Curley says he's willing to have it that way.

He scoffs at claims of his younger opponents' that age has slowed him up. And he stole a march on them in the modernistic trend by going on television—the only candidate to use this medium.

At the outset, someone suggested the national municipal league, which claimed credit for helping beat Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, was thinking of entering the Boston campaign.

Curley replied—"I welcome opposition—especially the imported variety."

As for winning after serving time,—Curley did it once before. He was re-elected alderman at the start of his political career after serving a jail term for taking a postal examination for a friend.

He made political capital of the incident—explaining "it goes to show you how far I'll go for a friend."

Approaching 75, he says:

"I expect to live to be 125—and I expect to be mayor all that time."

Morehouse Outlaws Hunting On Sundays

BASTROP, Nov. 5.—(Special)—The Morehouse parish police jury decided to put further restrictions on hunting in the parish. At the regular monthly session it was voted to close hunting on Sunday; also an ordinance was passed whereby permits must be obtained from both the sheriff's office and landowners before hunters may camp.

A group of sportsmen from the fourth ward called on the jury and pointed out that union parish to the west, Lincoln parish and other neighboring parishes do not permit hunting on Sundays. The spokesman, Ollie Varnado, declared that the result is to shower down all the hunters from neighboring parishes on Morehouse over the week end. He said that the game in this parish is fast disappearing as a result. The no-Sunday hunting passed Tuesday calls on the sheriff to arrest and fine violators and notices are being published in the Monroe and other newspapers outside the parish.

Until October of 1948 Morehouse had a law against camping without permit, but the old ordinance expired at that time and was not renewed. The new law subjects violators to fine of $50 to $100 and 30 days in jail.

Out of the parish campers will be charged $10, but there will be no fee for local residents. The new camping and no Sunday hunting laws have been declared an emergency and become effective immediately.

The permanent secretariat building of the United Nations, now being erected on New York's east side, will be 39 stories high and have about 20 acres of floor space.

Man's Woman

Femininity, Gentleness, Modesty Are Some Traits She Must Have

A GIRL asks me what qualities men like best in women. That's a hard question to answer because men's tastes in women differ as widely as their tastes in neckties, and a girl who attracts one man and sets his pulses a-flutter falls flat with another and leaves him cold. And that is the mercy of Heaven to women, or else one class of women would be polyandrists and the others all old maids.

There are, however, a few charms and virtues in the feminine sex upon which practically all men unite, and which they universally admire.

DOROTHY DIX

The first of these is womanliness, which in its last analysis is doubtless sex appeal. At any rate, whenever you find a girl about whom men flock like flies around a honey pot, or a widow who has always been able to marry as often as the occasion demanded, you will always find that she is a woman in whom femininity has been raised to the nth power. If a girl has this mysterious quality, she does not need to possess either beauty or brains. Wherever she goes men will rise up out of the earth to make dates with her, and open windows for her, and carry her bundles for her, and marry her, and spend the balance of their lives paying her bills.

NO LOUD TALKERS

Next to womanliness men like gentleness in a woman. Never yet have I seen a man who admired an aggressive woman, or a loud-talking woman, or a vituperative woman, or one who told smutty stories, or who swore and cursed, or a hard-boiled woman.

Sometimes men amuse themselves with the girl who is a wisecracker, or the girl who boasts that she is sophisticated and has no illusions left, or the girl who is cold and selfish and grasping, or the one who tells risque stories, or the loud girl who is the life of the party. But most men are afraid of her and steer clear of her. She gets on their nerves, and, anyway, she isn't the sort of a woman they want for wives.

Men like modesty in a woman and this goes both for body and mind. They like a woman who has delicate reserves and who does not strip away all the seven veils of illusion from about her person and soul.

Men like intelligence in a woman, but they want her to keep it under cover, so to speak. They like a woman to be clever enough to conceal how clever she is. Few men like feminine fools, but neither do they crave feminine highbrows. They want a woman who has brains enough to manage her own affairs, and to understand what they are doing and talking about, but they loathe a woman who is always showing off how smart she is and whose lightest conversation is on world affairs or atomic theory.

TACT ADMIRED

Men like women who possess tact. They like women who know how to rub their fur the right way and who have an adroit hand at spreading the salve. Women who listen with bated breath while they talk about themselves and who, without saying so, can make a man feel as if he were seven feet high and as strong as Joe Louis and an oracle on every subject under the sun.

Men like women who are appreciative. A man doesn't want a woman to gush over him and tell him that he is the most marvelous thing on earth, but he adores having her show him that she thinks that he is a very remarkable man, and if he had his dues he would be president of the bank, or running the government. He doesn't want a girl to get out a brass band every time he takes her out, but he does want her to show that she is having a good time and that it is all due to him.

And every husband would forgive his wife every other fault under the sun if she would just show him how she appreciates how hard he works and how generous he is to her and the children.

Of course, men admire beauty in women, but if a girl is feminine and sweet and amiable and keeps a man entertained and jollies him along she can get along with a very small amount of pulchritude, for any girl looks good to a man who handles him with tact and says "thank you" prettily.

DOROTHY DIX cannot reply personally to readers, but will answer problems of general interest through her column.

Negro Woman's Suit Is Partly Dismissed

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 5.—(AP)—A Negro woman's $9,000 damage suit against several East Baton Rouge parish peace officers, based on allegations that she was falsely arrested and mistreated, has been in part dismissed.

District Judge Charles A. Holcombe yesterday ruled that the suit was not valid against East Baton Rouge Parish Sheriff Bryan Clemmons or his deputies in their official capacities. However, a damage claim for the full amount against two deputies, Herman A. Thompson and E. Frank Brian, as individuals, was allowed to stand for later trial.

The plaintiff, Sinie Bell Smith, alleged that when she summoned officers Sept. 3 to protect her from attack by a drunken man, she was struck, shoved into a patrol car and later locked in jail.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.— (AP) — Stocks: Steady, selective buying. Bonds: Mixed; changes slight. Cotton: Irregular, hedging offsets liquidation.

CHICAGO—Wheat: Easy; scattered selling pressure. Corn: Easy; larger receipts expected. Oats: Steady; local stocks dwindling. Hogs: Nominally steady. Cattle: Nominally steady.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Demand for stocks perked up today after droopy tendencies during the first hour.

With the exception of several utility preferred, the market showed few significant price changes. A wide variety of leading issues either attracted no interest at all or remained at Friday's closing levels. Elsewhere gains of minor fractions held an edge over equally small losses.

A moderate amount of business was done, with volume boosted by a flurry of demand for the two-hour session hit a rate of around 500,000 shares.

Louisiana Oil And Gas News

La Salle Parish Claims Five Of Six Oil Producers

Drillers in Northeast Louisiana last week brought in six new oil producers, five of which were in the Tullos Urania field in LaSalle parish, according to the conservation department's weekly report revealed here yesterday.

Four other wells were abandoned, two gas yielders were brought in and nine new locations were sited.

Top oil producer for the week was the Louisiana Central Oil and Gas Company's Fee No. 1 in 22-9-5E of the Manifest field in Catahoula parish. It was gauged at 105 barrels at a depth of 1,802 feet.

The oil yielders brought in in the Tullos Urania field were:

The Arkansas Fuel Oil Company-Tremont Lumber Company's C-37 in 2-9-1E, gauged at 24 barrels; the G. and S. Drilling Company, W. E. Gammill, et al, No. 1 in 25-10-1E, gauged at 25 barrels; the D. W. Kerr and W. M. Kay Company-Urania Lumber Company No. 1 gauged at 20 barrels; the Fred Stovall Company-Urania Stovall No. 9 in 19-10-2E, gauged at 10 barrels, and the Viola Oil Company's Russell No. 1 in 25-10-1E, gauged at 25 barrels.

A gas producer, the J. R. Fitzhugh, et al, Delta A-1 in 11-16-7E of the Big Creek field in Richmond parish, was brought in with an output of 5,069,000 cubic feet.

Union parish had the only other new gas producer. It was the Interstate National's Fee No. 235 in 5-20-3E, gauged at 895,000 cubic feet.

Those wells abandoned were listed as:

The Hunt Oil Company, et al, La. Del. Hrd. Lbr. Co., Inc., et al, No. 21 in 24-5-5E in the Lake Larto field, Catahoula parish; the Arkansas Fuel Oil Company-Urania Lumber Company No. G-1 in 18-10-2E of the Tullos-Urania field in LaSalle parish; Carbons Consolidated Co.-Frost Lumber Industry No. 1-A in 9-21-1E in the Monroe field, Union parish, and the Hunt Oil Co., et al, La. Del. Hrd. Lbr. Co., Inc., et al, No. 20 in 31-5-3E in the Saline Lake field, Catahoula parish.

New Locations

Catahoula parish, Saline Lake field: The Hunt Oil Co., et al, La. Del. Hrd. Lbr. Co., Inc., et al, No. 20 in 31-5-5E.

Concordia parish, Lake St. John field: L. S. J. Salt Water Disposal Well No. 2 in 24-9-10E.

LaSalle parish, Tullos Urania field: The Viola Oil Company-W. M. H. attox No. 1 in 25-10-1E.

Union parish, Monroe field: The Interstate National's Fee No. 239 in 17-20-3E; the Interstate National's Fee No. 240 in 33-20-3E; the Feazel, et al, and Monroe Drilling Company's Perry and Handy No. 1 in 18-21-3E; the Louisiana Gas Producing-Ila Mae Dumas Nolan No. 1 in 30-20-3E, and the James A. Noe's Noe-Thomas No. 1 and No. 2, both in 29-22-3E.

Indians in New Mexico were building with stone, successfully using clay mud for mortar, when the first white explorers arrived in that area more than 400 years ago.

MORE CRUDE OIL SEEN IN OCTOBER

Major Increases Recorded For Oklahoma, Louisiana, Mississippi

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The week ended Oct. 29 saw the nation's crude oil production average more than 5,000,000 barrels daily for the first time since last spring, The Oil and Gas Journal reported today.

The week's total average, The Journal said, 5,005,275 barrels, an increase of 8,600 barrels over the previous week's figure.

Until then, the last previous week in which the daily average went over 5,000,000 barrels was that ended April 2, when output was 5,068,075 barrels.

Last week Oklahoma reported the largest increase, up 4,350 barrels to 425,850 barrels.

Other major gains were in Colorado, up 2,800 barrels to 65,100; Mississippi, up 2,500 to 97,700; Kentucky, 1,900 to 24,800; Louisiana, 1,850 to 531,325, and Michigan 1,400 to 48,800.

Alabama increased 150 barrels to 1,300, Arkansas was up 950 to 72,950 Florida gained 200 to 1,050, Montana added 100 to 26,350, and Wyoming was up 950 to 128,900.

Only five areas reported production declines. They were the eastern fields, down 900 barrels to 59,950; Illinois, off 3,300 to 176,800; Indiana, 1,200 to 28,500; Kansas, 1,050 to 276,600, and California 2,100 to 881,900.

Production was unchanged in Nebraska, 1,000 barrels; New Mexico, 126,900; Texas 2,026,200, and Utah 3,300.

Canada's daily average of 2,125 barrels to 62,140, of which 59,040 was reported for Alberta Province.

The daily averages:

Boom Fields In Scurry Gives Oilers Red Faces

SNYDER, Tex., Nov. 5.—(AP)—There are many red faces among veteran Texas oilmen these days—red from embarrassment.

Within the past year Scurry county has become the nations most talked about oil boom area since the east Texas field blew in 19 years ago.

It is a real boom and really embarrassing to many oilmen who as late as a year ago were warning all comers:

"Stay out of Scurry county."

It was not that they wanted the place to themselves. They did not think the county had enough oil to get excited about. Their warning, they thought, was just good advice.

They had been convinced by years of hunches, explorations, geological surveys and wildcatting.

These same skeptics now are saying, with pained expressions, Scurry county may become one of the world's greatest oil field areas.

Oil is nothing new to Scurry. It has been an oil producing county since 1923. But four big strikes since last November, plus a surprisingly small number of dry holes, have brought the boom. About 100 wells now are being drilled.

The old wells are shallow producers —from 1,800 to 2,600 feet deep. The new production is from formations left behind by the Pennsylvanian geologic age of from 220,000,000 to 268,000,000 years ago.

Pennsylvanian high quality crude is flowing from depths of 6,400 to 7,400 feet.

Oilmen and geologists in Midland, capital of the Permian basin's west Texas-southwestern New Mexico oil empire, say these new fields by January 1 will have at least 300 producing wells. Last January 1 there were only two.

A Midland geologist figures those 300 wells will have at least 480,000,000 barrels of recoverable reserves. He was figuring on only from 30 to 40 per cent recovery of all oil in place.

A Houston oil executive commented: "That is far too conservative. You can safely say that one Scurry county operator alone this year has found reserves that run between 500,000,000 and 1,000,000,000 barrels."

Snyder, the county seat, is a modern boom town. In 1940 it had 3,815 residents and had not grown noticeably by late 1948. City officials now are reluctant to make an estimate. People are arriving so rapidly.

The Scurry County Times on October 11 said Snyder already has grown to 14,000, and added there is no reason to doubt there will be 30,000 by June 1.

Stories of quick monetary return from the new wells are numerous.

C. W. Addison, 28, bought a half section of land last December for $4,800. The land already has turned out one oil producer. Two other tests are under way. He has received something like $64,000 in cash.

But predictions of great things to come for Scurry are based on tremendous possibilities for widespread extensions to the new fields.

Geologists say the new strikes are producing from formations which were nothing more than reefs of the Pennsylvania sea. Thickness of the pay zones or producing formations range from 200 to 600 feet.

There had been many unsuccessful wildcat wells drilled in Scurry county between the time initial production was discovered in 1923 and the new fields were brought in the past 12 months. Most of the operators were seeking oil in formations beneath the Pennsylvanian. They had little or no luck.

Many operators pulled out. A few, particularly independents, stayed. A majority of the new strikes are at depths that permit independents to participate. Drilling costs are small compared to deeper tests.

Sun Oil Company found Pennsylvania reef production in December 1946 and brought in the Jameson field in Coke county, about 60 miles to the southeast of Snyder.

Other companies since then have found similar strikes in several localities as much as 120 miles from Snyder.

Geologists are wondering if future explorations might eventually outline the Pennsylvania reef as being 200 miles or greater in length.

The oil potential from such a formation would be tremendous, they say, even after admitting there would be many reef areas with no oil.

Oil leases were pretty cheap last year about the time Standard Oil Company of Texas was making final preparations to drill the well that was to start the Scurry boom.

Two young Notre Dame graduates arrived in Snyder about that time. They were Joseph I. O'Neill, former F. B. I. agent from Philadelphia, and William P. Castleman, Jr., former aluminum company sales manager from Louisville, Ky.

They had decided to go into business for themselves. A friend in Dallas had suggested they go to west Texas and buy, sell and trade oil leases.

Neither claimed to know much about the oil business. They were attracted by the low prices on leases in Scurry.

By September 1948 they had invested all their money in Scurry leases and had good reason to become discouraged.

As O'Neill explained the situation: "We tried to sell those leases to 97 different companies and operators and couldn't find a buyer. We couldn't even get anyone to tell us the stuff was any good, and we didn't know it was any good."

They finally managed to sell some of their leases. They were hopefully searching for more buyers when the first indication of a possible boom appeared.

"As luck would have it,' O'Neill explained, "we wound up with an interest in 800 acres that have good prospects."

They already have four producing wells, and have three rigs operating.

Each admits he never had any idea of becoming an oil operator.

But a sign on the door of their new office in Midland reads: "Castleman, O'Neill—Oil Operators."

Petroleum Institute Head Announces His Retirement

By Leslie Carpenter

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Any man who can be a successful president of the American Petroleum Institute, the people who work around him say, is a man who can walk all over eggs with spiked baseball shoes and not harm a shell.

A Texan who has spent eight years in the job without a single egg casualty will retire when he reaches his 65th birthday next January.

He is William R. Boyd, Jr., of Teague, Tex., who failed earlier in his life when he led a campaign to put the United States in the League of Nations, but who succeeded later in bringing peace among sorely split factions within the most complex national trade association in the country —the American Petroleum Institute.

Boyd will probably be named honorary chairman of the board of A. P. I. when his retirement from the A. P. I. takes effect. He has withstood many appeals to take another term as president.

Boyd will announce his retirement at the A. P. I. meeting November 7. He will turn 65, the retirement age, next January 7, and he believes the time has come to start taking things easy.

In the turbulent years since he first was elected president of A. P. I. in 1941, Boyd has rung up a number of achievements.

The most distinguished was the award of the Medal of Merit to Boyd by President Truman in 1946 for Boyd's wartime service as chairman of the Petroleum Industry War Council and as president of A. P. I.

In making the award, the president said: "The petroleum industry's contribution represented the greatest government-industry partnership in the history of the United States."

But Boyd's most signficiant accomplishment, as far as the oil industry is concerned, was his success in convincing Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes early in the war of the need of forming the Petroleum Industry War Council.

Many felt that this action prevented the government from taking over the oil industry for the duration of the war, at least. An executive order of the president along that line had already been drawn before it was scrapped, according to reliable information.

When Boyd took over as president of A. P. I. at the San Francisco meeting of the tremendous trade association in 1946, he said: "No one man nor one group of men has ever run me. No man nor group of men ever will."

Both the major companies and the independents wondered if he could stick to his work and bring harmony within the oil industry. Their opinion now is that he has. While the majors and the independents cannot fairly be called Martins and Coys, they do have their differences, quite frequently. It takes a skilled pair of hands to unruffle the feathers.

Boyd was born in Fairfield, Tex., and studied law from his father. At the remarkable age of 19, he was admitted to the Texas Bar by a special dispensation. He took a brief time to come to Washington as a congressional secretary to the late Representative Scott Field, of Texas, and returned to Teague, Te as, a town which elected him mayor at the age of 21.

But Boyds interests soon transcended the city limits of Teague and the state borders of Texas. When congress was considering enactment of the Federal Reserve Act, Boyd took part in a national campaign seeking banking reform legislation. He became a campaign manager of the League to Enforce Peace, which was formed by William Howard Taft. He worked for several years with an organization pushing President Wilsons efforts to have the United States join the League of Nations.

Boyd joined the staff of the A. P. I. in 1920 as assistant general secretary and counsel. He was elected executive vice-president in 1921, and in 1941 became its ninth president.

Take it from members of the oil industry, who say that Boyd, a small man in size, has done a big job and is leaving a lot for his successor to live up to.

STATE REPORT

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The state department of conservation in its weekly oil report listed completion of 17 wells with combined initial daily production of 2,883.18 barrels, abandonment of eight tests and issuance of permits for 58 new wells.

Completions were:

KING OF HOBOES DIES AT NINETY

Friends, Both Rich And Poor, Attend Pauper's Funeral

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Dan O'Brien, who called himself "the king of the hoboes," had the kind of funeral he probably would have wanted.

And today he sleeps in a satin-lined casket in a pretty little cemetery plot—a richer bed than he knew during his 90 years.

Dan died last week at New York's Bellevue hospital—broke, as usual.

His friends came to the funeral yesterday in a little mortuary chapel. Some were well dressed; some came from the Bowery.

Professor Gieuseppe Ravitta, the "Paganini of the Gutter" who fiddles outside Carnegie Hall, played "Ava Maria."

Box Car Betty eulogized him.

The Unitarian clergyman, Rev. Charles F. Potter, added his words . . . "to rushing go-getters he preached relaxation . . . to city people he sang the song of the open road."

Dan had never done much, didn't work, played with the kids, and told people to take it easy. He was headed for a pauper's grave, but his friends said no. A real estate man, Morris Morganstern, and Sammy Fuchs, proprietor of the Bowery Follies, put up the money for the coffin and plot.

"Dan's not dead," declared Box Car Betty, who won't give her real name. "He's just making a trip. We'll see his face again and we'll hear him speak. It'll be a grand thing if we hold a convention up there."

And she wept.

Mrs. Mesta Can Still Throw Her Parties

LUXEMBOURG, Nov. 5. — (AP) — Seven U. S. senators touring Europe to find facts had this one confirmed today:

Mrs. Perle Mesta, newly appointed U. S. minister to the Duchy of Luxembourg, can still throw a party.

She held her first official one last night for the senators.

The widowed oil heiress, famed in Washington for her gala dinners, even had the Luxembourgers helping to make her first reception a success.

Torches flared and "Marching Through Georgia" blared out as a Luxembourg band trooped through the handsome gardens of the U. S. legation. The Yankee ditty brought grins and applause from the senators, three of whom are from the Deep South.

This was only a small part of the busy schedule of parties, tours and serious moments Mrs. Mesta has arranged for the visitors, a subcommittee of the senate appropriations committee, headed by Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.).

With Senator Thomas are senators: John McClellan (D-Ark), A. Willis Robertson (D-Va.), Dennis Chavez, (D-N. M.), Burnet R. Maybank (D-S. C.), John C. Stennis (D-Miss.) and Edward J. Thye (R-Minn.). They will go on from Luxembourg to Geneva, Vienna, Athens, Rome, Madrid, Paris and London.

FORMER JUDGE IS U. M. W. TRUSTEE

Will Serve On Board Of Workers' Welfare And Retirement Fund

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Nov. 5.—(AP)—A former Louisville, Ky., judge today became the coal operators' representative on the board of trustees of the United Mine Workers' welfare and retirement fund.

He is Attorney Charles I. Dawson, who has both a legal and an insurance actuarial background. He was selected in nationwide balloting among soft coal mine owners.

Dawson replaces Ezra Van Horn, of Cleveland, as the operators' representative on the board which administers the mine workers' pension and welfare fund. The other trustees are U. S. Senator Styles Bridges (R- N. H.), representing the public; and President John L. Lewis of the U. M. W., for the union.

Dawson's election was announced by Truman E. Johnson, secretary of the operators' negotiating committee. The committee was set up under the soft coal industry's 1948 contract with the union.

At the same time, Johnson announced that the industry had accepted the resignation of Van Horn. He quit September 14 and followed his action with a statement that Senator Bridges and Lewis were outvoting him on every issue and were dissipating the fund's financial backlog.

This move set off two rapid-fire developments: the fund's trustees suspended its operation because it said there was not enough money, and the diggers walked out of the pits in protest.

The new trustee is 68 and the senior partner of the law firm of Bullit, Dawson and Tarrant of Louisville. He served a term in the Kentucky house of representatives, is a former Kentucky attorney general and was district judge of the western district of Kentucky from 1925 to 1935.

He is a director of several corporations, including the Kentucky Home Mutual life Insurance Company of Louisville.

Texarkana Doctor Is Named Eye-Bank Head

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Dr. Henry Carney of Texarkana, Ark., was named Arkansas division chairman of the Southern Eye Bank today.

Charles E. Fenner, general chairman of the bank, in announcing the appointment, said the bank is expanding its membership into other states in hope of increasing interest in its research work.

The bank has two primary functions: corneal transplants to restore sight and research.

Though the bank is expanding its membership into other states, Fenner said, New Orleans will continue to serve as a clearing house for cornea donors and for physicians who wish to use the bank's facilities.

Since the bank was opened in July 1947, 15 persons have had their sight restored through use of corneas furnished by the bank.

Fenner said there are always more requests for corneas than can be supplied and more donors are needed. Corneas must be donated and not willed, he said, because they must be removed from the eye within three hours after death to be useful in operations.

Nov. 6 from two to five o'clock. We have greatly improved the physical plant and its operation during the past 16 months and we are proud of our accomplishments. While there are naturally many things to be desired, we believe most people of Ouachita and the other parishes of the state will agree that we have done a good job. It is our aim to rehabilitate the boys who are sent to our school and restore them to society as better citizens. We want people everywhere to see for themselves what we are doing."

In its report the grand jury recently condemned the discipline cottage or "guardhouse" as being "unfit." Mr. Gresham said it was part of the physical plant inherited by his administration, dating back to 1943. Records at the training school reveal, Mr. Gresham said, that operation of the guardhouse was approved by seven district court and juvenile judges of Louisiana in 1943.

Other criticisms were directed at the institutions' dining room and kitchen as being "ill-kept" and "without proper equipment."

Mr. Gresham said the floor of the dining room originally was of rough concrete and difficult to keep scrubbed clean. "On May 12, 1949," he said, "the Monroe Brick and Builders Supply Company installed a modern, clean and handsome asphalt tile floor in the dining room and I have a letter from Victor Davis, vice-president, attesting that the dining room floor is in excellent condition and that there is nothing more sanitary than an asphalt tile floor.

"I also have signed statements from O. C. Portman Electric Company showing new lighting fixtures were installed in the dining hall in June; another from G. C. Williams attesting the dining hall was completely repainted in June; one from Sherman C. Bobb certifying that 18 large aluminum Venetian blinds were installed in the dining room; statements by A. H. Recoulley that all walls and ceilings of buildings at the training school were replastered where needed during the summer of 1949; a statement by R. L. Prophit that leaks had been repaired in the roofs of cottages A, B, D, E and F, the office building, school building, kitchen and dining hall and on the gymnasium."

Mr. Gresham was surprised by criticisms directed against the institution as "a fire trap." "We have taken every precaution in our power to safeguard the institution and its inmates against fire," he said. He exhibited a statement from C. P. Hartley showing eight fire escapes had been installled at the school from May to July, 1949.

Jailed U. S. Embassy Clerk Visited By Wife

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Samuel Meryn had a 30-minute visit today with her husband, an American embassy clerk held in Pankrac prison on charges of espionage.

Three Czech police supervisors attended the visit, which was the first meeting of the couple since Meryn was arrested 15 days ago. Mrs. Meryn was permitted to give her husband a package containing food and books.

The government has rejected an official American protest against the jailing of Meryn and the ouster of two U. S. diplomats on spy charges.

man said the supply for homes is exhausted.

Mayor David Lawrence of Pittsburgh called Lewis direct for help. The answer was: "No."

Lewis suggested that the mayor "see those guys at the Duquesne Club." The club is one to which many industrialists belong. Lewis meant, a U. M. W. spokesman said here, that Pittsburgh's idle steel mills have large stocks of coal on hand which they could distribute.

Carnegie-Illinois Steel Company promised to do just that. It agreed to release part of its stockpile for emergency use.

By contrast with this bleak coal outlook, the steel picture was brighter but far from rosy. One new strike began. The 10,000 steelworkers of Timken Roller Bearing Company quit their jobs at five plants—Canton, Wooster, Mount Vernon, Columbus, and Zanesville, O.

A snag of undisclosed significance held up an agreement at Republic Steel, Cleveland, where the company made a pension-package offer yesterday.

The steelworkers' negotiators said: "With Murray's approval, we'll accept." But after a huddle with C. I. O. President Philip Murray they had no comment. Reportedly, the company was being asked to submit its terms in writing.

At Gary, Ind., steelworker negotiations broke off with Inland Steel Company two hours after they began. A union spokesman said the company wanted work to resume during negotiations.

The union countered with a proposal that Inland accept, as the basis for bargaining, the terms of the Bethlehem Steel contract signed early this week. The company negotiators wanted to talk this over among themselves; the union thereupon withdrew.

Jones and Laughlin Steel, at Pittsburgh, announced that "preliminary" talks toward ending the strike will start Monday.

Youngstown Sheet, the country's fifth largest producer, cheered the steel-dependent city of Youngstown, O., with announcement that "exploratory" talks with the C. I. O. will start Tuesday afternoon. The firm has 13,000 workers in Youngstown and 8,000 at Chicago.

Five thousand steelworkers headed back to work at Coatesville, Pa., after the Lukens Steel Company signed a contract with C. I. O.

Another 1,800 steelworkers were affected by the agreement at McLouth Steel Corporation, Detroit, providing for a pension and welfare package equivalent to 13 cents an hour. It was modeled after the Bethlehem settlement.

the subscription price for his weekly newspaper, The National Pension Advocate.

Some of his former associates testified at legislative hearings that his "take" of contributions in addition to membership funds sometimes amounts to more than $4,000 a day.

Mrs. Williams, a reluctant, often evasive witness before a legislative committee, pooh poohed assertions that McLain was the real boss of her department—that he made the appointments and gave the orders for her to carry out.

But Governor Earl Warren urged passage of the new initiative. He blasted unnamed pension promoters who, he said, "are now the behind the scenes manipulators of our entire social welfare system."

The initiative up for vote Tuesday —proposition No. 2—would not cut down the aid payments. In fact, more would be payable upon a showing of need. Repeal provisions, however, would:

Abolish Mrs. Williams' job and let the governor appoint his own social welfare chief.

Return administration of old age and blind security to the 58 counties.

Restore the "relatives' responsibility" clause—again obliging families to take care of their own.

Set the eligible age back to 65 instead of 63.

The state legislative auditor's office said No. 4 had increased welfare costs a full 25 per cent. Governor Warren said its repeal would save the state $60,000,000 in the next year.

McLain, with the backing of both the A. F. L. and C. I. O., calls No. 2 a fraud. He views it as a move by the state Chamber of Commerce to shift more than $21,000,000 in taxes from railroads, banks and corporations to homeowners and farmers.

CITY TEACHERS HOLD MEETING

Mrs. Vincent Discusses Work Of Certification Committee

The Monroe City Classroom Teachers met at Central Grammar School auditorium on Tuesday. The president, D. W. Griffith, read from the constitution, the objects of the association, and spoke of the importance of each member being familiar with the constitution. Mrs. Duncan of the program committee, introduced the speaker, Mrs. W. S. Vincent, member of the state certification committee.

Mrs. Vincent had been asked to discuss the work of the committee, and the bulletin recently issued by the group. She said that the time for submitting recommendations to the committee had been extended to March 1950, and she emphasized the importance of each member's opinion in revising the bulletin, before it becomes law. Mrs. Vincent pointed out several inadequacies contained in the present form of the committee report. She mentioned the need of having the different types of teaching certificates; the feeling that out-of-state certificates should be honored; the fact that no Louisiana college offers all the courses which are required for the certification of kindergarten teachers; and the unfairness of the requirement that teachers must have a master's degree.

To some in our midst Christmas will mean very little for it will be just another day of struggle to provide life's essentials. And it is to meet just such cases that Good Fellows are now out to render a small but appreciated service.

Just scout that attic and find old toys, toys no longer used but such as can be repaired. Then take them to your nearest fire station, the Vocational School's staff will be only too glad to perform a first-class repair job. Start to make someone happy for Christmas right now!

HIGH SCHOOL GRID BRAWL HURTS FOUR

Two Reported Serious After Receiving Knife Wounds After Game

DETROIT, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Conflicting accounts made it impossible today to fix blame in the riot which broke up a high school football game Friday night, police said.

As a result of the fighting, two persons were in hospitals with serious knife wounds.

More than 1,000 fans joined in the melee. It started when a Negro player and a white player began slugging each other on the gridiron.

Afterwards, a Negro man and his wife told police they were attacked by about four knife-wielding white youths outside the stadium.

Melvindale police denied there was any racial aspect to the rioting. However, the Melvindale team was all white while there were seven Negroes on the starting lineup for River Rouge High School. They played in Melvindale, an all-white community.

Main cause of the outburst of temper was the hot rivalry between the schools, witnesses said. They were both unbeaten and the league championship was at stake.

Fighting broke out on the gridiron in the final minutes. River Rouge was awarded a 7-0 victory even though the game was not completed.

Four persons were injured, three from knife wounds. In serious condition at Wayne County Hospital were Mrs. Viola Higgins, 34, a Negro, and Gerald Biskner, 19, white.

Mrs. Higgins' husband, Branch, told police he and his wife were dragged from their car by white youths.

Police questioned scores of rioters but all were released for lack of evidence.

Melvindale Coach Robert Sims said the riot was "all very unfortunate and I am sorry."

Frank Weeber, River Rouge coach, was bitter about it. For the press, however, he would say only that "it was one of those things."

Superintendents of the two schools will meet Monday to decide whether any action will be taken.

dried up and cannot be used again. If we continue to use this style of decoration, the garlands and Christmas trees will have to be replaced each year. That will make a repeat cost every year of about the same amount.

"The aluminum garlands, stars, bells and Santa Claus heads, which we now propose to purchase, are good for at least four years. The cost of this semi-permanent material would be $2.00 per front foot for this year, but you would then own these decorations, and the cost in subsequent years would be only that of the labor in hanging and dismantling, plus a small amount for maintenance. This should be approximately one-third of the original cost.

"These semi-permanent decorations constitute a wise business investment. The alternative is to use the kind of decorations we had last year, which are much less attractive and which would cost more over a four-year period.

"There is, of course, the final alternative of not having Christmas decorations this year—and unless there are a representative number of merchants at our next meeting, shipping deadlines will force us into this alternative.

"Please consider this carefully and come to the meeting on Tuesday, November 8, at 2 p.m., in the Cameo Room of the irginia Hotel, prepared to take final action. This will be the last opportunity."

THREE KILLED IN CARGO PLANE FALL

Airport Officials Hint Weather May Have Been Cause For Crash

AKRON, Ohio, Nov. 5.—(AP)—A twin-engined cargo plane crashed in a woods on the edge of the Akron-Canton airport last night killing three Cleveland men.

The three were identified by Coroner Edward C. Reno as:

James R. (Bud) Harrington, 45, operator of Harrington, Inc., Cleveland Air Service and former manager of the Mansfield, Ohio, municipal airport.

John E. Franklin, 26, of Olmsted Inc.

Robert S. Yarano, 27, of Cleveland, a Harrington, Inc., mechanic.

The coroner began an investigation today to determine whether engine trouble or bad weather was responsible for the crash. The DC-3 was trying for an instrument landing in rain and snow at about 9:30 p.m. (E. S. T.) when the plane came down.

An official at the airport said the weather "more than likely" caused the crash. He said the ceiling was only about 600 feet at the time.

But Russell Girt, on whose farm the cargo plane crashed, told Summit county sheriff's deputies he heard the engine misfiring and that the other engine seemed entirely dead.

The plane was returning from Philadelphia with a cargo of radio parts.

Coach Jimmy Karam's Trojans, victims of South Georgia J. C. in the second annual Junior Sugar Bowl game here last year, have been running rampant through all opposition this year, and there's no doubt about who'll be favored Saturday. The Children at Shreveport, La.

While not owning a record befitting a bowl team—one win, four losses and a tie, the Louisianans have been playing toughies and are expected to provide a good test for Little Rock's Trojans, That would be something they haven't had yet in bowling over eight straight opponents by top-heavy scores.

In the inaugural Shrine Bowl game last year, Hardin-Simmons walloped Ouachita of Arkadelphia, Ark., 40-12.

SAYS CHINA IS LOST TO REDS

Newsman Who Worked In China Tells U. S. To Accept The Facts

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 5.—(AP)—An Associated Press foreign correspondent, formerly in China, said today we must be prepared to accept, as an accomplished fact, Communist control of China.

The correspondent, Seymour Topping, said that "within nine months, we shall probably see elimination from the mainland of the last major Nationalist centers of resistance."

But he told the Associated Press Managing Editors Association that all dependable evidence indicates Moscow does not have direct control over the Chinese Communists.

"Peiping obediently follows Moscow's lead," he said, "but almost certainly not on direct orders but rather because of ideological faith.

"How important this distinction is has been amply demonstrated by Tito's Yugoslavia.

"Like the situation in Yugoslavia before the split with Russia came, China has no significant Russian forces within her boundaries and the strategic agencies of internal control are not, as far as we know, in the hands of Russian agents.

"There are strong tendencies within Communist China towards a form of Titoism. For the present they seem to have been effectively blocked. The basis for Chinese Titoism comes from a realization that China needs the close friendship of the United States more than she needs the friendship of any other country. Only from the United States—in the next years—can come the large scale economic aid that China needs desperately for reconstruction and industrialization."

Topping, former AP correspondent at Nanking, spoke at noon at the closing session of the association's 16th annual meeting.

KING OF HOBOES DIES AT NINETY

Friends, Both Rich And Poor, Attend Pauper's Funeral

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Dan O'Brien, who called himself "the king of the hoboes," had the kind of funeral he probably would have wanted.

And today he sleeps in a satin-lined casket in a pretty little cemetery plot—a richer bed than he knew during his 90 years.

Dan died last week at New York's Bellevue hospital—broke, as usual.

His friends came to the funeral yesterday in a little mortuary chapel. Some were well dressed; some came from the Bowery.

Professor Gieuseppe Ravitta, the "Paganini of the Gutter" who fiddles outside Carnegie Hall, played "Ava Maria."

Box Car Betty eulogized him.

The Unitarian clergyman, Rev. Charles F. Potter, added his words . . . "to rushing go-getters he preached relaxation . . . to city people he sang the song of the open road."

Dan had never done much, didn't work, played with the kids, and told people to take it easy. He was headed for a pauper's grave, but his friends said no. A real estate man, Morris Morganstern, and Sammy Fuchs, proprietor of the Bowery Follies, put up the money for the coffin and plot.

"Dan's not dead," declared Box Car Betty, who won't give her real name. "He's just making a trip. We'll see his face again and we'll hear him speak. It'll be a grand thing if we hold a convention up there."

And she wept.

Mrs. Mesta Can Still Throw Her Parties

LUXEMBOURG, Nov. 5. — (AP) — Seven U. S. senators touring Europe to find facts had this one confirmed today:

Mrs. Perle Mesta, newly appointed U. S. minister to the Duchy of Luxembourg, can still throw a party.

She held her first official one last night for the senators.

The widowed oil heiress, famed in Washington for her gala dinners, even had the Luxembourgers helping to make her first reception a success.

Torches flared and "Marching Through Georgia" blared out as a Luxembourg band trooped through the handsome gardens of the U. S. legation. The Yankee ditty brought grins and applause from the senators, three of whom are from the Deep South.

This was only a small part of the busy schedule of parties, tours and serious moments Mrs. Mesta has arranged for the visitors, a subcommittee of the senate appropriations committee, headed by Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.).

With Senator Thomas are senators: John McClellan (D-Ark), A. Willis Robertson (D-Va.), Dennis Chavez, (D-N. M.), Burnet R. Maybank (D-S. C.), John C. Stennis (D-Miss.) and Edward J. Thye (R-Minn.). They will go on from Luxembourg to Geneva, Vienna, Athens, Rome, Madrid, Paris and London.

FORMER JUDGE IS U. M. W. TRUSTEE

Will Serve On Board Of Workers' Welfare And Retirement Fund

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Nov. 5.—(AP)—A former Louisville, Ky., judge today became the coal operators' representative on the board of trustees of the United Mine Workers' welfare and retirement fund.

He is Attorney Charles I. Dawson, who has both a legal and an insurance actuarial background. He was selected in nationwide balloting among soft coal mine owners.

Dawson replaces Ezra Van Horn, of Cleveland, as the operators' representative on the board which administers the mine workers' pension and welfare fund. The other trustees are U. S. Senator Styles Bridges (R- N. H.), representing the public; and President John L. Lewis of the U. M. W., for the union.

Dawson's election was announced by Truman E. Johnson, secretary of the operators' negotiating committee. The committee was set up under the soft coal industry's 1948 contract with the union.

At the same time, Johnson announced that the industry had accepted the resignation of Van Horn. He quit September 14 and followed his action with a statement that Senator Bridges and Lewis were outvoting him on every issue and were dissipating the fund's financial backlog.

This move set off two rapid-fire developments: the fund's trustees suspended its operation because it said there was not enough money, and the diggers walked out of the pits in protest.

The new trustee is 68 and the senior partner of the law firm of Bullit, Dawson and Tarrant of Louisville. He served a term in the Kentucky house of representatives, is a former Kentucky attorney general and was district judge of the western district of Kentucky from 1925 to 1935.

He is a director of several corporations, including the Kentucky Home Mutual life Insurance Company of Louisville.

Texarkana Doctor Is Named Eye-Bank Head

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Dr. Henry Carney of Texarkana, Ark., was named Arkansas division chairman of the Southern Eye Bank today.

Charles E. Fenner, general chairman of the bank, in announcing the appointment, said the bank is expanding its membership into other states in hope of increasing interest in its research work.

The bank has two primary functions: corneal transplants to restore sight and research.

Though the bank is expanding its membership into other states, Fenner said, New Orleans will continue to serve as a clearing house for cornea donors and for physicians who wish to use the bank's facilities.

Since the bank was opened in July 1947, 15 persons have had their sight restored through use of corneas furnished by the bank.

Fenner said there are always more requests for corneas than can be supplied and more donors are needed. Corneas must be donated and not willed, he said, because they must be removed from the eye within three hours after death to be useful in operations.

the subscription price for his weekly newspaper, The National Pension Advocate.

Some of his former associates testified at legislative hearings that his "take" of contributions in addition to membership funds sometimes amounts to more than $4,000 a day.

Mrs. Williams, a reluctant, often evasive witness before a legislative committee, pooh poohed assertions that McLain was the real boss of her department—that he made the appointments and gave the orders for her to carry out.

But Governor Earl Warren urged passage of the new initiative. He blasted unnamed pension promoters who, he said, "are now the behind the scenes manipulators of our entire social welfare system."

The initiative up for vote Tuesday —proposition No. 2—would not cut down the aid payments. In fact, more would be payable upon a showing of need. Repeal provisions, however, would:

Abolish Mrs. Williams' job and let the governor appoint his own social welfare chief.

Return administration of old age and blind security to the 58 counties.

Restore the "relatives' responsibility" clause—again obiliging families to take care of their own.

Set the eligible age back to 65 instead of 63.

The state legislative auditor's office said No. 4 had increased welfare costs a full 25 per cent. Governor Warren said its repeal would save the state $60,000,000 in the next year.

McLain, with the backing of both the A. F. L. and C. I. O., calls No. 2 a fraud. He views it as a move by the state Chamber of Commerce to shift more than $21,000,000 in taxes from railroads, banks and corporations to homeowners and farmers.

CITY TEACHERS HOLD MEETING

Mrs. Vincent Discusses Work Of Certification Committee

The Monroe City Classroom Teachers met at Central Grammar School auditorium on Tuesday. The president, D. W. Griffith, read from the constitution, the objects of the association, and spoke of the importance of each member being familiar with the constitution. Mrs. Duncan of the program committee, introduced the speaker, Mrs. W. S. Vincent, member of the state certification committee.

Mrs. Vincent had been asked to discuss the work of the committee, and the bulletin recently issued by the group. She said that the time for submitting recommendations to the committee had been extended to March 1950, and she emphasized the importance of each member's opinion in revising the bulletin, before it becomes law. Mrs. Vincent pointed out several inadequacies contained in the present form of the committee report. She mentioned the need of having the different types of teaching certificates; the feeling that out-of-state certificates should be honored; the fact that no Louisiana college offers all the courses which are required for the certification of kindergarten teachers; and the unfairness of the requirement [illegible]

To some in our midst Christmas will mean very little for it will be just another day of struggle to provide life's essentials. And it is to meet just such cases that Good Fellows are now out to render a small but appreciated service.

Just scout that attic and find old toys, toys no longer used but such as can be repaired. Then take them to your nearest fire station, the Vocational School's staff will be only too glad to perform a first-class repair job. Start to make someone happy for Christmas right now!

HIGH SCHOOL GRID BRAWL HURTS FOUR

Two Reported Serious After Receiving Knife Wounds After Game

DETROIT, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Conflicting accounts made it impossible today to fix blame in the riot which broke up a high school football game Friday night, police said.

As a result of the fighting, two persons were in hospitals with serious knife wounds.

More than 1,000 fans joined in the melee. It started when a Negro player and a white player began slugging each other on the gridiron.

Afterwards, a Negro man and his wife told police they were attacked by about four knife-wielding white youths outside the stadium.

Melvindale police denied there was any racial aspect to the rioting. However, the Melvindale team was all white while there were seven Negroes on the starting lineup for River Rouge High School. They played in Melvindale, an all-white community.

Main cause of the outburst of temper was the hot rivalry between the schools, witnesses said. They were both unbeaten and the league championship was at stake.

Fighting broke out on the gridiron in the final minutes. River Rouge was awarded a 7-0 victory even though the game was not completed.

Four persons were injured, three from knife wounds. In serious condition at Wayne County Hospital were Mrs. Viola Higgins, 34, a Negro, and Gerald Biskner, 19, white.

Mrs. Higgins' husband, Branch, told police he and his wife were dragged from their car by white youths.

Police questioned scores of rioters but all were released for lack of evidence.

Melvindale Coach Robert Sims said the riot was "all very unfortunate and I am sorry."

Frank Weeber, River Rouge coach, was bitter about it. For the press, however, he would say only that "it was one of those things."

Superintendents of the two schools will meet Monday to decide whether any action will be taken.

dried up and cannot be used again. If we continue to use this style of decoration, the garlands and Christmas trees will have to be replaced each year. That will make a repeat cost every year of about the same amount.

"The aluminum garlands, stars, bells and Santa Claus heads, which we now propose to purchase, are good for at least four years. The cost of this semi-permanent material would be $2.00 per front foot for this year, but you would then own these decorations, and the cost in subsequent years would be only that of the labor in hanging and dismantling, plus a small amount for maintenance. This should be approximately one-third of the original cost.

"These semi-permanent decorations constitute a wise business investment. The alternative is to use the kind of decorations we had last year, which are much less attractive and which would cost more over a four-year period.

"There is, of course, the final alternative of not having Christmas decorations this year—and unless there are a representative number of merchants at our next meeting, shipping deadlines will force us into this alternative.

"Please consider this carefully and come to the meeting on Tuesday, November 8, at 2 p.m., in the Cameo Room of the irginia Hotel, prepared to take final action. This will be the last opportunity."

Children usually enjoy an open luncheon sandwich of toast, tomato slices, cheese sauce and crisp bacon strips. Applesauce and cookies, with milk of course, finish off a luncheon of this kind perfectly.

THREE KILLED IN CARGO PLANE FALL

Airport Officials Hint Weather May Have Been Cause For Crash

AKRON, Ohio, Nov. 5.—(AP)—A twin-engined cargo plane crashed in a woods on the edge of the Akron-Canton airport last night killing three Cleveland men.

The three were identified by Coroner Edward C. Reno as:

James R. (Bud) Harrington, 45, operator of Harrington, Inc., Cleveland Air Service and former manager of the Mansfield, Ohio, municipal airport.

John E. Franklin, 26, of Olmsted Inc.

Robert S. Yarano, 27, of Cleveland, a Harrington, Inc., mechanic.

The coroner began an investigation today to determine whether engine trouble or bad weather was responsible for the crash. The DC-3 was trying for an instrument landing in rain and snow at about 9:30 p.m. (E. S. T.) when the plane came down.

An official at the airport said the weather "more than likely" caused the crash. He said the ceiling was only about 600 feet at the time.

But Russell Girt, on whose farm the cargo plane crashed, told Summit county sheriff's deputies he heard the engine misfiring and that the other engine seemed entirely dead.

The plane was returning from Philadelphia with a cargo of radio parts.

SAYS CHINA IS LOST TO REDS

Newsman Who Worked In China Tells U. S. To Accept The Facts

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 5.—(AP)—An Associated Press foreign correspondent, formerly in China, said today we must be prepared to accept, as an accomplished fact, Communist control of China.

The correspondent, Seymour Topping, said that "within nine months, we shall probably see elimination from the mainland of the last major Nationalist centers of resistance."

But he told the Associated Press Managing Editors Association that all dependable evidence indicates Moscow does not have direct control over the Chinese Communists.

"Peiping obediently follows Moscow's lead," he said, "but almost certainly not on direct orders but rather because of ideological faith.

"How i portant this distinction is has been amply demonstrated by Tito's Yugoslavia.

"Like the situation in Yugoslavia before the split with Russia came, China has no significant Russian forces within her boundaries and the strategic agencies of internal control are not, as far as we know, in the hands of Russian agents.

"There are strong tendencies within Communist China towards a form of Titoism. For the present they seem to have been effectively blocked. The basis for Chinese Titoism comes from a realization that China needs the close friendship of the United States more than she needs the friendship of any other country. Only from the United States—in the next years—can come the large scale economic aid that China needs desperately for reconstruction and industrialization."

Topping, former AP correspondent at Nanking, spoke at noon at the closing session of the association's 16th annual meeting.

SPARTANS HOLD NOTRE DAME TO 34-21 WIN

MICHIGAN STATE GIVES IRISH THEIR TOUGHEST FIGHT

South Benders Give Up More Points Than For Any Other Game Of Season

EAST LANSING, Mich., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Unbeaten Notre Dame got its stiffest argument of the season, but unleashed the versatility of Quarterback Bob Williams for a 34-21 triumph over Michigan State here today before 51,277 upset-hopeful fans.

In a game that was expected to menace seriously the Notre Dame string of 33 straight games without defeat, the Irish nonchalantly punched across two touchdowns in the second period, another in the third and two more in the fourth for their sixth win of the season.

Michigan State, an inspired but outplayed team today, pushed across two touchdowns on desperation passes in the closing minutes to score the most points Notre Dame has yielded in a single afternoon since the 28-27 squeak past Purdue in the 1948 season opener.

Williams, a daring performer with 13 of 16 passes completed in a perfect football afternoon, ran 40 yards to one touchdown and passed to two others as the Irish hammered another crisp triumph into their bid for an unsullied season.

The rough, tough Spartans played to the hilt, but the Irish had a brilliant all around attack which could not be denied.

Michigan State was an inspired team. But after playing a scoreless first quarter and failing to tally from the one-yard line, the Spartans just couldn't cope with the knifing sharpness of the Irish attack.

It was the first defeat for the Spartans since they bowed, 7-3 to Michigan in their first game of the season. Since then they had won five straight games, beating Marquette, Maryland, William and Mary, Penn State and Temple.

Williams was a bold quarterback for Notre Dame today from star to finish. His 19 yard touchdown shot to Ernie Zalejski for a touchdown in the second period gave the Irish a 7-0 lead and sounded the tempo for the attack.

Michigan State rallied to tie the score at 7-7 when Sonny Grandelius plunged one foot for a touchdown in the second period, but that only served to goad the Irish on to their telling clean-up.

Notre Dame, which still has North Carolina, Iowa, Southern California and Southern Methodist to face, simply ground down the Michigan State defense with a brilliantly varied attack.

Still in the second quarter, the Irish marched 95 yards in 17 plays with Larry Coutre plunging over from the two-foot line. Steve Oracko booted his second conversion and Notre Dame led 14-7 at the intermission.

The ball game really was sewed up in the third quarter when Williams, who had been baiting the Spartans with decoy plunges through the middle, suddenly kept the ball himself instead of handing it off, and scooted 40 yards to pay dirt.

The fourth period produced two touchdowns by each team, but it was Notre Dame which got its pair first to settle the issue.

Stubby Emil Sitko, who led the Irish ball carriers with 88 yards in 18 tries, scurried 12 yards for a touchdown that capped a 59-yard Notre Dame march in nine plays. That put the Irish in front 27-7 at the outset of the final quarter.

Another Notre Dame strike over 63 yards climaxed by a 12-yard touchdown pass from Williams to End Leon Hart gave Notre Dame a 34-7 lead and that put the game on ice.

Michigan State went to its aerial attack and pumped across two more touchdowns with Quarterback Gene Glick flipping scoring shots to Ends Bob Carey and Dorne Dibble from six and seven yards out, respectively, with time running out.

Notre Dame's Steve Oracko converted on four of his five extra point tries, while Michigan State's George Smith hit on all three of his chances.

The lineup:

Michigan State		Notre Dame
Gilman, B. Carey, Parsall	LE	Wightkin, Mutscheller, Flynn

Police Hunt 'Fix' Clues; Officials Of Gavilan-Felton Bout Restored

Commission Reinstates Referee, Judge After Investigation Of Fight

DETROIT, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Amid new reports of a possible gambling "deal," the Michigan boxing commission today cleared two suspended officials in the Kid Gavilan-Lester Felton fight.

The commission, exonerating Referee Morrie Sherman and a suspended fight judge, closed its investigation, but a police inquiry continued.

Police Commissioner Harry S. Toy said the fight still had an "aroma" and that he would go on with an inquiry until "satisfied" all angles had been covered.

At the same time Toy reported evidence secured in a gambling club raid led to further suspicion of a betting deal in the October 21 bout.

The name of Harry Fleisher, bail-jumping fugitive hoodlum, also was entered in the case. Police checked to determine any connection between Fleisher and the raided club.

In the rush of developments today Gavilan carried a principal role.

Toy ordered lie detector tests for Gavilan and his handlers after they had testified before a boxing commission hearing.

With the Spanish equivalent of "We wuz robbed," the Cuban lightweight and his handlers told the commission that the fight verdict was unfair. The heavily favored Gavilan lost a split decision.

Fernando Ballido, the kid's co-manager, told the commission he thought "something was wrong" but he wasn't sure what.

After the hearing Commissioner Toy ordered the lie detector tests and announced he was going to go on with the police inquiry despite the commission's action.

Quizzed by one group after another in the four-pronged investigation, the Cuban kid was a bewildered young man.

At one time he was quoted as saying he thought the fight was "fixed."

That turned out to be a misinterpretation of his testimony, the kid and his entourage explained later.

In clearing Referee Sherman and Judge Sam Pearlstein, the commission lifted their suspensions and restored their licenses. Both had voted for Felton, Detroit youngster, in the 2-1 verdict.

Commission Chairman Floyd Stevens announced he had found "no evidence of wrongdoing on the part of any of our officials."

At the time of their suspensions both men had been charged with "laxity" by Leo Sourial, commission secretary.

Stevens also said Felton's fight with Tony Pellone of New York Wednesday night would go on as scheduled.

The commissioner acted in the face of a suggestion by Toy that the fight be postponed until the present inquiry was completed.

MANGHAM TRIPS WISNER, 18 TO 12

Boughton, Hendrix Lead Dragons To Victory; All Scoring In First Half

MANGHAM, La. Nov. 4.—(Special)—The Mangham Dragons, led by Floyd Bruce Boughton and Captain Bobby Hendrix, nosed out the Wisner Bulldogs here last night, 18 to 12. All the scoring in the hard fought contest took place in the first half.

Wisner tallied first, recovering a Dragon fumble on the Mangham 12 shortly after the opening kickoff and driving across on three plays, with Watson scoring. The Dragons, however, came back to tie the game up when Bobby Lowery made a beautiful off-tackle run of 61 yards to paydirt.

In the second quarter the Bulldogs blocked a Dragon punt and marched 20 yards for their second touchdown, Watson again carrying the ball across. On the kickoff, "Butch" Boughton, taking a lateral from Don Fletcher, raced 57 yards to the Wisner 19. After driving for a first down, Boughton scored from the two on a quarterback sneak to deadlock the game again at 12-all.

With less than a minute remaining in the first half, Boughton again kicked up dust, this time making an 85-yard touchdown jaunt on a pass interception. All attempts at extra points failed, the halftime score, 18-12, was also the final.

Both teams made penetrations in the second half, but neither could muster up enough strength to tally. The game ended with Mangham in possession on the Dragon 20.

The lineups:

Wisner	Pos.	Mangham
Gilmore	LE	Hughes
R. Furr	LT	Hendrix
Graves	LG	Matheny
Tisdale	C	Valentine
Baty	RG	Brown
Boundrant	RT	Moore
Perron	RE	Douciere

Officials were Fleming (Tulane), referee; Perdue (Louisiana Tech), umpire; Breard (Louisiana Tech), head linesman.

droopy tendencies during the first hour.

With the exception of several utility preferred, the market showed few significant price changes. A wide variety of leading issues either attracted no interest at all or remained at Friday's closing levels. Elsewhere gains of minor fractions held an edge over equally small losses.

A moderate amount of business was done, with volume boosted by a flurry of demand for the utilities. Turnover for the two-hour session hit a rate of around 500,000 shares.

SLEDGE PAIRED WITH STEDDUM IN SEMI-WINDUP

New Light-Heavy Champ Declines To Risk Title At Kallio's Arena

Balk Estes, the new ruler of the world's light heavyweight wrestlers has rejected the challenge of Rex Mobley, former holder of the belt, but the disgruntled Mobley will still get a chance to test his skill against the Elk City, Okla., scrapper here Tuesday night in the main event at Gus Kallio's Arena.

Returning on the same card will be "Wild Bill" Steddum and Bill Sledge, their grudge mounting by the day, back for a continuance and further settlement of their bloody brawl of last week that stole the show from an Estes-"Rodeo" Ryan match as far as fireworks were concerned.

As an added attraction, Promoter Kallio will present Ole Olson, veteran wrestler of Chicago, in an exhibition in which Olson has already promised mat fans a demonstration of the toughness of his head by cracking a piece of "two-by-four' 'timber over it. He gave the customers an inkling of what to expect when he cracked a smaller stick of wood over his head in a surprise appearance last week.

Mobley, from Texas City, Tex., issued the challenge to Estes through Promoter Kallio, claiming the Oklahoma battler with Indian ancestry woud have to prove to him he is entitled to hold the belt.

"I don't believe Estes will hold the title long," Mobley told Kallio. "I don't see how he won it in the first place. Jack Curtis must have been very sick that night to let a fellow like Estes beat him."

But apparently Estes plans to hold the belt longer than Mobley anticipates, because Balk refused to accept the title challenge, explaining that the wrestling commission can't force him to defend the crown more than once every 90 days and that he doesn't intend to take too many chances on losing the crown.

"I'm going to hold on to this belt as long as I can, and anybody that gets a title match with me will really earn it," Estes told Kallio. "I'm not going to take any chances unless I'm really ready, and there's nothing the Mobley's, Curtises, Layes and others can do about it. I don't have a manager to boss me around and tell me what to do. So I'm going to handle this my way, sticking within the National Wrestling Association rules, and all these boys anxious to meet me now might just as well get used to it."

The angry Mobley, informed of Estes' stand, accepted the non-title date with the threat, "just have him across the ring from me Tuesday night. I'll show your fans and commissioner he's only an accidental champion with no right to wear the belt. The only way he'll ever keep that belt is to hide out and keep giving the challengers the dodge."

Steddum got his rematch with Sledge without any trouble, but "Wild Bill" complained he hadn't surrendered the deciding fall last week—that the referee must have been hard of hearing in giving the fall to Sledge.

"I was absolutely robbed," Steddum complained. "Sledge had me down alright. When Referee Barney asked if I was giving up, I told him, 'shut up." He thought I had said, 'I give up," and that's when he gave Sledge the match.

DISTRICT LEADERS IN DOUBLE-A KEEP RECORDS PERFECT

Byrd, Sulphur, Fortier Protect Margin With Impressive Wins

(By Associated Press)

Three of Louisiana's district leaders in Class AA football kept their records clean of defeat Friday night.

Fortier defeated Nichols 24-12 in the New Orleans district; Byrd downed Ouachita 41-13 in the northern district; and Sulphur whitewashed Lafayette 46-0 in the southwest district.

Bogalusa, leader in the southeast district, did not play.

In other Class AA contests Terrebonne defeated Jennings 24-13 and Istrouma trounced Catholic High 33-14.

Fortier's Tarpons had to stage a strong second half comeback to overtake Nicholls.

Nicholls made both its touchdowns in the first half with Ray Weidenbacher running 62 yards for one and setting up the second with a pass to Billy Nicholls.

Three of Fortier's scores came on breaks—two pass interceptions and a recovered fumble.

Fortier's first score came on a 78-yard downfield drive after recovering a fumble on the Fortier 22. Irwin Dillard scored from the two.

Fortier tied the count in the second

Duck Hunters Find Flocks Are Full

By Jim Becker
AP Newsfeatures Sports Writer

NEW YORK—There are more ducks this season.

Reports received by Ducks Unlimited here bear out earlier predictions that sportsmen's favorite waterfowl this fall are more plentiful throughout the nation than for some years.

Most spectacular increases are in Minnesota and North Dakota. Hunters in those states had little difficulty bagging a limit on opening days. However, the ducks became very wary as the season wore on.

In the Atlantic flyway, hunters in New Brunswick and Maine found a large increase in black duck.

With the waterfowl season continuing in the last group of states until Jan. 7, and well into December in many more, hunters have been cheered by news that cold weather already has arrived in northern breeding grounds.

Weather is an important factor in duck hunting since the birds have a tendency to remain north until cold weather takes over. The birds also move more in cold weather, giving more hunters a shot at them. For the last two years the weather has been mild in the breeding grounds area until very late in the campaign, which may have kept the birds warm but also heated up hunters' dispositions.

This year, blue-winged teal, the first species to migrate normally, were reported as far south as Memphis in mid-September.

The guy who bangs away at every black speck in the sky (and on his glasses) is ruining a lot of duck hunting trips for himself and others. And he wastes a lot of ammunition besides.

All because he can't judge distances.

"These fellows think a game bird is within shooting range as long as they can identify it as such," says Henry P. Davis, who really should be happy about such things since he works for Remington Arms which makes much of the ammunition.

"When they see the bird they blast away until the gun is empty. Some duck hunters get excited and can't wait but most of them just can't judge distances. Besides wasting excellent chances by this shooting at impossible ranges, these hunters ruin shots for more experienced and efficient hunters who know enough to hold their fire until the game is well within range."

In addition to the completely wasted chances, a large percentage of the cripples which occur each season are due to this "straining the gun," points out Davis.

"Often the shot that strikes these cripples is not from the edge of a shot pattern nor a stray shot, but is a pellet that has traveled so far that the shocking and penetrating powers necessary for a clean kill has been lost," says Davis.

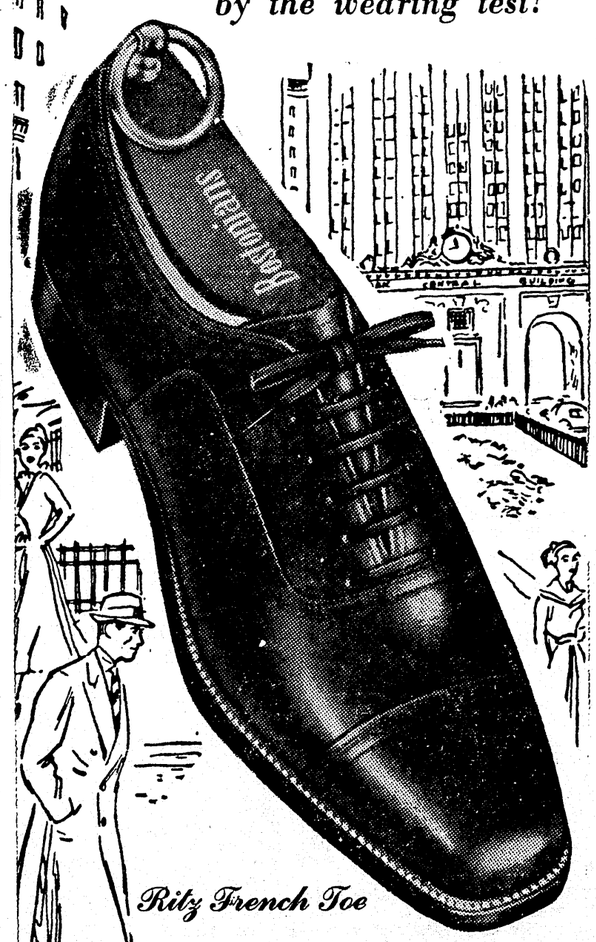

Toughest shots on which to judge distance are those over open water or when birds are flying directly overhead.

A courtesy code for duck hunters has been prepared by the Badger State Sportsmen's Club of LaCrosse, Wis. Here it is:

1. Be under cover when the shooting starts so you won't scare the birds.
2. Avoid bright colors and solid black in clothing and equipment.
3. If you find someone in the blind you fussed with all week, don't go to war. Remember, the first guy there gets the blind.
4. Stay at least 100 yards from the nearest hunter to avoid those open-forum discussions over who shot what bird.
5. If another hunter stops one of your cripples for you, thank him and pay him back the shells he spent on your bird.

SPARTANS HOLD NOTRE DAME TO 34-21 WIN

MICHIGAN STATE GIVES IRISH THEIR TOUGHEST FIGHT

South Benders Give Up More Points Than For Any Other Game Of Season

EAST LANSING, Mich., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Unbeaten Notre Dame got its stiffest argument of the season, but unleashed the versatility of Quarterback Bob Williams for a 34-21 triumph over Michigan State here today before 51,277 upset-hopeful fans.

In a game that was expected to menace seriously the Notre Dame string of 33 straight games without defeat, the Irish nonchalantly punched across two touchdowns in the second period, another in the third and two more in the fourth for their sixth win of the season.

Michigan State, an inspired but outplayed team today, pushed across two touchdowns on desperation passes in the closing minutes to score the most points Notre Dame has yielded in a single afternoon since the 28-27 squeak past Purdue in the 1948 season opener.

Williams, a daring performer with 13 of 16 passes completed in a perfect football afternoon, ran 40 yards to one touchdown and passed to two others as the Irish hammered another crisp triumph into their bid for an unsullied season.

The rough, tough Spartans played to the hilt, but the Irish had a brilliant all around attack which could not be denied.

Michigan State was an inspired team. But after playing a scoreless first quarter and failing to tally from the one-yard line, the Spartans just couldn't cope with the knifing sharpness of the Irish attack.

It was the first defeat for the Spartans since they bowed, 7-3 to Michigan in their first game of the season. Since then they had won five straight games, beating Marquette, Maryland, William and Mary, Penn State and Temple.

Williams was a bold quarterback for Notre Dame today from star to finish. His 19 yard touchdown shot to Ernie Zalejski for a touchdown in the second period gave the Irish a 7-0 lead and sounded the tempo for the attack.

Michigan State rallied to tie the score at 7-7 when Sonny Grandelius plunged one foot for a touchdown in the second period, but that only served to goad the Irish on to their telling clean-up.

Notre Dame, which still has North Carolina, Iowa, Southern California and Southern Methodist to face, simply ground down the Michigan State defense with a brilliantly varied attack.

Still in the second quarter, the Irish marched 95 yards in 17 plays with Larry Coutre plunging over from the two-foot line. Steve Oracko booted his second conversion and Notre Dame led 14-7 at the intermission.

The ball game really was sewed up in the third quarter when Williams, who had been baiting the Spartans with decoy plunges through the middle, suddenly kept the ball himself instead of handing it off, and scooted 40 yards to pay dirt.

The fourth period produced two touchdowns by each team, but it was Notre Dame which got its pair first to settle the issue.

Stubby Emil Sitko, who led the Irish ball carriers with 88 yards in 18 tries, scurried 12 yards for a touchdown that capped a 59-yard Notre Dame march in nine plays. That put the Irish in front 27-7 at the outset of the final quarter.

Another Notre Dame strike over 63 yards climaxed by a 12-yard touchdown pass from Williams to End Leon Hart gave Notre Dame a 34-7 lead and that put the game on ice.

Michigan State went to its aerial attack and pumped across two more touchdowns with Quarterback Gene Glick flipping scoring shots to Ends Bob Carey and Dorne Dibble from six and seven yards out, respectively, with time running out.

Notre Dame's Steve Oracko converted on four of his five extra point tries, while Michigan State's George Smith hit on all three of his chances.

The lineup:

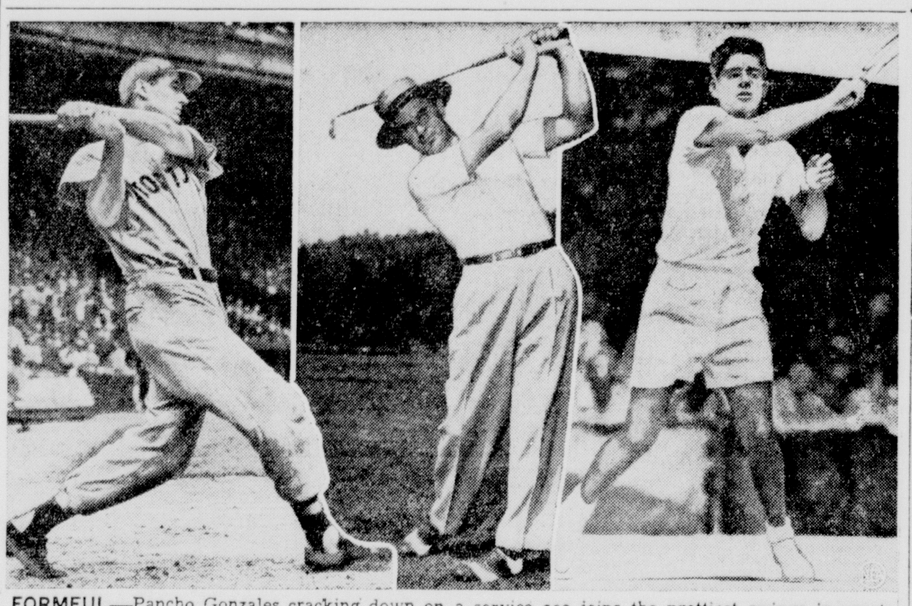

Michigan State		Notre Dame
Carey, B.	LE	Wightkin
Coleman	LT	Martin
Eshaugh	LG	Johnson
Bagdon	C	Grothaus

Rex Mobley Battles Estes In Non-Title Bout Tuesday

FORMFUL—Pancho Gonzales cracking down on a service ace joins the prettiest swings in sports. The others are, of course, Ted Williams, left, going for distance, and Sam Snead hitting a long iron.

SLEDGE PAIRED WITH STEDDUM IN SEMI-WINDUP

New Light-Heavy Champ Declines To Risk Title At Kallio's Arena

Balk Estes, the new ruler of the world's light heavyweight wrestlers has rejected the challenge of Rex Mobley, former holder of the belt, but the disgruntled Mobley will still get a chance to test his skill against the Elk City, Okla., scrapper here Tuesday night in the main event at Gus Kallio's Arena.

Returning on the same card will be "Wild Bill" Steddum and Bill Sledge, their grudge mounting by the day, back for a continuance and further settlement of their bloody brawl of last week that stole the show from an Estes-"Rodeo" Ryan match as far as fireworks were concerned.

As an added attraction, Promoter Kallio will present Ole Olson, veteran wrestler of Chicago, in an exhibition in which Olson has already promised mat fans a demonstration of the toughness of his head by cracking a piece of "two-by-four' 'timber over it. He gave the customers an inkling of what to expect when he cracked a smaller stick of wood over his head in a surprise appearance last week.

Mobley, from Texas City, Tex., issued the challenge to Estes through Promoter Kallio, claiming the Oklahoma battler with Indian ancestry woud have to prove to him he is entitled to hold the belt.

"I don't believe Estes will hold the title long," Mobley told Kallio. "I don't see how he won it in the first place. Jack Curtis must have been very sick that night to let a fellow like Estes beat him."

But apparently Estes plans to hold the belt longer than Mobley anticipates, because Balk refused to accept the title challenge, explaining that the wrestling commission can't force him to defend the crown more than once every 90 days and that he doesn't intend to take too many chances on losing the crown.

"I'm going to hold on to this belt as long as I can, and anybody that gets a title match with me will really earn it," Estes told Kallio. "I'm not going to take any chances unless I'm really ready, and there's nothing the Mobley's, Curtises, Layes and others can do about it. I don't have a manager to boss me around and tell me what to do. So I'm going to handle this my way, sticking within the National Wrestling Association rules, and all these boys anxious to meet me now might just as well get used to it."

The angry Mobley, informed of Estes' stand, accepted the non-title date with the threat, "just have him across the ring from me Tuesday night. I'll show your fans and commissioner he's only an accidental champion with no right to wear the belt. The only way he'll ever keep that belt is to hide out and keep giving the challengers the dodge."

Steddum got his rematch with Sledge without any trouble, but "Wild Bill" complained he hadn't surrendered the deciding fall last week—that the referee must have been hard of hearing in giving the fall to Sledge.

"I was absolutely robbed," Steddum complained. "Sledge had me down alright. When Referee Barney asked if I was giving up, I told him, 'shut up.'" He thought I had said, 'I give up,' and that's when he gave Sledge the match.

Police Hunt 'Fix' Clues; Officials Of Gavilan-Felton Bout Restored

Commission Reinstates Referee, Judge After Investigation Of Fight

DETROIT, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Amid new reports of a possible gambling "deal," the Michigan boxing commission today cleared two suspended officials in the Kid Gavilan-Lester Felton fight.

The commission, exonerating Referee Morrie Sherman and a suspended fight judge, closed its investigation, but a police inquiry continued.

Police Commissioner Harry S. Toy said the fight still had an "aroma" and that he would go on with an inquiry until "satisfied" all angles had been covered.

At the same time Toy reported evidence secured in a gambling club raid led to further suspicion of a betting deal in the October 21 bout.

The name of Harry Fleisher, bail-jumping fugitive hoodlum, also was entered in the case. Police checked to determine any connection between Fleisher and the raided club.

In the rush of developments today Gavilan carried a principal role.

Toy ordered lie detector tests for Gavilan and his handlers after they had testified before a boxing commission hearing.

With the Spanish equivalent of "We wuz robbed," the Cuban lightweight and his handlers told the commission that the fight verdict was unfair. The heavily favored Gavilan lost a split decision.

Fernando Ballido, the kid's co-manager, told the commission he thought "something was wrong" but he wasn't sure what.

After the hearing Commissioner Toy ordered the lie detector tests and announced he was going to go on with the police inquiry despite the commission's action.

Quizzed by one group after another in the four-pronged investigation, the Cuban kid was a bewildered young man.

At one time he was quoted as saying he thought the fight was "fixed."

That turned out to be a misinterpretation of his testimony, the kid and his entourage explained later.

In clearing Referee Sherman and Judge Sam Pearlstein, the commission lifted their suspensions and restored their licenses. Both had voted for Felton, Detroit youngster, in the 2-1 verdict.

Commission Chairman Floyd Stevens announced he had found "no evidence of wrongdoing on the part of any of our officials."

At the time of their suspensions both men had been charged with "laxity" by Leo Souriall, commission secretary.

Stevens also said Felton's fight with Tony Pellone of New York Wednesday night would go on as scheduled.

The commissioner acted in the face of a suggestion by Toy that the fight be postponed until the present inquiry was completed.

MANGHAM TRIPS WISNER, 18 TO 12

Boughton, Hendrix Lead Dragons To Victory; All Scoring In First Half

MANGHAM, La. Nov. 4.—(Special)—The Mangham Dragons, led by Floyd Bruce Boughton and Captain Bobby Hendrix, nosed out the Wisner Bulldogs here last night, 18 to 12. All the scoring in the hard fought contest took place in the first half.

Wisner tallied first, recovering a Dragon fumble on the Mangham 12 shortly after the opening kickoff and driving across on three plays, with Watson scoring. The Dragons, however, came back to tie the game up when Bobby Lowery made a beautiful off-tackle run of 61 yards to paydirt.

In the second quarter the Bulldogs blocked a Dragon punt and marched 20 yards for their second touchdown, Watson again carrying the ball across. On the kickoff, "Butch" Boughton, taking a lateral from Don Fletcher, raced 57 yards to the Wisner 19. After driving for a first down, Boughton scored from the two on a quarterback sneak to deadlock the game again at 12-all.

With less than a minute remaining in the first half, Boughton again kicked up dust, this time making an 85-yard touchdown jaunt on a pass interception. All attempts at extra points failed, the halftime score, 18-12, was also the final.

Both teams made penetrations in the second half, but neither could muster up enough strength to tally. The game ended with Mangham in possession on the Dragon 20.

The lineups:

Wisner	Pos.	Mangham
Gilmore	LE	Hughes
R. Furr	LT	Hendrix
Graves	LG	Matheny
Tisdale	C	Valentine
Baty	RG	Brown
Boundrant	RT	Moore
Perron	RE	Douciere

Watson	RH	Lowery
Seffens	FB	Fletcher

Officials were Fleming (Tulane), referee; Perdue (Louisiana Tech), umpire; Breard (Louisiana Tech), head linesman.

droopy tendencies during the first hour.

With the exception of several utility preferred, the market showed few significant price changes. A wide variety of leading issues either attracted no interest at all or remained at Friday's closing levels. Elsewhere gains of minor fractions held an edge over equally small losses.

A moderate amount of business was done, with volume boosted by a flurry of demand for the utilities. Turnover for the two-hour session hit a rate of around 500,000 shares.

MUCH-BEATEN NAVY BATTLES TULANE TO TIE

PRICE, ZASTROW MATCH TALENTS IN 21-21 CONTEST

Game Ends As Middies Plan Try For Field Goal On Wave's 16-Yard Line

By Ted Smits

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Midshipman Bob Zastrow matched his bullet passes today against Eddie Price's long, swift runs in a brilliant football foot-for-all today in which Navy rallied to tie Tulane 21-21.

The much beaten Navy team had 70,000 hysterical in the Sugar Bowl stadium as it stormed down to the Tulane 16 with eight seconds left to play. Roger Drew came in to try a field goal. But before the ball could be snapped time ran out and the officials jumped in and ended the game.

It was first and last an offensive battle. Navy led at half time 14-7. Price, who scored Tulane's first touchdown on a one-foot buck at the end of a 98-yard drive, cut loose with a 68-yard run to tie the score 14-14 just before the third quarter ended. He put Tulane ahead 21-14 early in the final period on a 25-yard touchdown run.

Then Navy came back, eager for victory. There have only been two in the previous 20 games, both this season. Starting on Navy's 38, Zastrow tossed a short one to Bill Powers, who ran to the Tulane 28 with two minutes left in the game. Twice more Zastrow passed and the ball was on Tulane's five. Duff Arnold carried it over to tie the score 21-21 in an exciting game as any one could ask.

Navy opened the contest in an authoritative way by driving 88 yards to a touchdown. A pass, Zastrow to Powers good for 31 yards, sent the Middies spinning down to the Tulane 49. Vic Vine took over with plunges, finally carrying over from the one.

Tulane then made its 98-yard march. With 45 seconds to go in the first half, Navy took the ball on downs on the Navy 48 and cut loose. Zastrow passed to End Lawrence Treadwell for 42 yards to the Tulane 10. An offside penalty against Tulane put Navy on the five, and Vine smashed over with 22 seconds left to go.

The two great offensive stars almost matched over each other in yardage, Tulane's Price carried the ball 23 times, lost only five yards, and made the astounding net gain of 238 yards. Navy's Zastrow threw the ball 32 times, with 13 passes completed for a net gain of 229 yards, no less astounding.

Tulane was a two-touchdown favorite. Each team however, had been beaten by Notre Dame by almost identical margins. The Irish blasted Tulane 47-7, and Navy 40-0.

The trys for point after touchdown, which in the end proved so important, were executed flawlessly. Euel Davis kicked all three for Tulane, and Roger Drew matched him for Navy.

All of the touchdown's except possibly Tulane's third and last came through driving football rather than any break.

To start the last period Navy, after being stopped deep in its own territory by Tulane's big line, was forced to kick. Dave Jones got off a wobbly punt that rolled out of bounds on Navy's 25. On the next play Price scored his third touchdown by going all the way after a complicated, delayed toss-out.

The tie brought Navy's record for the season up to two victories, one tie, and four defeats. Tulane, on the other hand, has lost only to Notre Dame.

Northwest Mississippi Shades League Leaders

SENATOBIA, Miss., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Northwest Junior College of Senatobia has a football victory today over East Central Junior College of Decatur.

East Central Junior College, which is leading the Mississippi Junior College Conference, lost to Northwest, 20-13, last night.

East Central scored first in last night's game on a 30-yard pass from Jack Pope to Eddie Ware. Later in the first period Jimmy Williams ran 54 yards to score for Northwest.

In the third quarter Dick Beulah scored on a one-yard plunge for Northwest. Thomas Morris added the extra point; his second of the night.

East Central also scored in the third, with Chester Harrington running 40 yards, but Virgil Aubey missed his second extra point try.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton, jr.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Stan Lambert, a football coach at Lamar College in Texas, protests that the current substitution rule makes it too hard to call plays from the bench. They have to risk their jobs, says Stan, by trusting this duty to a green kid. . . . Maybe we're naive about the whole thing, but we always thought a college hired a coach to teach the boys certain things. . . . One is how to accept responsibilities. Another is sportsmanship. . . . In the football rules coaching from the sideslines is termed "unsportsmanlike conduct" and calls for a 15-yard penalty. . . . From this distance, we'd say Lambert's complaint sounds like a math professor saying he didn't want to trust his exams to "green kids" and insisting on writing out the answers himself.

Sizing Down The Material

After reading raves from an alumnus about a schoolboy prospect who "passes like Bobby Hoernschemeyer, hits the line like Pete Pihos and can dance down the field like Billy Hillenbrand," Coach Clyde Smith of Indiana University suggested he'd like to see the lad. . . . Instead of looking the kid over when he arrived, Smity, who stands five feet seven, looked over him. . . . That was enough. Later the coach remarked: "He could have chinned himself on my desk."

Sportsmention

The Chicago Bears "alumni" will celebrate their thirtieth anniversary "homecoming" after the Steelers game December 4. . . . And the New York boxing writers will stage their annual jamboree January 12. . . . Only club in the Athletics farm system to show a profit is Lincoln, Neb. . . . Ed Bagdon and Don Mason, Michigan State's fine pair of guards, started their 26th consecutive game against Notre Dame today. . . . Only three National Hockey League players, Frank Brimsek, Norm Dussault and Pete Babando were born in the United States. . . . But two United States amateurs recently were "imported" to play in Quebec. . . . Dave Sisler, youngest son of the celebrated George, isn't allowed to play football for the Princeton freshmen because his dad wants him to go into baseball. . . . The Columbia band's big stunt for Saturday's Dartmouth game was to form a question mark while playing the current "Mystery Melody." . . . The question is how Lou Little's pore little boys will survive the season.

Quote Of The Week

Fred Saigh (after talking with Branch Rickey): "I held my own."

Weak End Notes

Dee Andros, Oklahoma's big guard, caught two kickoffs in the Kansas game and returned them for a total of one yard. But Dee insists: "I knocked some of those guys farther than that." . . . When Rip Engle, Brown coach, was in college at Western Maryland, he captained the baseball, basketball and tennis teams, but not football. . . . When Clem Crowe, Buffalo Bills coach, is asked for his All-America selections he replies: "They're my ten children—and their guardian angel." . . . Clem really was something to Crowe about. . . . Another football forecast: If Fordham wins the toss against Army, the Rams might as well leave. They won't win anything else.

GRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD

By Harry Grayson

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—(NEA)—Not too many years ago coaches and alumni were content to hustle five or six extraordinary lads as the nucleus of a team.

The others came to them.

Now coaches and alumni groups — round up 20 or 30 terrific kids. They are around, for more football is being played.

Frank Leahy

The result is that some college coaches, especially in the midwest, actually have too much material, and as a consequence we have something that is likely to become a trend. This sees promising sophomores transferring elsewhere before the firing begins.

The superior athlete wants to play every minute he can get in. "The burning desire to tackle makes good linemen," writes Frank Leahy in his splendid new book, "Notre Dame Football." "The burning desire to gain ground makes good halfbacks."

By the end of three weeks or so of pre-season practice, a boy has a good idea of just how much he is going to be employed. If it is to be sparingly, he feels strongly about it, decides to do something about it before it is too late. So he turns what he considers a raw deal into a fair deal by moving elsewhere.

They tell me Notre Dame lost a couple of boys this way this fall, and it is reported that two fine, upstanding Illinois lads went west, young man, to a Colorado seat of learning. When they transfer they get in another year of freshman football by way of circumventing the year's residence rule.

The platoon plan is the outgrowth of this too extensive proselyting.

With offensive and defensive units, several backer-ups for each, a kicking specialist and whatnot, a coach can very easily keep as many as 35 young men busy and happy.

Bob Zuppke, who coached Illinois for so many years, is his old entertaining self discussing the group scheme.

"All this talk about football being a new game," says Zup, "reminds me of the boy who once said to me: 'I want to be a football player when I grow up—a substitute.'

"'Substitute,' I asked. 'Why a substitute.'

"'Oh, so I can play half the game and see the rest of it free.'

"That's the way it is with the platoon system. In a few years they'll probably use jeeps to haul the players out on the field to save time. Also to be sure of always having 11 men in the lineup."

Whether or not you like the traffic jams, the unit system is a godsend to coaches, and they'll never give it up.

The University of Arizona football team ranked eighth nationally in pass interceptions in 1948.

Kosciusko's Mayor Raps Action Against His Team

KOSCIUSKO, Miss., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Kosciusko's Mayor Allen Massey makes no secret of the fact he feels his city got a bum deal when the Mississippi High School Association declared forfeit all football games played this season by Kosciusko High.

The association took the action Wednesday on ground that Guard Hendrix Brentz was ineligible because he does not live in the same school district as his parents.

At the same time it declared forfeit all Batesville High School games in which Batesville End Will Ellis played, on grounds Ellis, too, was ineligible.

Neither team has been defeated or tied this season and both are contenders for the state Class A high school football crown.

Massey issued a signed statement saying:

"Officials of Kosciusko city schools did everything in their power to ascertain the qualifications of Brentz to play football. In the process, Kosciusko officials obtained certain statements in writing from director of activities to this effect. Certain members of the state committee also made oral statements to school officials that Hendrix Brenz was qualified."

The mayor said Brentz played ball last year under the same conditions as this year.

"The fact that Kosciusko now has a winning team may explain the difference in his qualifications this year and last year," he said.

His statement accused the committee of being "negligent, inconsistent, and indifferent in the discharge of their duties." He said, "to me, it is purely a case of unquestionable adult delinquency of the committee."

BLOCK DEFEATED BY FERRIDAY, 13-0

Intercepted Pass, Bruin Fumble Set Up Touchdowns For Bulldogs

FERRIDAY, La., Nov. 5.—(Special)—An overflow crowd of approximately 3,000 fans watched a dynamic Ferriday Bulldog eleven trip their arch rivals, the Block High Bears of Jonesville, 13-0, last night in one of the bitterest fought grudge games ever played between the two teams.

The defensive-minded Ferridians snatched a Jonesville pass early in the first period and pounced on a block fumble in the fourth quarter and turned both into scores for the decisive win.

Ferriday's hard charging forward wall was so effective that they didn't allow the Bears to leave their own territory during the entire contest. O'Dare Hammett, line backer and Storm Arnold, Wheat, Goens and Green stood out on defense. Billy Loomis and Charles Albert Massey, in the backfield, led the way on offense, and Lamar Roark and Enterkin, at the flanks, played well on both offense and defense.

The game had hardly started before the Bears began to unravel some of their tricks, saved just for Ferriday. But their first surprise didn't catch the Bulldogs napping and the latter cashed in for a score.

A Jonesville back threw a pass from punt formation that was batted out of the receivers hands by Enterkin who intercepted the ball and romped over the goal 16 yards away untouched. Loomis plunged for the extra point.

Ferriday's last touchdown came after Wheat had recovered a Bear fumble on the Jonesville 26-yard stripe. Fullback Loomis ripped off runs of six, six, and five yards, and finally bulled his way over from the three. Massey tried to convert for the extra point but failed.

Ferriday threatened twice more during the contest, once on a 28-yard pass, Massey to Roark, that carried to the Jonesville 12-yard stripe, and once in the third period that saw the Bulldogs reach the Bear five when Loomis tore through the opposition with a punt return of 40 yards.

Jonesville's only real drive came in the third quarter when they put together four consecutive first downs to move to their own 49-yard line, the only time they neared mid-field all night. Humble, Crawford and Fairbanks spearheaded the march.

The Ferriday Bulldogs play highly-rated Sicily Island next Friday night at Sicily Island.

Delta State Dumps Hilltoppers, 12-7

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Delta State College stole the initiative from Western Kentucky State in the second half here today to gain a 12-7 football victory before 5,000 Western homecoming fans.

The invaders from Cleveland, Miss., pushed into paydirt before the game was four minutes old. But after that the Hilltoppers had the situation under control until halftime.

Delta's marker started in their own 38. A 47-yard run by Tony Grezaffi to Western's 15 consumed most of the yardage and Claude Woodall went over from the two. Grezaffi missed the placement.

Western had its big moment through the second stanza when Hal Taylor and Fred Clayton shared major ball-toting chores in a 65-yard drive. Clayton went over from the two. John Hancken booted the point.

The game-winning touchdown was registered late in the third. The drive covered 61 yards. The last 33 yards were handled by the passing combination of Sugar Durham and Charles Graham, Durham passing 23 yards to Graham, who ran the rest of the way.

Delta had only a slight statistical advantage.

THIRD 20-GAME ROOKIE

NEW YORK—(AP)—Alex Kellner of the Philadelphia Athletics is the third rookie pitcher in the American League to win 20 games in the last five seasons. The others are Dave (Boo) Ferris who won 21 for the Boston Red Sox in 1945 and Gene Bearden who won 20 games for the Cleveland Indians in 1948.

REDSKINS VISIT TROJAN ELEVEN NEXT SATURDAY

Shriners' Hospital At Shreveport Will Benefit From Game

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The football bowl season will get off to an earlier-than-usual start here next Saturday in a game which won't net the competing teams a cent.

Northeast Junior College of Monroe, La., will meet Little Rock Junior College in the second annual Shrine Bowl game at Arkansas War Memorial Stadium. Besides the fun of playing, all they'll get out of it will be their bare expenses and the satisfaction of helping crippled children.

All profits of the tilt will go to the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children at Shreveport, La.

While not owning a record befitting a bowl team—one win, four losses and a tie, the Louisianans have been playing toughies and are expected to provide a good test for Little Rock's Trojans, That would be something they haven't had yet in bowling over eight straight opponents by top-heavy scores.

In the inaugural Shrine Bowl game last year, Hardin-Simmons walloped Ouachita of Arkadelphia, Ark., 40-12.

The Redskins of Northeast Junior College will be making their only appearance of the season off their home field when they invade Little Rock, Ark., next Saturday night for their date with the all-powerful Little Rock Junior College Trojans, currently the nation's top ranking team in the J. C. class.

Coach Jimmy Karam's Trojans, victims of South Georgia J. C. in the second annual Junior Sugar Bowl game here last year, have been running rampant through all opposition this year, and there's no doubt about who'll be favored Saturday. The grandstand quarterbacks are already tagging the N. J. C. gridders to take their fifth loss of the year in seven games. If Little Rock manhandles the Tribe like other opponents this year, the Indians can look back to their Kilgore and McNeese games as really easy ones.

But Little Rock is just another tough one on a complete string of foes, without a single setup, Coach James L. Malone has on his schedule, and the Indians, while realizing their underdog role, aren't showing any fears about next Saturday.

"We hope to give Little Rock a ball game they'll remember," Coach Malone said. "A look at the record leave no doubt that we're supposed to take a beating, but they've got to fight to give it to us. My boys are enthusiastic about the opportunity to get a whack at the Trojans. Don't expect the impossible, but we'll still be trying to win."

It has been a peculiar brand of ball played by the Tribe so far this year, particularly against such teams as Kilgore and McNeese, both highly favored to win their games with N. J. C. They won, alright, but it was the manner in which the Redskins came out battling after spotting three and four touchdowns that has made them look impressive while losing.

Kilgore scored 24 points in the first quarter of what started as a complete shattering of Indian morale, but somewhere the Tribe defense found strength and made it a rousing ball game for the last three quarters to lose only 28-14.

Last Friday night with McNeese it was practically the same story. The Cowboys played the Indians off their feet the first half, taking a 13-0 lead. McNeese led impressively in first downs and yards gained at the rest period. But McNeese had its hand full as the battling Redskins took command in the last half to limit the Cowpokes to a one-touchdown victory, 20-12, and the visitors twice had to make almost goalline stands in the last quarter to save the game. When it was all over, N. J. C. had netted more yards offensively for the night, 334 to 311, and the yardage gained in the last half was 195 for N. J. C. against only 79 for a McNeese offense that was muffled on the ground after the first half.

A redeeming feature of the N. J. C. offense was Ray Wegley, 160-pound back, who scored both Indian touchdowns, one on an end run and another on a 71-yard pass play. He set up his own end run tally on a 46-yard dash through the Cowboy line to the McNeese 10.

SUPPORTING ROLE—With a shoulder like that of six-foot three-inch, 235-pound guard Bud McFadin to rest on, halfback Perry Samuels wouldn't have much trouble keeping his head above the opposition. But the little sprint champion and Texas wasn't able to get that last bit of extra needed for victory over Rice and Southern Methodist.

ADILE, ONLY FILLY IN RACE, WINNER OF GOLD CUP RUN

Comes Up Fast To Nose Out Favored Flying Missel Jamaica

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' Adile, under Ted Atkinson's whiplashing, got up in the last stride to nose out King Ranch's Flying Missel today in the $50,000-added Empire City Gold Cup at Jamaica.

A crowd of 30,231, which wagered $2,424,941 on the card, saw Adile wear down the 3 to 5 favorite right at the end of the mile and five-furlong event.

The only filly in the field, the red roan 3-year-old daughter of Mahmound, the English Derby winner, and granddaughter of the immortal Man O'War, moved to the outside of Flying Missel at the sixteenth pole and gradually wore down the favorite, hard driven by Eddie Arcaro.

Third, nine lengths back of the front pair, came C. E. Tuttle's Double Brandy, who led until the field hit the top of the home stretch. Fourth money went to Louis Tufano's Uncle Edgar who trailed far out of it until the last sixteenth of a mile.

The victory was worth $38,700 to the winner. The filly was clocked in 2:45 for the long grind, well back of the track mark of 2:42 4/5 set by Stymie three years ago.

Second choice in the betting, Adile returned a mutuel of $12.80, $3.30 and $2.70. Flying Missel was $2.40 and $2.20. Double Brandy was $3.80 to show.

TOP FLINGERS

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Brooklyn-New York Yankees have the nation's No. 6 passer, off the statistics, on the bench in favor of another rookie who was far down the list in last year's collegiate totals. Gil Johnson of S. M. U. is sitting it out while Don Panciera does most of the flinging. And the Yanks released Jim Finks of Tulsa, who was the No. 2 tosser in 1948. Finks landed with the Pittsburgh Steelers and recently beat the New York Giants with a touchdown pass in the last quarter.

WE GUARANTEE NEW POWER IN 10 MILES WHEN YOU USE RISLONE WITH YOUR OIL!

Rislone gives fast, feelable improvement . . . ends lazy pick-up, sluggish starting, power-sputter, motor-buck

Rislone "Motor Magic" works in cars of any age. And cars of all ages need Rislone all the time.

Rislone is an oil-improving alloy for all motor lubricants. It's a super-lubricant—with no harmful ingredients. You can keep it in your car all the time.

Modern motor-oil has gum-forming properties. But Rislone dissolves gum and sludge as soon as it forms — prevents power-robbing deposits on your valves, pistons, and other moving parts.

Tune-up as you drive

Use Rislone to keep your motor clean as you drive . . . at peak performance for smooth power at all speeds, and quick starting in all weather.

It protects your engine with instant, full lubrication. It keeps your car from getting sluggish at low speeds. In new cars (or reconditioned engines) it eliminates slow-speed break-in—permits driving at normal speeds immediately and safely.

Money-back Guarantee

We are so confident that Rislone can work its "motor magic" on your car that we give you this unconditional money-back guarantee. Here's what you do:

Put a quart or more of Rislone in your crankcase. Drive 10 miles. Watch for these improvements: quieter motor operation, the smooth power of full compression, new "get-up-and-go." If you can't actually feel these improvements in 10 miles — return to your station for a full refund of your money.

Fleet Operators Use Rislone, Save on Service and Repairs

Burned, sticking valves . . . clogged oil lines . . . gummed-up rings . . . and excessive wear from inadequate lubrication cut trucking profits with excessive "Time Out" and "in The Shop."

Fleet operators stretch the profit-earning period between service lay-ups by using Rislone in their oil all the time—to dissolve power-robbing gums . . . prevent sticking valves and rings.

Rislone is their low-cost preventive maintenance. It guarantees full compression for smooth performance, top gas mileage, low oil consumption, and all 'round economical operation.

Rislone Keeps Farm Machinery Fit All The Year

A California farmer cut operating costs and oil consumption on his tractors 75% with Rislone. Actual working time was increased from 600 to 2000 hours!

Those savings are typical. And that's why thousands of farmers from coast to coast say that Rislone helps any internal combustion engine on the farm to run better, longer, and with less servicing. That holds for stationary units such as power-and-light plants, as well as for mobile units like tractors and combines.

Rislone Keeps Marine Engines at Peak Efficiency

Pleasure-craft and work-boat owners everywhere rely on Rislone to keep engines humming dependably and assure low maintenance costs.

Rislone dissolves gum and sludge to prevent dangerous, costly break-downs caused by clogged oil lines, inadequate lubrication, and excessive wear.

Rislone keeps power-plants shipshape while boats are idle, or hauled out for the winter. Spring-starting is quick and easy.

Rislone Helps Contractors to Prevent Job Delays

Any delays increase costs and cut profits on huge construction jobs. That's why contractors' trucks, tractors, high-speed scrapers, generating sets, mixers, etc. must be in top-notch condition. That's why contractors use Rislone.

It maintains full power and dependability, keeps oil free-flowing, prevents sticky valves and clogged piston rings — and assures quick, easy starting of powerful diesel and gasoline engines, even in the coldest weather.

Money-back Guarantee!

Make this test:

1. Put a quart of Rislone in your crankcase today.
2. Drive 10 miles. Watch for smoother, quieter power; new get-up-and-go; power surge pick-up.
3. If you can't actually feel these improvements in 10 miles — return to your dealer for a full refund.

MUCH-BEATEN NAVY BATTLES TULANE TO TIE

PRICE, ZASTROW MATCH TALENTS IN 21-21 CONTEST

Game Ends As Middies Plan Try For Field Goal On Wave's 16-Yard Line

By Ted Smits

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Midshipman Bob Zastrow matched his bullet passes today against Eddie Price's long, swift runs in a brilliant football foot-for-all today in which Navy rallied to tie Tulane 21-21.

The much beaten Navy team had 70,000 hysterical in the Sugar Bowl stadium as it stormed down to the Tulane 16 with eight seconds left to play. Roger Drew came in to try a field goal. But before the ball could be snapped time ran out and the officials jumped in and ended the game.

It was first and last an offensive battle. Navy led at half time 14-7. Price, who scored Tulane's first touchdown on a one-foot buck at the end of a 98-yard drive, cut loose with a 68-yard run to tie the score 14-14 just before the third quarter ended. He put Tulane ahead 21-14 early in the final period on a 25-yard touchdown run.

Then Navy came back, eager for victory. There have only been two in the previous 20 games, both this season. Starting on Navy's 38, Zastrow tossed a short one to Bill Powers, who ran to the Tulane 28 with two minutes left in the game. Twice more Zastrow passed and the ball was on Tulane's five. Duff Arnold carried it over to tie the score 21-21 in an exciting game as any one could ask.

Navy opened the contest in an authoritative way by driving 88 yards to a touchdown. A pass, Zastrow to Powers good for 31 yards, sent the Middies spinning down to the Tulane 49. Vic Vine took over with plunges, finally carrying over from the one.

Tulane then made its 98-yard march. With 45 seconds to go in the first half, Navy took the ball on downs on the Navy 48 and cut loose. Zastrow passed to End Lawrence Treadwell for 42 yards to the Tulane 10. An offside penalty against Tulane put Navy on the five, and Vine smashed over with 22 seconds left to go.

The two great offensive stars almost matched over each other in yardage. Tulane's Price carried the ball 22 times, lost only five yards, and made the astounding net gain of 238 yards. Navy's Zastrow threw the ball 32 times, with 13 passes completed for a net gain of 229 yards, no less astounding.

Tulane was a two-touchdown favorite. Each team however, had been beaten by Notre Dame by almost identical margins. The Irish blasted Tulane 47-7, and Navy 40-0.

The trys for point after touchdown, which in the end proved so important, were executed flawlessly. Euel Davis kicked all three for Tulane, and Roger Drew matched him for Navy.

All of the touchdown's except possibly Tulane's third and last came through driving football rather than any break.

To start the last period Navy, after being stopped deep in its own territory by Tulane's big line, was forced to kick. Dave Jones got off a wobbly punt that rolled out of bounds on Navy's 25. On the next play Price scored his third touchdown by going all the way after a complicated, delayed toss-out.

The tie brought Navy's record for the season up to two victories, one tie, and four defeats. Tulane, on the other hand, has lost only to Notre Dame.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Stan Lambert, a football coach at Lamar College in Texas, protests that the current substitution rule makes it too hard to call plays from the bench. They have to risk their jobs, says Stan, by trusting this duty to a green kid. . . . Maybe we're naive about the whole thing, but we always thought a college hired a coach to teach the boys certain things. . . . One is how to accept responsibilities. Another is sportsmanship. . . . In the football rules coaching from the sidelines is termed "unsportsmanlike conduct" and calls for a 15-yard penalty. . . . From this distance, we'd say Lambert's complaint sounds like a math professor saying he didn't want to trust his exams to "green kids" and insisting on writing out the answers himself.

Sizing Down The Material

After reading raves from an alumnus about a schoolboy prospect who "passes like Bobby Hoernschemeyer, hits the line like Pete Pihos and can dance down the field like Billy Hillenbrand," Coach Clyde Smith of Indiana University suggested he'd like to see the lad. . . . Instead of looking the kid over when he arrived, Smity, who stands five feet seven, looked over him. . . . That was enough. Later the coach remarked: "He could have chinned himself on my desk."

Sportsmention

The Chicago Bears "alumni" will celebrate their thirtieth anniversary "homecoming" after the Steelers game December 4. . . . And the New York boxing writers will stage their annual jamboree January 12. . . . Only club in the Athletics farm system to show a profit is Lincoln, Neb. . . . Ed Bagdon and Don Mason, Michigan State's fine pair of guards, started their 26th consecutive game against Notre Dame today. . . . Only three National Hockey League players, Frank Brimsek, Norm Dussault and Pete Babando were born in the United States. . . . But two United States amateurs recently were "imported" to play in Quebec. . . . Dave Sisler, youngest son of the celebrated George, isn't allowed to play football for the Princeton freshmen because his dad wants him to go into baseball. . . . The Columbia band's big stunt for Saturday's Dartmouth game was to form a question mark while playing the current "Mystery Melody." . . . The question is how Lou Little's pore little boys will survive the season.

Quote Of The Week

Fred Saigh (after talking with Branch Rickey): "I held my own."

Weak End Notes

Dee Andros, Oklahoma's big guard, caught two kickoffs in the Kansas game and returned them for a total of one yard. But Dee insists: "I knocked some of those guys farther than that." . . . When Rip Engle, Brown coach, was in college at Western Maryland, he captained the baseball, basketball and tennis teams, but not football. . . . When Clem Crowe, Buffalo Bills coach, is asked for his All-America selections he replies: "They're my ten children—and their guardian angel." . . . Clem really was something to Crowe about. . . . Another football forecast: If Fordham wins the toss against Army, the Rams might as well leave. They won't win anything else.

GRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD

By Harry Grayson

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—(NEA)—Not too many years ago coaches and alumni were content to hustle five or six extraordinary lads as the nucleus of a team.

The others came to them.

Now coaches and alumni groups — round up 20 or 30 terrific kids. They are around, for more football is being played.

Frank Leahy

The result is that some college coaches, especially in the midwest, actually have too much material, and as a consequence we have something that is likely to become a trend. This sees promising sophomores transferring elsewhere before the firing begins.

The superior athlete wants to play every minute he can get in. "The burning desire to tackle makes good linemen," writes Frank Leahy in his splendid new book, "Notre Dame Football." "The burning desire to gain ground makes good halfbacks."

By the end of three weeks or so of pre-season practice, a boy has a good idea of just how much he is going to be employed. If it is to be sparingly, he feels strongly about it, decides to do something about it before it is too late. So he turns what he considers a raw deal into a fair deal by moving elsewhere.

They tell me Notre Dame lost a couple of boys this way this fall, and it is reported that two fine, upstanding Illinois lads went west, young man, to a Colorado seat of learning. When they transfer they get in another year of freshman football by way of circumventing the year's residence rule.

The platoon plan is the outgrowth of this too extensive proselyting.

With offensive and defensive units, several backer-ups for each, a kicking specialist and whatnot, a coach can very easily keep as many as 35 young men busy and happy.

Bob Zuppke, who coached Illinois for so many years, is his old entertaining self discussing the group scheme.

"All this talk about football being a new game," says Zup, "reminds me of the boy who once said to me: 'I want to be a football player when I grow up—a substitute.'

"'Substitute,' I asked. 'Why a substitute.'

"'Oh, so I can play half the game and see the rest of it free.'

"That's the way it is with the platoon system. In a few years they'll probably use jeeps to haul the players out on the field to save time. Also to be sure of always having 11 men in the lineup."

Whether or not you like the traffic jams, the unit system is a godsend to coaches, and they'll never give it up.

The University of Arizona football team ranked eighth nationally in pass interceptions in 1948.

Kosciusko's Mayor Raps Action Against His Team

KOSCIUSKO, Miss., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Kosciusko's Mayor Allen Massey makes no secret of the fact he feels his city got a bum deal when the Mississippi High School Association declared forfeit all football games played this season by Kosciusko High.

The association took the action Wednesday on ground that Guard Hendrix Brentz was ineligible because he does not live in the same school district as his parents.

At the same time it declared forfeit all Batesville High School games in which Batesville End Will Ellis played, on grounds Ellis, too, was ineligible.

Neither team has been defeated or tied this season and both are contenders for the state Class A high school football crown.

Massey issued a signed statement saying:

"Officials of Kosciusko city schools did everything in their power to ascertain the qualifications of Brentz to play football. In the process, Kosciusko officials obtained certain statements in writing from director of activities to this effect. Certain members of the state committee also made oral statements to school officials that Hendrix Brenz was qualified."

The mayor said Brentz played ball last year under the same conditions as this year.

"The fact that Kosciusko now has a winning team may explain the difference in his qualifications this year and last year," he said.

His statement accused the committee of being "negligent, inconsistent, and indifferent in the discharge of their duties." He said, "to me, it is purely a case of unquestionable adult delinquency of the committee."

BLOCK DEFEATED BY FERRIDAY, 13-0

Intercepted Pass, Bruin Fumble Set Up Touchdowns For Bulldogs

FERRIDAY, La., Nov. 5.—(Special)—An overflow crowd of approximately 3,000 fans watched a dynamic Ferriday Bulldog eleven trip their arch rivals, the Block High Bears of Jonesville, 13-0, last night in one of the bitterest fought grudge games ever played between the two teams.

The defensive-minded Ferridians snatched a Jonesville pass early in the first period and pounced on a block fumble in the fourth quarter and turned both into scores for the decisive win.

Ferriday's hard charging forward wall was so effective that they didn't allow the Bears to leave their own territory during the entire contest. O'Dare Hammett, line backer and Storm Arnold, Wheat, Goens and Green stood out on defense. Billy Loomis and Charles Albert Massey, in the backfield, led the way on offense, and Lamar Roark and Enterkin, at the flanks, played well on both offense and defense.

The game had hardly started before the Bears began to unravel some of their tricks, saved just for Ferriday. But their first surprise didn't catch the Bulldogs napping and the latter cashed in for a score.

A Jonesville back threw a pass from punt formation that was batted out of the receivers hands by Enterkin who intercepted the ball and romped over the goal 16 yards away untouched. Loomis plunged for the extra point.

Ferriday's last touchdown came after Wheat had recovered a Bear fumble on the Jonesville 26-yard stripe. Fullback Loomis ripped off runs of six, six, and five yards, and finally bulled his way over from the three. Massey tried to convert for the extra point but failed.

Ferriday threatened twice more during the contest, once on a 28-yard pass, Massey to Roark, that carried to the Jonesville 12-yard stripe, and once in the third period that saw the Bulldogs reach the Bear five when Loomis tore through the opposition with a punt return of 40 yards.

Jonesville's only real drive came in the third quarter when they put together four consecutive first downs to move to their own 49-yard line, the only time they neared mid-field all night. Humble, Crawford and Fairbanks spearheaded the march.

The Ferriday Bulldogs play highly-rated Sicily Island next Friday night at Sicily Island.

Delta State Dumps Hilltoppers, 12-7

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Delta State College stole the initiative from Western Kentucky State in the second half here today to gain a 12-7 football victory before 5,000 Western homecoming fans.

The invaders from Cleveland, Miss., pushed into paydirt before the game was four minutes old. But after that the Hilltoppers had the situation under control until halftime.

Delta's marker started in their own 38. A 47-yard run by Tony Grezaffi to Western's 15 consumed most of the yardage and Claude Woodall went over from the two. Grezaffi missed the placement.

Western had its big moment through the second stanza when Hal Taylor and Fred Clayton shared major ballotoing chores in a 65-yard drive. Clayton went over from the two. John Hancken booted the point.

The game-winning touchdown was registered late in the third. The drive covered 61 yards. The last 33 yards were handled by the passing combination of Sugar Durham and Charles Graham, Durham passing 23 yards to Graham, who ran the rest of the way.

Delta had only a slight statistical advantage.

THIRD 20-GAME ROOKIE

NEW YORK—(AP)—Alex Kellner of the Philadelphia Athletics is the third rookie pitcher in the American League to win 20 games in the last five seasons. The others are Dave (Boo) Ferris who won 21 for the Boston Red Sox in 1945 and Gene Bearden who won 20 games for the Cleveland Indians in 1948.

REDSKINS VISIT TROJAN ELEVEN NEXT SATURDAY

Shriners' Hospital At Shreveport Will Benefit From Game

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The football bowl season will get off to an earlier-than-usual start here next Saturday in a game which won't net the competing teams a cent.

Northeast Junior College of Monroe, La., will meet Little Rock Junior College in the second annual Shrine Bowl game at Arkansas War Memorial Stadium. Besides the fun of playing, all they'll get out of it will be their bare expenses and the satisfaction of helping crippled children.

All profits of the tilt will go to the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children at Shreveport, La.

While not owning a record befitting a bowl team—one win, four losses and a tie, the Louisianans have been playing toughies and are expected to provide a good test for Little Rock's Trojans. That would be something they haven't had yet in bowling over eight straight opponents by top-heavy scores.

In the inaugural Shrine Bowl game last year, Hardin-Simmons walloped Ouachita of Arkadelphia, Ark., 40-12.

The Redskins of Northeast Junior College will be making their only appearance of the season off their home field when they invade Little Rock, Ark., next Saturday night for their date with the all-powerful Little Rock Junior College Trojans, currently the nation's top ranking team in the J. C. class.

Coach Jimmy Karam's Trojans, victims of South Georgia J. C. in the second annual Junior Sugar Bowl game here last year, have been running rampant through all opposition this year, and there's no doubt about who'll be favored Saturday. The grandstand quarterbacks are already tagging the N. J. C. gridders to take their fifth loss of the year in seven games. If Little Rock manhandles the Tribe like other opponents this year, the Indians can look back to their Kilgore and McNeese games as really easy ones.

But Little Rock is just another tough one on a complete string of foes, without a single setup. Coach James L. Malone has on his schedule, and the Indians, while realizing their underdog role, aren't showing any fears about next Saturday.

"We hope to give Little Rock a ball game they'll remember," Coach Malone said. "A look at the record leavs no doubt that we're supposed to take a beating, but they've got to fight to give it to us. My boys are enthusiastic about the opportunity to get a whack at the Trojans. Don't expect the impossible, but we'll still be trying to win."

It has been a peculiar brand of ball played by the Tribe so far this year, particularly against such teams as Kilgore and McNeese, both highly favored to win their games with N. J. C. They won, alright, but it was the manner in which the Redskins came out battling after spotting three and four touchdowns that has made them look impressive while losing.

Kilgore scored 24 points in the first quarter of what started as a complete shattering of Indian morale, but somewhere the Tribe defense found strength and made it a rousing ball game for the last three quarters to lose only 28-14.

Last Friday night with McNeese it was practically the same story. The Cowboys played the Indians off their feet the first half, taking a 13-0 lead. McNeese led impressively in first downs and yards gained at the rest period. But McNeese had its hand full as the battling Redskins took command in the last half to limit the Cowpokes to a one-touchdown victory, 20-12, and the visitors twice had to make almost goalline stands in the last quarter to save the game. When it was all over, N. J. C. had netted more yards offensively for the night, 334 to 311, and the yardage gained in the last half was 195 for N. J. C. against only 79 for a McNeese offense that was muffled on the ground after the first half.

A redeeming feature of the N. J. C. offense was Ray Wegley, 160-pound back, who scored both Indian touchdowns, one on an end run and another on a 71-yard pass play. He set up his own end run tally on a 46-yard dash through the Cowboy line to the McNeese 10.

SUPPORTING ROLE—With a shoulder like that of six-foot three-inch, 235-pound guard Bud McFadin to rest on, halfback Perry Samuels wouldn't have much trouble keeping his head above the opposition. But the little sprint champion and Texas wasn't able to get that last bit of extra needed for victory over Rice and Southern Methodist.

ADILE, ONLY FILLY IN RACE, WINNER OF GOLD CUP RUN

Comes Up Fast To Nose Out Favored Flying Missel Jamaica

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' Adile, under Ted Atkinson's whiplashing, got up in the last stride to nose out King Ranch's Flying Missel today in the $50,000-added Empire City Gold Cup at Jamaica.

A crowd of 30,231, which wagered $2,424,941 on the card, saw Adile wear down the 3 to 5 favorite right at the end of the mile and five-furlong event.

The only filly in the field, the red roan 3-year-old daughter of Mahmound, the English Derby winner, and granddaughter of the immortal Man O'War, moved to the outside of Flying Missel at the sixteenth pole and gradually wore down the favorite, hard driven by Eddie Arcaro.

Third, nine lengths back of the front pair, came C. E. Tuttle's Double Brandy, who led until the field hit the top of the home stretch. Fourth money went to Louis Tufano's Uncle Edgar who trailed far out of it until the last sixteenth of a mile.

The victory was worth $38,700 to the winner. The filly was clocked in 2:45 for the long grind, well back of the track mark of 2:42 4/5 set by Stymie three years ago.

Second choice in the betting, Adile returned a mutuel of $12.80, $3.30 and $2.70. Flying Missel was $2.40 and $2.20. Double Brandy was $3.80 to show.

TOP FLINGERS

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Brooklyn-New York Yankees have the nation's No. 6 passer, off the statistics, on the bench in favor of another rookie who was far down the list in last year's collegiate totals. Gil Johnson of S. M. U. is sitting it out while Don Panciera does most of the flinging. And the Yanks released Jim Finks of Tulsa, who was the No. 2 tosser in 1948. Finks landed with the Pittsburgh Steelers and recently beat the New York Giants with a touchdown pass in the last quarter.

WE GUARANTEE NEW POWER IN 10 MILES WHEN YOU USE RISLONE WITH YOUR OIL!

Fleet Operators Use Rislone, Save on Service and Repairs

Burned, sticking valves . . . clogged oil lines . . . gummed-up rings . . . and excessive wear from inadequate lubrication cut trucking profits with excessive "Time Out" and "in The Shop."

Fleet operators stretch the profit-earning period between service lay-ups by using Rislone in their oil all the time—to dissolve power-robbing gums . . . prevent sticking valves and rings.

Rislone is their low-cost preventive maintenance. It guarantees full compression for smooth performance, top gas mileage, low oil consumption, and all 'round economical operation.

Rislone Keeps Marine Engines at Peak Efficiency

Pleasure-craft and work-boat owners everywhere rely on Rislone to keep engines humming dependably and assure low maintenance costs.

Rislone dissolves gum and sludge to prevent dangerous, costly break-downs caused by clogged oil lines, inadequate lubrication, and excessive wear.

Rislone keeps power-plants shipshape while boats are idle, or hauled out for the winter. Spring-starting is quick and easy.

Rislone Helps Contractors to Prevent Job Delays

Any delays increase costs and cut profits on huge construction jobs. That's why contractors' trucks, tractors, high-speed scrapers, generating sets, mixers, etc. must be in top-notch condition. That's why contractors use Rislone.

It maintains full power and dependability, keeps oil free-flowing, prevents sticky valves and clogged piston rings — and assures quick, easy starting of powerful diesel and gasoline engines, even in the coldest weather.

A-20

Rislone gives fast, feelable improvement . . . ends lazy pick-up, sluggish starting, power-sputter, motor-buck

Rislone "Motor Magic" works in cars of any age. And cars of all ages need Rislone all the time.

Rislone is an oil-improving alloy for all motor lubricants. It's a super-lubricant—with no harmful ingredients. You can keep it in your car all the time.

Modern motor-oil has gum-forming properties. But Rislone dissolves gum and sludge as soon as it forms — prevents power-robbing deposits on your valves, pistons, and other moving parts.

Tune-up as you drive

Use Rislone to keep your motor clean as you drive . . . at peak performance for smooth power at all speeds, and quick starting in all weather.

It protects your engine with instant, full lubrication. It keeps your car from getting sluggish at low speeds. In new cars (or reconditioned engines) it eliminates slow-speed break-in—permits driving at normal speeds immediately and safely.

Money-back Guarantee

We are so confident that Rislone can work its "motor magic" on your car that we give you this unconditional money-back guarantee. Here's what you do:

Put a quart or more of Rislone in your crankcase. Drive 10 miles. Watch for these improvements: quieter motor operation, the smooth power of full compression, new "get-up-and-go." If you can't actually feel these improvements in 10 miles — return to your station for a full refund of your money.

Rislone Keeps Farm Machinery Fit All The Year

A California farmer cut operating costs and oil consumption on his tractors 75% with Rislone. Actual working time was increased from 600 to 2000 hours!

Those savings are typical. And that's why thousands of farmers from coast to coast say that Rislone helps any internal combustion engine on the farm to run better, longer, and with less servicing. That holds for stationary units such as power-and-light plants, as well as for mobile units like tractors and combines.

Money-back Guarantee!

Make this test:

1. Put a quart of Rislone in your crankcase today.
2. Drive 10 miles. Watch for smoother, quieter power; new get-up-and-go; power surge pick-up.
3. If you can't actually feel these improvements in 10 miles — return to your dealer for a full refund.

VANDY STUMBLES BEFORE LOUISIANA STATE

BAYOU BENGALS REGISTER 33-13 CONFERENCE WIN

Hard Charging Tigers Get Lucky To Coast Through Commodores

By Warren Rogers, Jr.

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Louisiana State outcharged and outlucked Vanderbilt here tonight to win a hard fought Southeastern Conference victory, 33-13.

An estimated 34,000 fans, shivering in nippy weather, were alternately thrilled by long gains and chilled by costly miscues. Vandy was unable to put together a ground game, but struck tellingly through the air, with Quarterback Jamie Wade consistently hitting ends, Bucky and Bud Curtis.

Louisiana State's rushing was stronger, but the Bengals, too, did better with passes. The Tigers scored in every period, four times on passes and once on a nine yard run set up by two neat tosses. Halfback Lee Hedges, who carried most for the Bengals, hit for two touchdowns.

Backs Jimmy Roshto, Billy Baggett and Carroll Griffith and End Sam Lyle made the others.

Vandy's touches came in the second quarter. The Wade-Bucky Curtis combination was good for both, on a one yard pass and on one that traveled 24 yards. Griffith kicked L. S. U.'s extra point, while Cannon Mayes made Vandy's. Fumbles were frequent and L. S. U. turned three into touchdowns. Lightnin' Lee Nalley, the Commodores' ace punt returner, bobbled several L. S. U. kicks, but managed to get away once for a 53 yard dash that nearly hit paydirt.

Line play was savage on both sides. Vandy's Wade was harried by the Bengal line whenever he faded, but managed nonetheless to slide good tosses to receivers. The Commodores had a punt blocked in the last quarter—the first time it's happened to them since 1946.

Hedges carried the brunt of the Bengals' running, with an assist from Baggett. He was also a frequent target of tossing to quarterbacks Griffith and Pevey.

In 23 pass attempts, L. S. U. completed ten times for a net gain of 104

Michigan Nips Purdue; Moves Nearer Throne

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Michigan turned back a stubborn Purdue team 20 to 12 today and moved a step closer to its third Big Ten football title in a row. A crowd of 95,207 saw the game.

Michigan's victory moved it into a tie with Ohio State for the lead in the Big Ten race, each with a 3-1 record.

Score by quarters:

Purdue	0	6	0	6—12
Michigan	7	13	0	0—20

Michigan scoring—Touchdowns, Dufek, D. Peterson, Allis. Points after touchdowns—Allis 2.

Wake Forest Strikes Hard To Beat Duke Devils, 27-7

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Wake Forest struck for two touchdowns in the second period and added a final pair in the last quarter to whip Duke, 27-7, today. The loss was the first in four Southern Conference games for Duke, beaten only by Navy previously.

Score by quarters:

Wake Forest	0	13	0	14—27
Duke	0	7	0	0— 7

Wake Forest touchdowns: Gregus (2), Miller, Jones. Points after touchdowns: George (3).

Duke touchdowns: Schoonmaker.

Point after touchdown: Souchak.

half after recovering a fumble on the Nicholls 34 when Dillard drove the final 14 yards. Then came two intercepted passes that allowed Ivy Hoover and Eldred Eppling to score.

Willard Rachel led Byrd to its victory, scoring two touchdowns on long runs. Other touchdowns were added by Left End Dickie Murray on a pass play, Right Halfback Bennett Johnston on a 66-yard run, Right Halfback Charles Worley on a 46-yard run and Fullback Dan Barr on a 24-yard dash. Worley added five points from placement.

Quarterback Billy Milstead scored both Ouachita touchdowns, going around right end for one and lugging a pass 70 yards for another.

Quarterback Newton Shows led the way in Sulphur's one-sided win over Lafayette. Two of his passes to George Hynes set the pace by giving the Sulphur boys their first touchdowns.

Terrebonne of Houma combined a neat ground game with its aerial attack to take Jennings into tow.

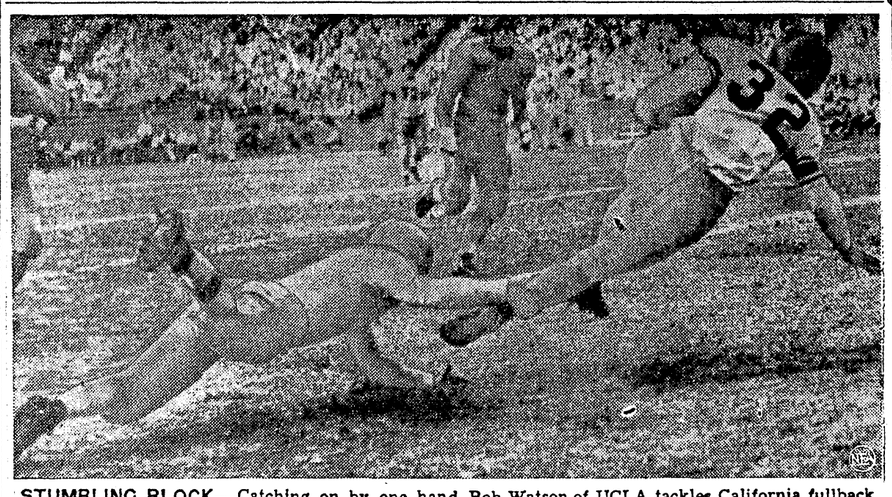

John McCollum and Billy Juenke scored for Terrebonne on ground plays while passes from Don Dumez to Camille Arceneaux accounted for two others.

Istrouma's win was the first of the season and came only when the Indians took to the air in the third quarter to come from behind.

Pete Meliet and Pete McCulley each passed once to Larry Mobley for a touchdown and Meliet sent another to James Mitchell for a score. Meliet bucked over one touchdown and Dickie Craddock another. McCulley kicked two extra points and Billy Ainsworth a third.

Catholic High's scores came on a 13-yard pass to End Joe Roberts and on a 60-yard scat by Tailback Russ Gauthreaux. Ronnie Crosswell kicked both extra points.

The School Bowling League had a hot session at Herron's Bowling Lanes yesterday morning with Ralph McNabb rolling like a big leaguer with a high game of 146 and a 356 series. Kenneth Abington, of Joy Theater, had a high game of 148.

McNabb bowled for Guerriero Insurance, and Pete Goodman sparkled for Herron's Bowlers, although Guerriero swept all three games from Herron's. Joy Theater took two of three from Engine Service with Abington leading the winners, and Gene Barham sparking the losers with a 129 game. Ruskin Cigar won two of three from the Delta Cleaners with Don Spatafora leading Delta with a 137, and Jack Norman rolling high for the Cigars.

Crowville Wins Over Olla-Standard, 20-14

URANIA, La., Nov. 5.—(Special)—The Crowville Bulldogs spoiled homecoming for the Olla-Standard Tigers here last night to triumph, 20 to 14, in their gridiron duel.

Crowville received the opening kickoff and marched immediately for a touchdown with Royce Parker scoring. The try for the point failed. Then the Tigers took the next kickoff and marched 80 yards on two plays and then passed for the touchdown and added the point.

The Bulldogs came hammering right back, Parker scoring again early in the second period and adding the point to lead, 13-7, at the half. Olla went ahead again, 14-13, in the third period, but Ralph Lewis clinched the Bulldog victory when he plunged over from the one in the final quarter.

Olla-Standard came roaring back with two pass that put them on the Crowville 20 as the game ended.

Ray Robinson Will Fight Lester At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5 (AP)—"Sugar Ray" Robinson, world's welterweight champ, meets Vern Lester of San Francisco in a ten-round feature bout here Nov. 13.

Both Robinson and Lester have had tries at Jake La Motta, the 160-pound title holder. La Motta took a decision from both.

TIDWELL STEERS AUBURN THROUGH MAROONS, 25 TO 6

Plainsmen Register First Conference Triumph In Eighteen Starts

By Leroy Simms

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Travis Tidwell had a field day in leading the Auburn Tigers to a 25-6 homecoming day victory over Mississippi State today before 18,000.

The great Auburn halfback scored two touchdowns, set up another with a magnificent run, and set the stage for a field goal with a fine pass.

It was Auburn's first Southeastern Conference victory in 18 starts, and its first win of any kind this season. Today's margin would have been much greater but for penalties. Two sparkling touchdown runs by Fullback Charley Langner, and a touchdown pass from Tidwell to Halfbcak Calvin Emmert were nullified by penalties against Auburn.

Tidwell engineered the opening Auburn touchdown midway of the first period, scoring himself from the one to end a 59-yard march.

Bill Tucker, Tidwell's sophomore understudy and also from Birmingham, placekicked a field goal late in the second period to give Auburn a 10-0 lead with a few seconds left in the half.

State went 77 yards on a pass from Don Robinson to Sims Cooley to score during those seconds. It was the last play of the half.

Guard Jim Brooks recovered a State fumble on the invaders 18 in the third period and Auburn scored from there. After a penalty, Tidwell broke away for 18 to the State two, and Langner bucked it over.

The final Auburn touchdown, on the opening play of the last quarter, was made by Tidwell from three yards out. Langner got 27 on a previous play.

Capt. Ralph Pyburn added two points to the Auburn total in the closing minutes. He nailed Cooley behind the State goal line for a safety as Cooley raced about seeking a pass receiver.

A star performer for State, despite the lop-sided score, was Guard Louis Williams. He and Center Jerry Taylor, the usual State star, made more than half of their side's tackles.

Top linemen for the victors were Tackle Max Autrey, Pyburn and End Virgil Willett.

Auburn gained 214 yards rushing to 20 for State.

Tidwell picked up 79 yards rushing and completed seven passes of 17 thrown for 144 more. He lost 34 on plays in which he failed to get the ball away.

The lineups:

OUACHITA PLAYS LAST HOME GAME HERE THIS WEEK

Bulldogs Face Lions Friday Night; Tigers Go To Shreveport

The Ouachita Parish High School Lions make their final appearance of the season before a home crowd here Friday night against the Baton Rouge High School Bulldogs, while the Neville High School Tigers at the same time are on an Armistice Day invasion of Shreveport for a night contest with the strong Fair Park Indians.

The Lions, beaten 41-13 by Byrd High School Friday night as they absorbed their worst beating since 1943 when Byrd polished off the O. P. H. S. forces 50-0, see nothing but more trouble ahead this week although the Bulldog record isn't too much better than that of the Lions.

Both have won three games, Ouachita has lost four against only one for Baton Rouge, but the Bulldogs have been tied three times, and the Lions only once.

Their only mutual foe was Bolton of Alexandria. Ouachita tamed the Bears, 28-12, while Bolton held B. R. to a 19-19 tie.

The game here Friday will be the second between elevens that first opened athletic relations last year with Baton Rouge winning over the Lions at the state capitol, 14-7. Ouachita will end its schedule November 18 at Baton Rouge against the Istrouma Indians.

The Neville Tigers have never before played a Fair Park eleven, but the Indians appeared on the Bengal schedule this year as Coach Bill Ruple, expecting to see Neville move into the Class AA ranks next year, began working on his schedule to meet the higher conference requirements accepting the date with the double-A Tribesmen.

Coach Bill Ruple's Tigers, with a record of six wins, two losses, and a tie are undefeated in Class A conference play, but they'll be headed for trouble at Shreveport Friday against the more experienced Indians who are certain to be highly favored to win.

Fair Park comes as the last scheduled game for the Tigers who close out their regular campaign against the Bastrop Rams, also unbeaten in Class A, here the night of November 18 in what is already being labeled as the district "A" championship game.

Tulane Crowns Jeannine M'Gee Homecoming Queen

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Sparkle-eyed, breathless, Jeannine McGee of Memphis, a Newcomb College student, was crowned queen of the 1949 Tulane University homecoming at halftime of the Tulane-Navy football game today.

The petite, blue-eyed blonde was crowned by Clayton Nairne, of New Orleans, newly elected president of the Tulane Alumni Association.

In keeping with the all-Navy theme of half-time ceremonies, the queen and her court of six maids were introduced to the 70,000 fans after a ride around the gridiron in boats on trailers pulled by navy jeeps.

Top-ranking midshipmen of the Tulane naval R. O. T. C., unit escorted the queen and her maids through a "T" formation, made up of the Tulane naval unit, band and glee club.

Members of her court were Renee Aubry, Cinclaire, La., maid of honor; Ann Schornstein, New Orleans; Rubie Crosby, Roswell, N. M., Anita Yancey, Hickory, Fla., Miss Virginia Day, Shreveport, La., and Lanier Allingham, Lafayette, La.

both gave indications they will prove powerful foes for the Buckeyes.

Michigan mastered Purdue, 20 to 12, and Illinois crushed Indiana, 33 to 14. Wisconsin, moving forward rapidly under the coaching by Ivy Williamson, plastered a 14 to 6 setback on the record of Northwestern, last year's Rose Bowl champions.

As surprising as was Georgia Tech's victory over Tennessee it did not overshadow Florida's 28 to 7 victory over Georgia in the Southeast Conference. Auburn turned Travis Tidwell loose for a 25 to 6 defeat of Mississippi State.

In intersectional contests Tulane and Navy played to a 21 to 21 deadlock before 70,000 in New Orleans. Navy was trying for a field goal when the clock ran out. Boston College traveled south for a 40 to 27 victory over Clemson and South Carolina nipped Marquette, 6 to 3.

North Carolina, Notre Dame's opponent next Saturday, had all it could do to defeat William and Mary, 20 to 14, with Art Wiener the pass catching hero. Wake Forest ended its defeats by spilling Duke, 27 to 7, in another Dixie surprise.

On the west coast California, heading for the Rose Bowl, defeated Washington State, 33 to 14, while Stanford helped the Bears by drubbing southern California, 34 to 13. Washington notched in its first win of the year by edging Oregon, 28 to 7.

Oklahoma and Missouri, who plays each other next Saturday, racked up victories in the Big Seven circuit. Missouri won in the final minutes from Colorado, 20 to 13, while Oklahoma held Kansas State to 50-yards gained in a 39 to 0 romp.

This year the cowgirls rode thoroughbreds, with Mom showing on First Bourne. Mitzi went unplaced as My Nancy, Fay Kirkwood up, paid $17.60 for $2.

PRO GRID LEAGUE ENTERING SECOND HALF OF SEASON

Unbeaten Los Angeles Meets Philadelphia In Day's Feature Game

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 5.—(Special)—Los Angeles, undefeated in six games, and Philadelphia with a record of five wins and one defeat, will meet Sunday on Shibe Park's gridiron in one of five important contests as the National Football League swings into the second half of its sixty game schedule.

Green Bay and the Chicago Bears are scheduled for a game in Wrigley Field; the Cardinals oppose Detroit in Briggs Stadium; the New York Bulldogs and the New York Giants collide in the Polo Grounds with the latter acting as the host, and Pittsburgh clashes with Washington in Griffith Stadium to complete the day's proceedings.

The game in Philadelphia is attracting nationwide attention because it brings together two of the most potent teams in football. The Rams have rolled up a total of 189 points compared to 165 for the Eagles. Defensively the latter has permitted only 76 points to be scored against it while the Rams have allowed 88. Philadelphia's total offense is 2094 yards and Los Angeles, 2042.

Bob Waterfield, enjoying his greatest season as a passer, punter and field goal kicker; Tom Fears, the sophomore end, who has caught 30 passes this season; Dick Horener, one of the league's ten best ground gainers, and Verda Smith, punt return leader, are among the stars Clark Shaughnessy will send against the Eagles.

Philadelphia will count heavily on the ground gaining of Steve Van Buren and Bosh Pritchard, the passing of Tommy Thompson, the punting of Joe Muha and the pass catching of Pete Pihos, who has snared 24 this season.

The teams have met three times, the Eagles holding the edge in the series with two wins and one tie. Last year the Eagles scored 28 points and seemed on their way to a comparatively easy win when the Rams rose in their might and tied the score with seven points in the third period and 21 in the fourth.

The New York Giants, with consecutive victories over the two Chicago teams, the Bears and the Cardinals, and with the league's leading scorer, Gene Roberts with 66 points; the league's leading kickoff return leader, Jack Salscheider, and with such other outstanding players as Charley Conerly, third in passing, and Emlen Tunnell, one of the best defensive players in the league, will match its skill against Bobby Layne, fourth in passing; Bill Chipley, tied for first in pass receiving; Mike Boyda, one of the punting leaders and other Bulldog luminaries in the game in the Polo Grounds.

The teams have met once this season with the Giants the victor.

For the sixty-third time since 1921 the Chicago Bears and the Green Bay Packers will meet on the gridiron. The former holds the series advantage with 35 to 22 for the Packers. Five games ended without a decision.

Green Bay, with the league's leading ground gainer, Tony Canadeo in its lineup, has shown steady improvement. Johnny Lujack, only a half point behind as the league's leading passer, is George Halas' ace for the territorial struggle. In this traditional game the winner is not decided until the final whistle.

The Cardinals and Detroit will meet for the thirtieth time since their series started in 1934. To the victor in this game will go third place in the league standings, each having won two of its six games thus far.

The Pittsburgh Steelers, who like the New York Giants, are only one game back of the pace-setting Eagles, and Washington, with an opportunity to make its season's record 3 and 3, are expected to provide plenty of fireworks for Capital fans.

Sammy Baugh, who is carrying on a great duel with the two sophomores, Lujack and Conerly, for top passing honors; Hugh Taylor and Harold Crisler, two of the best pass receivers in the league, and Dick Saenz, among the leaders in both punt and kickoff returns, are Washington's aces.

The Steelers, with their great single wing attack, have Jerry Nuzum, Bob Gage, Joe Geri, Jim Finks, and Val Jansante as their principal offensive weapons.

Four More Players Join South's Blue-Gray Squad

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Southern coaches put four more names on their player roster for the Blue-Gray football game today and waited anxiously for word from their Yankee opponents.

Although the Rebels have announced the signing of 18 Dixie college stars, nothing has been heard from the northerners.

Blue-Gray headquarters gave out with the word today that two backs and two linemen from William and Mary have agreed to take part in the Dec. 31 intersectional game.

They are Fullback Jack Cloud, Tailback Buddy Lee, Tackle Lou Greekmur and Guard George Hughes.

Two others, both from the Southeastern Conference, were signed yesterday afternoon when Alabama's Right Halfback Bill Cadenhead and L. S. U.'s 215-pound Fullback Zollie Toth accepted bids.

Both squads will have 24 players.

RICE OWLS DOWN PORKERS TO NAB SOUTHWEST LEAD

Arkansas Falls Before Jittery Institute Offense, 14 to 0

By Max B. Skelton

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Rice's Owls fumbled and sputtered today but settled down for long drives for a 14 to 0 victory over Arkansas.

Combined with Texas' defeat of Baylor, the victory gave Rice undisputed possession of first place in the Southwest Conference standings.

End James (Froggie) Williams took first and fourth period touchdown passes from Quarterbacks Tobin Rote and Vernon Glass and then kicked both extra points to account for all the scoring.

Meanwhile the Rice defense twice had to stop Arkansas drives on the Owl 6, while the Arkansas defense messed up Rice's offense with two fumble recoveries and five pass interceptions.

The final gun, however, caught Rice with a second down on the Arkansas 1-yard following recovery of a Porker fumble on the 22. But Arkansas was having its offensive troubles, too, with a pair of fumbles and a pass interception stopping other drives into Rice territory. Rote and Fullback Bobby Lantrip sparked the touchdown drives of 83 and 82 yards.

Rice took the opening kickoff on its 17. Rote made good on all of four pass attempts for 69 yards in the march. His scoring toss to Williams was good for 10.

Glass' 9-yard touchdown completion was the only pass in the second scoring drive that began on the Rice 18. Lantrip, however, carried six times for 45 yards.

Only minutes before the second Rice Tally Arkansas had made its most serious threat. Rote fumbled and Guard Dave Hanner took over for Arkansas on the Rice 34.

On third down Don Logue passed 22 yards to End Pat Summerall on the 8. Logue carried to the 1, but an offside penalty pushed the Porkers back to the 6. Rice took over on downs on incomplete passes.

The previous Arkansas threat came in the second period when Fullback Geno Mazzanti scampered 54 yards to the Rice 11. Two plays lost 1 yard. Logue got 6 yards the last two tries but was stopped both times by Owl Halfback John Kelly.

Score by quarters:

Rice	7	0	0	7—14

Rice scoring: Touchdowns—Williams 2. Points after touchdown—Williams 2 (placements).

Oklahoma's Sooners Blank Kansas State

MANHATTAN, Kas., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Oklahoma's mighty and versatile Sooners toyed with undermanned Kansas State today in rolling up a 39 to 0 Big Seven Conference football victory.

It was Oklahoma's fourth league victory this season and its 17th win in a row.

Playing in clear, crisp weather, the Sooners let their great halfback George Thomas run his scoring total for the season to 87 points with two touchdowns in the first half. After building up a 33-0 lead Oklahoma turned over the game to second and third string units.

Score by quarters:

Oklahoma	14	19	6	0—	39

Oklahoma scoring: Touchdowns—Pearson, Thomas 2, Lockett, Heatly 2. Points after touchdown—Tipps 3.

DETROIT—(NEA)— Co-captain and end of the professional Detroit Lions, Johnnie Green, after playing six years in the National League, and 16 all told, scored the first touchdown of his career on a 32-yard pass against the Chicago Cardinals.

VANDY STUMBLES BEFORE LOUISIANA STATE

BAYOU BENGALS REGISTER 33-13 CONFERENCE WIN

Hard Charging Tigers Get Lucky To Coast Through Commodores

By Warren Rogers, Jr.

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Louisiana State outcharged and outlucked Vanderbilt here tonight to win a hard fought Southeastern Conference victory, 33-13.

An estimated 34,000 fans, shivering in nippy weather, were alternately thrilled by long gains and chilled by costly miscues. Vandy was unable to put together a ground game, but struck tellingly through the air, with Quarterback Jamie Wade consistently hitting ends, Bucky and Bud Curtis.

Louisiana State's rushing was stronger, but the Bengals, too, did better with passes. The Tigers scored in every period, four times on passes and once on a nine yard run set up by two neat tosses. Halfback Lee Hedges, who carried most for the Bengals, hit for two touchdowns.

Backs Jimmy Roshto, Billy Baggett and Carroll Griffith and End Sam Lyle made the others.

Vandy's touches came in the second quarter. The Wade-Bucky Curtis combination was good for both, on a one yard pass and on one that traveled 24 yards. Griffith kicked L. S. U.'s extra point, while Cannon Mayes made Vandy's. Fumbles were frequent and L. S. U. turned three into touchdowns. Lightnin' Lee Nalley, the Commodores' ace punt returner, bobbled several L. S. U. kicks, but managed to get away once for a 53 yard dash that nearly hit paydirt.

Line play was savage on both sides. Vandy's Wade was harried by the Bengal line whenever he faded, but managed nonetheless to slide good tosses to receivers. The Commodores had a punt blocked in the last quarter—the first time it's happened to them since 1946.

Hedges carried the brunt of the Bengals' running, with an assist from Baggett. He was also a frequent target of tossing to quarterbacks Griffith and Pevey.

In 23 pass attempts, L. S. U. completed ten times for a net gain of 104

Michigan Nips Purdue; Moves Nearer Throne

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Michigan turned back a stubborn Purdue team 20 to 12 today and moved a step closer to its third Big Ten football title in a row. A crowd of 95,207 saw the game.

Michigan's victory moved it into a tie with Ohio State for the lead in the Big Ten race, each with a 3-1 record.

Score by quarters:

Purdue	0	6	0	6—12
Michigan	7	13	0	0—20

Michigan scoring—Touchdowns, Dufek, D. Peterson, Allis. Points after touchdowns—Allis 2.

Purdue scoring—Touchdowns, Gorgal, Kerestes.

Wake Forest Strikes Hard To Beat Duke Devils, 27-7

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Wake Forest struck for two touchdowns in the second period and added a final pair in the last quarter to whip Duke, 27-7, today. The loss was the first in four Southern Conference games for Duke, beaten only by Navy previously.

Score by quarters:

Wake Forest	0	13	0	14—27
Duke	0	7	0	0— 7

Wake Forest touchdowns: Gregus (2), Miller, Jones. Points after touchdowns: George (3).

Duke touchdowns: Schoonmaker. Point after touchdown: Souchak.

half after recovering a fumble on the Nicholls 34 when Dillard drove the final 14 yards. Then came two intercepted passes that allowed Ivy Hoover and Eldred Eppling to score.

Willard Rachel led Byrd to its victory, scoring two touchdowns on long runs. Other touchdowns were added by Left End Dickie Murray on a pass play, Right Halfback Bennett Johnston on a 66-yard run, Right Halfback Charles Worley on a 46-yard run and Fullback Dan Barr on a 24-yard dash. Worley added five points from placement.

Quarterback Billy Milstead scored both Ouachita touchdowns, going around right end for one and lugging a pass 70 yards for another.

Quarterback Newton Shows led the way in Sulphur's one-sided win over Lafayette. Two of his passes to George Hynes set the pace by giving the Sulphur boys their first touchdowns.

Terrebonne of Houma combined a neat ground game with its aerial attack to take Jennings into tow.

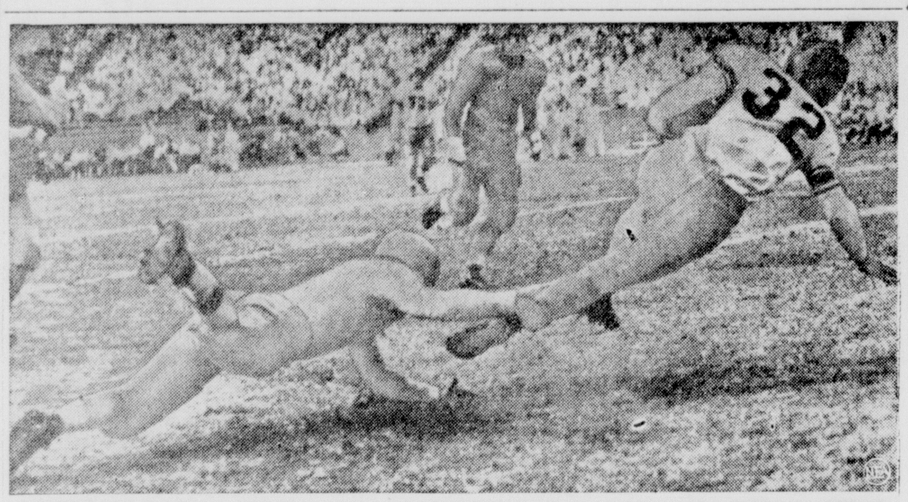

John McCollum and Billy Juenke scored for Terrebonne on ground plays while passes from Don Dumez to Camille Arceneaux accounted for two others.

Istrouma's win was the first of the season and came only when the Indians took to the air in the third quarter to come from behind.

Pete Meliet and Pete McCulley each passed once to Larry Mobley for a touchdown and Meliet sent another to James Mitchell for a score. Meliet bucked over one touchdown and Dickie Craddock another. McCulley kicked two extra points and Billy Ainsworth a third.

Catholic High's scores came on a 13-yard pass to End Joe Roberts and on a 60-yard scat by Tailback Russ Gauthreaux. Ronnie Crosswell kicked both extra points.

O. P. H. S. Awaits Baton Rouge; Neville Visits Fair Park

STUMBLING BLOCK—Catching on by one hand, Bob Watson of UCLA tackles California fullback Pete Schabarum after latter caught 10-yard pass in Los Angeles Coliseum. California downed the Uclans, 35-21, to continue all-winning ways.

The second division had a field day at Herron's Bowling Lanes Friday as they all won their series from the top running teams.

The West Monroe Kiwanis No. 2 team took two out of three from the No. 1 team, to almost come out of the cellar, a spot they have been in for several weeks. The W. M. Kiwanis No. 1 held their four-game lead, however, as the Jaycees and the Optimist Club both lost two out of three to the Monroe Kiwanis and the Knights of Columbus. The West Monroe Lions won two out of three from the Monroe Lions in the other games.

Bill Bennett, Sr., shot high game and series with 205 and 565, followed by Knipping with a 201 game and 518 series.

The School Bowling League had a hot session at Herron's Bowling Lanes yesterday morning with Ralph McNabb rolling like a big leaguer with a high game of 146 and a 356 series. Kenneth Abington, of Joy Theater, had a high game of 148.

McNabb bowled for Guerriero Insurance, and Pete Goodman sparkled for Herron's Bowlers, although Guerriero swept all three games from Herron's. Joy Theater took two of three from Engine Service with Abington leading the winners, and Gene Barham sparking the losers with a 129 game. Ruskin Cigar won two of three from the Delta Cleaners with Don Spatafora leading Delta with a 137, and Jack Norman rolling high for the Cigars.

Crowville Wins Over Olla-Standard, 20-14

URANIA, La., Nov. 5.—(Special)—The Crowville Bulldogs spoiled homecoming for the Olla-Standard Tigers here last night to triumph, 20 to 14, in their gridiron duel.

Crowville received the opening kickoff and marched immediately for a touchdown with Royce Parker scoring. The try for the point failed. Then the Tigers took the next kickoff and marched 80 yards on two plays and then passed for the touchdown and added the point.

The Bulldogs came hammering right back, Parker scoring again early in the second period and adding the point to lead, 13-7, at the half. Olla went ahead again, 14-13, in the third period, but Ralph Lewis clinched the Bulldog victory when he plunged over from the one in the final quarter.

Olla-Standard came roaring back with two pass that put them on the Crowville 20 as the game ended.

Ray Robinson Will Fight Lester At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5 (AP)—"Sugar Ray" Robinson, world's welterweight champ, meets Vern Lester of San Francisco in a ten-round feature bout here Nov. 13.

Both Robinson and Lester have had tries at Jake La Motta, the 160-pound title holder. La Motta took a decision from both.

TIDWELL STEERS AUBURN THROUGH MAROONS, 25 TO 6

Plainsmen Register First Conference Triumph In Eighteen Starts

By Leroy Simms

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Travis Tidwell had a field day in leading the Auburn Tigers to a 25-6 homecoming day victory over Mississippi State today before 18,000.

The great Auburn halfback scored two touchdowns, set up another with a magnificent run, and set the stage for a field goal with a fine pass.

It was Auburn's first Southeastern Conference victory in 18 starts, and its first win of any kind this season. Today's margin would have been much greater but for penalties. Two sparkling touchdown runs by Fullback Charley Langner, and a touchdown pass from Tidwell to Halfbcak Calvin Emmert were nullified by penalties against Auburn.

Tidwell engineered the opening Auburn touchdown midway of the first period, scoring himself from the one to end a 59-yard march.

Bill Tucker, Tidwell's sophomore understudy and also from Birmingham, placekicked a field goal late in the second period to give Auburn a 10-0 lead with a few seconds left in the half.

State went 77 yards on a pass from Don Robinson to Sims Cooley to score during those seconds. It was the last play of the half.

Guard Jim Brooks recovered a State fumble on the invaders 18 in the third period and Auburn scored from there. After a penalty, Tidwell broke away for 18 to the State two, and Langner bucked it over.

The final Auburn touchdown, on the opening play of the last quarter, was made by Tidwell from three yards out. Langner got 27 on a previous play.

Capt. Ralph Pyburn added two points to the Auburn total in the closing minutes. He nailed Cooley behind the State goal line for a safety as Cooley raced about seeking a pass receiver.

A star performer for State, despite the lop-sided score, was Guard Louis Williams. He and Center Jerry Taylor, the usual State star, made more than half of their side's tackles.

Top linemen for the victors were Tackle Max Autrey, Pyburn and End Virgil Willett.

Auburn gained 214 yards rushing to 20 for State.

Tidwell picked up 79 yards rushing and completed seven passes of 17 thrown for 144 more. He lost 34 on plays in which he failed to get the ball away.

OUACHITA PLAYS LAST HOME GAME HERE THIS WEEK

Bulldogs Face Lions Friday Night; Tigers Go To Shreveport

The Ouachita Parish High School Lions make their final appearance of the season before a home crowd here Friday night against the Baton Rouge High School Bulldogs, while the Neville High School Tigers at the same time are on an Armistice Day invasion of Shreveport for a night contest with the strong Fair Park Indians.

The Lions, beaten 41-13 by Byrd High School Friday night as they absorbed their worst beating since 1943 when Byrd polished off the O. P. H. S. forces 50-0, see nothing but more trouble ahead this week although the Bulldog record isn't too much better than that of the Lions.

Both have won three games, Ouachita has lost four against only one for Baton Rouge, but the Bulldogs have been tied three times, and the Lions only once.

Their only mutual foe was Bolton of Alexandria. Ouachita tamed the Bears, 28-12, while Bolton held B. R. to a 19-19 tie.

The game here Friday will be the second between elevens that first opened athletic relations last year with Baton Rouge winning over the Lions at the state capitol, 14-7. Ouachita will end its schedule November 18 at Baton Rouge against the Istrouma Indians.

The Neville Tigers have never before played a Fair Park eleven, but the Indians appeared on the Bengal schedule this year as Coach Bill Ruple, expecting to see Neville move into the Class AA ranks next year, began working on his schedule to meet the higher conference requirements accepting the date with the double-A Tribesmen.

Coach Bill Ruple's Tigers, with a record of six wins, two losses, and a tie are undefeated in Class A conference play, but they'll be headed for trouble at Shreveport Friday against the more experienced Indians who are certain to be highly favored to win.

Fair Park comes as the last scheduled game for the Tigers who close out their regular campaign against the Bastrop Rams, also unbeaten in Class A, here the night of November 18 in what is already being labeled as the district "A" championship game.

Tulane Crowns Jeannine M'Gee Homecoming Queen

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Sparkle-eyed, breathless, Jeannine McGee of Memphis, a Newcomb College student, was crowned queen of the 1949 Tulane University homecoming at halftime of the Tulane-Navy football game today.

The petite, blue-eyed blonde was crowned by Clayton Nairne, of New Orleans, newly elected president of the Tulane Alumni Association.

In keeping with the all-Navy theme of half-time ceremonies, the queen and her court of six maids were introduced to the 70,000 fans after a ride around the gridiron in boats on trailers pulled by navy jeeps.

Top-ranking midshipmen of the Tulane naval R. O. T. C., unit escorted the queen and her maids through a "T" formation, made up of the Tulane naval unit, band and glee club.

Members of her court were Renee Aubry, Cinclaire, La., maid of honor; Ann Schornstein, New Orleans; Rubie Crosby, Roswell, N. M., Anita Yancey, Hickory, Fla., Miss Virginia Day, Shreveport, La., and Lanier Allingham, Lafayette, La.

both gave indications they will prove powerful foes for the Buckeyes.

Michigan mastered Purdue, 20 to 12, and Illinois crushed Indiana, 33 to 14. Wisconsin, moving forward rapidly under the coaching by Ivy Williamson, plastered a 14 to 6 setback on the record of Northwestern, last year's Rose Bowl champions.

As surprising as was Georgia Tech's victory over Tennessee it did not overshadow Florida's 28 to 7 victory over Georgia in the Southeast Conference. Auburn turned Travis Tidwell loose for a 25 to 6 defeat of Mississippi State.

In intersectional contests Tulane and Navy played to a 21 to 21 deadlock before 70,000 in New Orleans. Navy was trying for a field goal when the clock ran out. Boston College traveled south for a 40 to 27 victory over Clemson and South Carolina nipped Marquette, 6 to 3.

North Carolina, Notre Dame's opponent next Saturday, had all it could do to defeat William and Mary, 20 to 14, with Art Wiener the pass catching hero. Wake Forest ended its defeats by spilling Duke, 27 to 7, in another Dixie surprise.

On the west coast California, heading for the Rose Bowl, defeated Washington State, 33 to 14, while Stanford helped the Bears by drubbing southern California, 34 to 13. Washington notched in its first win of the year by edging Oregon, 28 to 7.

Oklahoma and Missouri, who plays each other next Saturday, racked up victories in the Big Seven circuit. Missouri won in the final minutes from Colorado, 20 to 13, while Oklahoma held Kansas State to 50-yards gained in a 39 to 0 romp.

PRO GRID LEAGUE ENTERING SECOND HALF OF SEASON

Unbeaten Los Angeles Meets Philadelphia In Day's Feature Game

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 5.—(Special)—Los Angeles, undefeated in six games, and Philadelphia with a record of five wins and one defeat, will meet Sunday on Shibe Park's gridiron in one of five important contests as the National Football League swings into the second half of its sixty game schedule.

Green Bay and the Chicago Bears are scheduled for a game in Wrigley Field; the Cardinals oppose Detroit in Briggs Stadium; the New York Bulldogs and the New York Giants collide in the Polo Grounds with the latter acting as the host, and Pittsburgh clashes with Washington in Griffith Stadium to complete the day's proceedings.

The game in Philadelphia is attracting nationwide attention because it brings together two of the most potent teams in football. The Rams have rolled up a total of 189 points compared to 165 for the Eagles. Defensively the latter has permitted only 76 points to be scored against it while the Rams have allowed 88. Philadelphia's total offense is 2094 yards and Los Angeles, 2042.

Bob Waterfield, enjoying his greatest season as a passer, punter and field goal kicker; Tom Fears, the sophomore end, who has caught 30 passes this season; Dick Horener, one of the league's ten best ground gainers, and Verda Smith, punt return leader, are among the stars Clark Shaughnessy will send against the Eagles.

Philadelphia will count heavily on the ground gaining of Steve Van Buren and Bosh Pritchard, the passing of Tommy Thompson, the punting of Joe Muha and the pass catching of Pete Pihos, who has snared 24 this season.

The teams have met three times, the Eagles holding the edge in the series with two wins and one tie. Last year the Eagles scored 28 points and seemed on their way to a comparatively easy win when the Rams rose in their might and tied the score with seven points in the third period and 21 in the fourth.

The New York Giants, with consecutive victories over the two Chicago teams, the Bears and the Cardinals, and with the league's leading scorer, Gene Roberts with 66 points; the league's leading kickoff return leader, Jack Salscheider, and with such other outstanding players as Charley Conerly, third in passing, and Emlen Tunnell, one of the best defensive players in the league, will match its skill against Bobby Layne, fourth in passing; Bill Chipley, tied for first in pass receiving; Mike Boyda, one of the punting leaders and other Bulldog luminaries in the game in the Polo Grounds.

The teams have met once this season with the Giants the victor.

For the sixty-third time since 1921 the Chicago Bears and the Green Bay Packers will meet on the gridiron. The former holds the series advantage with 35 to 22 for the Packers. Five games ended without a decision.

Green Bay, with the league's leading ground gainer, Tony Canadeo in its lineup, has shown steady improvement. Johnny Lujack, only a half point behind as the league's leading passer, is George Halas' ace for the territorial struggle. In this traditional game the winner is not decided until the final whistle.

The Cardinals and Detroit will meet for the thirtieth time since their series started in 1934. To the victor in this game will go third place in the league standings, each having won two of its six games thus far.

The Pittsburgh Steelers, who like the New York Giants, are only one game back of the pace-setting Eagles, and Washington, with an opportunity to make its season's record 3 and 3, are expected to provide plenty of fireworks for Capital fans.

Sammy Baugh, who is carrying on a great duel with the two sophomores, Lujack and Conerly, for top passing honors; Hugh Taylor and Harold Crisler, two of the best pass receivers in the league, and Dick Saenz, among the leaders in both punt and kickoff returns, are Washington's aces.

The Steelers, with their great single wing attack, have Jerry Nuzum, Bob Gage, Joe Geri, Jim Finks, and Val Jansante as their principal offensive weapons.

Four More Players Join South's Blue-Gray Squad

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Southern coaches put four more names on their player roster for the Blue-Gray football game today and waited anxiously for word from their Yankee opponents.

Although the Rebels have announced the signing of 18 Dixie college stars, nothing has been heard from the northerners.

Blue-Gray headquarters gave out with the word today that two backs and two linemen from William and Mary have agreed to take part in the Dec. 31 intersectional game.

They are Fullback Jack Cloud, Tailback Buddy Lee, Tackle Lou Greekmur and Guard George Hughes.

Two others, both from the Southeastern Conference, were signed yesterday afternoon when Alabama's Right Halfback Bill Cadenhead and L. S. U.'s 215-pound Fullback Zollie Toth accepted bids.

Both squads will have 24 players.

RICE OWLS DOWN PORKERS TO NAB SOUTHWEST LEAD

Arkansas Falls Before Jittery Institute Offense, 14 to 0

By Max B. Skelton

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Rice's Owls fumbled and sputtered today but settled down for long drives for a 14 to 0 victory over Arkansas.

Combined with Texas' defeat of Baylor, the victory gave Rice undisputed possession of first place in the Southwest Conference standings.

End James (Froggie) Williams took first and fourth period touchdown passes from Quarterbacks Tobin Rote and Vernon Glass and then kicked both extra points to account for all the scoring.

Meanwhile the Rice defense twice had to stop Arkansas drives on the Owl 6, while the Arkansas defense messed up Rice's offense with two fumble recoveries and five pass interceptions.

The final gun, however, caught Rice with a second down on the Arkansas 1-yard following recovery of a Porker fumble on the 22. But Arkansas was having its offensive troubles, too, with a pair of fumbles and a pass interception stopping other drives into Rice territory. Rote and Fullback Bobby Lantrip sparked the touchdown drives of 83 and 82 yards.

Rice took the opening kickoff on its 17. Rote made good on all of four pass attempts for 69 yards in the march. His scoring toss to Williams was good for 10.

Glass' 9-yard touchdown completion was the only pass in the second scoring drive that began on the Rice 18. Lantrip, however, carried six times for 45 yards.

Only minutes before the second Rice Tally Arkansas had made its most serious threat. Rote fumbled and Guard Dave Hanner took over for Arkansas on the Rice 34.

On third down Don Logue passed 22 yards to End Pat Summerall on the 8. Logue carried to the 1, but an offside penalty pushed the Porkers back to the 6. Rice took over on downs on incomplete passes.

The previous Arkansas threat came in the second period when Fullback Geno Mazzanti scampered 54 yards to the Rice 11. Two plays lost 1 yard. Logue got 6 yards the last two tries but was stopped both times by Owl Halfback John Kelly.

Score by quarters:

Rice	7	0	0	7—	14

Rice scoring: Touchdowns—Williams 2. Points after touchdown—Williams 2 (placements).

Oklahoma's Sooners Blank Kansas State

MANHATTAN, Kas., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Oklahoma's mighty and versatile Sooners toyed with undermanned Kansas State today in rolling up a 39 to 0 Big Seven Conference football victory.

It was Oklahoma's fourth league victory this season and its 17th win in a row.

Playing in clear, crisp weather, the Sooners let their great halfback George Thomas run his scoring total for the season to 87 points with two touchdowns in the first half. After building up a 33-0 lead Oklahoma turned over the game to second and third string units.

Score by quarters:

Oklahoma	14	19	6	0—	39

Oklahoma scoring: Touchdowns—Pearson, Thomas 2, Lockett, Heatly 2. Points after touchdown—Tipps 3.

DETROIT—(NEA)—Co-captain and end of the professional Detroit Lions, Johnnie Green, after playing six years in the National League, and 16 all told, scored the first touchdown of his career on a 32-yard pass against the Chicago Cardinals.

OLE MISS REBS SCORE 1ST WIN IN SIX SCRAPS

Johnny Rebels Outscore Chattanooga Moccasins, 47 to 27

By Clem Brossler

OXFORD, Miss., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The University of Mississippi broke into the victory column for the first time in six weeks today, beating a scrappy University of Chattanooga football team, 47-27.

It was a game for the record books. Big John Dottley of Ole Miss gained 253 yards, moving to within 47 yards of the 1,000-yard mark for the season. Bobby Wilson snagged his ninth and tenth pass interceptions of the year.

Dottley teed off the free scoring affair in the first two minutes of both halves. On the third play of the game he broke over right tackle for 62 yards and a tally. On the third play of the second half he staged a repeat, going around right end for 37 yards. Don Blanchard's kick was good both times.

The Cattanoogans fought their way to two scores in the second quarter. The first came on a 52-yard pass from Right ends: Javorsky, H. Atchley, Jimmy Jumper on the five, with Jumper going over on the next play.

Chattanooga Capt. Ken Naylor gave the crowd of 7,500 one of its few thrills of the date late in the same period. He snatched Rebel Quarterback Ed Brandenburg's pass out of the air on the Ole Miss 25, and wasn't stopped until he reached the five. Eddie Jurczak scored two plays later. Vince Sarratore, who missed the placement after Jumper's score, split the uprights this time.

The Chattanoogans scored easily in the fourth by recovering the ball on the Ole Miss 16 after a bad handoff attempt by Rocky Byrd. It was Left Halfback Hartford Granitz around his own right end on the next play.

Guard Bert Kakasik brought the crowd to its feet in the last quarter with a 45-yard dash for Chattanooga's last touchdown. Kakasik grabbed the ball as Byrd juggled it trying to pass.

Sarratore made both points from placement.

Byrd's good right arm was responsible for all but one of Mississippi's remaining scores. The exception was when Dottley got away for 34 yards through the middle and the third score of the day.

In the second, Byrd hit Jack Stribling on the Chattanooga 12, sending the Philadelphia, Miss., senior on to score. It was a 28-yard pass.

Bobby Wilson's 10th interception of the season in his own end zone was the opening gun for another march downfield. Starting on their own 20, the Rebels alternated between Dottley and Bradley to reach the Chattanooga 24. At that point, it was Byrd to Stribling again and another tally.

On the kickoff, Showboat Boykin recovered a Chattanooga bobble on the visitor's 31 and bored through the line for a score on the next play. Altogether Blanchard converted five times during the afternoon.

Aggies Gain Surprise Deadlock With S. M. U.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Amazing Texas A. and M. fought from behind today to tie mighty Southern Methodist University 27-27.

It was the heroic efforts of Fullback Bob Smith that gave the Aggies a moral victory in one of the biggest upsets of the Southwest Conference season. It gives Rice a clear claim on the lead.

Smith scored three touchdowns and Billy Tidwell, one.

Doak Walker scored two for Southern Methodist and Kyle Rote two. Walker kicked the extra points for S. M. U. and Bob Shaeffer for A. and M.

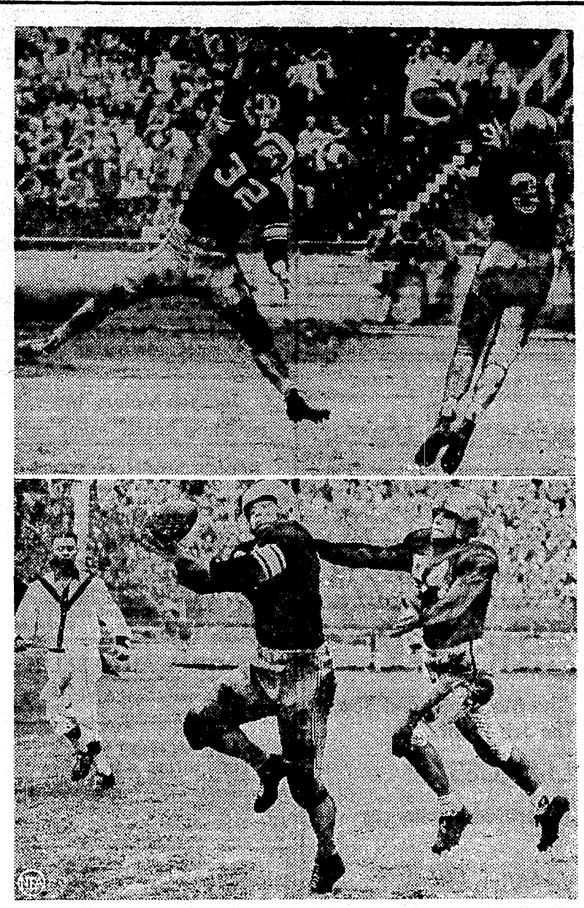

Score by quarters:

Southern Methodist	7	13	7	0	—27
Texas A. and M.	6	0	14	7	—27

Southern Methodist scoring: touchdowns, Walker 2, Rote 2. Points after touchdowns, Walker 3 (placements).

Texas A. and M. scoring: touchdowns, Smith 3, Tidwell. Points after touchdowns, Schaeffer 3 (placements).

The Southern California - Notre Dame football series, inaugurated in 1926, is the oldest on the 1949 Irish slate.

LESSON WELL LEARNED—It didn't take Billy Tidwell long to get next to himself. In the first quarter of the game with Baylor at College Station, Stanley William got behind Tidwell, top, to take a touchdown pass from Adrian Burk. But in the second period, when Burk passed similarly to J. D. Ison, the Texas A. and M. halfback kept between the end and the goal line, intercepted neatly, bottom. The Bears won, 21-0.

Trojans' Bowl Hopes Blasted By Stanford

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Stanford's alert Indians blasted the Rose Bowl dreams of the University of Southern California today and kept their own hopes alive with a surprising 34 to 13 triumph before 70,041 astonished onlookers.

A 20-point burst of scoring power in the second quarter blotted the Trojans of U. S. C. out of the Rose Bowl picture, leaving Stanford with one lone loss in the Pacific Coast Conference play and a chance to knock off undefeated California.

This was the second Trojan conference setback and the worst in Troy's history in 28 games with the scalping Indians from Palo Alto.

Score by quarters:

Stanford	0	20	0	14	—34
U. S. C.	0	0	7	6	—13

Stanford scoring: Touchdowns—B. White, De Young, Rose, Kerkorian, Mitchell. Points after touchdowns—Kerkorian 4.

U. S. C. scoring: Touchdowns—Hatfield, Bowers. Point after touchdown—Gifford.

Texas Dumps Baylor From Unbeaten Ranks

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Texas knocked off previously unbeaten Baylor in convincing style today 20-0, before 60,000 fans here today. The defeat dimmed Baylor hopes for a Southwest Conference title.

Ray Borneman plunged for a touchdown to cap an 80-yard drive late in the second quarter. Paul Campbell tossed to End Ben Procter for 23 yards and a tally in the final frame, and Randall Clay added the extra point.

Campbell scored the first touchdown of his collegiate career on a quarterback sneak from the one, and Clay again converted.

Score by quarters:

Baylor	0	0	0	0	—0
Texas	0	6	0	14	—20

Texas scoring: Touchdowns—Borneman, Procter, Campbell. Points after touchdown—Clay 2 (placements).

Jacksonville, Texas, May Join Proposed League

JACKSONVILLE, Tex., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Jacksonville may get into organized baseball, this time as a member of the proposed Class C Gulf Coast Baseball League.

A meeting of interested cities will be held Sunday (2 p. m.) at Beaumont.

Howard Green, temporary league president, visited here Thursday and talked to various groups. He was accompanied by Charles English, who said he will operate a club in the league at Lufkin.

Green said Port Arthur, Galveston, Lake Charles, La., Crowley, La., and Lufkin were line up for membership. Opelousas, La., and Leesville, La., are possible members, he said.

Pearl River Takes Over J. C. Conference Lead

POPLARVILLE, Miss., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Pearl River Junior College rolled over Perkinston, 20-7, here tonight to go to the top of the Mississippi Junior College Football Conference.

The Pearl River gridsters were able to score almost at will, Fred Haimon produced one touchdown and Evon Ezell two with Neldon Cochrane making one conversion on a pass and Ezell one on a run.

Perkinston's score came in the dying minutes of the game when one of many attempted passes connected and M. McNeill pushed across. S. Cole converted from placement.

Little Man Does Big Job At Pitt; Cecconi Is Double-Duty Tailback

By Jim O'Leary
(NEA Staff Correspondent)

Pittsburgh picked a little man, but five-foot seven-inch Lou Cecconi has the Panthers back on big time.

An 18-year-old, 155-pound freshman in 1946, Bimbo Cecconi proceeded to run bigger fellows to the bench.

Cecconi, now 21, has added 10 pounds to his playing weight, but his growth since has been mostly in prominence, not stature.

President of the Undergraduate Lettermen's Club, the popular Cecconi has kept active in student life despite maintaining a B average in a pre-professional course in dentistry. A quiet and conscientious student, the Donora, Pa., High graduate was elected to the Student Congress last spring, polled the highest number of votes ever cast.

A brilliant three-sport athlete in the school which contribuetd Stan Musial to baseball and Arnold Galiffa to Army, Cecconi was all-section in basketball and football, but was considered too small for major college competition.

But at Pitt, a fourth year heavy-duty football regular, he has thrice lettered in basketball. One year of baseball is behind him, another coming up.

Entering his first college game as a T quarterback, the plucky little Italian drove once mighty Pitt to a 7-7 halftime tie with the Illinois Rose Bowl outfit of 1946, somehow kept the over-scheduled Blue and Gold from being engulfed from week to week.

Mike Milligan returned the characteristic Jock Sutherland single wing in 1947, Cecconi carrying the load as a double-duty tailback.

The Panthers arrived by whacking Purdue and Penn State to close out last season, bagged big ones in Northwestern and Pennsylvania this fall.

Handling the brunt of the attack, Cecconi, an elusive runner and accurate passer, brought the Panthers back all afternoon in a 22-21 victory over unbeaten Penn at Franklin Field. Tossing one long touchdown pass against the Quakers' 8-2-1 defense, he threw two more completed inside the five, directly leading to tallies.

And with time rapidly running out, Cecconi took a Ray Dooney punt, and with a fine burst of speed, eluded tacklers to go 50 yards to the Penn 24.

This was the hole the Quakers never got out of, and with only 35 seconds left, Guard Bernie Barkouskie blocked Dooney's next attempt to punt, and that was the winning safety.

GOOD LITTLE MAN—Bimbo Cecconi was considered too small for major college competition.

Oil Capitol Scores Again For Gray's 1-Horse Stable

BALTIMORE, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Thomas Gray's Oil Capitol raced to a seven-length victory today in the $58,875 Pimlico Futurity for two-year olds.

Lot O'Luck, carrying the silks of Hasty House Farm and coupled in the betting with the winner, was second by a head. Ogden Phipps' Striking, the only filly in the field of 11, was third. The winning entry paid $6.60, $5.80 and $3.60 across the board.

It was the third straight stakes victory for Oil Capitol, Gray's entire "stable." The Gray colt picked up first money of $48,755 for his Dallas, Texas, owner and boomed his earnings for the season to $106,956.

Oil Capitol was clocked in 1:44 1/5 for the mile and a sixteenth test.

Underrated Virginia Topples Penn, 26-14

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Dick Michels, a 160 pounder, passed the big Pennsylvania Quakers dizzy in the first half today to propell an underrated ,unbeaten Virginia team to its seventh straight victory of the season, 26 to 14. Penn had been rated a two-touchdown favorite.

With 50,771 fans looking on, the Cavaliers' eagle-eyed little quarterback riddled the Penn defense for 19 points in the first 17 minutes of play to sew up the triumph.

Score by quarters:

Virginia	13	6	0	7	—26
Penn	0	7	0	7	—14

Virginia scoring: Touchdowns—Shoaf, Papit, Osisek, Bessel. Points after touchdown—Elliott 2.

Jackets Show Might At Expense Of Vols

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 5.—(AP)—A band of Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets unloosed an amazing display of power and razzle-dazzle today to sting Tennessee, 30 to 13. About 48,000 fans saw the Southeastern Conference football game.

With Sophomore Darrell Crawford of Kingsport, Tenn., in the Tech driver's seat in place of the injured Quarterback Jimmy Southard, the Jackets smothered Tennessee with a thunderous offensive that rolled for 405 yards and 23 first downs.

Tech not only outplayed Tennessee both offensively and defensively but took a page from Tennessee's book and turned the Vols' miscues into touchdowns of their own. The Jackets' first three touchdowns resulted from drives initiated after recovering Tennessee fumbles.

Score by quarters:

Georgia Tech	3	6	6	15	—30
Tennessee	0	0	7	6	—13

Georgia Tech: touchdowns, Crawford, North (2), Harrison. Field goal, North. Points after touchdowns, North. Safety, Tech team.

Tennessee: touchdowns, Polofsky 2. Points after touchdowns, Rechichar.

Army Steamroller Flattens Fordham

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Army marched relentlessly toward the conclusion of an all-victorious football season today by trampling previously-unbeaten Fordham, 35-0. Arnold Galiffa uncorked four touchdown passes.

Fordham never posed a serious threat but it made life miserable for the Cadets for 26 minutes and four seconds. Then the roof fell in.

Turned back within the shadows of the goal post four times by fumbles, penalties and a battling Fordham line, Army finally broke the ice at 11:04 of the second period. In less than four minutes, Galiffa hurled three touchdown passes.

Score by quarters:

Fordham	0	0	0	0	—0
Army	0	21	7	7	—35

Army scoring: Touchdowns—Cain 3, Foldberg, Stephenson. Points after touchdown—Mackmull 5.

FLORIDA UPSETS GEORGIA, 28 TO 7

Chuck Hunsinger Sparks Underdog Alligators In Win Over Bulldogs

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Chuck Hunsinger dashed and smashed Florida to a 28-7 upset victory over Georgia.

Hunsinger, All-Southwestern conference back of 1948, just about clinched a repeat with the kind of running tht can be described best by results. He ran 18 times for 174 yards—an average of almost 10 yards—and scored three touchdowns.

Florida fans are used to seeing Jimmy Kynes play great ball. But even he was inspired today as every Florida player looked to Captain Kynes for his cue and found it in hard-driving tackles and blocks—and even one of Florida's three pass interceptions.

Florida scored its first victory over Georgia in ine years and did it by the biggest margin ever.

Georgia's lone touchdown tied the game for a short while at 7-7. The 54-yard march took 13 plays and ended with a six-yard toss, Prosperi to Bob Walston.

Score by quarters:

Georgia	7	0	0	0	—7
Florida	7	14	7	0	—28

Georgia scoring: Touchdowns—Walston. Point after touchdown, Walston.

Florida scoring: Touchdowns—Hunsinger 3, Williams. Points after touchdown—Lewis 4.

OLE MISS REBS SCORE 1ST WIN IN SIX SCRAPS

Johnny Rebels Outscore Chattanooga Moccasins, 47 to 27

By Clem Brossier

OXFORD, Miss., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The University of Mississippi broke into the victory column for the first time in six weeks today, beating a scrappy University of Chattanooga football team, 47-27.

It was a game for the record books. Big John Dottley of Ole Miss gained 253 yards, moving to within 47 yards of the 1,000-yard mark for the season. Bobby Wilson snagged his ninth and tenth pass interceptions of the year.

Dottley teed off the free scoring affair in the first two minutes of both halves. On the third play of the game he broke over right tackle for 62 yards and a tally. On the third play of the second half he staged a repeat, going around right end for 37 yards. Don Blanchard's kick was good both times.

The Cattanoogans fought their way to two scores in the second quarter. The first came on a 52-yard pass from Right ends: Javorsky, H. Atchley, Jimmy Jumper on the five, with Jumper going over on the next play.

Chattanooga Capt. Ken Naylor gave the crowd of 7,500 one of its few thrills of the date late in the same period. He snatched Rebel Quarterback Ed Brandenburg's pass out of the air on the Ole Miss 25, and wasn't stopped until he reached the five. Eddie Jurczak scored two plays later. Vince Sarratore, who missed the placement after Jumper's score, split the uprights this time.

The Chattanoogans scored easily in the fourth by recovering the ball on the Ole Miss 16 after a bad handoff attempt by Rocky Byrd. It was Left Halfback Hartford Granitz around his own right end on the next play.

Guard Bert Kakasik brought the crowd to its feet in the last quarter with a 45-yard dash for Chattanooga's last touchdown. Kakasik grabbed the ball as Byrd juggled it trying to pass. Sarratore made both points from placement.

Byrd's good right arm was responsible for all but one of Mississippi's remaining scores. The exception was when Dottley got away for 34 yards through the middle and the third score of the day.

In the second, Byrd hit Jack Stribling on the Chattanooga 12, sending the Philadelphia, Miss., senior on to score. It was a 28-yard pass.

Bobby Wilson's 10th interception of the season in his own end zone was the opening gun for another march downfield. Starting on their own 20, the Rebels alternated between Dottley and Bradley to reach the Chattanooga 24. At that point, it was Byrd to Stribling again and another tally.

On the kickoff, Showboat Boykin recovered a Chattanooga bobble on the visitor's 31 and bored through the line for a score on the next play. Altogether Blanchard converted five times during the afternoon.

The lineups:

Chattanooga

Score by periods:

Chattanooga	0	13	0	14	—27
Ole Miss	21	6	20	0	—47

Chattanooga scoring: touchdowns, Jumper, Jurczak, Granitz, Kakasik. Points after touchdowns, Sarratore (3).

Mississippi scoring: touchdowns, Dottley (3), Bradley, J. Stribling (2), Boykin. Points after touchdowns, Blanchard (5).

LESSON WELL LEARNED—It didn't take Billy Tidwell long to get next to himself. In the first quarter of the game with Baylor at College Station, Stanley William got behind Tidwell, top, to take a touchdown pass from Adrian Burk. But in the second period, when Burk passed similarly to J. D. Ison, the Texas A. and M. halfback kept between the end and the goal line, intercepted neatly, bottom. The Bears won, 21-0.

Trojans' Bowl Hopes Blasted By Stanford

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Stanford's alert Indians blasted the Rose Bowl dreams of the University of Southern California today and kept their own hopes alive with a surprising 34 to 13 triumph before 70,041 astonished onlookers.

A 20-point burst of scoring power in the second quarter blotted the Trojans of U. S. C. out of the Rose Bowl picture, leaving Stanford with one lone loss in the Pacific Coast Conference play and a chance to knock off undefeated California.

This was the second Trojan conference setback and the worst in Troy's history in 28 games with the scalping Indians from Palo Alto.

Score by quarters:

Stanford	0	20	0	14	—34
U. S. C.	0	0	7	6	—13

Stanford scoring: Touchdowns—B. White, De Young, Rose, Kerkorian, Mitchell. Points after touchdowns—Kerkorian 4.

U. S. C. scoring: Touchdowns—Hatfield, Bowers. Point after touchdown—Gifford.

Texas Dumps Baylor From Unbeaten Ranks

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Texas knocked off previously unbeaten Baylor in convincing style today 20-0, before 60,000 fans here today. The defeat dimmed Baylor hopes for a Southwest Conference title.

Ray Borneman plunged for a touchdown to cap an 80-yard drive late in the second quarter. Paul Campbell tossed to End Ben Procter for 23 yards and a tally in the final frame, and Randall Clay added the extra point.

Campbell scored the first touchdown of his collegiate career on a quarterback sneak from the one, and Clay again converted.

Score by quarters:

Baylor	0	0	0	0	—0
Texas	0	6	0	14	—20

Texas scoring: Touchdowns—Borneman, Procter, Campbell. Points after touchdown—Clay 2 (placements).

Jacksonville, Texas, May Join Proposed League

JACKSONVILLE, Tex., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Jacksonville may get into organized baseball, this time as a member of the proposed Class C Gulf Coast Baseball League.

A meeting of interested cities will be held Sunday (2 p. m.) at Beaumont.

Howard Green, temporary league president, visited here Thursday and talked to various groups. He was accompanied by Charles English, who said he will operate a club in the league at Lufkin.

Green said Port Arthur, Galveston, Lake Charles, La., Crowley, La., and Lufkin were line up for membership. Opelousas, La., and Leesville, La., are possible members, he said.

Pearl River Takes Over J. C. Conference Lead

POPLARVILLE, Miss., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Pearl River Junior College rolled over Perkinston, 20-7, here tonight to go to the top of the Mississippi Junior College Football Conference.

The Pearl River gridsters were able to score almost at will, Fred Haimon produced one touchdown and Evon Ezell two with Neldon Cochrane making one conversion on a pass and Ezell one on a run.

Perkinston's score came in the dying minutes of the game when one of many attempted passes connected and M. McNeill pushed across. S. Cole converted from placement.

Little Man Does Big Job At Pitt; Cecconi Is Double-Duty Tailback

By Jim O'Leary
(NEA Staff Correspondent)

Pittsburgh picked a little man, but five-foot seven-inch Lou Cecconi has the Panthers back on big time.

An 18-year-old, 155-pound freshman in 1946, Bimbo Cecconi proceeded to run bigger fellows to the bench.

Cecconi, now 21, has added 10 pounds to his playing weight, but his growth since has been mostly in prominence, not stature.

President of the Undergraduate Lettermen's Club, the popular Cecconi has kept active in student life despite maintaining a B average in a pre-professional course in dentistry. A quiet and conscientious student, the Donora, Pa., High graduate was elected to the Student Congress last spring, polled the highest number of votes ever cast.

A brilliant three-sport athlete in the school which contribuetd Stan Musial to baseball and Arnold Galiffa to Army, Cecconi was all-section in basketball and football, but was considered too small for major college competition.

But at Pitt, a fourth year heavy-duty football regular, he has thrice lettered in basketball. One year of baseball is behind him, another coming up.

Entering his first college game as a T quarterback, the plucky little Italian drove once mighty Pitt to a 7-7 halftime tie with the Illinois Rose Bowl outfit of 1946, somehow kept the over-scheduled Blue and Gold from being engulfed from week to week.

Mike Milligan returned the characteristic Jock Sutherland single wing in 1947, Cecconi carrying the load as a double-duty tailback.

The Panthers arrived by whacking Purdue and Penn State to close out last season, bagged big ones in Northwestern and Pennsylvania this fall.

Handling the brunt of the attack, Cecconi, an elusive runner and accurate passer, brought the Panthers back all afternoon in a 22-21 victory over unbeaten Penn at Franklin Field. Tossing one long touchdown pass againt the Quakers' 8-2-1 defense, he threw two more completed inside the five, directly leading to tallies.

And with time rapidly running out, Cecconi took a Ray Dooney punt, and with a fine burst of speed, eluded tacklers to go 50 yards to the Penn 24.

This was the hole the Quakers never got out of, and with only 35 seconds left, Guard Bernie Barkouskie blocked Dooney's next attempt to punt, and that was the winning safety.

GOOD LITTLE MAN—Bimbo Cecconi was considered too small for major college competition.

Aggies Gain Surprise Deadlock With S. M. U.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Amazing Texas A. and M. fought from behind today to tie mighty Southern Methodist University 27-27.

It was the heroic efforts of Fullback Bob Smith that gave the Aggies a moral victory in one of the biggest upsets of the Southwest Conference season. It gives Rice a clear claim on the lead.

Smith scored three touchdowns and Billy Tidwell, one.

Doak Walker scored two for Southern Methodist and Kyle Rote two. Walker kicked the extra points for S. M. U. and Bob Shaeffer for A. and M.

Score by quarters:

Southern Methodist	7	13	7	0	—27
Texas A. and M.	6	0	14	7	—27

Southern Methodist scoring: touchdowns, Walker 2, Rote 2. Points after touchdowns, Walker 3 (placements).

Texas A. and M. scoring: touchdowns, Smith 3, Tidwell. Points after touchdowns, Schaeffer 3 (placements).

The Southern California - Notre Dame football series, inaugurated in 1926, is the oldest on the 1949 Irish slate.

Oil Capitol Scores Again For Gray's 1-Horse Stable

BALTIMORE, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Thomas Gray's Oil Capitol raced to a seven-length victory today in the $58,875 Pimlico Futurity for two-year olds.

Lot O'Luck, carrying the silks of Hasty House Farm and coupled in the betting with the winner, was second by a head. Ogden Phipps' Striking, the only filly in the field of 11, was third. The winning entry paid $6.60, $5.80 and $3.60 across the board.

It was the third straight stakes victory for Oil Capitol, Gray's entire "stable." The Gray colt picked up first money of $48,755 for his Dallas, Texas, owner and boomed his earnings for the season to $106,956.

Oil Capitol was clocked in 1:44 1/5 for the mile and a sixteenth test.

Underrated Virginia Topples Penn, 26-14

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Dick Michels, a 160 pounder, passed the big Pennsylvania Quakers dizzy in the first half today to propell an underrated ,unbeaten Virginia team to its seventh straight victory of the season, 26 to 14. Penn had been rated a two-touchdown favorite.

With 50,771 fans looking on, the Cavaliers' eagle-eyed little quarterback riddled the Penn defense for 19 points in the first 17 minutes of play to sew up the triumph.

Score by quarters:

Virginia	13	6	0	7	—26
Penn	0	7	0	7	—14

Virginia scoring: Touchdowns—Shoaf, Papit, Osisek, Bessel. Points after touchdown—Elliott 2.

Penn scoring: Touchdowns—Deuber. Horton. Points after touchdown—Agocs 2.

Jackets Show Might At Expense Of Vols

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 5.—(AP)—A band of Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets unloosed an amazing display of power and razzle-dazzle today to sting Tennessee, 30 to 13. About 48,000 fans saw the Southeastern Conference football game.

With Sophomore Darrell Crawford of Kingsport, Tenn., in the Tech driver-er's seat in place of the injured Quarterback Jimmy Southard, the Jackets smothered Tennessee with a thunderous offensive that rolled for 405 yards and 23 first downs.

Tech not only outplayed Tennessee both offensively and defensively but took a page from Tennessee's book and turned the Vols' miscues into touchdowns of their own. The Jackets' first three touchdowns resulted from drives initiated after recovering Tennessee fumbles.

Score by quarters:

Georgia Tech	3	6	6	15	—30
Tennessee	0	0	7	6	—13

Georgia Tech: touchdowns, Crawford, North (2), Harrison. Field goal, North. Points after touchdowns, North. Safety, Tech team.

Tennessee: touchdowns, Polofsky 2. Points after touchdowns, Rechichar.

Army Steamroller Flattens Fordham

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Army marched relentlessly toward the conclusion of an all-victorious football season today by trampling previously-unbeaten Fordham, 35-0. Arnold Galiffa uncorked four touchdown passes.

Fordham never posed a serious threat but it made life miserable for the Cadets for 26 minutes and four seconds. Then the roof fell in.

Turned back within the shadows of the goal post four times by fumbles, penalties and a battling Fordham line, Army finally broke the ice at 11:04 of the second period. In less than four minutes, Galiffa hurled three touchdown passes.

Score by quarters:

Fordham	0	0	0	0	—0
Army	0	21	7	7	—35

Army scoring: Touchdowns—Cain 3, Foldberg, Stephenson. Points after touchdown—Mackmull 5.

FLORIDA UPSETS GEORGIA, 28 TO 7

Chuck Hunsinger Sparks Underdog Alligators In Win Over Bulldogs

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Chuck Hunsinger dashed and smashed Florida to a 28-7 upset victory over Georgia.

Hunsinger, All-Southwestern conference back of 1948, just about clinched a repeat with the kind of running tht can be described best by results. He ran 18 times for 174 yards—an average of almost 10 yards—and scored three touchdowns.

Florida fans are used to seeing Jimmy Kynes play great ball. But even he was inspired today as every Florida player looked to Captain Kynes for his cue and found it in hard-driving tackles and blocks—and even one of Florida's three pass interceptions.

Florida scored its first victory over Georgia in ine years and did it by the biggest margin ever.

Georgia's lone touchdown tied the game for a short while at 7-7. The 54-yard march took 13 plays and ended with a six-yard toss, Prosperi to Bob Walston.

Score by quarters:

Georgia	7	0	0	0	—7
Florida	7	14	7	0	—28

Georgia scoring: Touchdowns—Walston. Point after touchdown, Walston.

Florida scoring: Touchdowns—Hunsinger 3, Williams. Points after touchdown—Lewis 4.

LABOR CANDIDATE VOTED TO COUNCIL

Politicians Think Victory May Set Pace For 1950 General Election

LONDON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The labor government won an election to the London county council today and political observers pounced on it as a significant straw-in-the-wind for next year's general elections.

The voting—in a cross-section electoral district—gave the labor candidate, Jack Cooper, a clear majority over a Conservative and two other candidates.

Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison, apparently well-pleased with the result, sent the district labor committee a shipper telegram.

"A splendid victory; another beautiful morning; outlook fine," it read.

But if the labor outlook seemed rosy to Morrison, it certainly was not echoed by one of London's biggest book-makers, Douglas (Duggie Always Pays) Stuart.

The prophetic mister Stuart made Winston Churchill a 6 to 4 favorite to be Britain's next prime minister.

In Britain, the victorious party names the prime minister.

His second choice for the 1950 election was Prime Minister Clement Attlee, at 5 to 2.

Stuart said he was laying the odds on a purely professional basis and wasn't letting his personal politics enter into it.

One phase of the county election needed no clairvoyant to be apparent to everyone. That was the improvement in the labor party's political organization. It worked in high gear.

The result appeared to be a sign that the labor machine has been thoroughly overhauled since last spring, when it suffered surprisingly heavy losses both in the London county council elections and other local balloting throughout the country.

The election was called because of the death of D. C. Griffiths, a Conservative, in the north Kensington district of west London, an area with voters from all classes.

The Conservatives won the seat in last spring's council election.

Cooper today got 14,197 votes. Ian Percival, his Conservative opponent 13,100, John Eyre, Communist, 464, and Miss Chrystal Gates, of the left-wing intellectual commonwealth party, 135.

The victory increased labor's narrow control of the county council.

Said Percival, the defeated Conservative candidate:

"We have been able to see the full weight of the labor party electoral machine geared up to maximum output * * *."

Find Part Of Fated B-29 In Rough Seas

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 5.—(AP) Divers have located at least part of the wreckage of a B-29 which carried 10 men to death in a forced landing late Thursday, but rough seas delay salvage work.

They hope to put hooks in the wreckage and raise it tomorrow. U. S. air force officials at Kindley Field are expected to announce tomorrow the full list of casualties, after notification of the last of their next of kin.

Three men survived the crash. One, Capt. Clee S. Maddox of Kokomo, Ind., was described as in a critical condition. He suffered facial burns, internal injuries and dislocation of the left arm. He is receiving treatment at the Kindley Field Base Hospital.

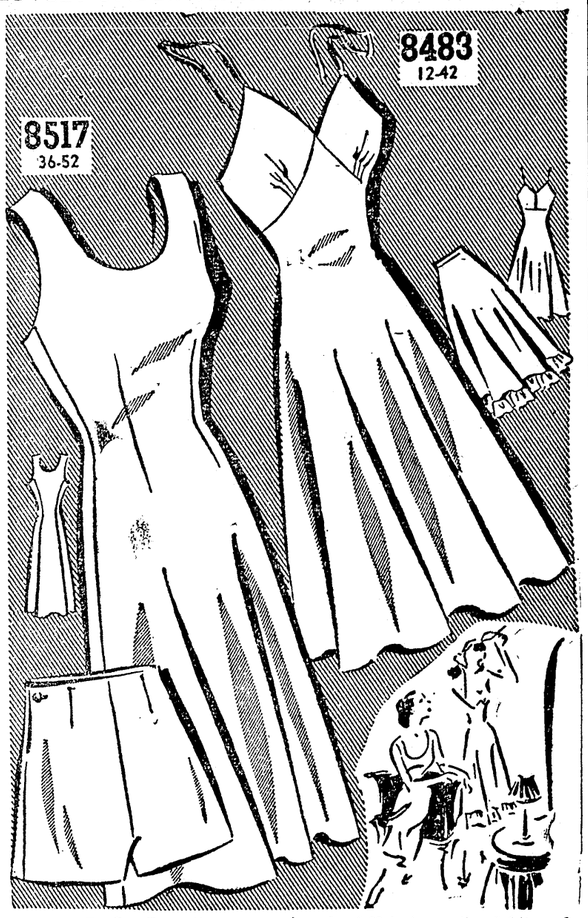

Maddox, one a high school football player at Albuquerque, N. M., was radar officer of the plane, one engine of which went bad on a weather observation flight. His wife and four children in Bermuda. The children are Blake, 6; James, 5; Diane, 2; and Susan, 6 months.

Two sergeants were rescued uninjured. They are John J. Fisher of Great Neck, N. Y., and Gaspero M. Tornatore of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Both are unmarried.

The plane commander, Maj. Roy H. Bruns of Brookville, Ind., is known to have been one of those lost.

The U. S. supreme court, established in 1789, first occupied quarters in the basement of the capitol and after 1860 met in the old senate chamber. The court didn't get its own building until 1937.

LOVELY UNDERWEAR MAKES A TREASURED GIFT

By Sue Burnett

"Dear Sue Burnett: I love to receive, as well as make lovely lingerie as Christmas gifts. My special friends seem pleased with my efforts, so will you give me some ideas so I can get started?" Miss Eleanor Harrison writes from Michigan for our help.

Several suggestions for holiday giving are illustrated today — make a nicely fitted slip and pantie set—or give them separately. Or sew a slip and petticoat pair. A petticoat alone makes a most acceptable gift, too.

Pattern No. 8517 is a sew-rite perforated pattern in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38, slip 2 3/4 yards of 39-inch; panties, 1 1/4 yards.

Pattern No. 8483 is a sew-rite perforated pattern for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Size 14, slip, 3 3/8 yards of 36 or 39-inch; petticoat, 2 7/8 yards.

Two separate patterns, 25 cents each.

For these patterns, send 25 cents, in COINS, for EACH pattern ordered, your name, address, sizes desired, and the PATTERN NUMBER to Sue Burnett, Monroe Morning World, 1150 Ave. Americas, New York 19, N. Y.

The Fall and Winter FASHION is a complete guide in planning a wearable fall wardrobe. New—exciting—informative. Free pattern printed inside the book. 25 cents.

LABOR CANDIDATE VOTED TO COUNCIL

Politicians Think Victory May Set Pace For 1950 General Election

LONDON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The labor government won an election to the London county council today and political observers pounced on it as a significant straw-in-the-wind for next year's general elections.

The voting—in a cross-section electoral district—gave the labor candidate, Jack Cooper, a clear majority over a Conservative and two other candidates.

Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison, apparently well-pleased with the result, sent the district labor committee a shipper telegram.

"A splendid victory; another beautiful morning; outlook fine," it read.

But if the labor outlook seemed rosy to Morrison, it certainly was not echoed by one of London's biggest book-makers, Douglas (Duggie Always Pays) Stuart.

The prophetic mister Stuart made Winston Churchill a 6 to 4 favorite to be Britain's next prime minister.

In Britain, the victorious party names the prime minister.

His second choice for the 1950 election was Prime Minister Clement Attlee, at 5 to 2.

Stuart said he was laying the odds on a purely professional basis and wasn't letting his personal politics enter into it.

One phase of the county election needed no clairvoyant to be apparent to everyone. That was the improvement in the labor party's political organization. It worked in high gear.

The result appeared to be a sign that the labor machine has been thoroughly overhauled since last spring, when it suffered surprisingly heavy losses both in the London county council elections and other local balloting throughout the country.

The election was called because of the death of D. C. Griffiths, a Conservative, in the north Kensington district of west London, an area with voters from all classes.

The Conservatives won the seat in last spring's council election.

Cooper today got 14,197 votes. Ian Percival, his Conservative opponent 13,100, John Eyre, Communist, 464, and Miss Chrystal Gates, of the left-wing intellectual commonwealth party, 135.

The victory increased labor's narrow control of the county council.

Said Percival, the defeated Conservative candidate:

"We have been able to see the full weight of the labor party electoral machine geared up to maximum output * * *."

Find Part Of Fated B-29 In Rough Seas

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 5.—(AP) Divers have located at least part of the wreckage of a B-29 which carried 10 men to death in a forced landing late Thursday, but rough seas delay salvage work.

They hope to put hooks in the wreckage and raise it tomorrow. U. S. air force officials at Kindley Field are expected to announce tomorrow the full list of casualties, after notification of the last of their next of kin.

Three men survived the crash. One, Capt. Clee S. Maddox of Kokomo, Ind., was described as in a critical condition. He suffered facial burns, internal injuries and dislocation of the left arm. He is receiving treatment at the Kindley Field Base Hospital.

Maddox, one a high school football player at Albuquerque, N. M., was radar officer of the plane, one engine of which went bad on a weather observation flight. His wife and four children in Bermuda. The children are Blake, 6; James, 5; Diane, 2; and Susan, 6 months.

Two sergeants were rescued uninjured. They are John J. Fisher of Great Neck, N. Y., and Gaspero M. Tornatore of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Both are unmarried.

The plane commander, Maj. Roy H. Bruns of Brookville, Ind., is known to have been one of those lost.

The U. S. supreme court, established in 1789, first occupied quarters in the basement of the capitol and after 1860 met in the old senate chamber. The court didn't get its own building until 1937.

LOVELY UNDERWEAR MAKES A TREASURED GIFT

By Sue Burnett

"Dear Sue Burnett: I love to receive, as well as make lovely lingerie as Christmas gifts. My special friends seem pleased with my efforts, so will you give me some ideas so I can get started?" Miss Eleanor Harrison writes from Michigan for our help.

Several suggestions for holiday giving are illustrated today — make a nicely fitted slip and pantie set—or give them separately. Or sew a slip and petticoat pair. A petticoat alone makes a most acceptable gift, too.

Pattern No. 8517 is a sew-rite perforated pattern in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38, slip 2 3/4 yards of 39-inch; panties, 1 1/4 yards.

Pattern No. 8483 is a sew-rite perforated pattern for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Size 14, slip, 3 3/8 yards of 36 or 39-inch; petticoat, 2 7/8 yards.

Two separate patterns, 25 cents each.

For these patterns, send 25 cents, in COINS, for EACH pattern ordered, your name, address, sizes desired, and the PATTERN NUMBER to Sue Burnett, Monroe Morning World, 1150 Ave. Americas, New York 19, N. Y.

The Fall and Winter FASHION is a complete guide in planning a wearable fall wardrobe. New—exciting—informative. Free pattern printed inside the book. 25 cents.

30 Acres of Piney, Rolling Land, All Under Fence.

Private lake—stocked with fish.

I found it nestled among the pines by the side of a beautiful lake fed by natural springs. This lake is about 1,500 ft. long by 500 ft. wide and 14 ft. deep. Has dam and spill way. 3 bedrooms, sizes 15x15 and 14x18. 2 and 3 closets in each room. Lots of windows, hardwood floors, walls of smooth pastel sheet rock—all with fluorescent lights. 2 large baths with shower, built-in wall heaters. Best inlaid linoleum. Johns-Manville tile walls and fluorescent lights. Living room and dining room 14x36. 7 large windows, venetian blinds, real brick, wood-burning fireplace with firetrap or designed to burn gas. Now has beautiful gas logs. Nice hardwood floors. Kitchen and breakfast room 15x15 with streamlined white metal cabinets, venetian blinds, lovely inlaid linoleum floor, built-in ironing board, 30 gallon automatic hot water tank, large food pantry, extra large storage room. Extra large attic fan. Easy to walk "L" stairway with two-way electric switches. 2 bedrooms and bath upstairs, one bedroom and bath downstairs. Lifetime asbestos roof, all flushings and gutters are copper, concrete porch, concrete walk, foundation of brick with creosote treated sills and termite pans. Circle driveway of 8" gravel topped with Birmingham Slag. Excellent water well, enclosed in asbestos house attached to main dwelling. Has solid concrete floor. 36' reservoir, abundance of good water, natural gas, electricity. Daily mail service, bus service. Entire 30 acres all under new fence. Beautiful trees, good pasture land, Ideal for turkey and chicken range. Has fine chicken house. All land high and dry except the lake which is fed by natural springs. Located 4 miles from City Limits, West Monroe, just off Arkansas Road. Turn right at entrance of 40 Oaks Farm and continue about 1 mile. Known as Mr. Little's Place. All this for only $15,000. Pay $5,000 down, owner will finance balance, payable monthly like rent.

3-Bedroom Asbestos House

2 Big Baths, 2-Story

Only 3 Years Old

30 Acres of Piney, Rolling Land, All Under Fence.

Private lake—stocked with fish.

I found it nestled among the pines by the side of a beautiful lake fed by natural springs. This lake is about 1,500 ft. long by 500 ft. wide and 14 ft. deep. Has dam and spill way. 3 bedrooms, sizes 15x15 and 14x18. 2 and 3 closets in each room. Lots of windows, hardwood floors, walls of smooth pastel sheet rock—all with fluorescent lights. 2 large baths with shower, built-in wall heaters. Best inlaid linoleum. Johns-Manville tile walls and fluorescent lights. Living room and dining room 14x36. 7 large windows, venetian blinds, real brick, wood-burning fireplace with firetrap or designed to burn gas. Now has beautiful gas logs. Nice hardwood floors. Kitchen and breakfast room 15x15 with streamlined white metal cabinets, venetian blinds, lovely inlaid linoleum floor, built-in ironing board, 30 gallon automatic hot water tank, large food pantry, extra large storage room. Extra large attic fan. Easy to walk "L" stairway with two-way electric switches. 2 bedrooms and bath upstairs, one bedroom and bath downstairs. Lifetime asbestos roof, all flushings and gutters are copper, concrete porch, concrete walk, foundation of brick with creosote treated sills and termite pans. Circle driveway of 8" gravel topped with Birmingham Slag. Excellent water well, enclosed in asbestos house attached to main dwelling. Has solid concrete floor. 36" reservoir, abundance of good water, natural gas, electricity. Daily mail service, bus service. Entire 30 acres all under new fence. Beautiful trees, good pasture land. Ideal for turkey and chicken range. Has fine chicken house. All land high and dry except the lake which is fed by natural springs. Located 4 miles from City Limits, West Monroe, just off Arkansas Road. Turn right at entrance of 40 Oaks Farm and continue about 1 mile. Known as Mr. Little's Place. All this for only $16,000. Pay $5,000 down, owner will finance balance, payable monthly like rent.

TOY GIFT SHOP AUXILIARY JOB

Legion Women's Group In Every Vets' Hospital Brings Happiness Thus

One of the most outstanding programs carried out by the American Legion Auxiliary is the Toy and Gift Shop that is operated in every V. A. hospital in December. The hospital manager provides a quonset hut or a large room and here the auxiliaries set up shop. Presents are furnished on a quota basis by the nearest American Legion Auxiliary units and are attractively arranged on the shelves and in show cases. The ambulatory patients come to the shop just as they would go down town to a store for their Christmas shopping, there is one big difference, no money is needed. The patient registers upon entering the Toy and Gift Shop and gives the number in his family for whom he wishes gifts; such as a wife and three children; a mother and a sister; or a mother and a father. He goes through the shop choosing his gifts and after he has made his selection, his gifts are Christmas wrapped by auxiliary members on duty.

If the patient is to be allowed a Christmas furlough he carries his presents home with him, but if he is going to have to spend the holidays in the hospital, his packages are wrapped for mailing by the auxiliary members and the expense of postage and insurance is paid out of auxiliary funds. Auxiliary members who have qualified as hospital volunteer workers pack carts with all sorts of presents and wheel them through the wards and the bed patients do their Christmas shopping from their bedside. If a patient wants some article that is not on the cart the auxiliary volunteer hospital worker returns to the Toy and Gift Shop and makes every effort to locate just what the patient wants and brings it back for his approval.

These gifts are then wrapped in Christmas wrapping and packed and shipped free of any cost to the patient. When General Omar Bradley was at the head of the V. A. program he said that the Toy and Gift Shops of the American Legion Auxiliary were one of the finest things that had been done for the veterans.

L. B. Faulk Unit No. 13 is going to hold a membership and hospital tea at the legion home on Forsythe street, on Sunday, November 13, from 4 to 6 and extends a hearty invitation to everyone in Monroe to attend. Bring a gift that will be suitable for a veteran to send to a member of his family at Christmas. Follow the slogan "Put a member of a hospitalized veteran's family on your Christmas shopping list."

The L. B. Faulk unit of the American Legion Auxiliary wishes to take this opportunity to extend an invitation to all women eligible for membership to join as soon as possible. All mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of legionnaires are eligible for regular membership and all wives, mothers, sisters, daughters of service men and women who gave their lives for their country are eligible for Gold Star membership. The American Legion Auxiliary assists in carrying out the program of the American Legion and is especially active in the field of rehabilitation, child welfare and Americanism.

If you are eligible for membership in this organization please join and assist the American Legion Auxiliary in carrying out the program of the American Legion of service to the community, state and nation with special emphasis on service to the disabled veteran and his family and to the widows and orphans of their buddies who made the supreme sacrifice.

SANTA CLAUS PREPARES TOYS

The American Legion Auxiliary is proud of its efforts every Christmas in preparing toys and trinkets at the veterans hospital in Alexandria. Much credit is given to Mrs. R. Reed, department vice-commander of the American Legion Auxiliary, Pineville, La. W. W. Wilbanks, shown with Santa, is chief guard and fire protector at the veterans hospital.

Business In China Is Dull Under Reds; Robbers Busy

Only Criticism Of Foreigners In Canton Is Against United States

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When the Chinese Communists took Canton in mid-October, they clamped on their usual news blackout. The following description of life under the new regime has been written by an American who elected to remain in Canton. It was delivered in Hong Kong by undisclosed means.)

CANTON, China, Oct. 31.—(Delayed) —(AP)—The only criticism of foreign countries appearing in Canton newspapers is of "American imperialism." There is no anti-British propaganda and no mention of the question of Hong Kong. Evidentl ythe new government does not want trouble with the British.

Foreigners are allowed to move freely in the city. There is no report of any attempt to restrain them or hold them up to ridicule. The few contacts that foreign residents have had with the new officials and soldiers have appeared friendly.

Most trade is at a standstill. Prices have risen. Pedicab drivers complain that patronage has fallen off more than half. Buses, with much less business than before, move at a snail's pace.

Food is 30 to 50 per cent higher than before the occupation.

Locally-made cloth has a good market. Prices have doubled because many people who had not worn it before are having clothing made of it.

There is a good deal of daylight robbery on the streets. The police are unarmed. Soldiers are unfamiliar with the city and do not know Cantonese well enough to cope with the criminals.

Many hundreds of gamblers operate gaming tables along the sidewalks. Men, women and children play these games with dice, dominoes or buttons. Newspapers report the government has ordered the gamblers to cease operations, but they are still at it.

Nationalist postage stamps are still in use but are soon to be replaced by new Communist stamps.

For several days Central avenue on Shameen island, the main foreign quarter, has been the scene of dancing by several hundred Communist political workers.

Youngsters, mostly in their teens and early twenties, gather on this tree-lined promenade and dance from early morning until nightfall.

Both sexes wear ill-fitting green cotton uniforms and caps. Those who do not have rubber shoes go barefoot.

The dances are very simple, done to the rhythm of drums. The dancers do not laugh or talk loudly. There is no hand-clasping or other physical contact between boys and girls, but this group activity of the sexes is a social revolution for most of them. It is a part of the Communist party education.

Except for withdrawal of Nationalist courses, the schools continue to function normally. Sun Yat-Sen University had not reopened before the Communists arrived. Newspapers say it soon will set up six-month courses in Communist administration for 5,000 middle-school graduates.

Last Sunday and Monday morning all traffic on the Canton bund was stopped. Officials said this was for military maneuvers. But it appeared that it was to allow visiting Russian and Chinese movie men to take films to show the Communist world the importance of this city which the Reds have won.

HELD FOR DRUNK DRIVING

Monroe police arrested a 34-year-old Negro identified as Taft Jackson, of 805 Marx street, late Friday night for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor and without a driver's license. He is being held in the city jail in lieu of $375 bond.

STUDY GROUP IS DEMONSTRATED

Twin City Council Of P. T.-A. Holds Monthly Meeting

A "Study Group" demonstration was conducted by Mrs. F. H. Peterson, parent education and pre-school chairman of the Twin City Council P.-T. A., at the regular meeting of the Twin City Council P.-T. A., November 3. Mrs. M. L. DeFreese, director of extension, Louisiana P.-T. A., acted as observer. The council is observing "American Education Week."

Mrs. Peterson set up this "Study Group" to demonstrate the proper procedures and techniques, the first in a series of study group techniques. The topic of discussion was entitled "Man Against Fear" in which two articles entitled: "The Shape of the Problem" (September National Parent-Teacher) and "The Child's Encounter With Life" (October National Parent-Teacher) by Bonaro W. Overstreet were discussed.

The following study group chairmen took part in the discussion: Mrs. O. B. Copeland, Lida Benton; Mrs. Marcel Renaud, St. Matthews; Mrs. J. H. Bradley, Barkdull Faulk; and Mrs. J. C. Lofton, Sherrouse. The following also took part in the discussion: Mrs. W. E. Chitty, Mrs. Jack Davis, Mrs. W. E. Howard, Mrs. W. F. Roberts, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. C. P. Guerriero and Dan Caldwell.

Mrs. DeFreese acting as observer evaluated the techniques to see how they measured up. This was the outgrowth of the workshop which Mrs. DeFreese attended in Montreat, N. C., on "Home and Family Life Education." It proved very interesting when Mrs. DeFreese summed up her evaluation, thus pointing out any points for improvement.

Central Grammar School P.-T. A. was welcomed back into the Twin City Council P.-T. A.

Mrs. C. P. Guerriero, Twin City Council P.-T. A. membership vice-president, announced that the 10 per cent increase in membership drive would end November 15. The membership cup would be awarded at the December meeting.

Mrs. James Larkan, fifth district director, thanked the council for the hospitality and tea given in the honor of Mrs. Chris Hirning, a national P.-T. A. representative from Mitchell, S. D., which was extended to the fifth district.

The oldest Bible in government service is one on which every justice of the supreme court has been sworn in since 1808.

For Friday night supper serve an economical menu of halibut with tomato sauce, baked potatoes, buttered Swiss chard, and a compote of dried fruit and lemon or orange slices for dessert.

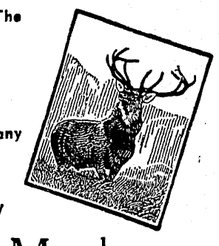

Carburetor Too Rich Makes Motorist Too Poor

Car owners who are wasting money and not getting proper gas mileage due to over-rich mixtures will be pleased to learn of a Wisconsin inventor who has developed a very clever unit that helps save gasoline by "Vacu-mating". It is automatic and operates on the supercharge principle. Easily installed in a few minutes. Fits all cars, trucks, tractors. The manufacturers, the Vacu-matic Carburetor Co., 7617-595H State St., Wauwatosa, Wis., are offering a Vacu-matic to anyone who will install it on his car and help introduce it to others. They will gladly send full particulars if you write them or just send your name and address on a penny post card today.

The Power that made Buick Famous

If you want to know what's "the newest thing" in automobile engines, look at the Buick engine pictured here, and you'll see the words "valve-in-head."

But it happens that this isn't new with Buick. As a matter of fact, the valve-in-head engine was invented back in 1902—U. S. Patent No. 771095—and immediately, Buick adopted the principle, which became the first in a long string of "Buick firsts."

Not everyone went for the idea—then. In spite of the fact that this engine "breathes" more freely—gets fuel in and exhaust gases out more easily—others hung onto their pet ideas.

Then came the airplane, with its need for maximum power from every drop of fuel—and every maker of internal combustion airplane engines adopted the valve-in-head principle.

And more recently—with the hope that higher-octane fuels will become available—a lot of automotive engine designers are taking a new look at the valve-in-head idea.

But just for the record, we'd like to point out that Buick got there first.

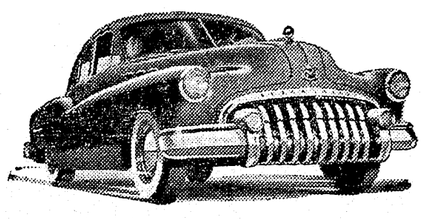

And ever since, Buick has gone steadily ahead, building up a name as "valve-in-headquarters." Buick engineers reshaped pistons to put Fireball wallop in these engines. They stepped up compression ratios as fast as better fuels came along.

So perhaps you'll want to remember, when you hear the term "valve-in-head," that this is the type of power that made Buick famous.

If others want to climb on the bandwagon, we say "more power to them"—and no pun is intended.

But Buick has been doing more with valve-in-head right from the start.

And—we might add—it stands to reason that Buick is not through making this type of engine better and better.

BETA SIGMA PHI SORORITY HAS IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY LAST SUNDAY

The lounge of the Bayou DeSiard Country Club was artistically decorated with arrangements of autumn flowers to form the setting for the formal initiation, installation and tea of Beta Sigma Phi sorority last Sunday between the hours of 2:00 and 4:30 p.m. An Irish linen cutwork cloth covered the tea table which had a graceful centerpiece of lovely yellow rosebuds, the sorority's flower.

First on the program were the initiation and installation ceremonies. Pledges having completed the six-month probationary period and the cultural program work required for that period were installed as "Ritual of Jewels" members by an impressive secret ritual. Having completed pledge training, they were required to pass a written examination prepared by the international office in Kansas City, Mo. before passing to the degree of "Ritual of Jewels," in which degree they will remain for a period of four years before progressing to the highest degree of "Exemplar."

The following pledges were installed as "Ritual of Jewels" members: Miss Jane Archibald, Miss Syble Duchesne, Miss Billy Egloff, Miss Rita Feith, Mrs. Jack Gentry, Miss Vernell McIlwain, Miss Mary Lillian McLaughlin, Miss Quanita McQuilla, Mrs. James Siddon, and Miss Betty Woods.

Upon completion of the "Ritual of Jewels" ceremony, the following rushees were initiated as pledges, beginning their six-month probationary period: Miss Reta Clement, Mrs. Betty Cornett, Miss Virginia Comrota, Miss Rosalie Stewart, Miss Hazel Cockerham, Miss Anna Laura Nelson, Miss McKinley, Miss Helen Moore and Mrs. Elva Flaeishbein.

These young women had been selected to attend the rushing parties and had been invited to become members. Membership to Beta Sigma Phi is by invitation only. The sorority is a lifetime organization comprised of three degrees—"Pledge," "Ritual of Jewels" and Exemplar." Each degree has its rituals, its civil projects and its cultural program work. As the Monroe chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will be only three years old this spring, there are no women of the "Exemplar" degree in the membership.

Immediately following the ceremonies, tea cakes iced in yellow and decorated with the Greek letters of the sorority were served with tea and coffee to the members and pledges. Presiding at the tea services were: Miss Bea Tucker, Miss Betty Woods, Mrs. Johnny Cosse and Miss Syble Duchesne.

Members attending the tea were: Miss Rosemary Coleman, Miss Mary Damron, Miss Joyce Duchesne, Miss Nan Evans, Mrs. Louis Johnson, Miss Vickie Slavant, Miss Bea Tucker and Miss Melvyn Tucker.

The tea was the final event of the sorority's rushing season which began with an informal "get acquainted" party and included a "model meeting" of the sorority.

Trousdale, Mr. and Mrs. George Trousdale, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kellogg and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Gray, Jr.

Mrs. Charles McRea, of Washington, D. C., the former Miss Sara Larche, will arrive today for a visit to her mother, Mrs. L. N. Larche.

Mrs. Reynolds McWilliams left by plane Friday for Eau Clair, Wisconsin, where she was summoned by the illness of her mother, Mrs. John Fleming.

Mrs. J. W. McWilliams has returned from a six months stay in Memphis, Tenn., where she was the guest of relatives.

Miss May Faulk is a patient in a local hospital.

Miss Eve Bradford has returned from New Orleans where she consulted a physician.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Keller, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Keller, Sr., form still another football group in New Orleans on Saturday as did Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Williamson who joined Mr. and Mrs. L. E. McVay, of Opelousas.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Calvert, Jr. and their two children, who have been living in Rayville, last week moved into their recently acquired home at 600 Auburn avenue. Mr. Calvert is the son of Dr. Robert Calvert of West Monroe, and Mrs. Calvert is the former Miss Mary Elizabeth Morgan, of Rayville.

Among the football game witnesses in New Orleans on Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Durham, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Durham, and Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Cummings.

Mrs. Joe F. Smith left Saturday for Odessa, Tex., where she will visit relatives. From there she will go to Los Angeles, Calif., where she will visit relatives. She will be gone for a month.

Mrs. T. C. Brown has returned from Pine Bluff, Ark., where she was called to the bedside of her sister, Mrs. D. D. Hunter, who is now convalescing from her recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Wynn, of Houston, Tex., have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul K. Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. James Guready are parents of a son, James Bruce. Mrs. Guready was formerly Miss Elizabeth Irby.

All in all, as we stated above, this was really a satisfactory week in the lives of Girl Scouts and Brownies. More next Sunday.

CURRENT LIT CLUB HAS INTERESTING SESSION RECENTLY

The Current Literature held a recent meeting at the home of Mrs. G. M. Heidenreich.

The meeting was opened with the reading of the collect and the business session was presided over by the president, Mrs. Jack Wyatt.

Mrs. Swift was a guest of the club and she gave a talk on "Kitchen Arrangements," and "New Gadgets for the Kitchen," Mrs. Swift showed the club new arrangements in shelves, which are easily constructed. Also where food and utensils should be kept for the best efficiency. She advised the clearing out of all utensils that are not often used. A collection of interesting time-saving gadgets were displayed.

The following members and guests were present: Mrs. Z. T. Ambrose, Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Mrs. Dan Dennett, Mrs. George Reitze, Mrs. Leon Dennis, Mrs. L. M. Frey, Mrs. Ray Magruder, Mrs. H. C. News From The Girl Scouts

Last week was a banner week among Girl Scouts and Brownies of Ouachita parish. Halloween being the birthday of our founder, Juliette Low, brought about many celebrations, and the observance of National Girl Scout Week kept troops teeming with activity. Sunday, the first day to be observed, saw most every church recognizing Girl Scout troops in uniforms among its congregations, and very well mannered scouts they were, we are told.

Monday, Halloween parties were in abundance at all schools and though we haven't space to name them all, here some of them were: Brownie Troop No. 18, Mrs. Patricia Ryan, leader; Brownie Troop No. 11, given a wiener roast by Mrs. G. E. Boggs and Mrs. E. J. Whitman; and Brownie Troop No. 20, Mrs. R. W. Glaholt, leader, given at the W. H. Rogillio home.

Furthering National Girl Scout Week one of the nicest gestures ever, was that made to Brownie Troop 11 by fathers who are members of the Lion's Club, Kiwanis Club, Rotrary Club, North Lion's Club, and the Exchange Club. Each father proudly squired his own Brownie daughter and one Bronie guest to his club luncheon. Can't say who was the produest—father, daughter, or guest.

Of genuine interest also was the program put on by Girl Scout Troop No. 28 at the Kiwanis Club luncheon Wednesday. Mrs. Clay Albright and Mrs. Tom Davenport, leaders. The program was announced by Mary Elizabeth Webster, who introduced Janice Joyce, president of this troop. Janice made an excellent speech about Girl Scout Week and thanked Kiwanians for their interest and support in furthering plans for a Girl Scout camp. The troop repeated the Girl Scout Promise, sang "The Hiking Song" and "The Girl Scout Song" accompanied by Mrs. DeMott Fisk at the piano. The program also included an American folk dance by the troop.

MRS. DEWITT HENRY ADDRESSES MEMBERS OF ALTRUSA CLUB

"In order to make known to the people throughout the world the aims and achievements of the United Nations and to gain support for its work the general assembly of the United Nations declared October 24th as a day of celebration. It was on this day that this organization dedicated to peace, and economic and social progress actually came into force when all the required ratifications of the charter drawn up at the historic conference at San Francisco in 1945 were deposited. Because it works to preserve peace in the world, because it attempts to improve the welfare of all peoples, because its success or failure depends upon the active support of every citizen, it is the imperative need for all nations to set aside one day in commemoration and emphasis. Public opinion is the factor which determines if the United Nations will grow and develop into a form of world government through which will be established a body of international law that will settle the quarrels of men all over the world without recourse to war. If peace is to be something better than an interval between wars, there must be a change of heart and the only method of achieving this, the only impregnable line is that of human understanding," stated Mrs. DeWitt Henry, guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Altrusa Club of Monroe.

Mrs. Henry went on to outline briefly the structure, membership and organization of the United Nations pointing out that it was designed to keep the peace and not to make the peace. Particular stress was given to the general assembly, the security council, and the economic and social council, made up of its various specialized agencies and commissions. Several of the achievements in the political field, and the gains made in the economic and social field were mentioned. It was also pointed out that the U. N. was steadily developing world law. The universal declaration of human rights, although not in itself a law, is an important step in the evolution of world law in setting universal standards for governments to live by. Mrs. Henry is widely known for her work in civic and social circles. She is a member of the League of Women Voters, and is an interesting and convincing speaker. Another highlight of the evening's program was music by Mrs. Melba Liner. Mrs. Liner gave a delightful rendition of Rachmaninoff's "Etudes-Tableaux, Opus 33" and Claude DeBussy's "Clair De Lune."

Mrs. Helen Luckett, president of the club, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Ada Gruber was in charge of program requirements. This was one of the scheduled programs to be based on the club's working theme for the year "Progress Through Understanding." Members and guests attending this interesting meeting were Mrs. Erlene Adams, Miss Agatha Burkett, Miss Helen Sype, Mrs. Gordie Phillips, Mrs. Adrienne Carr, Mrs. Jewel Durham, Mrs. Virginia Humphries, Miss Mary Benoit, Miss Mary Lee Frost, Mrs. Earle Coats, Miss Bernice McCoy, Miss Emma Lee Short, Mrs. Ada Gruber, Mrs. Thelma Bond, Mrs. Abbie Leckie, Mrs. Faye Heard, Mrs. Addie Lou Juneman, Mrs. Maibel Hood, Mrs. Marie Frazier, Dr. Katherine Foster, Miss Ann Mickel, Mrs. Frances Blumenthal, Mrs. Bonnie Shifflett, Miss Dutch Martin, Mrs. DeWitt Henry, Mrs. Melba Liner, and Mrs. Helen Duckett.

ENGAGED

Miss Anna Marie Tornatore, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Mr. Harold Joseph DeMers, son of Mrs. Eveline DeMers of Rice Lake, Wis., is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tornatore.

BONHOMIE CLUB HAS AN INTERESTING MEETING RECENTLY

Members of the Bonhomie Club met recently in the home of Mrs. A. J. McCready, with Mrs. W. D. Womack, Jr., co-hostess.

The meeting was opened with the reading of the club collect, and immediately followed by the reading of the minutes from the previous meeting.

A special business meeting was planned for November 7 to be held at a local restaurant.

After the brief business session Mrs. R. B. Pilaut introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, who gave an interesting talk on "Grandmother's Garden Compared With Ours." She pointed out the influences that have brought about the changes in gardens; improved transportation, club life, and other activities outside the home.

Mrs. McQuiller used as illustrations the home of Andrew Jackson, the old Kentucky home, and the old Filhiol home near Monroe. She said such flowers and plants as flowering quince, crepe myrtle, cape jasmine, magnolia trees and rose of sharon were as much a part of the old garden as was the picket fence. Mrs. McQuillar credited the spacious, well-planned garden of the old days to the homelife of the homemaker.

The following persons attended the meeting: Mrs. Lenore Jones, Mrs. Warren Breard, Mrs. L. H. Leverett, Mrs. Hal Laymon, Mrs. O. C. Lanier, Mrs. O. Willis, Mrs. R. B. Pilaut, Mrs. George Forman, Mrs. Robert Irby, the guest speaker, and the hostesscs.

MRS. DEWITT HENRY ADDRESSES MEMBERS OF ALTRUSA CLUB

"In order to make known to the people throughout the world the aims and achievements of the United Nations and to gain support for its work the general assembly of the United Nations declared October 24th as a day of celebration. It was on this day that this organization dedicated to peace, and economic and social progress actually came into force when all the required ratifications of the charter drawn up at the historic conference at San Francisco in 1945 were deposited. Because it works to preserve peace in the world, because it attempts to improve the welfare of all peoples, because its success or failure depends upon the active support of every citizen, it is the imperative need for all nations to set aside one day in commemoration and emphasis. Public opinion is the factor which determines if the United Nations will grow and develop into a form of world government through which will be established a body of international law that will settle the quarrels of men all over the world without recourse to war. If peace is to be something better than an interval between wars, there must be a change of heart and the only meth- of achieving this, the only impregnable line is that of human understanding," stated Mrs. DeWitt Henry, guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Altrusa Club of Monroe.

Mrs. Henry went on to outline briefly the structure, membership and organization of the United Nations pointing out that it was designed to keep the peace and not to make the peace. Particular stress was given to the general assembly, the security council, and the economic and social council, made up of its various specialized agencies and commissions. Several of the achievements in the political field, and the gains made in the economic and social field were mentioned. It was also pointed out that the U. N. was steadily developing world law. The universal declaration of human rights, although not in itself a law, is an important step in the evolution of world law in setting universal standards for governments to live by. Mrs. Henry is widely known for her work in civic and social circles. She is a member of the League of Women Voters, and is an interesting and convincing speaker. Another highlight of the evening's program was music by Mrs. Melba Liner. Mrs. Liner gave a delightful rendition of Rachmaninoff's "Etudes-Tableaux, Opus 33" and Claude DeBussy's "Clair De Lune."

Mrs. Helen Luckett, president of the club, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Ada Gruber was in charge of program requirements. This was one of the scheduled programs to be based on the club's working theme for the year "Progress Through Understanding." Members and guests attending this interesting meeting were Mrs. Erlene Adams, Miss Agatha Burkett, Miss Helen Sype, Mrs. Gordie Phillips, Mrs. Adrienne Carr, Mrs. Jewel Durham, Mrs. Virginia Humphries, Miss Mary Benoit, Miss Mary Lee Frost, Mrs. Earle Coats, Miss Bernice McCoy, Miss Emma Lee Short, Mrs. Ada Gruber, Mrs. Thelma Bond, Mrs. Abbie Leckie, Mrs. Faye Heard, Mrs. Addie Lou Juneman, Mrs. Maibel Hood, Mrs. Marie Frazier, Dr. Katherine Foster, Miss Ann Mickel, Mrs. Frances Blumenthal, Mrs. Bonnie Shifflett, Miss Dutch Martin, Mrs. DeWitt Henry, Mrs. Melba Liner, and Mrs. Helen Duckett.

ENGAGED

Miss Anna Marie Tornatore, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Mr. Harold Joseph DeMers, son of Mrs. Eveline DeMers of Rice Lake, Wis., is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tornatore.

BONHOMIE CLUB HAS AN INTERESTING MEETING RECENTLY

Members of the Bonhomie Club met recently in the home of Mrs. A. J. McCready, with Mrs. W. D. Womack, Jr., co-hostess.

The meeting was opened with the reading of the club collect, and immediately followed by the reading of the minutes from the previous meeting.

A special business meeting was planned for November 7 to be held at a local restaurant.

After the brief business session Mrs. R. B. Pilaut introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, who gave an interesting talk on "Grandmother's Garden Compared With Ours." She pointed out the influences that have brought about the changes in gardens: improved transportation, club life, and other activities outside the home.

Mrs. McQuiller used as illustrations the home of Andrew Jackson, the old Kentucky home, and the old Filhiol home near Monroe. She said such flowers and plants as flowering quince, crepe myrtle, cape jasmine, magnolia trees and rose of sharon were as much a part of the old garden as was the picket fence. Mrs. McQuillar credited the spacious, well-planned garden of the old days to the homelife of the homemaker.

The following persons attended the meeting: Mrs. Lenore Jones, Mrs. Warren Breard, Mrs. L. H. Leverett, Mrs. Hal Laymon, Mrs. O. C. Lanier, Mrs. O. Willis, Mrs. R. B. Pilaut, Mrs. George Forman, Mrs. Robert Irby, the guest speaker, and the hostesses.

JEAN M'CORMICK BECOMES BRIDE OF DAVIS A. HILL ON THURSDAY

Miss Jean McCormick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Henry McCormick, became the bride of Mr. David Atwood Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Varnum Henry Hill, Lakewood, Ohio, in an impressive ceremony which took place at the First Methodist Church on Thursday at 4:30 p. m.

The Rev. A. M. Serex performed the ceremony against a background of white gladioli, magnolia leaves, and smilax interspersed with tall white tapers gleaming in wrought iron candelabra.

Mrs. Norman Terry, cousin of the bride, sang a program of nuptial music. The organist who accompanied her was Mrs. Florence Ziegler Allbritton.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a classic white satin frock with a Victorian collar, long tapering sleeves, trimmed with tiny buttons, and a long, full train. Her veil of illusion had a crown of seed pearls. Her bouquet was of white orchids and tuberoses.

The maid of honor, Miss Nell McCormick, sister of the bride, wore an aqua taffeta frock made with a hoop skirt. She wore matching mitts and she carried a small basket of gold mums.

Mrs. McCormick, mother of the bride, wore a teal blue frock with a small rose hat. Her corsage was of sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Hill, mother of the bridegroom, wore an ashes of roses crepe frock with black accessories and a corsage of camellias.

Dr. Joseph Henry McCormick, Jr., of New Orleans, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were Mr. Louis Milner, Jr., Mr. H. O. Johns, Jr., and Mr. Aage Glud.

Out-of-town guests were: Mrs. V. H. Hill, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. McCormick, Jr., and their son, Stephen Allen, of New Orleans; Miss Olive Terry, of Ft. Worth, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Terry and daughter, Abbie, of El Dorado, Ark.; Mrs. Frank Bucy, of Brownwood, Tex.; Mrs. H. A. Ray, of Charleston, S. C.

Following a wedding trip the couple will be at home in Lakewood, O.

NURSES HAVE AN INTERESTING PARTY ON HALLOWEEN EVE

Ghosts and goblins stalked through the halls of the Nurses' Home on Hallowe'en night.

A party, with dancing, ducking for apples and other Hallowe'en games was given for the student nurses and their friends under the supervision of Sister Agnes Marie, director of the St. Francis School of Nursing, and Mrs. Gertrude A. Vawter, hostess.

The recreation room was gaily decorated with bright streamers in the traditional Hallowe'en colors, Jack-O'-Lanterns, and ballons. Refreshments, consisting of cleverly prepared homemade cookies and "witches' brew" were served to the student nurses and their guests, and were the occasion of much hilarity.

THEY PLAN CONVENTION

PROGRESSIVE CLUB ENTERTAINS AT A HALLOWEEN PARTY

While witches rode their broomsticks and spooks did their naughty pranks, the Progressive Men's Club danced to the music of a band at the Progressive Men's club house at Selman Field on Halloween night.

The highlight of the evening was the Womanless Wedding sponsored by the Woman's Club. While Petunia Cascio entered gracefully on the arm of her groom, Bennie Barberio, her father, Jake Tornatore, followed close behind with a shot gun. The bride chose for her maids: Miss Roberta Jungina, Miss Nina Anzalone, Miss Rosalie Dispenza, Miss Matilda Fontana, Miss Nellie Canizaro, Miss Daisy Comrato, and Miss Lula Bell Marsala. Groomsmen were: Sam Malta, Leonard Accardo, Louis Costanza, Collie Shambro, Sam Correro, Sam Lasuzzo, and Pete Cernigliaro. The cute little blond flower girl was none other than Miss Violet Canizaro. Little Tony Lewis was the ring bearer and Joe Costanza, the usher.

Cash prizes were awarded to Mrs. Anna Tornatore for the best Hallowen costume and to Mr. Bucky LaPietra for the tackiest.

GIRL SCOUTING IS AT HIGHEST PEAK

452 Registered Girls, 135 Adult Members In Local Organization

Presiding over a recent council meeting, Mrs. George Foreman, president of the Ouachita Parish Girl Scout Council, announced that girl scouting is presently at its highest peak in history of the Ouachita parish organization.

There are 452 registered girl scouts and 135 adult members, in the local scout group, according to a report by Mrs. J. H. Hebert, organization chairman. She pointed out that there are 35 active troops representing most schools in Monroe and West Monroe. Mrs. Hebert said Georgia Tucker had complete registration with a troop in each room.

Mrs. F. H. Burke reported that a most successful training course was conducted with about 50 adult participants. Ten adults received certificates for completion of the entire 12 hour course, she asserted.

From 9:30 until 11:30 a.m. Tuesday there will be an out-door session held with an actual cook-out in the back yard of the Girl Scout house, it was announced.

Mrs. DeMott Fish told the council approximately 350 girls attended church on Girl Scout Sunday and eleven churches in the Twin Cities were visited.

Several Girl Scouts were reported to have visited civic clubs and made short talks on "Why I Like Being A Girl Scout."

Council members showed much enthusiasm over the excellent participation by both adults and children emphasizing the National Girl Scout motto for this year," Come Along With Us."

SNYDER-KIDD

Announcement has been made by Mrs. Milton E. Kidd, Sr., of Choudrant of the betroathal of her daughter, Miss Sunshine Kidd, Lawton, Okla., to James M. Snyder, Niagara Falls, New York. Miss Kidd is the daughter of the late Postmaster Kidd, and granddaughter of the late Dr. W. H. Cook of Choudrant.

The nuptial vows will take place Saturday, Jan. 14, at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the First Baptist Church in Choudrant.

The bride-elect, who is program director of the USO-Y. M. C. A., Lawton, Okla., has a B. A. degree in journalism from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Ruston, and a M. A. degree in sociology from Washington State College, Pullman, Wash. She also did doctorate work at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind. She is a pledge of Beta Sigma Phi, national women's sorority, and is a member of Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary academic organization.

The prospective bridegroom, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Orlow C. Snyder, Long Island, N. Y., has his BS degree from Cornell University in chemistry, a BS degree in chemical engineering from New York University, New York, and his M. S. degree from New York University.

He received his Ph. D. in chemistry from Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind, and is now employed as a research chemist with DuPont Laboratories, Niagara Falls, New York

MONROYAN IS WED TO PROMINENT VIRGINIAN IN CHARLOTTESVILLE

Miss Margaret Funsten Goodwillie, of Charlottesville, Va., became the bride of Lawrence Bell Laurent, of Bluefield, W. Va. The double-ring ceremony was performed in the chapel of St. Paul's Memorial Episcopal Church by the Reverend Theodore H. Evans, rector of the church.

The chapel was decorated with magnolia leaves and ferns, white snapdragons, carnations and chrysanthemums, and branched candelabra.

Preceding the ceremony, James S. Constantine, organist of the church, played a medley of eighteenth century music, featuring the works of Purcell, Gluck, and Bach. The traditional wedding marches were used.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Richard Cecil Garlick, Jr., and the late Arthur I. Goodwillie, entered the chapel with her stepfather. Her bridal gown was of cream satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice, portrait neckline, and chapel train. The illusion yoke was outlined by a bertha of heirloom rose-point lace. She wore her mother's bridal veil of rose-point lace which extended the length of the train.

The bride's only ornaments were a seed pearl tiara, necklace and bracelets, belonging to her maternal grandmother, and she carried a white prayer book showered with tuberoses.

Miss Patricia Kennedy, of New Rochelle, N. Y., classmate of the bride at Wellesley College, was her only attendant. Her tea-length gown was of dark brown taffeta, trimmed with bands of dark brown velvet at the hem. She wore a matching hat and gloves, and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums and dahlias in autumn shades of bronze and yellow.

William H. Wranek, Jr., of the university, was Mr. Laurent's best-man. Groomsmen included David D. Preston, Wilmington, Del.; Robert P. Stockwell, Charlottesville; Robert B. Davis, Washington, D. C.; John L. Thomas, Charleston, W. Va.; and John G. Legg, Leesburg. All were friends of the bridegroom at the University of Virginia.

Mrs. Garlick, mother of the bride, chose a gown of ecru taffeta. Her accessories were brown and bronze, and she wore a green orchid corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at "Roslyn," home of the bride.

When the couple left for a short wedding trip, Mrs. Laurent wore a taupe suit, with matching hat and brown accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid. They will make their home in Bluefield, where Mr. Laurent is sports editor of the Bluefield "Daily Telegraph."

Mrs. Laurent is a graduate of Lane High School, Charlottesville, and of Wellesley College, Wellesley, Massachusetts. She also attended Yale University and the University of Virginia. She is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. G. Funsten Lucado, of Lynchburg, and the late Mr. and Mrs. James G. Goodwillie, of Chicago, Ill.

Mr. Laurent is the son of Mrs. John Ethel Laurent, of Monroe, La., and Lewis Emile Laurent, of Houston, Tex. He graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and attended the University of Virginia, after serving in the navy with the Fifth Amphibious Forces in the Pacific during World War II. He was twice decorated with the Order of the Purple Heart, along with a Bronze Star.

At the University of Virginia he was a member of Theta Chi, national social fraternity, Phi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalism fraternity, the Jefferson Literary Society, and sports editor of the "Cavalier Daily," the "Virginia Spectator," and the "Alumni News." He also served as assistant to the director of the University News Service.

MONROYAN IS WED TO PROMINENT VIRGINIAN IN CHARLOTTESVILLE

Miss Margaret Funsten Goodwillie, of Charlottesville, Va., became the bride of Lawrence Bell Laurent, of Bluefield, W. Va. The double-ring ceremony was performed in the chapel of St. Paul's Memorial Episcopal Church by the Reverend Theodore H. Evans, rector of the church.

The chapel was decorated with magnolia leaves and ferns, white snapdragons, carnations and chrysanthemums, and branched candelabra.

Preceding the ceremony, James S. Constantine, organist of the church, played a medley of eighteenth century music, featuring the works of Purcell, Gluck, and Bach. The traditional wedding marches were used.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Richard Cecil Garlick, Jr., and the late Arthur I. Goodwillie, entered the chapel with her stepfather. Her bridal gown was of cream satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice, portrait neckline, and chapel train. The illusion yoke was outlined by a bertha of heirloom rose-point lace. She wore her mother's bridal veil of rose-point lace which extended the length of the train.

The bride's only ornaments were a seed pearl tiara, necklace and bracelets, belonging to her maternal grandmother, and she carried a white prayer book showered with tuberoses.

Miss Patricia Kennedy, of New Rochelle, N. Y., classmate of the bride at Wellesley College, was her only attendant. Her tea-length gown was of dark brown taffeta, trimmed with bands of dark brown velvet at the hem. She wore a matching hat and gloves, and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums and dahlias in autumn shades of bronze and yellow.

William H. Wranek, Jr., of the university, was Mr. Laurent's best-man. Groomsmen included David D. Preston, Wilmington, Del.; Robert P. Stockwell, Charlottesville; Robert B. Davis, Washington, D. C.; John L. Thomas, Charleston, W. Va.; and John G. Legg, Leesburg. All were friends of the bridegroom at the University of Virginia.

Mrs. Garlick, mother of the bride, chose a gown of ecru taffeta. Her accessories were brown and bronze, and she wore a green orchid corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at "Roslyn," home of the bride.

When the couple left for a short wedding trip, Mrs. Laurent wore a taupe suit, with matching hat and brown accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid. They will make their home in Bluefield, where Mr. Laurent is sports editor of the Bluefield "Daily Telegraph."

Mrs. Laurent is a graduate of Lane High School, Charlottesville, and of Wellesley College, Wellesley, Massachusetts. She also attended Yale University and the University of Virginia. She is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. G. Funsten Lucado, of Lynchburg, and the late Mr. and Mrs. James G. Goodwillie, of Chicago, Ill.

VOWS EXCHANGED BY EVELYN TAYLOR AND WILLIAM M. HUGHES RECENTLY

On Sunday morning October 23 at 10:00 o'clock, Miss Evelyn Dawn Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Taylor of Farmerville, became the bride of Willie H. Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hughes, Dodson, in an impressive double ring ceremony solemnized in the home of the bride's parents in Farmerville. The Rev. Luther B. Hall, pastor of the Farmerville Baptist Church read the vows before an improvised arch of southern smilax intertwined with a cluster of wedding bells tied with white satin ribbon, flanked with floor baskets of mums, gladiolas and fern.

The bride was lovely in a wine suit with white accessories. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid surrounded by white carnations from which showered white satin streamers caught at intervals with clusters of carnations.

The bride's maid of honor and only attendant was Miss Peggy Cobb, of Monroe, La., who wore a grey tailored suit. Her accessories were pink and she wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Bobby Taylor, brother of the bride, served the bridegroom as best man. The mother of the bride chose for the occasion a brown crepe dress and her corsage was of yellow mums. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a navy crepe dress model and her corsage was of white carnations.

A reception immediately followed the ceremony. Pink and white predominated in the floral decoration of the reception room. The bride's table was laid with a white damask cloth and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, embossed with lilies of the valley and pink rose buds and delicate green leaves. It was placed upon a mirror reflector outlined with maidenhair fern and rosettes of white satin ribbon filled with miniature pink mums and tube roses.

Flanking the central ornament were four crystal candelabra in which white tapers burned. At one end of the table the crystal punch bowl was placed, at the opposite end the bride placed her bouquet.

Mrs. Bill Rainwater presided over the punch bowl and Miss Rupert Hughes served the cake.

Mrs. Jack Farrar, Jr., invited guests to register in the bride's book.

Immediately after the reception the couple left for a wedding trip to the Ozarks. Upon their return they will make their home in Farmerville, La.

LEAVE CHURCH

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Dean leave the Central Baptist Church following their recent wedding. The bride is the former Miss Jeanette Erskine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morriss I. Erskine of this city. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Dean of Collinston.

LAKE PROVIDENCE

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Abernethy of Baton Rouge were in Lake Providence Tuesday for a visit with their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Abernethy, and left for a visit with relatives in Ruston.

Mrs. Sterling Merrill of Baton Rouge spent a part of the week in Lake Providence with her mother, Mrs. W. H. Maben, and brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Abernethy. On Sunday Mrs. Merrill joins Mrs. Abernethy on a motor trip to Ruston to take Miss Bettye Abernethy back to Tech after a week-end visit in Lake Providence.

In Ruston Mr. and Mrs. Francis Abernethy will join Mrs. W. R. Abernethy and Mrs. Merrill for the trip to Baton Rouge, where Mrs. W. R. Abernethy will visit the Merrills for several days.

The regent, Mrs. A. S. Hill, was hostess for the October meeting of Moses Shelby chapter on Friday, 12th.

Resignattions were accepted with regret from the vice-regent and chaplain, Mrs. W. G. Roberts, who recently moved to Monroe to make her home. Mrs. J. C. Purdy, Jr., was elected to serve as vice-regent, and Mrs. W. D. Brown will serve as chaplain. Mrs. R. M. Hamberlin, who had filled the office of secretary, and Mrs. G. T. LITERARY CLUB HAS MEETING AT HOME OF MRS. J. E. BAUGH

The Monroe Literary Club met recently at the home of Mrs. J. E. Baugh. Mrs. Ben Parnell assisted with the courtesies. Those members answering to roll call identified various Biblical characters, Mrs. Guy Du Priest, president, conducted the business of the day.

The club was most fortunate in having as its guest speaker, Mrs. Paul Neal, who gave a review of Lloyd C. Douglas' book "The Big Fisherman." This is a dramatic portrayal of the life of Simon Peter.

Those present were: Mrs. Paul Neal, Mrs. D. A. Altick, Mrs. Guy Du Priest, Mrs. Sidney Karr, Mrs. R. M. Kettenring, Mrs. P. E. Massey, Mrs. A. G. Olcott, Mrs. J. R. Roark, Mrs. W A Ruple, Mrs Ben Parnell, and Mrs. J. E. Baugh.

GUINN-TODD

Miss Barbara Ann Todd, daughter of Mr. C. H. Todd, of Tallulah, became the bride of Mr. Charles A. Guinn of Case Grande, Ariz., in a ceremony which took place at the Trinity Episcopal Church with the Rev. J. D. Gilliam performing the ceremony.

The church was decorated with nandina, ivy and white gladioli.

The bride wore a white satin frock fashioned on princess lines with a sweetheart neckline and a long, full train. Her veil of illusion fell the full length of her frock. She carried a bouquet of mixed white flowers.

Miss Lettie Lee, of Tallulah, maid of honor, wore a deep aqua velvet frock with a long bodice. Miss Barbara Jean Sevier, of Tallulah, the maid of honor, wore a coral velvet frock made along identical lines. The flower girl, Diane Todd, wore a yellow velvet frock made similarly to that of the other attendants. All carried bouquets of varicolored flowers.

Mr. Robert C. Todd, of Tallulah, was best man. Ushers were Mr. Louis Buckner and Mr. Fred Thost.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Tallulah Country Club.

After the ceremony the couple left for a wedding trip to New Orleans and the gulf coast. They will reside in Casa Grande.

The bride, a graduate of St. Mary's School for Girls in Memphis, Tenn. and the University of Arizona in Tucson, is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority as well as the Alpha Epsilon sorority.

Mr. Guinn is commander of the Casa Grande American Legion Post, a member of the city council and of the Rotary Club.

VOWS EXCHANGED BY EVELYN TAYLOR AND WILLIAM M. HUGHES RECENTLY

On Sunday morning October 23 at 10:00 o'clock, Miss Evelyn Dawn Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Taylor of Farmerville, became the bride of Willie H. Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hughes, Dodson, in an impressive double ring ceremony solemnized in the home of the bride's parents in Farmerville. The Rev. Luther B. Hall, pastor of the Farmerville Baptist Church read the vows before an improvised arch of southern smilax intertwined with a cluster of wedding bells tied with white satin ribbon, flanked with floor baskets of mums, gladiolas and fern.

The bride was lovely in a wine suit with white accessories. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid surrounded by white carnations from which showered white satin streamers caught at intervals with clusters of carnations.

The bride's maid of honor and only attendant was Miss Peggy Cobb, of Monroe, La., who wore a grey tailored suit. Her accessories were pink and she wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Bobby Taylor, brother of the bride, served the bridegroom as best man. The mother of the bride chose for the occasion a brown crepe dress and her corsage was of yellow mums. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a navy crepe dress model and her corsage was of white carnations.

A reception immediately followed the ceremony. Pink and white predominated in the floral decoration of the reception room. The bride's table was laid with a white damask cloth and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, embossed with lilies of the valley and pink rose buds and delicate green leaves. It was placed upon a mirror reflector outlined with maidenhair fern and rosettes of white satin ribbon filled with miniature pink mums and tube roses.

Flanking the central ornament were four crystal candelabra in which white tapers burned. At one end of the table the crystal punch bowl was placed, at the opposite end the bride placed her bouquet.

Mrs. Bill Rainwater presided over the punch bowl and Miss Rupert Hughes served the cake.

Mrs. Jack Farrar, Jr., invited guests to register in the bride's book.

Immediately after the reception the couple left for a wedding trip to the Ozarks. Upon their return they will make their home in Farmerville, La.

LEAVE CHURCH

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Dean leave the Central Baptist Church following their recent wedding. The bride is the former Miss Jeanette Erskine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morriss I. Erskine of this city. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Dean of Collinston.

LAKE PROVIDENCE

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Abernethy of Baton Rouge were in Lake Providence Tuesday for a visit with their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Abernethy, and left for a visit with relatives in Ruston.

Mrs. Sterling Merrill of Baton Rouge spent a part of the week in Lake Providence with her mother, Mrs. W. H. Maben, and brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Abernethy. On Sunday Mrs. Merrill joins Mrs. Abernethy on a motor trip to Ruston to take Miss Bettye Abernethy back to Tech after a week-end visit in Lake Providence.

In Ruston Mr. and Mrs. Francis Abernethy will join Mrs. W. R. Abernethy and Mrs. Merrill for the trip to Baton Rouge, where Mrs. W. R. Abernethy will visit the Merrills for several days.

The regent, Mrs. A. S. Hill, was hostess for the October meeting of Moses Shelby chapter on Friday, 12th.

Resignattions were accepted with regret from the vice-regent and chaplain, Mrs. W. G. Roberts, who recently moved to Monroe to make her home. Mrs. J. C. Purdy, Jr., was elected to serve as vice-regent, and Mrs. W. D. Brown will serve as chaplain. Mrs. R. M. Hamberlin, who had filled the office of secretary, and Mrs. G. T. ST. MATTHEW'S HAS A NEW MUSIC CLUB FOR ITS STUDENTS

The music students of St. Matthew's School met Monday, Oct. 31 with Sister Aloysius, piano instructor, to organize a music club.

The following officers were elected; Frances Fontana, president; Ida Lee Anzelmo, vice-president; Anna Danna; secretary; Anthony Danna, treasurer; Cormelyn Block, program-chairman; George M. Fluitt, Jr., reporter.

The club, which will meet bimonthly, was organized primarily to offer opportunities to the students to perform before others. Another of its objective is to enlarge the interests of its members in everything pertaining to music.

Three students will be expected to perform at every meeting.

'Turkey Trot' Planned By Beta Sigma Phis

At a regularly scheduled business meeting of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, Tuesday, plans were laid for a "Turkey Trot," the second of the benefit dances sponsored by the sorority for the purpose of raising funds which will be applied to their pledge of $1,500.00 made to the Red Shield Community Center Building Fund during the recent campaign.

The "Turkey Trot" is scheduled to be held on the Cherokee Terrace of the Frances Hotel on Saturday, November 26 from 8:00 until 12:00 p.m., with music being furnished by the Debonnaires, a well-known local orchestra featuring Jane Hill as vocalist. Every effort is being made to insure the public of as enjoyable an evening as was afforded at the sorority's recent dance which was said to have been one of the most successful and entertaining events to be promoted in the Twin Cities.

Tickets will be on sale in the downtown area beginning November 9, and will be $1.20 per person, tax included. Advance table reservations may be placed with the members of the sorority for parties of six or more. Tickets may be purchased at the following locations: The Ruth Shop, The Frances Hotel, Silversteins, the Rendevous and the Hollywood in Monroe; and in West Monroe, the City Cafe. The public is cordially invited and urged to attend. Dress will be informal.

An announcement was also made by the Ways and Means Committee of a turkey award which will take place on the Tuesday preceding Thanksgiving at a regular business meeting.

ST. MATTHEW'S HAS A NEW MUSIC CLUB FOR ITS STUDENTS

The music students of St. Matthew's School met Monday, Oct. 31 with Sister Aloysius, piano instructor, to organize a music club.

The following officers were elected; Frances Fontana, president; Ida Lee Anzelmo, vice-president; Anna Danna; secretary; Anthony Danna, treasurer; Cormelyn Block, program-chairman; George M. Fluitt, Jr., reporter.

The club, which will meet bimonthly, was organized primarily to offer opportunities to the students to perform before others. Another of its objective is to enlarge the interests of its members in everything pertaining to music.

Three students will be expected to perform at every meeting.

'Turkey Trot' Planned By Beta Sigma Phis

At a regularly scheduled business meeting of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, Tuesday, plans were laid for a "Turkey Trot," the second of the benefit dances sponsored by the sorority for the purpose of raising funds which will be applied to their pledge of $1,500.00 made to the Red Shield Community Center Building Fund during the recent campaign.

The "Turkey Trot" is scheduled to be held on the Cherokee Terrace of the Frances Hotel on Saturday, November 26 from 8:00 until 12:00 p. m., with music being furnished by the Debonnaires, a well-known local orchestra featuring Jane Hill as vocalist. Every effort is being made to insure the public of as enjoyable an evening as was afforded at the sorority's recent dance which was said to have been one of the most successful and entertaining events to be promoted in the Twin Cities.

Tickets will be on sale in the downtown area beginning November 9, and will be $1.20 per person, tax included. Advance table reservations may be placed with the members of the sorority for parties of six or more. Tickets may be purchased at the following locations: The Ruth Shop, The Frances Hotel, Silversteins, the Rendevous and the Hollywood in Monroe; and in West Monroe, the City Cafe. The public is cordially invited and urged to attend. Dress will be informal.

An announcement was also made by the Ways and Means Committee of a turkey award which will take place on the Tuesday preceding Thanksgiving at a regular business meeting.

WOODHEAD-ALLEN

REV. J. E. HINKE
Second Baptist, Bastrop

On February 6th God led 26 Christians to organize a Baptist Church in Millsaps School. Upon completion they called Rev. J. T. Hinke as their Pastor. Without any help from any church, Rev. Hinke has led this church in its buildings program, with only a small debt on it as they enter it today. Only God could accomplish this through these people. The membership has reached 98 in its short life. Our goal for the day is 200 in Sunday School and 15 additions.

PARISH LIBRARY ADDS NEW BOOKS TO COLLECTION DURING PAST WEEKS

As the days grow shorter and the nights are longer, it is a very pleasant feeling to have a good book to read. The Ouachita Parish Public Library has added many books in the last few weeks. The service of the Ouachita Parish Public Library is free to all the citizens of the parish and should be used by all of them. "The Long Love" by John Sedges is a book which deals with many of the modern problems of marriage. It is a novel concerned with the story of a marriage—a happy marriage, a marriage that might have failed, yet didn't because the man and woman learned through suffering and conflict the secret of living harmoniously together, not only as lovers but as close companions. "The Long Love" tells a refreshing new kind of story about marriage. With Edward and Margaret you live each crisis as it occurs. You share their joys and sorrows, their anger and their laughter, knowing that it is a normal part of every happy home. This is a book that you will long enjoy and remember.

Mary Ellen Chase is one of the acknowledge masters of prose writing, whether it be in the field of fiction or non-fiction. Her latest work is a very slight little book concerned with one day in a home for old ladies. The story is beautifully written and contains all the pathos of the old, as well as many humorous events. In the background is "The Plum Tree" which blossomed on this particular day. This is a book for those who like beautiful writing and who love their fellow man.

"Rogue's March" is a new historical novel by Maristan Chapman which deals with an interesting period of American history. "Medical Meeting" by Mildred Walker should be very popular with doctor's wives. It is an account of a meeting of a medical association, with all of its problems, social affairs, etc. "The Earth Abides" by George Stewart is a novel of the science-fiction type and should appeal to many men and boys. "To Every Man A Penny" by Bruce Marshall is concerned with the life of a French priest. It is beautifully written and should be widely read especially those who liked "The World the Flesh and Father Smith." "Miss Pettinger's Niece" by Dorothy Erskine is a light novel which should be popular. "Count the Ways" by Doris Miles Disney will be liked by the readers of mystery stories.

Readers of non-fiction eill find many stories to their liking "We Went That-away" by H. Allen Smith is another humorous book. This one deals with his travels in the western part of our country. "W. C. Fields" by Robert Lewis Taylor is an affectionate biography of the comedian, who always had a laugh and a smile. "Pioneer America, Its First Three Centuries" is a fascinating study of all phases of pioneer American life, it should be widely by the antique collectors. "The World As I See It" by Albert Einstein is a fascinating book of essays by one of the greatest minds of our times. "Again The Goose Step" by Delbert Clark, advances the theory that we are losing the peace in Germany. This book will make one think. "Furniture Making and Cabinet Work" by B. W. Pelton should appeal to every person who is interested in furniture design. "Design in Flower Arrangement" by John Taylor Arms is a book which has been needed for a long time. It will be widely used.

Cookbooks are always popular, two new ones have just been added to the library collection. They are "Simple Cooking for the Epicure" by Jean Campbell and "The Smorgasbord Cookbook" by Anna Olsen Coombs. Fishermen will be interested in "The Boys Complete Book of Fresh and Salt Water Fishing" by Oliver Rodman and "In Defense of Worms" by Frederic Van de Water. Hunters will want to see "Bob-whites on the Rise" by Verne Davison. Photographers will like "The Amateur Photographer's Handbook" by Aaron Sussman.

"The Road Ahead" by John T. Flynn is a book to make us think about the direction our government is taking. "The Philosophy of Civilization" by Albert Schweitzer will be read by every serious student. These books and many others are available at the Ouachita Parish Public Library. It is your library, so use it.

ATHENEUM CLUB HAS IMPRESSIVE ART EXHIBITION, TEA

Atheneum Club members entertained at tea at the Y. W. C. A. recently and for the interest of visitors there was a most colorful exhibit of art and antiques.

Paintings, portraits, hooked rugs, handpainted china, figurines, miniature flower arrangements, antiques and other items were on display and composed the work of the following artists: Mrs. F. C. Holden, Mrs. Agnes Dickerson, Mrs. Thomas Monk, Mrs. Maude Mayo, Mrs. H. M. James, Mrs. Stanley Archibald, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mr. Paul Dartez, Mrs. E. F. Dalton, Miss Leita Mae King and Mrs. Cynthia La France.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with yellow dahlias and other seasonal flowers.

In the dining room, the table overlaid with handsome cut work, was centrally adorned with an oblong arrangement of pink dahlias, pink roses and caladium leaves, and flanked with tall burning tapers. A similar arrangement marked the buffet.

Alternating at the silver services were Mrs. George Mercer, Mrs. R. B. Henry, Miss Juanita Porter and Mrs. C. E. Faulk. Silver trays of sandwiches and confections were passed among the guests.

Mrs. A. M. Barrett, club president, and other members of her committee were assisted by Mrs. Ruth Hundley, Y. W. C. A., house mother, in the gracious courtesies enjoyed by members from other clubs in and out of the Twin Cities.

ALATHEAN CLASS HAS INTERESTING MEETING RECENTLY

The Alathean class of the First Baptist Church met for their regular monthly business meeting in the home of Mrs. Flo Varnado with Mrs. Ruby Brooks as co-hostess.

The meeting was opened with an inspiring devotional by Mrs. Runell Signoff. The president, Mrs. Evelyn Curry, then took charge of the business part of the meeting.

The class was honored in having Miss Billie Farque as guest and to have her lead in several interesting and amusing games.

Refreshments were served to the following members: Mrs. Carolyn Green, Mrs. Edith Bradley, Mrs. Runell Signoff, Mrs. Willena Lamb, Mrs. Connie Courson, Mrs. Peggy Folds, Mrs. Fannie Corbin, Mrs. Evelyn Curry, Mrs. Mary Eason, Mrs. Florence Peters, Mrs. Flo Varnado, Mrs. Ruby Brooks, and class teacher, Mrs. Walter Rhodes.

The following guests were also present: Miss Billie Farque, Mrs. Melba Bounds, Mrs. Kay Fisher, and Mrs. Ann Varnado.

"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind." Would it be possible for a man to exercise faith in God, so as to be saved, unless he had an idea that God was love? He could not; because man could not love God unless he had an idea that God was love, and if he did not love God he could not have faith in him. Te be able to have faith in and love for God we must first realize the personality of God; that he is a personage of body, parts, and passions, of which the most important passion is love. Christ told us that if we love him we will keep his commandments and this does not mean just the ten commandments because there are many others outlined in the scriptures and we need to search them diligently to find them out. If we love God we will obey all his commandments and ordinances.

Visitors always welcome.

Our sentiments are the sentiments of the psalmist who said, "Bless the Lord, O My Soul, and all that is within me bless His Holy Name." The cooperation and liberality of the membership have made possible the completion of the educational unit, a building which will serve generations yet unborn. Unto God in Christ we offer our thanks and adoration!

"The Church Progress Assured" is the subject of the morning message. During these days the home missions project has been before us. The results are striking and guarantee the enlargement of the Church. Are you home missions minded? If you are not, there is a reason. And with all the facts in mind you will become home missions minded and labor for the home missions program.

"Getting Rid of Our Faults" is the theme of the evening sermon. Who is free of evil? Who is perfect? There

PARISH LIBRARY ADDS NEW BOOKS TO COLLECTION DURING PAST WEEKS

As the days grow shorter and the nights are longer, it is a very pleasant feeling to have a good book to read. The Ouachita Parish Public Library has added many books in the last few weeks. The service of the Ouachita Parish Public Library is free to all the citizens of the parish and should be used by all of them. "The Long Love" by John Sedges is a book which deals with many of the modern problems of marriage. It is a novel concerned with the story of a marriage—a happy marriage, a marriage that might have failed, yet didn't because the man and woman learned through suffering and conflict the secret of living harmoniously together, not only as lovers but as close companions. "The Long Love" tells a refreshing new kind of story about marriage. With Edward and Margaret you live each crisis as it occurs. You share their joys and sorrows, their anger and their laughter, knowing that it is a normal part of every happy home. This is a book that you will long enjoy and remember.

Mary Ellen Chase is one of the acknowledge masters of prose writing, whether it be in the field of fiction or non-fiction. Her latest work is a very slight little book concerned with one day in a home for old ladies. The story is beautifully written and contains all the pathos of the old, as well as many humorous events. In the background is "The Plum Tree" which blossomed on this particular day. This is a book for those who like beautiful writing and who love their fellow man.

"Rogue's March" is a new historical novel by Maristan Chapman which deals with an interesting period of American history. "Medical Meeting" by Mildred Walker should be very popular with doctor's wives. It is an account of a meeting of a medical association, with all of its problems, social affairs, etc. "The Earth Abides" by George Stewart is a novel of the science-fiction type and should appeal to many men and boys. "To Every Man A Penny" by Bruce Marshall is concerned with the life of a French priest. It is beautifully written and should be widely read especially those who liked "The World the Flesh and Father Smith." "Miss Pettinger's Niece" by Dorothy Erskine is a light novel which should be popular. "Count the Ways" by Doris Miles Disney will be liked by the readers of mystery stories.

Readers of non-fiction eill find many stories to their liking "We Went That-away" by H. Allen Smith is another humorous book. This one deals with his travels in the western part of our country. "W. C. Fields" by Robert Lewis Taylor is an affectionate biography of the comedian, who always had a laugh and a smile. "Pioneer America, Its First Three Centuries" is a fascinating study of all phases of pioneer American life, it should be widely by the antique collectors. "The World As I See It" by Albert Einstein is a fascinating book of essays by one of the greatest minds of our times. "Again The Goose Step" by Delbert Clark, advances the theory that we are losing the peace in Germany. This book will make one think. "Furniture Making and Cabinet Work" by B. W. Pelton should appeal to every person who is interested in furniture design. "Design in Flower Arrangement" by John Taylor Arms is a book which has been needed for a long time. It will be widely used.

Cookbooks are always popular, two new ones have just been added to the library collection. They are "Simple Cooking for the Epicure" by Jean Campbell and "The Smorgasbord Cookbook" by Anna Olsen Coombs. Fishermen will be interested in "The Boys Complete Book of Fresh and Salt Water Fishing" by Oliver Rodman and "In Defense of Worms" by Frederic Van de Water. Hunters will want to see "Bob-whites on the Rise" by Verne Davison. Photographers will like "The Amateur Photographer's Handbook" by Aaron Sussman.

"The Road Ahead" by John T. Flynn is a book to make us think about the direction our government is taking. "The Philosophy of Civilization" by Albert Schweitzer will be read by every serious student. These books and many others are available at the Ouachita Parish Public Library. It is your library, so use it.

ATHENEUM CLUB HAS IMPRESSIVE ART EXHIBITION, TEA

Atheneum Club members entertained at tea at the Y. W. C. A. recently and for the interest of visitors there was a most colorful exhibit of art and antiques.

Paintings, portraits, hooked rugs, handpainted china, figurines, miniature flower arrangements, antiques and other items were on display and composed the work of the following artists: Mrs. F. C. Holden, Mrs. Agnes Dickerson, Mrs. Thomas Monk, Mrs. Maude Mayo, Mrs. H. M. James, Mrs. Stanley Archibald, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mr. Paul Dartez, Mrs. E. F. Dalton, Miss Leita Mae King and Mrs. Cynthia La France.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with yellow dahlias and other seasonal flowers.

In the dining room, the table overlaid with handsome cut work, was centrally adorned with an oblong arrangement of pink dahlias, pink roses and caladium leaves, and flanked with tall burning tapers. A similar arrangement marked the buffet.

Alternating at the silver services were Mrs. George Mercer, Mrs. R. B. Henry, Miss Juanita Porter and Mrs. C. E. Faulk. Silver trays of sandwiches and confections were passed among the guests.

Mrs. A. M. Barrett, club president, and other members of her committee were assisted by Mrs. Ruth Hundley, Y. W. C. A., house mother, in the gracious courtesies enjoyed by members from other clubs in and out of the Twin Cities.

ALATHEAN CLASS HAS INTERESTING MEETING RECENTLY

The Alathean class of the First Baptist Church met for their regular monthly business meeting in the home of Mrs. Flo Varnado with Mrs. Ruby Brooks as co-hostess.

The meeting was opened with an inspiring devotional by Mrs. Runell Signoff. The president, Mrs. Evelyn Curry, then took charge of the business part of the meeting.

The class was honored in having Miss Billie Farque as guest and to have her lead in several interesting and amusing games.

Refreshments were served to the following members: Mrs. Carolyn Green, Mrs. Edith Bradley, Mrs. Runell Signoff, Mrs. Willena Lamb, Mrs. Connie Courson, Mrs. Peggy Folds, Mrs. Fannie Corbin, Mrs. Evelyn Curry, Mrs. Mary Eason, Mrs. Florence Peters, Mrs. Flo Varnado, Mrs. Ruby Brooks, and class teacher, Mrs. Walter Rhodes.

The following guests were also present: Miss Billie Farque, Mrs. Melba Bounds, Mrs. Kay Fisher, and Mrs. Ann Varnado.

"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind." Would it be possible for a man to exercise faith in God, so as to be saved, unless he had an idea that God was love? He could not; because man could not love God unless he had an idea that God was love, and if he did not love God he could not have faith in him. Te be able to have faith in and love for God we must first realize the personality of God; that he is a personage of body, parts, and passions, of which the most important passion is love. Christ told us that if we love him we will keep his commandments and this does not mean just the ten commandments because there are many others outlined in the scriptures and we need to search them diligently to find them out. If we love God we will obey all his commandments and ordinances.

Visitors always welcome.

Our sentiments are the sentiments of the psalmist who said, "Bless the Lord, O My Soul, and all that is within me bless His Holy Name." The cooperation and liberality of the membership have made possible the completion of the educational unit, a building which will serve generations yet unborn. Unto God in Christ we offer our thanks and adoration!

"The Church Progress Assured" is the subject of the morning message. During these days the home missions project has been before us. The results are striking and guarantee the enlargement of the Church. Are you home missions minded? If you are not, there is a reason. And with all the facts in mind you will become home missions minded and labor for the home missions program.

One Of A Series

Know Your Officials

West Monroe has had but one city marshall since the position was began 'way back in 1931; he's R. E. L. "Bob" Kilgore, the son of a Confederate soldier and native of Illinois.

Want to know what the three initials stand for? Robert E. Lee. Bob's father served under the famed "rebel" general during the Civil War and admired him so much that he named his son, Robert, E. Lee Kilgore.

Bob, who stands about five feet, ten inches and who would possibly tip the scales at 125 pounds, has the secret of mixing work with play. He handles civil matters for the junior Twin City and goes fly-fishing every opportunity he gets.

Born in southern Illinois June 27, 1880, Bob moved with his father to Doniphan, Mo. when he was about 15. He lived there until 1905, the year he journeyed south to Clarks, La. where he became employed by the Louisiana Central Lumber Company.

It wasn't until 1909 however, that Bob got to Ouachita parish, where again he became employed by a lumber company.

cises only those matters pertaining to civil affairs and matters.

"I leave the criminal work for Chief Jeff Caldwell's police officers," Bob explains. His jurisdiction incidentally,

After traveling to Mansfield, La., back to Ouachita parish and then to New Mexico with various sawmill companies, Bob returned to Ouachita parish and married the former Miss Sally Rogers in 1917 at Linwill, a community six miles outside the present West Monroe city limits.

The same year he was married Bob changed from the sawmill work to become a bookkeeper and cashier for an insurance company in the parish.

During the ten-year-period he was employed by the insurance company, he served as secretary of the Lotus Club.

In 1931, Bob became Marshal Kilgore, and has since served under five governors, namely: O. K. Allen, R. W. Leche, Sam Jones, Jimmy Davis and Earl Long.

The marshal at present is a Mason. He became one in 1903 while in southern Missouri. He's a privileged Kiwanian and member of the K. P. Stonewall lodge.

Marshal Kilgore, who resides at 206 South Second street, West Monroe, has a daughter, Mrs. J. H. Moffett, also of Monroe.

Though he has all the powers of a sheriff in his jurisdiction, Bob exercovers, in addition to West Monroe, all ward five. And Bob will be the first to tell you that ward five "sure takes in a lot of people and territory. It's the biggest ward in the parish."

When asked of all the jobs he's had, which was the one he enjoyed most, the marshal said: "This one of course. I don't have to punch a clock and now and then I can sneak in a little fly-fishing. I haven't fished with any anything but a fly rod in 30 years."

Back to Bob's political life; he served two terms as alderman, one under both the late Mayor C. C. Bell and the late Mayor R. M. Browning.

And Bob won't hesitate to tell you that it was during his term as alderman that the board purchased West Monroe's first pumper fire truck. It has all the members names inscribed on it.

Bob has been elected city marshal four times; the last time, which was in 1948, he was unopposed.

The marshal's foremost dream at present is having an office in the new city hall, which is presently nearing completion.

"That new office will surely make a difference in a lot of things," he said.

Diggers Unearth Past

By Bert Goldrath
(NEA Service Staff Correspondent)

RESERVE, N. M.—(NEA)—The mystery of an advanced civilization that flourished amidst barbaric Indian tribes in Biblical times may be unlocked by the picks and shovels of scientists in a New Mexico desert.

An expedition headed by Dr. Paul S. Martin, chief curator of the Chicago Natural History Museum's department of antropology, hopes to find, among other things, how the Mogollon Indians got along without going to war.

The Mogollons, a unique tribe, enjoyed life in roofed houses while most of their neighbors existed like animals in the hills and forests.

The expedition already has unearthed a 5,000-year-old house, probably the earliest house yet found in North America.

But the Mogollons were not merely builders. There is conclusive evidence to prove that they were farmers and potters, too. They produced some astonishingly advanced examples of pottery, the designs of which indicate a high artistic developmest.

Their farming was crude, consisting mostly of gathering nuts, berries and seeds, but it was still a form of agriculture.

Archaeologoists trace Mogollon civilization back to about 200 A. D., when they somehow got the idea of building pit houses with strong central supporting posts of wood.

These pit houses ranged from 13 to 28 feet in diameter, with a floor 10 to 40 inches below ground level. Storage pits were dug in the floors and covered with branches, and the Mogollons buried their dead in the floors.

DR. PAUL MARTIN

Evidence gathered by the expedition has been dated by geological means. The diggers have turned up remains of early dogs and horses, as well as bones of the North American mammoth and camel.

Housewives of the long-extinct Mogollon tribe have been "polled" to determine their preference for various types of pottery vessels, in order to classify culture phases chonologically. Vessels with polished exteriors, for instance, were known to have been used in a later culture than ones with rough exteriors.

Anybody can be an archaeologist in the Mogollon territory, which is not far from here. Pit house villages with groups of 10 or more houses are easy to spot on the surface.

The real detective work comes after the actual excavatiton, when lives and customs must be reconstructed from such evidence as fragments of stone, splinters of bone and bits of broken pottery.

Dr. Martin explains the expedition may help complete the still sketchy autobiography of mankind. He thinks that we can, perhaps, even learn the secret of peace, from a race long dead.

First Football Player: Do you have any bubble gum? Second Football Player: Yes, but don't let the coach see you!

It was practice session for the gridiron great of tomorrow. The charges of Barkdull Faulk football team under John Cosse took the field for their usual afternoon romp with the pigskin in preparation for the last game of the season with Ouachita.

When this reporter and photographer appeared on the field for story and pictures, the coach barked the names for the lineup: Fatheree, quarterback; Dollar, Bloomer, halfbacks; Causey, fullback; Stevens, left end; Anderson, left tackle; Johnson, left guard; Patterson, center; Officer, right guard; Varino, right tackle; Gentry, right end.

In the milling excitement that preceded the posing, a fourth grade cherub named Roberts yelled, "I'm a guard."

The shoulder padded and jerseyed sixth graders looked for helmets and finally got into offensive position.

For the second picture, which took some considering and a change of personnel, Roberts yelled. "I'm a guard."

With the pictures taken, the rough stuff began. While head-on tackling was being conducted on one end of the field, offensive running plays with the backs only was held on the other. Cosse had his men shifting into Wing-T formation from the T, and also used a modification of Michigan's single wing with the fullback handling the ball. Roberts was sent down with the head-on tacklers.

Deception, with only an appreciable amount of fumbling, was the keynote, as sports writers say, of the afternoon. When Fatheree took the ball and the backs started running by him, anything could happen—and frequently did. Quickies through the middle, delayed laterals, faked runs and passes and naked reverses (not really naked, of course) provided enough thrills for the most hardened football fan.

Roberts was sidelined with a bruised arm.

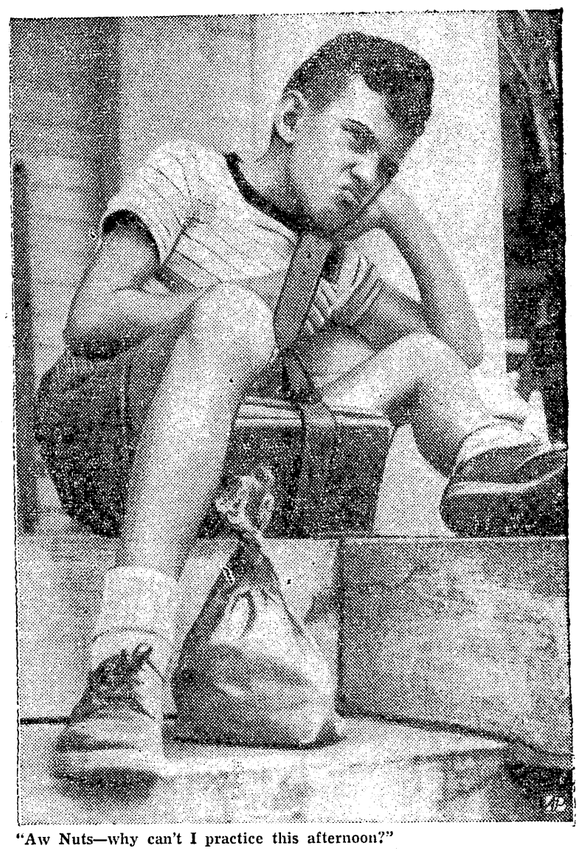

Scrimmage time: A lot of eagerness on the offense and happy unconcern on the defense. The first play of the afternoon exploded with Bloomer gaining an inch through the middle. Then the fireworks started. The defense buckled and a pileup ensued that I wouldn't have been caught dead in.

Roberts, with incomparable spirit, was right in the middle.

With no secondary or line-backers, the defense could not hold for long, and several long gains were made by Dollar and Causey. The defense on the downgrade proved disastrous and the offense had a picnic.

One thing was learned by this layman who is presumptious enough to give Coaches Malone, Hodgins, Ruple a little advice. You had better start cultivating these boys. A Christmas card during the Yule season wouldn't be a bad idea. They might leave and play for Notre Dame out of grammar school.

On leaving the grounds, Roberts was seen favoring that bruised arm. When asked how he got it, he said, "I got a knee." And then thinking of the game the following day, he said, "I shore hope it's better tomorrow."

"Aw Nuts—why can't I practice this afternoon?"

Ex-Keeper Of Crown Jewels Shines Shoes

By Julius Humi
(NEA Staff Correspondent)

LONDON—(NEA)—The grandson of the ex-keeper of the crown jewels in the Tower of London laid down his brushes and wiped the shoe-polish off his hands.

"This is the life I have always dreamed about," he said, pocketing the sixpence coin (20 cents) he had collected from his last customer. "I have never had more friends, and what's more I don't have a boss."

At 55, Vivian de Gurr St. George, descendant of a distinguished British military family, renewed his license last week and returned to his shoeshine pitch near Marble Arch, in the heart of London. There for the past five years he has done a regular and lucrative business, cleaning the shoes of such eminent patrons as George Winant, late U. S. ambassador in Britain, and most of the staffs of the U. S., French and South American embassies in London.

The Chinese ambassador once presented him with a golden pin which St. George keeps stuck in his cap.

"It's supposed to fetch luck," he explains, "and though I am not superstitious I must say I have had nothing to complain about since I became a shoe shiner."

St. George is also an official interpreter and information guide.

Before Vivian de Gurr St. George settled down in his present vocation and became the most popular shoeshine "boy" in London, he led a roving life on sea and land. In one way or another he participated in almost every civil war, from the Mexican revolution (he still holds a regular commission in the Mexican army) to the Spanish civil war in which he served as a machine gun officer in the international brigade. During his long years in South America he met, and married, the daughter of an Argentine diplomat.

"I guess I have always been the black sheep of the family," St. George admits, "but I think, looking back, it was worth it. I have learned most there is to life—even if it was the hard way."

Folks Flock To Honor Shakespeare

By Henry D. Bussey
(NEA Special Correspondent)

ASHLAND, Ore.—(NEA)—An audience composed of farmers, students, lumberjacks, housewives and Hollywood talent scouts is getting ready to see this small city's annual treat. Every summer, Ashland goes all out for William Shakespeare.

The Shakespearean Festival, featuring the presentation of five of Shakespeare's plays, is given in a replica of an Elizabethan theatre. It was the theatre, in fact ,which prompted the beginnings of the festival in 1935.

Angus L. Bowmer, an enthusiastic little professor of English at Ashland's Southern Oregon College, was and still is a rabid Shakespearean fancier. Watching the demolition of a building in Ashland, he was amazed to see that the structure, stripped of its dome, bore a remarkable resemblance to the Globe Theatre in London, where many of Shakespeare's works were first performed.

With his dream of a yearly festival before him, Bowmer rallied businessmen, students and federal public works officials to his support, and the dream became a reality with the presentation of "Twelfth Night" and "The Merchant of Venice" in 1935.

Audiences and actors soon heard about the festival. Box office receipts soared as people came from distant points. Actors, too, were drawn to the festival from many places.

The festival made a trip to the Golden Gate International Exposition at San Francisco in 1939. Then, the next year, fire destroyed all the costumes and equipment in the theatre and, when ware broke out, with Bowmer and many regulars entering the service, the plays were discontinued for the duration.

With peace, Bowmer found interest keen in reviving the annual event. He issued a call to Ashland's residents. Housewives contributed their time and needles to sew costumes; builders worked to reconstruct the stage; and actors came to present a four-play festival.

This summer, with the festival an established feature for Pacific Northwest vacationers, 8,000 people are expected to see the five plays, which will be shown alternately from August 2-24.

Southern Oregon College, in cooperation with visiting professors, is holding a Shakespearean Summer School in connection with the festival.

The cast will be drawn from over 200 applicants from nearly every section of the nation.

Applaud Ole Time Fiddling

A partisan of fancy ole time fiddlin' would have rared up on his hind-legs and hollered had he attended the Fiddling Contest and Amateur Show Saturday night a week ago in Rayville.

Although attendance as well as participants in number were not up to snuff, the jamboree proved successful. In the midst of Halloween decorations in the school gymnasium, a collection of "artists" ranging from six to sixty took a part and not a few people were surprised that they showed considerable talent.

Most of the acts—exclusive of the fiddlin'—were vocal selections. And the vocalists had to compete with children running about in All Saints Day enthusiasm and the crescendo of exploding balloons on the outside. They did so well that one thought that they could entertain on the front lines of any war.

One fine old lady—her words would probably be "a grand ol' gal"—from Oak Grove took the floor with her fiddle and didn't turn loose until she had captured the applause of everyone. She played "Bye Bye Honey I'm Gone" in Grand Ole Opry style, with a vocal rendition and even a jig in the middle, settling down for an encore with, "Nobody's Business What I Do." She was Mrs. Winnie Elliot who said she hadn't played in a long time but felt that she could still make a hip wiggle.

In the amateur part of the show, several young ladies and gentlemen sang difficult numbers, or so a layman would think. A comely blond Kathleen Hopkins sang "Yours" with much poise and in husky tones that seemed well worth cultivating.

Annette Hartley, a freckled femme of 12, dressed as a plowboy, sang "I'm Just a Plain Old Country Boy," with such conviction that you forgot for a moment that she wasn't.

John Thomason, not over eight years old, round-faced and solemn, sang, "Mother McCree" in tone of tenor that would have charmed the blarney stone. Mary Helen Thornton sang "Congratulations" without accompaniment and was applauded with the first prize of the contest. Jerry Colson sang "Wade in de Water," and Archie Brown, injecting a bit of Irish melody, too, ended the show appropriately with "Clancy Lowered the Boom."

While the judges considered and in-between songs and acts, music was presented by Big Martin Biddy and his band. The jamboree was the annual affair of the Rayville Lions Club, a charitable organization which did itself proud with a successful evening.

Coal Wastes Reduces Cost Of Building

By Leonard A. Unger

LANSFORD, Pa.—The ailing anthracite industry, once Pennsylvania's finest, may be due for a new lease on life.

The shot in the arm is comparatively simple-making use of slate, anthracite's "poor cousin." The result is a new, lightweight entry into the concrete construction field.

It comes from raw material mined deep below the surface and put through the same precise preparation pattern as hard coal. The slate and similar refuse has been piling up on towering, unsightly dump banks familiar in this region for 100 years.

Heretofore, attempts at creating practicable byproducts from anthracite have met with scant success in an industry suffering competitively from oil and natural gas incursions.

Slate that is inevitably dug along with the coal may be the solution. Blasted under white-hot temperatures, a combination of slate and small-sized anthracite is transformed into a lightweight porous compound. When broken up it looks like brownish chunks of cinders—but rock-hard.

The product has been dubbed Lelite by its originator the Lehigh Navigation Coal Co. The firm, founded in 1791, is one of the oldest in the nation.

Lelite is designed to provide the bulk for mixing concrete known in building trades as aggregate.

"Lelite concrete weighs only one-third as much as concrete made with ordinary aggregates, and without any decrease of strength," says Lehigh's president, Robert V. White.

Official recognition of the product has come from Richard Maize, Pennsylvania secretary of mines. Maize, an engineer, said:

"Due to its lightness it will reduce the overall cost of building and reduce the necessity for many girders and beams to support heavy walls and floors."

Maize said the hard coal region's biggest problem is to woo the building industry into turning away from the traditional crushed stone, gravel and slag as aggregate material and use the shale byproduct instead.

The first hurdle in this direction has been overcome by the recent approval of the New York City Board of Standards that the new type aggregate can be used for office building and other construction in the world's greatest metropolis.

The Lehigh firm is now calling in some of the nation's topflight architects and construction engineers to see Lelite in action. A new $1,500,000 production plant has been built entirely of concrete using the shale aggregate.

Lelite ties in with the economy of the anthacite region this way:

Current production of hard coal is only a little more than half of the peak tonnage of world war I. It is now between 50,000,000 and 60,000,000 tons.

Next to water trouble—for every 10 tons of marketable coal mined, 200 tons of water must be pumped to the surface—comes the refuse problem. Two tons of slate, rock and other debris are also hoisted for every 10 tons of hard coal. Coal preparation plants must expensively crush, wash and size the waste together with the coal.

But with the production of Lelite the last phase of separating the coal from the refuse is beginning to see the latter go into a byproduct instead of ending up ingloriously on a refuse bank. That extra revenue from the byproduct may be what's needed to stop the slow decline in mining operations with its subsequent unemployment.

The ultimate fate of the anthacite industry may now be in the hands of the construction industry, Maize says. It depends on whether Lelite clicks.

Monroyan Praised . . .

Oilmen Like Digby's Work

(From the New Orleans Item)

When S. L. Digby was named Conservation Commissioner by Gov. Long there were quite a few eyebrows raised. They have since been lowered in rather general respect.

Here was a man little known in state politics or outside his section of north Louisiana where he was reared and in Monroe.

The first thing that "tagged" him was that he had been for years attorney for William C. Feasel, wealthy Monroe oil and gas man who had largely bankrolled Earl Long's campaign for governor.

A little wonderment was natural under the circumstances for those who did not know him.

Probably the first clue to Commissioner Digby's administration of the department was given in his first chat with his staff. Among other things, he said, "About department policy I can say so far only that we will let every matter stand on its own merits."

Some other indications of how he would operate were quick to pile up.

Down The Middle

In some of his first hearings on oil and gas matters, some small producers were in opposition to some large oil companies. Mr. Digby leaned over backward to see that the little fellows got their cases properly presented. He almost acted at times as though he were their attorneys. When his decisions came through, both sides were able to say they were "down the middle."

Rather quickly, too, another clue became apparent. There was no shakeup in departmental personnel. Probably there has been as low or perhaps a lower turnover in his department than any other.

One other thing was also quickly noted. A few people came to complain about what his predecessor had or had not done. Commissioner Digby turned all aside with statements to the effect he was not running a bureau of investigation and that his concern was to develop sound policies in the future.

Wins Respect

In the months that have followed, his direction of the department has won frequent praise from men in the oil and gas business who are in a position to know.

On one point he has taken a firm stand. It is to avoid even the appearance of politics in his office.

"We have made every effort to shun this," he says. "We couldn't maintain the confidence of the people in our work if we had our ear to the ground floor (where the governor's office is). I have told my staff that the only controlling element we have is to do right."

He adds that he has found his work "a pleasant experience" and that he is dealing with "reasonable and co-operative people."

Judge Digby—nearly everyone calls him judge—was born near Bernice in Union Parish Feb. 6, 1892. His father had a cotton and corn farm there.

Obtains Degree

He went one session to Louisiana Tech, dropped out to teach a year, then started reading law and completed his college years in the L. S. U. law school, where he obtained his degree in 1916.

Judge Digby remembers with a smile that one of the part-time jobs he had at L. S. U. to help earn his way through the university was something like that of traffic cop.

He was even equipped with a stopwatch to clock speeders through the old university campus in the days when automobiles were a bit rare.

His first law practice was in Farmerville, where he became a partner of J. B. Crow, who in a few months was elected judge and left his practice to his young partner.

When the U. S. entered World War I he went into the army as a private, ending up in the provost marshall's office in Baton Rouge.

Holds Office

After the war he went back to Farmerville. In 1919 he was named district attorney for an unexpired term. In 1922 he ran for the unexpired term of a judgeship and was elected with a majority of 47 votes. When he ran for re-election he met his same opponent and was defeated by 14 votes out of about 6,000.

JUDGE S. L. DIGBY

Shortly after that he went to Monroe, where he formed a partnership with R. H. Oliver, Jr. The firm continues with the addition of Oliver's son, C. McVea Oliver, as a member. It is rated one of the top firms of the state.

In his youth, Judge Digby became a friend of Mr. Feasel, who is from Union parish. Their association has continued close, with Mr. Digby retained as Feasel's attorney through the years.

Supports Gov. Long

Another old friend of Commissioner Digby is Earl Long. Judge Digby supported him for public office as far back as 1932, when the governor was a candidate for lieutenant governor in the famous race when he split with the late Huey Long. Naturally, Judge Digby supported Gov. Long in his successful race for the governorship, helping out in the fifth district.

Without any advance warning, Gov. Long asked him to become conservation commissioner. At first, Judge Digby thought not. Then he accepted the post, but only expected to remain through the 1948 session of the legislature.

Since then he has become interested in the work and is continuing. Many now consider his appointment a very good one because he had considerable knowledge of oil and gas law in advance and then because of his fair-minded approach.

As he looks to the next few years, Commissioner Digby is particularly concerned over better financing for the department.

The department needs more technical men, he finds. In his opinion it ought to be "sufficiently staffed so that the commissioner can use his own staff as a better balance on testimony of oil companies in deciding cases."

Right now the department is a "training ground" for the industry. There are good men in the department, but many others have gone to better paying jobs.

"My decisions on technical matters in controversy," Judge Digby points out, "can be no better than the information on which they are based."

There have been a few mentions of him as a candidate for governor in 1952. This is something he emphatically discounts. "I do not intend to be a candidate again for any public office," he says.

Judge Digby is married to the former Miss Maud McLees of Ruston. They have a son, James Foster, who is in Santa Monica doing research work for the government in electronics.

Some of the strained and chopped baby foods, such as prunes and peaches are delicious folded into a salad for the whole family.

Fireman Flacy Is Spare-Time Cartoonist

By Percy Fant

One morning about three years ago, firemen at Number One fire station awakened to find cartoons painted on the doors of their food lockers.

The drawings included a cannibal, a goat and a tiger, apparently illustrative of personal characters.

Responsible for them was C. W. Flacy, Sr., a member of the fire department for fifteen years.

Obviously Monroe's fire-fighters didn't take to Flacy's sense of humor, so they got a fresh can of paint and repainted the locker doors and at the same time blotted out the cartoons.

Mention the drawings to Flacy now and he'll chuckle; so will the firemen.

Flacy, born at Lake Charles, La., on March 22, 1912, is the city assistant fire inspector, an amateur cartoonist, the secretary-treasurer of the Monroe Fire Fighters' Association Local 629, and the leader of a string band in his spare time.

When Flacy moved to Monroe, he was only three years old. Since that time he has attended St. Matthew's Grammar and High Schools, got married, become the father of four children, worked as messenger boy and clerk with the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, and as clerk with the S. & E. Motor Company here. His first job, he says, was working at a local pharmacy, delivering packages.

Joining the fire department Dec. 22, 1934, Flacy has seen the department grow with the commissioning of new, modern pumpers, a new fire station, and has seen firemen included under the civil service program.

He joined the M. F. D. as a private fireman, was promoted to driver nine years later and took over the position of asistant to Fire Inspector Will Atkinson in July, 1948. Flacy is also one of five members of the Municipal Fire and Police Civil Service board.

In his spare time, the assistant fire inspector takes to drawing like ducks do to water.

Those fire prevention charts you saw at the Ouachita Valley Fair last month were a few examples of Flacy's handiwork.

In addition to drawing these charts, he draws cartoons and charts of various mechanisms used by the fire department, such as: fire extinguishers, sprinkler systems and pump operations.

But there's nothing like touching off a full life with music. Flacy has got his finger in that too. He's the leader of six members comprising the Rio Grande Riders, a string band that definitely has possibilities.

Three of Flacy's four children, C. W. Jr., 13, Robert, 12, and Sara Jane 11, were born in November. The other child, Merrily, 10, was born in December.

Firemen, realizing their assistant inspector has a variety of hobbies, jobs and methods of recreation, are wondering what he will turn up with next.

Know Your Officials

West Monroe has had but one city marshall since the position was began 'way back in 1931; he's R. E. L. "Bob" Kilgore, the son of a Confederate soldier and native of Illinois.

Want to know what the three initials stand for? Robert E. Lee. Bob's father served under the famed "rebel" general during the Civil War and admired him so much that he named his son, Robert, E. Lee Kilgore.

Bob, who stands about five feet, ten inches and who would possibly tip the scales at 125 pounds, has the secret of mixing work with play. He handles civil matters for the junior Twin City and goes fly-fishing every opportunity he gets.

Born in southern Illinois June 27, 1880, Bob moved with his father to Doniphan, Mo. when he was about 15. He lived there until 1905, the year he journeyed south to Clarks, La. where he became employed by the Louisiana Central Lumber Company.

It wasn't until 1909 however, that Bob got to Ouachita parish, where again he became employed by a lumber company.

cises only those matters pertaining to civil affairs and matters.

"I leave the criminal work for Chief Jeff Caldwell's police officers," Bob explains. His jurisdiction incidentally,

After traveling to Mansfield, La., back to Ouachita parish and then to New Mexico with various sawmill companies, Bob returned to Ouachita parish and married the former Miss Sally Rogers in 1917 at Linwill, a community six miles outside the present West Monroe city limits.

The same year he was married Bob changed from the sawmill work to become a bookkeeper and cashier for an insurance company in the parish.

During the ten-year-period he was employed by the insurance company, he served as secretary of the Lotus Club.

In 1931, Bob became Marshal Kilgore, and has since served under five governors, namely: O. K. Allen, R. W. Leche, Sam Jones, Jimmy Davis and Earl Long.

The marshal at present is a Mason. He became one in 1903 while in southern Missouri. He's a privileged Kiwanian and member of the K. P. Stonewall lodge.

Marshal Kilgore, who resides at 206 South Second street, West Monroe, has a daughter, Mrs. J. H. Moffett, also of Monroe.

Though he has all the powers of a sheriff in his jurisdiction, Bob exercovers, in addition to West Monroe, all ward five. And Bob will be the first to tell you that ward five "sure takes in a lot of people and territory. It's the biggest ward in the parish."

When asked of all the jobs he's had, which was the one he enjoyed most, the marshal said: "This one of course. I don't have to punch a clock and now and then I can sneak in a little fly-fishing. I haven't fished with any anything but a fly rod in 30 years."

Back to Bob's political life; he served two terms as alderman, one under both the late Mayor C. C. Bell and the late Mayor R. M. Browning.

And Bob won't hesitate to tell you that it was during his term as alderman that the board purchased West Monroe's first pumper fire truck. It has all the members names inscribed on it.

Bob has been elected city marshal four times; the last time, which was in 1948, he was unopposed.

The marshal's foremost dream at present is having an office in the new city hall, which is presently nearing completion.

"That new office will surely make a difference in a lot of things," he said.

He went one session to Louisiana Tech, dropped out to teach a year, then started reading law and completed his college years in the L. S. U. law school, where he obtained his degree in 1916.

Judge Digby remembers with a smile that one of the part-time jobs he had at L. S. U. to help earn his way through the university was something like that of traffic cop.

He was even equipped with a stop-watch to clock speeders through the old university campus in the days when automobiles were a bit rare.

His first law practice was in Farmerville, where he became a partner of J. B. Crow, who in a few months was elected judge and left his practice to his young partner.

When the U. S. entered World War I he went into the army as a private, ending up in the provost marshall's office in Baton Rouge.

Holds Office

After the war he went back to Farmerville. In 1919 he was named district attorney for an unexpired term. In 1922 he ran for the unexpired term of a judgeship and was elected with a majority of 47 votes. When he ran for re-election he met his same opponent and was defeated by 14 votes out of about 6,000.

JUDGE S. L. DIGBY

Shortly after that he went to Monroe, where he formed a partnership with R. H. Oliver, Jr. The firm continues with the addition of Oliver's son, C. McVea Oliver, as a member. It is rated one of the top firms of the state.

In his youth, Judge Digby became a friend of Mr. Feasel, who is from Union parish. Their association has continued close, with Mr. Digby retained as Feasel's attorney through the years.

Supports Gov. Long

Another old friend of Commissioner Digby is Earl Long. Judge Digby supported him for public office as far back as 1932, when the governor was a candidate for lieutenant governor in the famous race when he split with the late Huey Long. Naturally, Judge Digby supported Gov. Long in his successful race for the governorship, helping out in the fifth district.

Without any advance warning, Gov. Long asked him to become conservation commissioner. At first, Judge Digby thought not. Then he accepted the post, but only expected to remain through the 1948 session of the legislature.

Since then he has become interested in the work and is continuing. Many now consider his appointment a very good one because he had considerable knowledge of oil and gas law in advance and then because of his fair-minded approach.

As he looks to the next few years, Commissioner Digby is particularly concerned over better financing for the department.

The department needs more technical men, he finds. In his opinion it ought to be "sufficiently staffed so that the commissioner can use his own staff as a better balance on testimony of oil companies in deciding cases."

Right now the department is a "training ground" for the industry. There are good men in the department, but many others have gone to better paying jobs.

"My decisions on technical matters in controversy," Judge Digby points out, "can be no better than the information on which they are based."

There have been a few mentions of him as a candidate for governor in 1952. This is something he emphatically discounts. "I do not intend to be a candidate again for any public office," he says.

Judge Digby is married to the former Miss Maud McLees of Ruston. They have a son, James Foster, who is in Santa Monica doing research work for the government in electronics.

Some of the strained and chopped baby foods, such as prunes and peaches are delicious folded into a salad for the whole family.

Diggers Unearth Past

By Bert Goldrath

(NEA Service Staff Correspondent)

RESERVE, N. M.—(NEA)—The mystery of an advanced civilization that flourished amidst barbaric Indian tribes in Biblical times may be unlocked by the picks and shovels of scientists in a New Mexico desert.

An expedition headed by Dr. Paul S. Martin, chief curator of the Chicago Natural History Museum's department of antropology, hopes to find, among other things, how the Mogollon Indians got along without going to war.

The Mogollons, a unique tribe, enjoyed life in roofed houses while most of their neighbors existed like animals in the hills and forests.

The expedition already has unearthed a 5,000-year-old house, probably the earliest house yet found in North America.

But the Mogollons were not merely builders. There is conclusive evidence to prove that they were farmers and potters, too. They produced some astonishingly advanced examples of pottery, the designs of which indicate a high artistic development.

Their farming was crude, consisting mostly of gathering nuts, berries and seeds, but it was still a form of agriculture.

Archaelogoists trace Mogollon civilization back to about 200 A. D., when they somehow got the idea of building pit houses with strong central supporting posts of wood.

These pit houses ranged from 13 to 28 feet in diameter, with a floor 10 to 40 inches below ground level. Storage pits were dug in the floors and covered with branches, and the Mogollons buried their dead in the floors.

DR. PAUL MARTIN

Evidence gathered by the expedition has been dated by geological means. The diggers have turned up remains of early dogs and horses, as well as bones of the North American mammoth and camel.

Housewives of the long-extinct Mogollon tribe have been "polled" to determine their preference for various types of pottery vessels, in order to classify culture phases chonologically. Vessels with polished exteriors, for instance, were known to have been used in a later culture than ones with rough exteriors.

Anybody can be an archaeologist in the Mogollon territory, which is not far from here. Pit house villages with groups of 10 or more houses are easy to spot on the surface.

The real detective work comes after the actual excavatiton, when lives and customs must be reconstructed from such evidence as fragments of stone, splinters of bone and bits of broken pottery.

Dr. Martin explains the expedition may help complete the still sketchy autobiography of mankind. He thinks that we can, perhaps, even learn the secret of peace, from a race long dead.

Ex-Keeper Of Crown Jewels Shines Shoes

By Julius Humi

(NEA Staff Correspondent)

LONDON—(NEA)—The grandson of the ex-keeper of the crown jewels in the Tower of London laid down his brushes and wiped the shoe-polish off his hands.

"This is the life I have always dreamed about," he said, pocketing the sixpence coin (20 cents) he had collected from his last customer. "I have never had more friends, and what's more I don't have a boss."

At 55, Vivian de Gurr St. George, descendant of a distinguished British military family, renewed his license last week and returned to his shoe-shine pitch near Marble Arch, in the heart of London. There for the past five years he has done a regular and lucrative business, cleaning the shoes of such eminent patrons as George Winant, late U. S. ambassador in Britain, and most of the staffs of the U. S., French and South American embassies in London.

The Chinese ambassador once presented him with a golden pin which St. George keeps stuck in his cap.

"It's supposed to fetch luck," he explains, "and though I am not superstitious I must say I have had nothing to complain about since I became a shoe shiner."

St. George is also an official interpreter and information guide.

Before Vivian de Gurr St. George settled down in his present vocation and became the most popular shoe-shine "boy" in London, he led a roving life on sea and land. In one way or another he participated in almost every civil war, from the Mexican revolution (he still holds a regular commission in the Mexican army) to the Spanish civil war in which he served as a machine gun officer in the international brigade. During his long years in South America he met, and married, the daughter of an Argentine diplomat.

"I guess I have always been the black sheep of the family," St. George admits, "but I think, looking back, it was worth it. I have learned most there is to life—even if it was the hard way."

Folks Flock To Honor Shakespeare

By Henry D. Bussey

(NEA Special Correspondent)

ASHLAND, Ore.—(NEA)—An audience composed of farmers, students, lumberjacks, housewives and Hollywood talent scouts is getting ready to see this small city's annual treat. Every summer, Ashland goes all out for William Shakespeare.

The Shakespearean Festival, featuring the presentation of five of Shakespeare's plays, is given in a replica of an Elizabethan theatre. It was the theatre, in fact ,which prompted the beginnings of the festival in 1935.

Angus L. Bowmer, an enthusiastic little professor of English at Ashland's Southern Oregon College, was and still is a rabid Shakespearean fancier. Watching the demolition of a building in Ashland, he was amazed to see that the structure, stripped of its dome, bore a remarkable resemblance to the Globe Theatre in London, where many of Shakespeare's works were first performed.

With his dream of a yearly festival before him, Bowmer rallied businessmen, students and federal public works officials to his support, and the dream became a reality with the presentation of "Twelfth Night" and "The Merchant of Venice" in 1935.

Audiences and actors soon heard about the festival. Box office receipts soared as people came from distant points. Actors, too, were drawn to the festival from many places.

The festival made a trip to the Golden Gate International Exposition at San Francisco in 1939. Then, the next year, fire destroyed all the costumes and equipment in the theatre and, when ware broke out, with Bowmer and many regulars entering the service, the plays were discontinued for the duration.

With peace, Bowmer found interest keen in reviving the annual event. He issued a call to Ashland's residents.

SHAKESPEAREAN CHARACTERS relax between rehearsals in Ashland's Litha Park. Actors come from many parts of the country to play in the Oregon city's annual Shakespearean Festival

Housewives contributed their time and needles to sew costumes; builders worked to reconstruct the stage; and actors came to present a four-play festival.

This summer, with the festival an established feature for Pacific Northwest vacationers, 8,000 people are expected to see the five plays, which will be shown alternately from August 2-24.

Southern Oregon College, in co-operation with visiting professors, is holding a Shakespearean Summer School in connection with the festival.

The cast will be drawn from over 200 applicants from nearly every section of the nation.

Applaud Ole Time Fiddling

A partisan of fancy ole time fiddlin' would have rared up on his hind-legs and hollered had he attended the Fiddling Contest and Amateur Show Saturday night a week ago in Rayville.

Although attendance as well as participants in number were not up to snuff, the jamboree proved successful. In the midst of Halloween decorations in the school gymnasium, a collection of "artists" ranging from six to sixty took a part and not a few people were surprised that they showed considerable talent.

Most of the acts—exclusive of the fiddlin'—were vocal selections. And the vocalists had to compete with children running about in All Saints Day enthusiasm and the crescendo of exploding balloons on the outside. They did so well that one thought that they could entertain on the front lines of any war.

One fine old lady—her words would probably be "a grand ol' gal"—from Oak Grove took the floor with her fiddle and didn't turn loose until she had captured the applause of everyone. She played "Bye Bye Honey I'm Gone" in Grand Ole Opry style, with a vocal rendition and even a jig in the middle, settling down for an encore with, "Nobody's Business What I Do." She was Mrs. Winnie Elliot who said she hadn't played in a long time but felt that she could still make a hip wiggle.

In the amateur part of the show, several young ladies and gentlemen sang difficult numbers, or so a layman would think. A comely blond Kathleen Hopkins sang "Yours" with much poise and in husky tones that seemed well worth cultivating.

Annette Hartley, a freckled femme of 12, dressed as a plowboy, sang "I'm Just a Plain Old Country Boy," with such conviction that you forgot for a moment that she wasn't.

John Thomason, not over eight years old, round-faced and solemn, sang, "Mother McCree" in tone of tenor that would have charmed the blarney stone. Mary Helen Thornton sang "Congratulations" without accompaniment and was applauded with the first prize of the contest. Jerry Colson sang "Wade in de Water," and Archie Brown, injecting a bit of Irish melody, too, ended the show appropriately with "Clancy Lowered the Boom."

While the judges considered and in-between songs and acts, music was presented by Big Martin Biddy and his band. The jamboree was the annual affair of the Rayville Lions Club, a charitable organization which did itself proud with a successful evening.

Just Plain Folks . . .

Fireman Flacy Is Spare-Time Cartoonist

By Percy Fant

One morning about three years ago, firemen at Number One fire station awakened to find cartoons painted on the doors of their food lockers.

The drawings included a cannibal, a goat and a tiger, apparently illustrative of personal characters.

Responsible for them was C. W. Flacy, Sr., a member of the fire department for fifteen years.

Obviously Monroe's fire-fighters didn't take to Flacy's sense of humor, so they got a fresh can of paint and repainted the locker doors and at the same time blotted out the cartoons.

Mention the drawings to Flacy now and he'll chuckle; so will the firemen.

Flacy, born at Lake Charles, La., on March 22, 1912, is the city assistant fire inspector, an amateur cartoonist, the secretary-treasurer of the Monroe Fire Fighters' Association Local 629, and the leader of a string band in his spare time.

When Flacy moved to Monroe, he was only three years old. Since that time he has attended St. Matthew's Grammar and High Schools, got married, become the father of four children, worked as messenger boy and clerk with the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, and as clerk with the S. & E. Motor Company here. His first job, he says, was working at a local pharmacy, delivering packages.

Joining the fire department Dec. 22, 1934, Flacy has seen the department grow with the commissioning of new, modern pumpers, a new fire station, and has seen firemen included under the civil service program.

He joined the M. F. D. as a private fireman, was promoted to driver nine years later and took over the position of asistant to Fire Inspector Will Atkinson in July, 1948. Flacy is also one of five members of the Municipal Fire and Police Civil Service board.

In his spare time, the assistant fire inspector takes to drawing like ducks do to water.

Those fire prevention charts you saw at the Ouachita Valley Fair last month were a few examples of Flacy's handiwork.

In addition to drawing these charts, he draws cartoons and charts of various mechanisms used by the fire department, such as: fire extinguishers, sprinkler systems and pump operations.

But there's nothing like touching off a full life with music. Flacy has got his finger in that too. He's the leader of six members comprising the Rio Grande Riders, a string band that definitely has possibilities.

Three of Flacy's four children, C. W. Jr., 13, Robert, 12, and Sara Jane 11, were born in November. The other child, Merrily, 10, was born in December.

Firemen, realizing their assistant inspector has a variety of hobbies, jobs and methods of recreation, are wondering what he will turn up with next.

FIFTH AVENUE IS 125 YEARS OLD

Personality, Not Age, Places It In World's Front Rank

By Cynthia Lowry
(A. P. Newsfeatures Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The avenue is 125 years old this month.

Like any well-preserved lady of ...dle years, Fifth avenue is ignoring ...hilestone. After all, it isn't age b... ...ersonality which has placed Fifth avenue in the front rank of the world's famous streets, right along with Bond street and the Rue de la Paix.

Millions consider this broad and elegant boulevard—or at least a part of it—the symbol and essence of America's biggest city.

Straight as a ruler, almost seven miles long, Fifth avenue cuts through the heart of Manhattan Island, dividing it into the east side and the west side.

Lining it is some of the world's most valuable real estate, more than a billion dollars' worth. Rearing high in its path are some of the best known buildings on earth. Photographs of the avenue are as easily identified as the Eiffel tower. Its saw-toothed profile and manicured aspect are a trademark of a fabulous shopping center.

But just as New York is a city of many moods, so is Fifth avenue. The mile and a quarter from 34th street north to the beginning of Central park at 59th is the Fifth avenue of the visitor's affection and recognition. This is the avenue dressed in mink and pearls, conservative and sleek in her best great lady mood.

This is retail row, calm, clean, majestic. Towering office buildings, mighty churches and luxurious shops and stores front on its broad sidewalks. Like a giant exclamation point the Empire State Building reaches toward the sky. A huge business city within a city, Rockefeller Center, stands in austere dignified splendor.

Window shoppers are among the world's best-dressed women. Window displays are carefully constructed works of art. Workmen constantly scour and burnish building fronts and brass.

Fifth avenue streets are the cleanest. Its cops are the tallest, handsomest and politest. No hackstands clutter the street corners, no newspaper stands crowd its sidewalks. Panhandlers and sidewalk salesmen get short shrift. Gaudy lights, overhanging signs are forbidden.

But this Fifth avenue of cosmopolitan mien and haughty airs is completely different from the Fifth avenue from Washington Square, where it begins, north for a dozen blocks. Fifth avenue here is a leisurely street, frankly showing her comfortable age and her beginnings.

The avenue here is rooted firmly in Greenwich Village, which still has a small-town neighborly feeling. It was here in November, 1824, that the first stretch of Fifth avenue was constructed. It soon was the address of some of the city's most respected and wealthy families.

Signs of New York's Dutch and British ancestry still remain down around Washington Square.

Many of the old brownstone and brick homes of generations past have given way to modern apartment houses. Some of the old homes remain, though, occupied by quiet and exclusive clubs.

There are even trees—with roots as deep in the island's soil as Fifth avenue itself. Within a stone's throw of Washington Square and its arch are Washington mews and MacDougall alley, quaint and friendly little streets lined with buildings which once were the stables of old mansions.

Beyond 13th street, the avenue changes. For the next half mile the avenue is a busy, bustling business thoroughfare. There are manufacturers of clothing and notions in the old and grime-darkened buildings; there are wholesale showrooms and lofts. Trucks and business cars clog traffic and lunch hour crowds loiter on the sidewalks.

But the street's varied moods do not end with the shopper's and stroller's paradise. From Central park north for 2 1-2 miles Fifth avenue is one of the city's most expensive and exclusive residential districts.

Facing the careful Central park landscaping is a long, white-faced line of apartment houses, each meticulously neat and complete with an imposing uniformed doorman. Here and there the line is broken by one of the huge palaces built at the turn of the century by railroad, stock market, steel and tobacco fortunes. Most of these, like the old houses by Washington Square, have given way to apartments, and those that are left are occupied by museums and clubs.

Finally the avenue does another and most dramatic change of personality. Beyond 110th street is the Fifth avenue visitors rarely see—or if they do, do not associate with the glamorous thoroughfare. It is a tenement section, filled with shabby buildings and junky shops. The curbs of the broad untidy street are lined with trucks, pushcarts and dented automobiles.

It was not too many years ago that Fifth avenue seemed fated to compete in tinsel and noise with Broadway for attention.

Manufacturing concerns were moving in, cheap advertisements were appearing on its streets. That was when Fifth avenue acquired a guardian. It is called the Fifth Avenue Association.

The association, from 1907 on, has been the avenue's watchdog. To it can go the lion's share of credit for turning the area north of 34th street into a de luxe shopper's street.

Currently the association is turning its attention to extending "quality street" south to 24th street and elimination of the slightly shabby atmosphere there.

And, if plans work out and the avenue continues the grande dame of western world streets, the association has promised a suitable birthday celebration—when she's 150 years old.

Plain boiled lentils make a delicious and hearty soup when teamed with onion, celery, carrot and meat stock. If the soup is to be served on a soup, salad, and dessert menu add a few thinly sliced frankfurters to the tureen.

FIFTH AVENUE IS 125 YEARS OLD

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The avenue is 125 years old this month.

It is a tenement section, filled with shabby buildings and junky shops. The curbs of the broad untidy street are lined with trucks, pushcarts and dented automobiles.

It was not too many years ago that Fifth avenue seemed fated to compete in tinsel and noise with Broadway for attention.

Manufacturing concerns were moving in, cheap advertisements were appearing on its streets. That was when Fifth avenue acquired a guardian. It is called the Fifth Avenue Association.

The association, from 1907 on, has been the avenue's watchdog. To it can go the lion's share of credit for turning the area north of 34th street into a de luxe shopper's street.

Currently the association is turning its attention to extending "quality street" south to 24th street and elimination of the slightly shabby atmosphere there.

And, if plans work out and the avenue continues the grande dame of western world streets, the association has promised a suitable birthday celebration—when she's 150 years old.

Plain boiled lentils make a delicious and hearty soup when teamed with onion, celery, carrot and meat stock. If the soup is to be served on a soup, salad, and dessert menu add a few thinly sliced frankfurters to the tureen.

BATON ROUGE IN FIGHT ON FUNDS

Two Potentially Explosive Proposals Before Officials

By Edmond Le Breton

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The perennial problem of financing Louisiana municipal governments is coming to a head in the state's capital city.

The city-parish government of Baton Rouge has before it two proposals, both potentially explosive, for raising more funds. One is for a one-cent city sales tax, applicable only to the enlarged city of Baton Rouge, not the whole parish. The other is more conventional—a three-mile increase in the parish property tax. Both have been recommended by the official city-parish planning commission.

If the sales tax were adopted, Baton Rouge would become the second city in Louisiana to have such a local levy in addition to the state-wide two per cent sales tax dedicated to welfare purposes. New Orleans has a one per cent tax—it was two per cent until the legislature reduced it last year over the protest of the New Orleans city administration.

The sales tax proposal brings up some questions, legal and practical, of interest to all cities in Louisiana. Proponents contend that under its "home rule" charter, the city council of Baton Rouge can impose such a tax without either permission of the legislature or a vote by the people. If this is attempted, a court test is considered certain.

New Orleans had to have specific legislative permission to levy its tax and the legislature, exercising its right to undo in part what it had done, later halved the tax without calling for a vote either by the city council or the New Orleans public.

If New Orleans' example and the one that may be set by Baton Rouge prove persuasive to other cities, these presumably would have to go to the legislature for permission before they could impose a similar tax.

The proposed three-mill addition to the East Baton Rouge parish property tax would have to be submitted at a parish election.

The fact that a sales tax, to say nothing of a steep increase in property taxes, has reached the stage of serious consideration and official sponsorship in Baton Rouge points up the increasingly stringent financial situation of Louisiana cities. Their lack of sources of revenue is a little like the weather—city officials, municipal associations and others criticize it often, but nobody does much about it. The 1948 legislature did make a $3,000,000 gesture—it provided that this sum annually, out of the proceeds of the increased state tobacco tax, be divided among municipalities according to a sliding scale, with smaller cities receiving more per capita.

But city spokesmen feel that much more is needed. The basic sources of revenue set aside for cities, a property tax with a millage ceiling and license taxes, haven't kept pace with the demand for increased local services and with the shift of population out of the country on to the pavement. The uses for which the proposed new Baton Rouge taxes would be used are illustrative.

The sales tax, by official estimates, would yield $6,600,000 in five years for drainage improvements and major street construction. The three-mill tax is estimated to yield $9,000,000 in the same period for branch public libraries and completing the parish fire protection program.

J. B. McCoy received a permit to build a dwelling at 905 South First street, at a cost of $4,280. F. K. Stone will be the contractor.

Mayors Proclaim Optimist Week

Mayor George Breece and C. C. Bell, Jr., of Monroe and West Monroe, respectively, have signed a proclamation stating that the week November 6 to November 13 is to be known here as Optimist Week.

The proclamative states:

"Whereas, the Optimist Club of the cities of Monroe-West Monroe have performed a service to the community in its work as a service organization and in furtherance of its slogan as a "Friend To The Boy;" and,

"Whereas, the week of November 6-13, 1949, has been designated as Optimist Week through the international area wherein Optimist Clubs are active;

"Now, Thereofre, we do proclaim that the cities of Monroe and West Monroe shall observe this week of November 6-13, 1949, as Optimist Week in and for the cities of Monroe and West Monroe, and we further call upon all of the citizens of this community to join with this city government in such observance.

"Done this fifth day of November, 1949."

TOWN HALL TO HEAR SPEAKER

Mrs. Paul Whitney Will Address Group Here On Thursday Night

The Monroe Town Hall is performing a real service for the community in bringing to the Twin Cities as its next speaker Mrs. Paul Whitney, who will deliver an address on that most timely of subjects, "What About the Younger Generation?" The meeting will be held at the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium on Thursday, November 10, at 8:15 p. m. A large attendance is expected.

Mrs. Whitney, who took her undergraduate work at the University of Wisconsin and her master's degree at Syracuse University, is an outstanding authority on youth guidance and the efforts of several communities to prevent juvenile delinquency. She has had many years practical experience in the field and speaks, not only as an academic authority on the subject, but as a mother, teacher and friend of American youth.

She is convinced that there is no such thing as a "bad child." Her work has taken her from her first contact as director of an experimental playground in the slums of Milwaukee, through all phases of child guidance including twelve years experience in a Syracuse high school as student counselor and teacher of health and mental hygiene.

However, Mrs. Whitney is no formidabe "battle-axe" with a host of dry statistics and a mere academic viewpoint. Quite the contrary. She is a charming, thoroughly social individual and she has genuine ability on the platform. What she has to say is of the height of seriousness, but she says it in a manner which is calculated to hold the continued interest of her audience throughout the length of time she speaks.

Because of their interest in the problems of young people, all teachers in the parish and city school systems, the parochial schools and the junior college, as well as all clergymen in the area, have been invited to hear Mrs. Whitney's lecture as guests of the Monroe Town Hall. No admission will be charged them, but they will be requested to sign the guest register.

For a hearty luncheon or supper dish add slices of frankfurters to a soup of dried split peas: use either the yellow or the green peas for the soup.

SPEAKS HERE

MRS. PAUL WHITNEY

CHILD STUDIES ARE COMPLETED

Md. University Leaders Terminate Sessions Held In 5th District

With a conference Saturday at Hotel Virginia, attended by representatives from various cities and towns of the Fifth district, Miss Julia Weber and Hugh Perkins, two outstanding leaders in child welfare studies, members of the faculty of the University of Maryland, closed labors with local public school teachers.

Purpose of the meetings that were held in schools in the Twin Cities and elsewhere in the Fifth district, was to get a closer up understanding of the principles underlying the physical, social, emotional and intellectual growth of children at all levels of maturity.

Similar work has been in progress under direction of the child development center of the University of Maryland for five years now and instructors in this area who work with this leadership declare they derive decided benefits from the association.

Mayors Proclaim Optimist Week

Mayor George Breece and C. C. Bell, Jr., of Monroe and West Monroe, respectively, have signed a proclamation stating that the week November 6 to November 13 is to be known here as Optimist Week.

The proclamative states;

"Whereas, the Optimist Club of the cities of Monroe-West Monroe have performed a service to the community in its work as a service organization and in furtherance of its slogan as a "Friend To The Boy;" and,

"Whereas, the week of November 6-13, 1949, has been designated as Optimist Week through the international area wherein Optimist Clubs are active;

"Now, Thereofre, we do proclaim that the cities of Monroe and West Monroe shall observe this week of November 6-13, 1949, as Optimist Week in and for the cities of Monroe and West Monroe, and we further call upon all of the citizens of this community to join with this city government in such observance.

"Done this fifth day of November, 1949."

TOWN HALL TO HEAR SPEAKER

Mrs. Paul Whitney Will Address Group Here On Thursday Night

The Monroe Town Hall is performing a real service for the community in bringing to the Twin Cities as its next speaker Mrs. Paul Whitney, who will deliver an address on that most timely of subjects, "What About the Younger Generation?" The meeting will be held at the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium on Thursday, November 10, at 8:15 p. m. A large attendance is expected.

Mrs. Whitney, who took her undergraduate work at the University of Wisconsin and her master's degree at Syracuse University, is an outstanding authority on youth guidance and the efforts of several communities to prevent juvenile delinquency. She has had many years practical experience in the field and speaks, not only as an academic authority on the subject, but as a mother, teacher and friend of American youth.

She is convinced that there is no such thing as a "bad child." Her work has taken her from her first contact as director of an experimental playground in the slums of Milwaukee, through all phases of child guidance including twelve years experience in a Syracuse high school as student counselor and teacher of health and mental hygiene.

However, Mrs. Whitney is no formidabe "battle-axe" with a host of dry statistics and a mere academic viewpoint. Quite the contrary. She is a charming, thoroughly social individual and she has genuine ability on the platform. What she has to say is of the height of seriousness, but she says it in a manner which is calculated to hold the continued interest of her audience throughout the length of time she speaks.

SPEAKS HERE

MRS. PAUL WHITNEY

Because of their interest in the problems of young people, all teachers in the parish and city school systems, the parochial schools and the junior college, as well as all clergymen in the area, have been invited to hear Mrs. Whitney's lecture as guests of the Monroe Town Hall. No admission will be charged them, but they will be requested to sign the guest register.

For a hearty luncheon or supper dish add slices of frankfurters to a soup of dried split peas: use either the yellow or the green peas for the soup.

CHILD STUDIES ARE COMPLETED

Md. University Leaders Terminate Sessions Held In 5th District

With a conference Saturday at Hotel Virginia, attended by representatives from various cities and towns of the Fifth district, Miss Julia Weber and Hugh Perkins, two outstanding leaders in child welfare studies, members of the faculty of the University of Maryland, closed labors with local public school teachers.

Purpose of the meetings that were held in schools in the Twin Cities and elsewhere in the Fifth district, was to get a closer up understanding of the principles underlying the physical, social, emotional and intellectual growth of children at all levels of maturity.

Similar work has been in progress under direction of the child development center of the University of Maryland for five years now and instructors in this area who work with this leadership declare they derive decided benefits from the association.

Lemon Juice Recipe Checks Rheumatic and Arthritis Pain

If you suffer from rheumatic, arthritis or neuritis pain, try this simple inexpensive home recipe that thousands are using. Get a package of Ru-Ex Compound, a two-week supply, today. Mix it with a quart of water, add the juice of 4 lemons. It's easy. No trouble at all and pleasant. You need only 3 tablespoonfuls two times a day. FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT YOUR AMERICAN LEGION

IT'S A FACT that the National Organization of The American Legion now has more than 3,000,000 members, the majority of whom are veterans of World War II.

IT'S A FACT that The American Legion has been conducting a Child Welfare Program since 1925 and has aided 8,145,076 children at a cost to the Legion of $62,625,695.00. Ninety-seven per cent of the children aided were with their mothers in their own family homes.

IT'S A FACT that the L. B. Faulk Post No. 13 of The American Legion in Monroe has directly aided some 2,000 children of veterans in Ouachita Parish and surrounding territory.

IT'S A FACT that The American Legion is a non-political and non-sectarian organization.

IT'S A FACT that The American Legion has been instrumental in securing gainful employment for 700,000 veterans and has maintained a National Employment Committee since 1937.

IT'S A FACT that The American Legion brought forward in the form of the National Defense Act the first National Defense Legislation after World War I.

IT'S A FACT that through the efforts of L. B. Faulk Post No. 13 of The American Legion the City of Monroe now has a baseball stadium second to none in the State, representing an investment of over $100,000.00

IT'S A FACT that the L. B. Faulk Post of The American Legion owns and maintains a Post home on Forsythe Avenue which is a credit to the community.

IT'S A FACT that the L. B. Faulk Post of The American Legion sponsors and supports a local Junior American Legion Baseball team which in 1949 won the District championship.

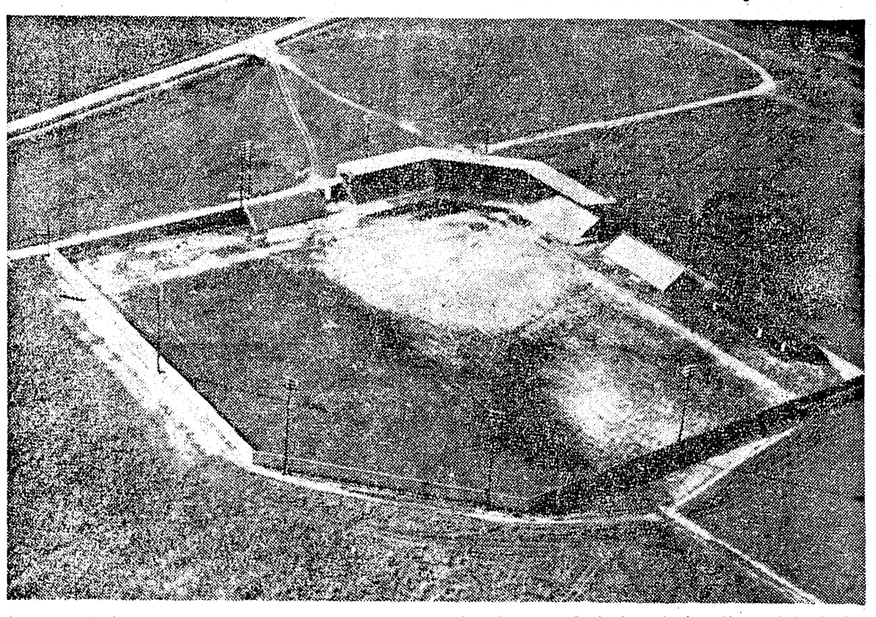

IT'S A FACT that The American Legion sponsors Boy's State in which over 35,000 selected high school students received practical training in the mechanics and operations of our democratic form of government during 1949.

IT'S A FACT that The American Legion now sponsors over 3,600 Boy Scout Troups.

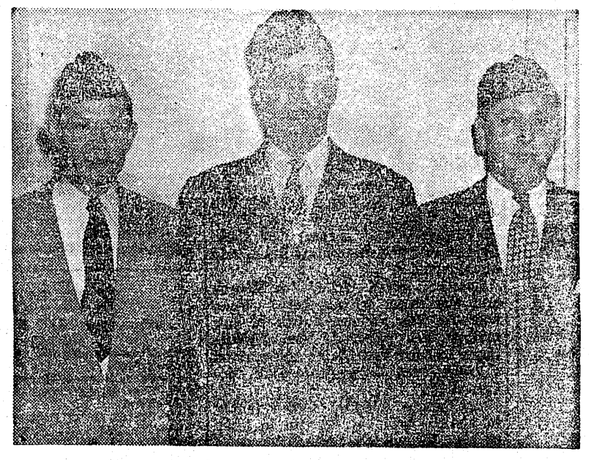

IT'S A FACT that more than 400,000 students participated in the 1948 American Legion National High School Oratory Contest in which the grand prize is a $4,000 scholarship good in any school of the winner's choice.

IT'S A FACT that the L. B. Faulk Post of The American Legion presents a citizenship award each year to a selected graduate from the graduating class of each of the three local high schools.

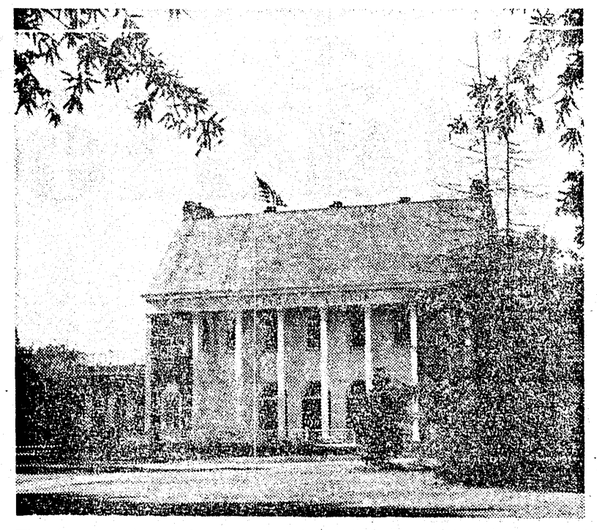

IT'S A FACT that the G. I. Bill of Rights and Terminal Leave Pay for enlisted men were originally conceived, written and piloted through Congress by The American Legion.

Burt W. Sperry, Commander
American Legion Post No. 13
Monroe, La.

Dear Commander Sperry:

I am writing to you because we of The American Legion have a fight on our hands.

Communists are continually seeking to destroy our form of government. And I believe you will concur with me that the most effective immediate step to destroy their influence is by a greatly increased American Legion membership.

Success in membership gives us the weight and influence to achieve and preserve The American Legion's objectives and the American way of life to which we have dedicated ourselves in service.

No one seeks to destroy or weaken The American Legion more than the Communists. Our answer to that is a record-smashing membership for 1950.

You and I know this fight for membership cannot be won until The American Legion's case has been properly presented to each eligible veteran.

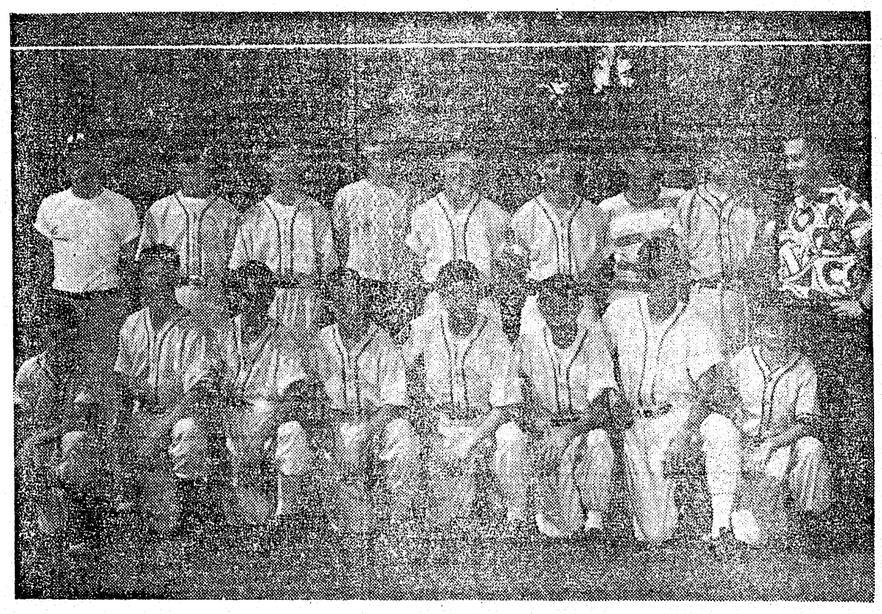

I definitely feel that a veteran should not ask what The American Legion can do for him, but rather what he can do through The American Legion to preserve the principles for which he or she fought.

Will you and the members of your Post join with me in securing the greatest strength of membership that The American Legion has ever enjoyed.

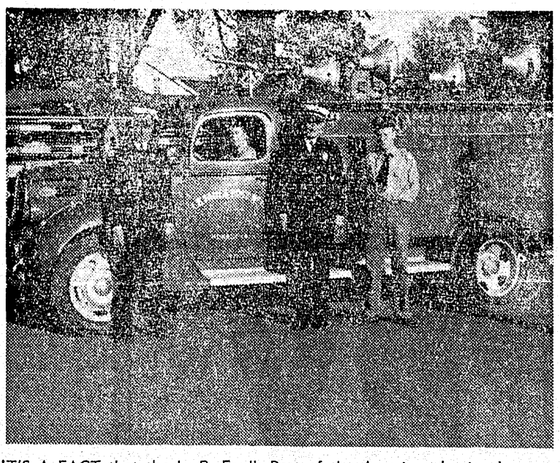

I realize your job is tougher than mine, but I pledge to you that I will give it all the energy that I possess.

I would be happy and grateful to hear from you and at all times receive your criticism and advice. I wish for you and the members of your Post every happiness and success.

Sincerely yours,
GEORGE N. CRAIG,
National Commander.

Big Five Unanimity Both Plague And Hope Of U.N.

Much-Criticized Veto Inserted At Suggestion Of Roosevelt

By Sidney Mirkin

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Big five unanimity is both the plague and the hope of the United Nations.

The concurring votes of Britain, France, China, the Soviet Union and the United States are needed before any serious changes can be made in the structure of the U. N.

The situation is reminiscent of the age-old and ageless riddle — which came first, the chicken or the egg?

If the big five could agree, the U. N. could be changed. But if they were in agreement, there probably would not need to be any changes.

Most suggestions for changes in the charter concern the principle of unanimity—the polite term for the veto. Many critics of the widespread Russian use of the veto power in the security council tend to forget that the veto power was inserted in the charter at the suggestion of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt felt that unless the veto was provided for, the U. S. congress never would consent to join the United Nations. Without the veto, the U. S. could find itself embroiled in a war without the consent of congress.

Ironically, many of the proposals to amend the U. N. charter have been brought up by senators and congressmen. Most others have come from proponents of world government. Ely Culbertson among them.

U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie does not believe charter revisions is necessary. He has said on numerous occasions that it is not the charter that is at fault but the failure of the members to live up to the spirit of the charter. Lie contends that the charter has not had an adequate chance to show whether it will work.

The charter can be changed only by amendment, approved by a two-thirds vote of the general assembly and all five permant members of the security council, or by a general conference of the member states, in which the big five also would have to agree.

Several U. N. members have campaigned ardently for charter revision. These include Argentina, Australia and the Philippines. On three occasions, Argentina actually has proposed that a general conference be called to consider amendments. Each time, however, the Argentine proposal has been withdrawn without a vote because of overwhelming opposition.

At the current session of the U. N. assembly, there have been efforts to chop away at the wide use of the veto by restricting it in specific instances or by consultations before votes are taken in the security council.

Argentina has proposed that the assembly ask the international court of justice for an opinion as to whether the veto power applies in the case of applications for membership. Twenty-two of the 41 vetoes cast by Russia have been used to kill membership applications.

Argentina contends that the security council only has power to make recommendations and that the assembly has the final voice on membership. Therefore, the Argentine delegation says, the veto should not apply in those cases.

In an attempt to eliminate some vetoes, representatives of the big five in the security council recently agreed to consult in advance when a vote is pending on which disagreement is obvious. The theory here is that use of the veto might be cut if ways could be found to meet objections on the part of one of the big five before a vote is taken.

Some objectors to the Russian use of the veto, including Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), have suggested that a world body such as the United Nations should be organized without Russia and her satellites.

Diplomatic observers at Lake Success say that many of the nations which have attempted to steer a neutral course between east and west would refuse to participate in such a group.

The net result of any such drastic action, these observers say, would be a so-called world body with a large part of the world on the outside looking in.

Firemen Desire Crutches Back

Anyone having borrowed crutches that are not being used from the Monroe fire department is urged to return them to station one immediately.

Firemen said yesterday several requests had been made for crutches and their supply was presently exhausted. More than 100 pair have been loaned out by the department. It is requested that those not in use be returned in order that they may be passed on to others.

It was pointed out that anyone with crutches no longer needed can donate them to the department by contacting any of the local fire stations.

For a flavor change, bake fish fillets in a creole sauce and serve with potato puff and buttered spinach.

BARBER SHOP AT HOME PLANNED

Children Of Baptist Institution Will Get Haircuts Free Of Charge

Various committees were appointed by local apprentice barbers last Wednesday in preparation for the opening of a modern barber shop at the Baptist Children's Home.

The new shop will afford apprentice barbers adequate space and equipment necessary to give the children "top notch" haircuts for nothing.

To celebrate the new shop's opening, local barbers have planned a squirrel mulligan for November 30 at the Pecan Grove barbecue pit at the Baptist Children's Home.

On the committees assigned to plan the mulligan are the following:

Planning committee: J. L. Ambrose, of Ruston, La., chairman, and H. D. Brister of Homer, Mr. Epenett of Monroe, and Monroe Spencer, a member of the barber board, Lake Charles.

Finance committee: M. R. Tamiton, Farmerville, chairman, and George Elmore, Monroe, and Terry Clingan, Mangham.

Publicity committee: L. V. Williamson, Oak Grove, chairman, and George E. Stamper of Monroe, George L. Bornett of West Monroe, V. L. Whitlock of Monroe, and S. E. Smith of Homer.

Cooking committee: Curtis Smedley of Jonesboro, chairman, and Wilbur Hall, Frank Lillery, both of Jonesboro, and Danny Morse and Terry Clingan of Mangham.

Serving committee: George Elmore, George Stamper, M. R. Taunton, L. V. Williamson, George Barnett, Stanley Brister, E. Giddengs, W. L. McGrew, S. E. Smith, Leon Johnston and V. C. Tucker.

The new barber shop is being built by apprentices of various trades and will be served by apprentice barbers.

The idea was originated by J. A. Sanderfor in 1945 when he solicited several civic organizations and individuals to purchase the necessary equipment.

Metal has replaced glass to a large extent in the construction of many television receiving tubes.

Naval Academy To Get Enlisted Men

Provisions have been made for the annual appointment of 160 enlisted men from the naval and marine corps reserve to the Naval Academy, to be selected as a result of a competitive examination, given in April of each year. The deadline for submission of applications was extended to January 1 of the year in which appointment to the Naval Academy is made.

To date, fewer than 100 reserve applications have been received by this bureau. Last year, 709 reservists submitted applications. Of this number, 368 took the Naval Academy entrance examination and 167 of that number passed. There were 138 fully qualified reservists finally admitted to the Naval Academy under the reserve quota. This represented an increase of 48 over the preceding year.

All men, who think they are eligible to compete in this examination, should check with the local navy recruiting station, located on the third floor of the post office building, here in Monroe, La. Also, enlistments in the V-6 inactive reserve are accepted at the navy recruiting office.

Big Five Unanimity Both Plague And Hope Of U.N.

Much-Criticized Veto Inserted At Suggestion Of Roosevelt

By Sidney Mirkin

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Big five unanimity is both the plague and the hope of the United Nations.

The concurring votes of Britain, France, China, the Soviet Union and the United States are needed before any serious changes can be made in the structure of the U. N.

The situation is reminiscent of the age-old and ageless riddle — which came first, the chicken or the egg?

If the big five could agree, the U. N. could be changed. But if they were in agreement, there probably would not need to be any changes.

Most suggestions for changes in the charter concern the principle of unanimity—the polite term for the veto. Many critics of the widespread Russian use of the veto power in the security council tend to forget that the veto power was inserted in the charter at the suggestion of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt felt that unless the veto was provided for, the U. S. congress never would consent to join the United Nations. Without the veto, the U. S. could find itself embroiled in a war without the consent of congress.

Ironically, many of the proposals to amend the U. N. charter have been brought up by senators and congressmen. Most others have come from proponents of world government, Ely Culbertson among them.

U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie does not believe charter revisions is necessary. He has said on numerous occasions that it is not the charter that is at fault but the failure of the members to live up to the spirit of the charter. Lie contends that the charter has not had an adequate chance to show whether it will work.

The charter can be changed only by amendment, approved by a two-thirds vote of the general assembly and all five permant members of the security council, or by a general conference of the member states, in which the big five also would have to agree.

Several U. N. members have campaigned ardently for charter revision. These include Argentina, Australia and the Philippines. On three occasions, Argentina actually has proposed that a general conference be called to consider amendments. Each time, however, the Argentine proposal has been withdrawn without a vote because of overwhelming opposition.

At the current session of the U. N. assembly, there have been efforts to chop away at the wide use of the veto by restricting it in specific instances or by consultations before votes are taken in the security council.

Argentina has proposed that the assembly ask the international court of justice for an opinion as to whether the veto power applies in the case of applications for membership. Twenty-two of the 41 vetoes cast by Russia have been used to kill membership applications.

Argentina contends that the security council only has power to make recommendations and that the assembly has the final voice on membership. Therefore, the Argentine delegation says, the veto should not apply in those cases.

In an attempt to eliminate some vetoes, representatives of the big five in the security council recently agreed to consult in advance when a vote is pending on which disagreement is obvious. The theory here is that use of the veto might be cut if ways could be found to meet objections on the part of one of the big five before a vote is taken.

Some objectors to the Russian use of the veto, including Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), have suggested that a world body such as the United Nations should be organized without Russia and her satellites.

Diplomatic observers at Lake Success say that many of the nations which have attempted to steer a neutral course between east and west would refuse to participate in such a group.

The net result of any such drastic action, these observers say, would be a so-called world body with a large part of the world on the outside looking in.

BARBER SHOP AT HOME PLANNED

Children Of Baptist Institution Will Get Haircuts Free Of Charge

Various committees were appointed by local apprentice barbers last Wednesday in preparation for the opening of a modern barber shop at the Baptist Children's Home.

The new shop will afford apprentice barbers adequate space and equipment necessary to give the children "top notch" haircuts for nothing.

To celebrate the new shop's opening, local barbers have planned a squirrel mulligan for November 30 at the Pecan Grove barbecue pit at the Baptist Children's Home.

On the committees assigned to plan the mulligan are the following:

Planning committee: J. L. Ambrose, of Ruston, La., chairman, and H. D. Brister of Homer, Mr. Epenett of Monroe, and Monroe Spencer, a member of the barber board, Lake Charles.

Finance committee: M. R. Tamiton, Farmerville, chairman, and George Elmore, Monroe, and Terry Clingan, Mangham.

Publicity committee: L. V. Williamson, Oak Grove, chairman, and George E. Stamper of Monroe, George L. Bornett of West Monroe, V. L. Whitlock of Monroe, and S. E. Smith of Homer.

Cooking committee: Curtis Smedley of Jonesboro, chairman, and Wilbur Hall, Frank Lillery, both of Jonesboro, and Danny Morse and Terry Clingan of Mangham.

Serving committee: George Elmore, George Stamper, M. R. Taunton, L. V. Williamson, George Barnett, Stanley Brister, E. Giddengs, W. L. McGrew, S. E. Smith, Leon Johnston and V. C. Tucker.

The new barber shop is being built by apprentices of various trades and will be served by apprentice barbers.

The idea was originated by J. A. Sanderfor in 1945 when he solicited several civic organizations and individuals to purchase the necessary equipment.

Naval Academy To Get Enlisted Men

Provisions have been made for the annual appointment of 160 enlisted men from the naval and marine corps reserve to the Naval Academy, to be selected as a result of a competitive examination, given in April of each year. The deadline for submission of applications was extended to January 1 of the year in which appointment to the Naval Academy is made.

To date, fewer than 100 reserve applications have been received by this bureau. Last year, 709 reservists submitted applications. Of this number, 368 took the Naval Academy entrance examination and 167 of that number passed. There were 138 fully qualified reservists finally admitted to the Naval Academy under the reserve quota. This represented an increase of 48 over the preceding year.

All men, who think they are eligible to compete in this examination, should check with the local navy recruiting station, located on the third floor of the post office building, here in Monroe, La. Also, enlistments in the V-6 inactive reserve are accepted at the navy recruiting office.

INDUSTRIALISTS MEET IN TECH

Representatives Of Large And Small Business Firms In One-Day Meeting

RUSTON, La., Nov. 5.—(Special) Approximately 50 representatives of large and small business firms located in 14 towns and cities throughout Louisiana were present Friday for a one-day conference on "Industrial Relations and the Smaller Employer" held at Louisiana Tech.

Cities and towns from which representatives came included Shreveport, New Orleans, Alexandria, Baton Rouge, Monroe, Sterlington, Colfax, Zimmerman, Hodge, Castor, Logansport, Joyce, Natchitoches and Ruston. The meeting was sponsored by the Louisiana Manufacturers Association and the School of Business Administration and Economics at the college.

After morning and afternoon sessions, the conference concluded with a banquet at the Tech dining hall at which Steve G. Henry spoke on "Some Case Histories in Human Relations." Mr. Henry is manager of the plant and employe services section for Ethyl Corporation, Baton Rouge.

Following his address, a forum on "Human Relations in the Competitive 50's" was led by M. V. Cousins, of Shreveport, director of personnel for United Gas.

At the morning session, with Burton R. Risinger, dean of the school of business administration and economics, presiding, the group was welcomed to the campus by R. L. Ropp, acting president of Tech, with Glen L. Shadow, of Ruston, president of the association, speaking in response.

Mr. Henry followed with a discussion titled, "Industrial Relations are Human Relations." At 10:45 a.m. Eldon Werner, industrial relations director for Gulf States Utilities Company, Baton Rouge, spoke on a "Check List of Personnel Functions."

The morning session concluded with an address by George M. Carnes, of New Orleans, public relations consultant, who spoke on "Two-Way Employer-Employe Communications."

After an informal luncheon in the Tech dining hall, the afternoon session convened at 2 o'clock with Dr. Edward G. Cornelius, chairman of the marketing and management division, school of business administration and economics, presiding.

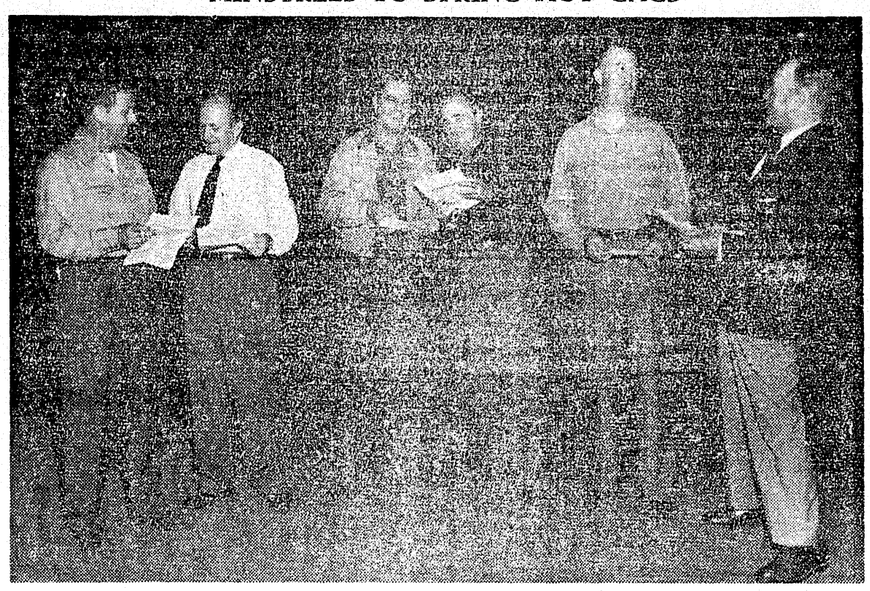

"Government and Labor Relations" was the discussion topic presented by LeRoy Marceau of Baton Rouge, attorney for Esso Standard Oil Company, at 2 o'clock, followed by Peter Gaffney, of New Orleans, manager of the labor information department of the Southern Pine Association, who spoke on "The New Wage-Hour Law."

The concluding topic discussed during the afternoon was "Employe Benefits—Compulsory and Voluntary" presented by Sam B. Dunbar, manager of the Louisiana Manufacturers Association, of New Orleans.

Student organizations cooperating in the conference were the Louisiana Tech chapters of Sigma Iota Epsilon, national management fraternity, and the Society for the Advancement of Management.

Approximately 300,000 square feet of green-tinted, heat absorbing glass windows are planned for the permanent secretariat building of the United Nations in New York.

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches and Societies Sunday, November 6, 1949.

The Golden Text is: "Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light' (Eph. 5:14).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive' (1 Cor. 15:22).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy: "The mortality of man is a myth, for man is immortal" (p. 545).

Broadway-Type Show May Be Complete Sell Out

Kiwanis Minstrel Promises To Prove Biggest Hit Of All Past Shows

Ticket sales are moving with great rapidity for the Kiwanis Club of Monroe's seventh annual minstrel-musical review "Facts and Fancies" to be staged at Neville High School auditorium next Tuesday, November 8, at 8 p.m. Members of the show committee were so well impressed with the demand for the tickets that some of them anticipate a complete sellout by the time the curtain goes up.

Those who have been privileged to witness the progress of the rehearsals and see the gorgeous costumes are must enthusiastic in their praise that this will be the finest and most colorful of any that have preceded it.

A real old-fashioned minstrel dressed up with all modern improvements will be one of the features of the production. Scores of local favorites are rehearsing daily, brushing up on many of the prennially favorite ballards and working up new gags for the end men.

According to Ben Parnell, if some of the gags rehearsed are presented during the show as they have been rehearsed, there may be some "red" faces among some well known local people, as many of them are quite personal.

Those in the know, strongly urge that you do not put off buying your ticket too long. While there are tickets available at this time, there is a possibility of a complete sellout by show time.

Presbyterian Men To Assemble

The regular monthly meeting of the Men's Club of the First Presbyterian Church will be held in the Memorial Presbyterian Church in West Monroe Thursday at 6:30 p.m.

President Fred Meyer urges all members to attend and to bring a friend each. The program will be in charge of Dr. H. H. Baur who will introduce M. C. Redmond, well known Monroe attorney.

The supper will be in charge of Bob Pribble and E. F. Jones. The ladies will serve the meal.

REP. M'KEITHEN GIVES FINANCES

Writes Story For Bookman Telling Of Expenses And Needs Of La. Education

Representative John Coon calls attention to the article in the current issue of the Bookman by Representative John J. McKeithen on "A Legislator Looks at Louisiana School Finances."

The article states that legislation enacted at the last session of the legislature provided raises in teacher salaries, provided for better retirement financing and also does free school lunches. Teacher retirement alone will require $5,600,000 for the current year and the free hot lunch program almost $7,000,000.

The needed cash has come from several sources, but largely from severance taxes. As money sufficient has not been available for all the requirements almost eight million dollars has had to come from the state general fund.

The article goes on to state that the total cost for the previous year of the educational program has been $62,633,973.51, and the current year's figures are estimated at $66,279,099.49, an increase of over $3,600,000. For this sum 18 per cent will come from the state general fund.

As long as the present liberal state administration is in power, no curtailment is feared but the article states that if a conservative administration were to result, there might be drastic curtailments.

The solution of financing problems may and probably will be up to the next legislature the story states, and it is urged that thought be given by the public as well as members of the legislature so that a firm and business like policy may be developed.

Public Works Department Gets Misdirected Calls

This Branch Termed Louisiana's Least-Understood Agency

By Edmond Le Breton

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 5.—(AP)—At first they were amusing, then annoying and now they are part of the day's routine—the irate citizens' misdirected letters and phone calls to the Louisiana department of public works.

"What's the idea of changing my street number?" the caller may ask.

Or, "When are you going to fill that ditch over the sewer line in front of my house?"

The department, perhaps Louisiana's least understood state agency, has nothing to do with street numbers or sewerage systems in cities, nor with such public works as roads, bridges and buildings.

It suffers from being tagged with a misleading name. Many municipal governments, including the city-parish of Baton Rouge, have departments of public works that are concerned with such things as streets and sewers. That causes part of the confusion. More misunderstandings come from the extensive content of the words "public works" applied to a department that actually has comparatively few, though important, functions.

Water, and the business of getting it or keeping it away from where it's not wanted, account for some of the department's most important duties.

The agency has a strategic position in the perennial fight to keep the Mississippi and Red river systems within bounds. Since 1928 the federal government, through the United States engineers, builds the levees, but maintenance is a local responsibility. Local levee districts throughout the river systems contract for the actual work, but the state department inspects the levees, serves as engineer for all these districts and as their liaison with the U. S. engineers—a considerable job in itself, since there has to be a continual interchange of information and coordination of work. The department of public works also administers a $100,000 emergency fund to be used in a hurry in case of a levee break.

That's the defensive side of the water problem. The offensive aspect is drainage—reclaiming land under water or subject to overflow. The department several years ago set up a master state plan to get the water off usable land without channelling it on to other usable land. Essentially, the plan consists of improving the drainage through the natural waterways, so that individual landowners can tie into these with ditches and get their acres clear. The state department will sign contracts with parishes, under which the state furnishes engineering services and 40 per cent of the cost. Until now, 82 per cent of the work contemplated by the master plan has been completed or contracted for and the work under way is 62 per cent complete. In terms of earth moved, the work finished or contracted for amounts to 77,168,000 cubic yards; in terms of money to $10,500,000.

The department of public works, which came into being as a consolidation of half a dozen former boards and commissions, retains a number of miscellaneous duties. It builds locks and jetties on various waterways not part of the federal intracoastal system; game and fish dams; prepares the official state map—a new one is just off the press—and, in cooperation with federal agencies, distributes the detailed quadrangles of the state. It administers the New Basin Canal in New Orleans, makes available an engineer to help the state mineral board be sure the surveys of state land leased are accurate; helps finance a federal survey of water resources and, in general, provides engineering services for state agencies which do not have their own engineers.

Of the department's 475 employes, about 100 are professional engineers.

The department also has two self-contained divisions that carry on special work. Aeronautics is devoted to the promotion of air traffic in the state and to assisting in the planning and construction of airports. Its approval is required on any such facility built. It represents the state in efforts to improve commercial plane schedules, helps local authorities in their relations with the civil aeronautics authority and undertakes such special projects as the compilation of a complete handbook for pilots, with maps and data to facilitate flying in Louisiana.

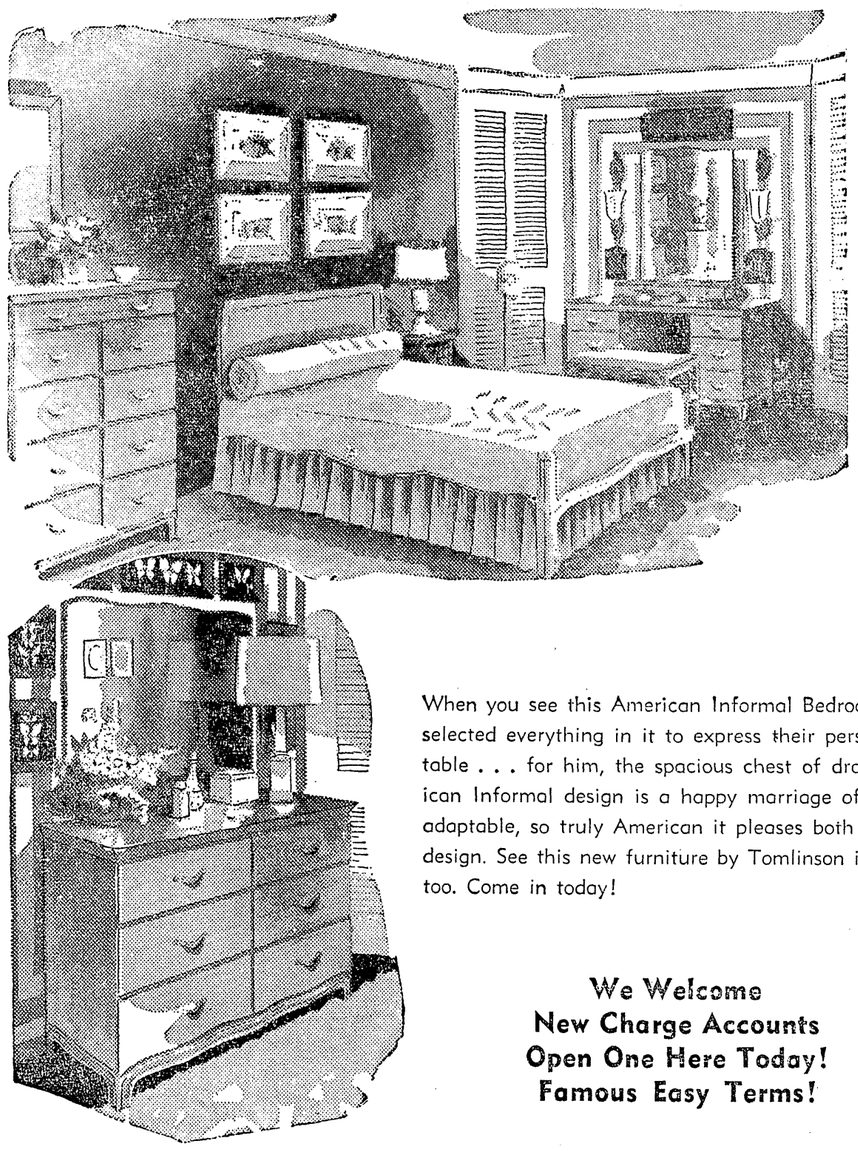

The planning division works with parishes in surveying their economic assets and potentialities. To date, 40 parish development boards have published tight-packed brochures listing natural resources, transportation, labor supply, housing, educational facilities and a variety of other subjects. The department now is beginning to get "repeat orders"—requests from parishes for help in bringing up to date prewar surveys made obsolete by rapid development during the past few years.

REP. M'KEITHEN GIVES FINANCES

Writes Story For Bookman Telling Of Expenses And Needs Of La. Education

Representative John Coon calls attention to the article in the current issue of the Bookman by Representative John J. McKeithen on "A Legislator Looks at Louisiana School Finances."

The article states that legislation enacted at the last session of the legislature provided raises in teacher salaries, provided for better retirement financing and also does free school lunches. Teacher retirement alone will require $5,600,000 for the current year and the free hot lunch program almost $7,000,000.

The needed cash has come from several sources, but largely from severance taxes. As money sufficient has not been available for all the requirements almost eight million dollars has had to come from the state general fund.

The article goes on to state that the total cost for the previous year of the educational program has been $62,633,973.51, and the current year's figures are estimated at $66,279,099.49, an increase of over $3,600,000. For this sum 18 per cent will come from the state general fund.

As long as the present liberal state administration is in power, no curtailment is feared but the article states that if a conservative administration were to result, there might be drastic curtailments.

The solution of financing problems may and probably will be up to the next legislature the story states, and it is urged that thought be given by the public as well as members of the legislature so that a firm and business like policy may be developed.

Public Works Department Gets Misdirected Calls

This Branch Termed Louisiana's Least-Understood Agency

By Edmond Le Breton

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 5.—(AP)—At first they were amusing, then annoying and now they are part of the day's routine—the irate citizens' misdirected letters and phone calls to the Louisiana department of public works.

"What's the idea of changing my street number?" the caller may ask.

Or, "When are you going to fill that ditch over the sewer line in front of my house?"

The department, perhaps Louisiana's least understood state agency, has nothing to do with street numbers or sewerage systems in cities, nor with such public works as roads, bridges and buildings.

It suffers from being tagged with a misleading name. Many municipal governments, including the city-parish of Baton Rouge, have departments of public works that are concerned with such things as streets and sewers. That causes part of the confusion. More misunderstandings come from the extensive content of the words "public works" applied to a department that actually has comparatively few, though important, functions.

Water, and the business of getting it or keeping it away from where it's not wanted, account for some of the department's most important duties.

The agency has a strategic position in the perennial fight to keep the Mississippi and Red river systems within bounds. Since 1928 the federal government, through the United States engineers, builds the levees, but maintenance is a local responsibility. Local levee districts throughout the river systems contract for the actual work, but the state department inspects the levees, serves as engineer for all these districts and as their liaison with the U. S. engineers—a considerable job in itself, since there has to be a continual interchange of information and coordination of work. The department of public works also administers a $100,000 emergency fund to be used in a hurry in case of a levee break.

That's the defensive side of the water problem. The offensive aspect is drainage—reclaiming land under water or subject to overflow. The department several years ago set up a master state plan to get the water off usable land without channelling it on to other usable land. Essentially, the plan consists of improving the drainage through the natural waterways, so that individual landowners can tie into these with ditches and get their acres clear. NOBODY AT HOME BUT ME-- WHAT WILL I DO WITH MYSELF ?

BLONDIE COMPLAINED LAST NIGHT THE RADIO WAS OUT OF WHACK--- THIS WOULD BE A GOOD TIME FOR ME TO REPAIR IT

THERE'S SOMETHING ABOUT RADIOS I DON'T UNDERSTAND--- I'D BETTER GET HERB WOODLEY OVER TO HELP ME

HERBERT---YOU PROMISED YOU'D DRY THE DISHES FOR ME

WHEN A NEIGHBOR CALLS YOU OVER FOR HELP YOU'VE GOT TO GO

FRANKLY, I'M STUCK--- MR. SCHROEDER SELLS RADIOS ---HE'D PROBABLY KNOW JUST WHAT'S WRONG WITH IT

I'LL PHONE HIM TO COME OVER

I'LL BE RIGHT BACK

YOU'D BETTER-- REMEMBER, YOU PROMISED TO TAKE ME TO THE MOVIES THIS EVENING

WATSON IS AN ELECTRICAL ENGINEER---HE COULD FIX THAT RADIO UP FOR YOU IN TWO MINUTES

WHAT'S HIS PHONE NUMBER? I'LL GET HIM RIGHT OVER

I'LL HAVE TO HURRY--- WE'VE GOT PEOPLE AT OUR HOUSE FOR BRIDGE THIS EVENING

COOKIE ! WHAT ARE ALL THOSE ANGRY WIVES DOING, RUSHING INTO OUR HOUSE

I HAD THE BEST BRAINS IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD OVER HERE TO REPAIR IT--BUT WE FAILED

AN' WHEN I COME HOME SHE STARTS AGAIN!!

AW-JIGGS-YOU DON'T USE THE RIGHT METHOD YOU'VE GOT TO BE A LITTLE DIPLOMATIC-- START IN BY TELLIN' YOUR WIFE HOW BEAUTIFUL SHE LOOKS!!!

YEH- BUT HOW DO YOU GIT A CHANCE TO SAY THAT? MAGGIE STARTS TALKIN' BEFORE I GIT IN TH' FRONT DOOR!!

AH-IF YOU TALK RIGHT UP-SHE'LL LISTEN-- HAND OUT A LOT OF BOLONEY---WOMEN LIKE THAT---I KNOW WOMEN-I'VE BEEN MARRIED FIVE TIMES!!

THAT SHOWS YOU DON'T KNOW ANY-THING-YER JUST A BEAR FOR PUNISHMENT!!

I'LL SAY HE IS!!

WELL-I'LL TRY IT- I'VE TRIED EVERYTHING ELSE- IT'S GONNA BE HARD TO LOOK AT MAGGIE AN' SAY SHE'S BEAUTIFUL!!

WHAT HAVE YOU THERE-MOTHER ?

IT'S MY COSTUME FOR THE GROTESQUE COSTUME BALL- ALL THE GIRLS ARE TO COME IN FUNNY OUTFITS- IT'S THE SOCIAL EVENT OF THE YEAR- I'LL TRY IT ON!

JIGGS-ARE YOU HOME? I DIDN'T HEAR YOU COME IN!!

DIDN'T I TELL YOU MYRTLE WOULD FREEZE ONTO WALTON JUST THE MINUTE HE CAME IN?

SHE THINKS HE'S BIG-TIME JUST BECAUSE HE'S WEARING LONG PANTS.

LET'S PLAY POST OFFICE. THAT'LL BUST IT UP!

OH-OH! WAIT UNTIL SUSIE SEES THAT POP BOTTLE ON HER NEW TABLE!

WAIT TEN YEARS UNTIL MYRTLE'S FRIENDS LAY CIGARETTES ON THE PIANO.

I COULD HAVE WORN LONG PANTS, TOO, BUT NOBODY TOLD ME THIS WAS FORMAL.

LET'S START SOMETHING. WANT TO WRESTLE?

IF I'D KNOWN MYRTLE WAS INVITING GIRLS, I WOULDN'T HAVE COME.

MYRTLE SAID TO TAKE UP THE RUGS!

SEE, DEAR! I TOLD YOU RICHARD WOULD BE ALL RIGHT!

I KNOW, BUT MYRTLE GETS TOO WILD; AND WE DON'T KNOW MUCH ABOUT HER PARENTS, AND I JUST WANTED TO BE SURE.

TELL POP HE CAN COME FOR ME ANYTIME! THE PARTY IS DYING ON ITS FEET!

I THOUGHT YOU AND ARNOLD WERE GOING TO PLAY CHESS!

WE ARE PLAYING! IT'S ARNOLD'S FIRST MOVE!

MYRTLE THROWS A PARTY

REMEMBER, ALICE, HOW WE USED TO SIT OUT ON THE END OF THE LIMB AND LET THE GIRLS HAVE DANCES IN THE NEST?

GOSH! THAT SEEMS LIKE A LONG TIME AGO!

OF COURSE I WANT THEM TO HAVE A GOOD TIME, BUT I DON'T THINK THEY NEED TO PLAY THOSE RECORDS QUITE SO LOUD!

RELAX, SUSIE. IT'S WHEN THEY'RE TOO QUIET THAT YOU HAVE TO WORRY ABOUT THEM!

COME ON, FREDDIE. WIPE THAT GLOOM OFF YOUR FACE! I SAT IN THE KITCHEN FOR THREE YEARS WHILE YOU WERE COURTING SUSIE!

YEH, BUT YOU HAD A COAL STOVE AND YOU COULD TAKE OFF YOUR SHOES AND PUT YOUR FEET ON THE HEARTH!

NOW! PROOF that brushing teeth right after eating with

COLGATE DENTAL CREAM HELPS STOP TOOTH DECAY!

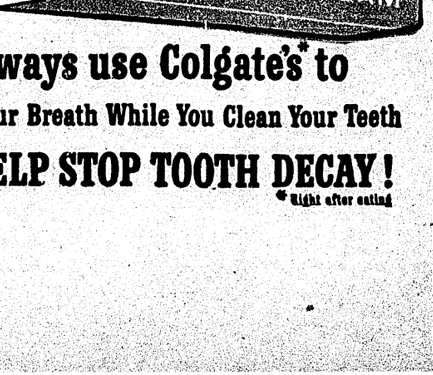

Exhaustive Research by Eminent Dental Authorities Proves How Using Colgate Dental Cream Helps Stop Tooth Decay Before It Starts!

NOW! Dental science offers scientific proof that brushing teeth with Colgate Dental Cream right after eating is an effective, safe way to help prevent new cavities, greatly reduce tooth decay!

More than a year's continuous research—hundreds of case histories—makes this the most important news in dental history!

For now—the toothpaste you use to clean your breath while you clean your teeth—brings you a proved way to reduce tooth decay! Colgate Dental Cream has been proved to contain all the necessary ingredients—including an exclusive patented ingredient—for effective daily dental care. No risk of irritation to tissues and gums! And no change in Colgate's famous flavor, foam, or cleansing action! The Colgate Dental Cream now at your dealer's is the same formula used in the tests.

Regular visits to your dentist are necessary for complete dental care. No home method can help everyone; nor can it stop all tooth decay or help cavities already started.

Mothers! Children Love Colgate's Flavor! It's Easy To Start Them On The Colgate Way To Reduce Tooth Decay!

Don't wait another day to start your children on Colgate Dental Cream. Teach them the importance of always brushing their teeth right after meals or snacks. They'll love Colgate's flavor—so it's easy to get them to use Colgate's correctly, give them all the benefits of this safe, proved way to reduce tooth decay!

NO OTHER DENTIFRICE OFFERS PROOF OF THESE RESULTS

X-Rays Show How Proper Use Of Colgate's Helps Stop Tooth Decay!

Eminent dental authorities supervised 2 groups of college men and women for over a year. One group always brushed their teeth with Colgate's right after eating. The other group followed their usual dental care. X-rays were taken at regular intervals.

The average of the group using Colgate Dental Cream as directed was a startling reduction in number of cavities—far less tooth decay. The other group developed new cavities at a much higher rate!

Always use Colgate's* to Clean Your Breath While You Clean Your Teeth and HELP STOP TOOTH DECAY!
